CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

Vigor and Vitality

Are quickly given to every part of the body by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The blood is purified, enriched, and vitalized, and carries health instead of disease to every organ. The stomach is toned and strengthened, the appetite restored. The kidneys and liver are roused and invigorated. The brain is refreshed, the mind made clear and ready for work. Try it.

The amount left by John Brewster of Boston for the free academy at Wolfeboro, this state, is found to be about $1,750,000; the trustees held a meeting last Friday.

If the Sufferers from Consumption, Scrofula and general debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Pure God Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, the will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr. H. V. Mott, Brentwood, Cal., writes: "I have used Scott's Emulsion with great advantage in cases of Phthisic, Scrofula and wasting diseases generally. It is very palatable."

In The State House Yard.

"That was a pretty good speech of Brick's," remarked one of the Concord lobby to his fellow laborer, after one of the long speeches on the motion to indefinitely postpone, last week. "Yes," said the other. "But then you know," returned his partner, "Diamond on our side put him up on the strong points." The inference was irresistable.

The Baltimore & Ohio.

Robert Garrett, the hitherto contumacious dictator of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and its allied enterprises, was last week obliged to come to terms with the syndicate of London and New York bankers who control the Pennsylvania and Reading railroads. One of the parties to the syndicate authorized the following statement: "The position of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad as an Ishmaelite in the railroad sleeping car, express and telegraph business is given up. All the outside enterprises will be sold to parties to whom they will be valuable. The Western Union will control, if it does not buy, the telegraph lines; and the Pullman Palace Car company will take the sleeping car business. The express business has already gone to the United States Express company. The affairs of the railroad company will be entirely reorganized, and placed upon a sound financial basis."

Civil Service Reform Items.

The democratic party in the west is setting a notable example of boldness in the declaration of principles, of which the eastern wing may properly give heed. The platform adopted by the Iowa convention leaves very little to be desired on points which have elsewhere been treated with too little emphasis. A prominent feature is the recognition and approval of the reform in the civil service which this administration has established, the resolutions commending the president for "placing it upon a business basis," whereby "federal officials no longer neglect the duties of their office for the manipulation of party politics."—Boston Post.

It is not yet too late for the administration to repair its error and to avert the threatened split in Maryland. The Higginses are a heavy load—too heavy to carry with either safety or comfort. If the choice lies between dumping them or dumping the decent democrats in Maryland, it is evidently high time to dump the Higginses.—Charleston News and Courier.

A DISAGREEMENT.

The selectmen of Newmarket and the managers of the Newmarket Manufacturing Co. had a little difference last week. On Monday, workmen employed by the town commenced laying the abutments for the new bridge across Lamprey river, to take the place of the old one carried away by the freshet some weeks ago. The Manufacturing Co. have been putting in a temporary dam, to take the place of the one carried away at the same time as the bridge, until a permanant structure of stone can be built. On Tuesday the town workmen had to knock off, the log dam having got so far along as to back up the water to a depth of two or three feet over their work. The company refused to discontinue work on the dam, holding that the town authorities had had ample time to get the abutments laid; while the selectmen and persons in charge of the bridge work maintained that they had pushed the work as rapidly as weather and circumstances would permit. The selectmen proposed to serve an injunction on the company, but before doing so decided to call a special town-meeting of the voters, which was held on Friday afternoon, but the result of which we have not heard. In the meantime the dam builders kept on with their job, and on Wednesday the log dam was so nearly completed that water was used to run some of the company's machinery.

Fishing schooners which arrived at Gloucester from North bay on the 2d inst. reported no mackerel there when they left, and the entire fleet would soon sail for home unless fish appeared. Four schooners from Grand bank with fresh halibut reported a terrible gale on the bank from Aug. 21st to 25th, most of the fleet on the bank losing their fishing gear, and serious disasters being feared. The schooner Davy Crockett, from Iceland with 30,000 lbs. of fletched halibut, reported very stormy weather during the fishing season, and much destitution among the native fishermen in consequence; the French cod-fishing fleet has done well, though several vessels have been wrecked, one being lost with her entire crew of twenty-two men.

"Monday, Sept. 5th: Dog days end." That is the astronomical record, as put down in the Old Farmer's Almanack, through whose instrumentality Mr. Robert B. Thomas (portrait on the cover, showing wings, scythe, and capsized jug with some fluid, presumably water, running out,) has regulated the movements of the sun, moon and tides since 1793. The same eminent authority set the time for dog days to commence as July 25th; but that season, like that of summer travel, commenced unusually early this year, and most of the dog day weather came before the time officially announced for its arrival. August was an unusually cool and rainy month.

Mr. Robert Garrett, in the attempt to build a rival road between Baltimore and New York to compete with the Pennsylvania, which secured the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore road at a reasonable cost, appears to have, in the inelegant but expressive phrase, "bit off more than he could chew."

A despatch from Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 2d, says that "a tall, well-dressed young woman, with face veiled, arrived in Buffalo on a train from the east on the previous Tuesday night, and left on the Michigan Central train for Canada. While at the depot she attracted a good deal of attention by smoking a pipe. The person is believed to have been a man in disguise, and it is now thought by some to have been the missing bank robber McNeally, of Saco." The Biddeford Times says the stories about McNeally's "ostentatious piety," reputation for wonderful ability, and secret criminality and reckless extravagance, are all bosh; he was only a young fellow of correct habits as far as known, who dressed well but not extravagantly and took good care of his clothes, attended church but did not belong to one, and was not regarded as being anything above or below the ordinary run of young men. He was tempted beyond his power to resist, and fell.

The amount of death claims paid by the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York during the week ending Aug. 26th, was $106,362.08; endowments, $29,510.19.

On Thursday evening of last week the Flying Yankee struck a man near the "know-nothing" stop at Scarboro, Me., where the Eastern and Western divisions of the Boston & Maine road cross, cut off his right arm and leg, and otherwise injured him so that he died in a few hours. His name was McCue; he was about fifty years old, lived in Scarboro, and had a bottle of gin in his pocket when he was struck by the train.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. RALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD."

This evening, at Music hall, Mr. Denman Thompson will present his new play, "The Old Homestead." The hundreds who have enjoyed "Joshua Whitcomb" will be there, the new piece, endorsed by the New York Times as "one of the few substantial theatrical triumphs witnessed in New York in recent years," being simply a vast improvement in the direct line of the old New England pastoral sketch. "The Old Homestead" was played 171 times consecutively in the 14th St. Theatre, New York, to crowded houses up to the last, which is a sufficient guaranty of its merit and "drawing" qualities. Tickets are for sale at Goodrich's bookstore to-day.

MOUNTAIN EXCURSION.

An excursion train will leave this city to-morrow morning for the White mountains, giving its patrons opportunity to pass the month of September in the mountain region at a cheap rate. The tickets, good going on Sept. 6th, and returning until (and including) Sept. 30th, are $4.50 each to Fabyan's and return; and to holders of such tickets special rates will be made at the mountain hotels, and tickets to the summit of Mt. Washington and return will be sold for $3 each.

ACCIDENTS.

The work of putting in position the iron girders of the new overhead bridge of the Boston & Maine railroad at the Creek was commenced last Friday morning. About half-past four o'clock Friday afternoon one of the workmen, James Cullerton, who came from Boston that morning to work on the bridge, fell a distance of fifteen feet or more from the bridge to the roadway, and was followed and struck by several heavy pieces of blocking, and was picked up insensible and taken to the house of Mrs. Casey, near by, where examination by Dr. Parsons developed that his back was broken, and his body paralyzed from the hips downward, leaving little hope for his life. His wife came down from Boston by the first train Saturday morning, to accompany him home. He is about fifty years old, and has five children, the oldest being only about fourteen years old.

Mr. Robert Locke, an employe of the Portsmouth Electric Light Co., was sent to the railroad station on Saturday evening about six o'clock to remedy some trouble with the electric lights there, and while standing at the top of a ladder suddenly fell to the ground, either through being taken with dizziness or affected by the electric current, and striking on his head was made insensible for half an hour or more, when he came to his senses and was taken to his home.

Mr. William Pooler, clerk with Mr. Coleman, druggist on Congress street, and Mr. William W. Nash, clerk in Hill's drug store on Market street, after the close of business on Saturday evening started out for a run on their bicycles, and went along all right until near the railroad station in North Hampton on the homeward stretch, where Mr. Pooler's wheel went into a rut and gave him a header. His face was cut and his right wrist badly sprained, and he was insensible for some time. Mr. Nash roused up a neighboring farmer, at whose house the injured man was kindly cared for, and he was brought into town Sunday morning by team, still suffering considerably from the shock and the loss of blood, which was quite large.

BODIES FOUND.

The bodies of the two sons of Dr. William Mackey of Cambridge, Mass., who were drowned last Thursday by the boat disaster near Bra' Boat harbor, were washed ashore on the beach near the harbor bar on Sunday morning, and were picked up by the watchers who had patrolled the beach from the time of the accident. They were brought to this city by Mr. Mitchell, landlord of the Pocahontas hotel at Gerrish's island, and delivered to Mr. Fletcher, of the firm of Fletcher & Tanton, to be transported to their late home. The bodies were badly disfigured by contact with the rocks of that rough shore.

MATTERS IN YORK.

There were seventy-five boarders remaining at the Marshall house, York harbor, on Friday last, and forty at the Hotel Bartlett. The Garrison house also had quite a good number remaining—enough to make it an object to continue keeping the house open. The Garrison house has done much better this summer than any previous one, having filled early in the season, and had all the guests that could be accommodated up to a late date. The Ocean house, the fine new hotel into which the Messrs. Ellis transformed their skating rink as soon as it became evident that the skating craze was a thing of history only, has been so successful during its first season that the enterprising proprietors intend keeping it open through the winter, for the accommodation of transient guests, or regular boarders if any such offer. Landlord Grant will probably keep his favorite Sea Cottage open through the winter also, as has been his custom heretofore; this house has enjoyed its full share of the business prosperity of the present season, and is by no means through with it yet, a considerable party of guests arriving last Thursday, and another party on Friday, while a number of previous arrivals were still remaining. The York Harbor & Beach railroad is announced as intending to run two trains each way daily during the winter, which will be a great convenience to the people along its line, and probably to those who intend putting up new buildings or enlarging those they already have before the opening of another season of summer travel, as the building materials can be transported there by rail cheaper than any other way. A very large amount of building is projected, and another year will see a score of new cottages occupied.

Miss Josie A. Stack of Manchester is visiting friends in this city.

Hon. James H. McKenney, clerk of the Supreme Court of the United States, was in town on Saturday.

Prof. George Bartlett arrived at Newcastle from Mt. Desert on Saturday, and went to Cambridge on Sunday.

Mr. Henry C. Chase and wife, of Haverhill, Mass., are visiting their niece, Mrs. Emma L. Caswell, on Washington street.

Mrs. W. H. Alden and a party of friends start this week on a trip to North Conway and other places in the White mountain region.

Dr. John J. Berry left on the Flying Yankee on Saturday evening for Washington, to attend the International Medical convention to be held there this week.

Mr. True W. Priest started for Providence, R. I., last Friday morning, to remain until Wednesday or Thursday of this week, and then accompany home Mrs. Priest and son, who have been passing some weeks with friends in Providence.

Mr. Thomas Cahoone of New York, son of the late Pay Director J. Benjamin Cahoone, U. S. N., who was paymaster of the old receiving ship Vandalia for several years after the war, when she occupied a berth in this harbor between the navy yard and Pumpkin island, was in this city several days last week, looking up some of the friends he knew here eighteen years ago, when he was a schoolboy. Pay Director Cahoone died in 1873.

About ten o'clock Saturday night a hard-looking citizen was passing by National block, and seeing an overcoat displayed on a "shape" in front of the store, which he thought would about fit him, undertook to buy it without troubling the waiting salesmen inside. As a jacket was on the shape under the coat, the outside garment did not come off very easily, and while engaged in removing it the hard-looking citizen saw that he was observed by a young man on the sidewalk, and immediately proceeded to hit the young man on the nose, a moment later assaulting another person who happened along. He was scooped in by the police shortly after, charged with attempting larceny. He is probably a bummer wanting to secure snug quarters for the winter, and gives the name of Thomas Conners.

Judge Blodgett is to preside at the term of the supreme court which begins in this city on October 18th.

In the lasters' room at the Portsmouth shoe factory, in which are also stitching and heeling machines, etc., a contribution of $50 was on Friday made by the operatives in aid of the boy Kilroy, who had both his legs cut off by a train in the early part of the week, and who formerly worked in that room. The contribution has been handed to the boy's widowed mother. The other departments of the establishment will this week circulate a paper for subscriptions in aid of the poor woman.

The vestibule trains on the Western division of the Boston & Maine road are to cease running after the end of this week. They have not proved largely remunerative, as passengers to Bar Harbor cling to the sea-shore route.

A pocket book containing quite a sum of money and a check was found on the floor at the Rockingham on Sunday and restored to the owner by the finder, who was a guest at the hotel. It belonged to a business man on Congress street, who had called at the hotel to have a sitting in the barber's chair.

Says the Biddeford Journal: "Revenue Collector Page of Portsmouth, who has undertaken to be a whole United States law unto himself, is approaching a snag. In open violation of the law he has refused to exhibit a list of the licensed rumsellers in Maine, and some of our authorities propose to put him into court to show some decent excuse, if he has any, for his conduct. If United States laws can be so construed as to nullify state laws it is high time state lawmakers knew it."

A fine likeness of the late Mrs. Anna B. Wilson has been placed in the rooms of the Free Public library in Congress block. No more appropriate decoration could be put there, as no agency had more to do with the establishment of the library than Mrs. Wilson's persistent energy and judiciously directed effort to that end.

Hotel Pocahontas, Gerrish's island, will remain open for the convenience of guests until Sept. 20th. It would be hard to find a more beautiful spot in which to pass the next few weeks.

Roland Reed in the "Woman Hater" is down in the bills for Saturday night.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and a never failing cure for the incidental to summer, and to change of water, food, and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preparative and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, remove deterioration when somewhat by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic diseases.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by merchant druggists on those who call for

Don't Laugh at Nervous People.

Their sufferings are very real, although you, with your vigorous physique and strong nerves, can scarcely believe it. Rather suggest the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which, in removing every trace of dyspepsia, and regulating the liver and bowels, strikes at and extirpates the most prolific cause of chronic nervous trouble. That nerve-shattering disease, fever and ague, is among the formidable ailments, to the removal of which this genial remedy is specially adopted. Nervous prostration, resulting from prolonged mental or physical effort, is also a state of the system where the intervention of this tonic is very desirable, more particularly as its use is to quiet and relax the tension of overwrought nerves. The Bitters are invaluable in rheumatism, neuralgia and kidney troubles. Employ no substitute for it.

The American Book-maker for August prints a fine copy of a choice woodengraving by Hans Scheuffelein, made in 1507. In delicacy of detail the art has made great progress in 380 years, but in vigorous expression the work of the German engraver leaves nothing to be desired.

I cured rheumatism in the knee by using St. Jacobs Oil.—Chas. S. Strickland, Boston, Mass.

Richard Realf was not a voluminous writer. Some of his short poems and fragmentary verses are rescued from half-oblivion by the American Magazine. They are well worth preserving.

We recommend Carter's Iron Pills to every woman who is weak, nervous and discouraged; particularly those who have thin, pale lips, cold hands and feet, and who are without strength or ambition. These are the cases for which Carter's Iron Pills are specially prepared, and this class cannot use them without benefit. Valuable for men also. In metal boxes, at fifty cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. See advertisement elsewhere.

The funeral of Campmeeting John Allen occurred on the East Livermore, Me., camp grounds, Sept. 2d. Nearly 4,000 people attended. Dr. Charles Cullis of Boston, who was his intimate friend, preached the sermon.

Mrs. James R. Vincent, the popular and highly esteemed actress who has for so many years been identified with the Boston Museum, died on Sunday morning, at the age of sixty-nine years. Her maiden name was Mary Ann Farley, and she was born in Portsmouth, Eng. Her husband, formerly a well known comedian, to whom she was married when seventeen years old, died in 1850. Mrs. Vincent was a member of the Museum company for the past thirty-four years.

An Unrivalled Record.

Allcock's Porous Plasters have proved the best, safest, and most effectual remedy for spinal complaints, incipient consumption, diarrhœa, pleurisy, asthma, bronchitis, epilepsy, lumbago, debility, rheumatism, gout, sciatica, loss of vigor, dropsy, paralysis, loss of voice, hysteria, nervousness, indigestion, palpitation.

Friday last was the closing day of the Eastern Maine fair at Bangor. Six thousand people were on the grounds. The cavalcade of prize winners included thirty stallions, sixty others horses, and 120 cattle.

I have been a periodical sufferer from hay fever (a most annoying and loathsome affliction,) since the summer of 1879, and until I used Ely's Cream Balm was never able to find any relief until cold weather. I can truthfully say that Cream Balm cured me. I regard it as of great value and would not be without it during the hay fever season.—L. M. Georgia, Binghampton, N. Y.

Don't!—If a dealer offers you a bottle of Salvation Oil without labels, or wrappers, or in a mutilated or defaced package, don't touch it—don't buy it at any price, you can rest assured that there is something wrong—it may be a dangerous and worthless counterfeit. KIDDER'S

DIGESTYLIN

— FOR —

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

It is not a secret remedy, but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach.

It will positively CURE CHOLERA INFANTUM, Summer Complaints, and CHRONIC DIARRHŒA, all of which are direct results of imperfect digestion. Give your children Digestylin. One bottle may save a life. Not one case of death reported for the past year from above diseases where the patient had taken Digestylin. Ask your Druggist for it. Price $1.00. Large bottles. If he does not keep it, send one dollar to us and we will send you a bottle. Express prepaid.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquained with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1876 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED,

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

PIMPLES, Blackheads, Skin Blemishes, and Baby Humors, use CUTICURA SOAP.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with an oppressive sensation of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languid and debility that succeeds the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, coupling the morning dull and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus! All our physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most responsible and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Fighting Fish.

The male stickleback is a prodigious warrior, and when he meets a rival of his own kind he engages with him at once in deadly warfare. Their battles, says Mr. Darwin, are at times desperate, for these puny combatants fasten tight on each other for several seconds, tumbling over and over again, until their strength is utterly exhausted. Bold and pugnacious as they are, however, it is only my lords who thus fiercely contend with one another. Their demure little mates remain always perfectly pacific, gentle and even tempered. With the rough-tailed stickleback, the males while fighting swim round and round one another, biting and endeavoring to pierce each other's mailed skin with their raised lateral spines or lances. Small as they are, their bite is very severe, and inflicts a deadly wound upon their antagonist; and Mr. Noel Humphreys remarks that they use their lateral spines with fierce effect, so that he has seen one brave stickleback during a stout battle rip up his opponent from end to end, till the vanquished hero sank to the bottom and died ingloriously. It is during the moment of battle, and just before and after it, that the colors of all fighting animals become invariably most intense. The reason is plain; battle is joined during the mating season, and "before the face of maidens and of dames;" and, as in human tournaments, the ladies stand by to applaud the conquerors and to award their prowess. They are themselves the prize of the encounter they stimulate. Besides, the highest physicial vigor and the highest excitement bring out the greatest beauty of both men and animals. The angrier you make a mandrill the more vividly tinted are his cheeks and callosities. The frilled lizards and flying dragons glow with all the brightest colors of the rainbow when you tease or annoy them. The turkey cock swells his crimson wattles and spreads his ruffled feathers to the utmost at sight of a rival or a mischievous boy. There is a little hot-tempered fish known as Betta pugnax and kept as a sort of domestic pet by the Siamese (much as the Christian English gentlemen of forty or fifty years since kept fighting cocks) to display its prowess for the edification of the Mongolian intelligence. "When in a state of quiet," says Cantor, "its dull colors present nothing remarkable; but if two be brought together, or if one sees its own image in a looking-glass the little creature becomes suddenly excited, the raised fins and the whole body shine with metallic colors of dazzling beauty, while the projected gill membrane, waving like a black fall around the throat, adds something of grotesqueness to the general appearance. In this state it makes repeated darts at its real or reflected antagonist. But both, when taken out of each other's sight, instantly become quiet." The fighting fishes, as the Siamese call them, are kept in globes like gold fish and fed from time to time with the larvæ of mosquitos. The Siamese are as wild after their combats as the Malays are for cockfighting, and often stake large sums, or even the freedom of themselves and families, on the prowess and skill of a particular betta. The license to exhibit fish fights is farmed by the government and brings in a considerable revenue to the king of Siam.—The Cornhill Magazine.

Understood the Question.

Archdeacon Kirby, in a recent account of his life-long experiences as a missionary among the Indians in British Columbia, remarked upon the extreme difficulty of making them comprehend the simplest Scriptural teachings, and illustrated it by saying that he gave a series of lessons on each of the Commandments separately to a class of young Alaskan braves. He dwelt especially upon the principle involved in the Sixth Commandment, explaining to them clearly what murder meant, and what a dreadful crime it was in the eyes of God and man. To test their comprehension of what he had said, he then asked all those in the class who had committed murder to stand up. Only three arose. He was very much surprised as he knew that they had all been on the war-path repeatedly, and boasted of their scalps. He went carefully over the explanation once more, and again asked them to arise. The same three came to their feet. "Why, surely," he said, in despair, "this can't be all that have committed murder." After a moment's reflection, "Will all those who have tomahawked their mother-in-law please stand up?" Nineteen arose.—Editor's Drawer, in Harper's Magazine.

Giving the Refusal of his Office.

I have heard of a singular mistake which was lately made by a small real estate owner who is not familiar with the technical language of the market in connection with this matter of giving the refusal of property. He actually signed a paper giving the privilege, supposing all the time he was refusing it, under the idea that the other party to the contract thereby tacitly agreed to pay a higher price than the one mentioned in the instrument. The mistake recalled to me the story of a bright young tradesman at the North end who, several years ago, was very attentive to the belle of that quarter, who was known to have higher aspirations. Being pressed to say whether he had succeeded in his suit, the young man said: "Well, I've got the refusal of her." It turned out that he had, though in a different sense from that which he intended to convey.—Boston Post.

Vigor and Vitality

Are quickly given to every part of the body by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The blood is purified, enriched, and vitalized, and carries health instead of disease to every organ. The stomach is toned and strengthened, the appetite restored. The kidneys and liver are roused and invigorated. The brain is refreshed, the mind made clear and ready for work. Try it.

A despatch of the 2d inst. from St. Pierre, Miquelon, says: "Later reports from the banks in regard to the terrible gale of Aug. 26th announce large losses of anchor chains and lines from the French fishing fleet. The schooner St. Pierre, belonging to Leoni Coste, was seen capsized, and her crew of sixteen men are supposed to be lost. All of the men belonged here. The schooner Bayonnaise was burned, but the crew was saved. People here are anxiously waiting for further news."

If the Sufferers from Consumption, Scrofula and general debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Pure God Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, the will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr. H. Banking in Saco.

Perhaps the youngster who stole the bonds from the savings bank at Saco last month was emboldened so to do from the apparent careless manner in which the business appears to have been done in the institution. For example, for a treasurer to state that the bonds may have been purloined a month before their absence was discovered, seems rather crude for a business concern which hired, it would seem, a treasurer who was permitted to act as insurance agent, and leave the bank to attend to outside affairs.

Again, the treasurer advertises "26,000 city of St. Louis bonds" to have been stolen. Of course every person having a St. Louis six per cent bond will be annoyed at this loose way of designating the lost bonds. If they were bonds in sums of $1000 each, why not say so? or give the denominations, if not the numbers, date of issue, maturity, etc.?

The advertisement of the lost bonds, while it gives but little aid in identifying them, will annoy brokers and others who might be called upon to purchase or sell similar bonds. As these bonds pass by delivery the mode to be adopted to get them back was to show that they were capable of being identified and traced, and not simply to caution persons against buying them. The bank seems not to have offered any reward for the return of the swag.

Democratic Advice.

The New York World, Joe Pulitzer's stalwart democratic paper, gives the president advice as follows:

We advise president Cleveland not to trust the smooth words of the politicians who assure him privately that "indorsements of the administration" in the conventions which they control mean an indorsement of his renomination.

If they meant a second term, they would say so. They flatter him now, as all presidents are flattered, for the purpose of getting out of him all the offices and patronage possible while he has the power to bestow them.

We advise him more wisely, and we do not doubt that he recognizes the fact, in telling him to wait until after the 8th of next November before he believes that the party will give him the nomination now talked of as "inevitable." Perhaps by that time he will not consider a nomination desirable.

But as to the politicians, "trust them not; they're fooling thee."

Sure Cash.

A despatch from Ottawa, Ont., says: "As a result of the appointment of the fishery commission by the British government to settle the fishery dispute between Canada and the United States, without consulting the Dominion authorities, it is stated in the high official circles that it is Sir John A. Macdonald's intention to repudiate and ignore any decision that may be arrived at. That there is trouble brewing is apparent to the most casual observer, which is likely to culminate in some sort of a rupture between Great Britain and her largest colony."

This is bosh of the most pronounced variety. The idea of Canada "repudiating and ignoring" an agreement arrived at between the United States and Great Britain, is rich.

Frontier Life.

Sheriff Mulvennon, of Yavapai county, Arizona, was fatally wounded in a fight with outlaws at Tanta Basin on the 2d inst. Five of his deputies were also wounded. Eleven outlaws are reported killed. The encounter grew out of an attempt by the sheriff's posse to arrest ten men implicated in the murder of three cowboys at Flagstaff, Arizona, three weeks ago. The news of the affray caused much excitement at Flagstaff, and an armed posse started to the relief of the deputy sheriffs.

A prominent mugwump paper says "the president must stand or fall on the issue of civil service reform." It seems very much, of late, as if the president had sat down upon what little regard he had for this dogma at the outset of his official career.

That effusive paper of Atlanta, Ga., which wanted Jefferson Davis invited to the Piedmont exposition in October to welcome President Cleveland—the "ex-President to greet the President"—is severely taken to task by the Charleston News for making so injudicious a suggestion.

The St. Louis Republican, democratic, thinks that if Higgins is sustained "every mugwump in New York will be justified in working and voting to defeat the democratic ticket." Higgins will be sustained. He is Gorman's man, and Gorman's methods are needed in the interests of reform.

A search is being made for buried treasure at Martin's Ferry, five miles above Manchester on the Merrimac river. This is not, as may be supposed by some, a look after any of the surplus funds concealed by a passing lobby, or the unrecovered portion of the state's interest in the excess of ten per cent piled away by the Concord railroad, but is the asserted "buried millions" of the traditional miser of long ago, who died and left no sign as to his special deposit.

The Albany, N. Y., Times is one of the few democratic papers which perceive the unwisdom of magnifying the President's unpopularity among the Grand Army men. The Times says of the veterans at Wheeling, W. Va.: "The disrespect which they showed to the banner bearing the portrait of Cleveland and a motto in compliment to him was not the sudden outburst of men who had no feeling in the matter beyond that of the moment. It is a deep-rooted sentiment against the president, engendered by the president himself; and although he has long since seen the danger of it, his foolfriends evidently have not."

The New Hampshire Pharmaceutical association have arranged for an excursion to the mountains the last week in September, the purpose being to hold the regular meeting of the organization at the Fabyan house.

Lewis L. French, a fourteen-years-old son of Daniel French of Limington village, was firing a gun last Thursday when it kicked, striking the boy in the stomach, and inflicting an injury so bad that he died soon afterward.

The York County fair will be held at Biddeford on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 20th, 21st and 22d. There will be $670 in purses for races. The first day the society's trot for $40, open to all horses owned and raised in York county, will occur; on the second day there will be races in the 2:38 class, for four-year-olds, and for the three minute class; on the third day in the free-for-all, two-year-olds, and 2:45 classes. A stallion race will be trotted on one of the last two days of the fair.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BATCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

Children's Diadem.

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOK.

By ABBEY & MUNGER.

By a happy thought, the above endearing name was given to a book containing the last compositions of Mr. A. J. Abbey, a good composer of refined taste, a solid lover and successful teacher, who has recently passed away. This new collection of the sweetest of children's hymns and songs is likely to be received with great favor.

35 cts., $3.60 per dozen.

JEHOVAH'S PRAISE. L. O. EMERSON, is an entirely new and superior book for Choirs, Singing Classes and Conventions. A large and attractive collection of Sacred and Secular music for practice and Church Service, Anthems, and Hymn Tunes.

Price $1.00, $9.00 per dozen.

VOICES OF PRAISE. Rev. CHAS. L. BUTCHING, occupies a high place in the esteem of those who need a collection of music of convenient size, not difficult and of moderate price, to use in religious meetings and in the Sunday school service. Everything is dignified and in good taste, yet there is spirit and brilliancy throughout. Please examine.

Price 40 cts., $4.20 per dozen.

PER ORDER.

I. O. O. F.

The members of New Hampshire Lodge, No. 17, I. O. O. F., are requested to be present at the next regular meeting, Wednesday evening, Sept. 7th. Business of importance will be presented. Per order of the N. G.

THORNTON BETTON, Secretary.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, Sept. 5th.

James McGrath, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90, and paid it.

John Thompson, another drunk, was allowed a limited time to rid the city of his presence, and departed in apparent haste.

Daniel McCarty, drunk, fine $3, costs $6.90; Brentwood if not paid.

Thomas Connor, for stealing clothing from H. C. Hewitt & Co., was held in $200 for his appearance at the supreme court in October in case the grand jury should render it desirable. Nobody hastening forward with the required bonds, Mr. Connor was committed to jail. H. C. Hewitt, Charles Newton and James Barrington, were held as witnesses on their personal recognizance in $50 each.

TORMENT ABOUT THE FUTURE.

The leading passage used in the Universalist church last Sunday morning was Matthew 6, 34: "Be not therefore anxious for the morrow: for the morrow will be anxious for itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

From the original words that were used to make up the word "anxiety" we have the suggestion of hanging, suffocating, tormenting, even agonizing. Therefore Christ said to the disciples not to strangle their present usefulness with anxiety for the future, and he meant it literally with them. They were to start out and te[illegible] and preach, trusting to providen[illegible] each their food and lodging. [illegible]e for

The poverty of the visible [illegible] demanded that they should. [illegible] church does not want its minist[illegible]ers to do that now. But all mankind [illegible] are to obey this law of anxiety for [illegible]e morrow in this way: When a [illegible]uestion of casuistry arises, a questio[illegible] of conscience, a question of lawful[illegible]ness or unlawfulness from a moral poi[illegible]t of view, a question that may be set[illegible]led in two ways, one to make us comfo[illegible]rtable to-morrow, the other to make u[illegible] uncomfortable to-morrow, we are to [illegible] take no thought for the morrow. The [illegible]criterion is what is right now.

[illegible]Where it is a question between duty [illegible]nd gain this text shall be literal. We must sacrifice lower benefits for higher, material things for spiritual, timely for eternal, which means that we must contribute to the best growth of our own mind and soul. It means that power given to us should not be used to injure others. It means that men ought not to be so anxious for a few dollars as to keep six young men in apothecary shops all day Sunday.

Be not tormented for the future of the church, especially for the church here represented. Its practical truths are to be the salvation of the world from sin. Its doctrines are open to the broad daylight, and it challenges refutation on any Scriptural, reasonable, or scientific grounds. Be not tormented for our future. "Seek ye first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all things shall be given you."

PERSONAL.

Stanley P. Thompson of Minneapolis, formerly of this city, is visiting relatives here.

Misses Ruth and Mamie Simpson of Greenland are visiting the family of Mr. A. Pearson on Broad street.

Mr. Leonidas F. Rand and wife, of Dorchester, Mass., formerly of this city, are passing a few days with friends here.

Francis Parkman, the historian, who has been in town visiting his daughter, Mrs. Coolidge, at the Gov. Wentworth mansion, Little Harbor, returned to Boston on Sunday.

Mr. Loring Jones of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived in this city on Monday, to accompany home his family, who have been passing the summer in the old family home on Richards avenue.

Miss Nellie Arthur, daughter of the late President Arthur, has been spending a week at the Isles of Shoals. On Monday Miss Arthur, with her relatives Mr. McElroy and wife, of New York, paid a visit to Mrs. E. C. Stedman at Kelp Rock cottage, Newcastle, and subsequently went to Kennebunkport, Me.

Miss Maud Banks, who commenced her professional career as an actress on the Music hall stage in this city a year ago last month as a member of the Atkinson & Cook Dramatic Co., is announced to appear in Manchester next Friday evening in the historic drama "Joan of Arc."

Mr. Edward J. Moulton of this city returned Sunday afternoon from Bangor, Me., on board the schooner Mary Willey, Capt. Williams, concluding his fifteenth annual trip to the eastward in that vessel. During his stay in Bangor he called upon Mr. James S. Woodman, formerly of this city, but forty years a resident of Bangor, where he carries on a successful business in blacksmithing. Mr. Woodman learned his trade in this city with Mr. Raitt, father of Stephen T. Raitt, who is now foreman of the blacksmith shop on the navy yard.

MARITIME NOTES.

Daniel Stevens of Newcastle has been appointed assistant keeper at Whale's-back lighthouse, vice Ellison E. White, promoted to the position of keeper.

A large number of excursionists went to the Shoals on Monday from this city in the steamer Oceanic. To-day is another "excursion day," the number of which is now getting very limited. No excursion tickets will be sold on Thursday, on account of the Knights Templar having the boat that day.

The schooner J. S. Wallingford was towed down the river from Dover on Saturday by the tug Ann, on the way to Carver's harbor, Me., to load for a coal port. A quite large party of Dover people were towed down in her, returning to Dover on the tug.

The fish dealers at Portland, Me., whose business in magnitude comes next after that of Gloucester and Boston, are very outspoken and emphatic in their opposition to the appointment of a fisheries commission. They will have to have [illegible] all the same. Mr. Cleveland's sec[illegible]retary of state declared for a commiss[illegible] on at the start, and every aggression [illegible]y Canadian officials since has been [illegible] met with Mr. Bayard's declaration [illegible] "we must have a commission."

The lighthouse steamer Iris arrived in the lower harbor Monday afternoon and took on board the furniture of Mr. Leander White of Newcastle to carry to Goat island lighthouse, Cape Porpoise, to which Mr. White was recently transferred as keeper, from Whale's-back light.

The Portland (Me.) Advertiser of Saturday last contained the following items of fishing news: "The schooner C. B. Hallington came in to-day with ten swordfish. She was out sixteen days, and only stocked $180.——The shore mackerel boats are bringing in from three hundred to one thousand pounds each of big fish, every night.——Schooner John M. Plummer arrived this morning with 225 barrels of prime mackerel. Some of them are so large that ninety of them will fill a barrel. The catch was made off Boon island. The schooner will try her luck again immediately."

A heavy storm at sea caused a magnificent surf on the beaches last week. The wind on Friday was from the right quarter to cause high combers to roll in, and the sight at the seashore on Friday and Saturday was the finest of the season. The guests at the Isles of Shoals had also an opportunity to witness the grandest display of storm-wave effects that has been seen there for many a day, and the observatories were filled all day Friday and Saturday with admiring spectators. On the southeasterly sides of the islands the heavy waves which dashed against the rocks, sending far and[illegible] showers of white spray, made a picture of wonderful and grand beauty which will long be remembered by those who witnessed it. Sunday seemed to be observed by the wild waves in the most peaceful, quiet and decorous manner.

Mr. Lemuel T. Davis, who has for some time been engaged in sailmaking at Bath, Me., arrived home last Saturday night. He reports business as brisk at Bath, and the new towboat Cocheco, in course of construction for the Dover towboat company to take the place of the tug Ann on the upper Piscataqua, as nearly ready for launching, and a very handsome and strongly built boat.

Monday was "Labor day" in Massachusetts, and the evening editions of the Boston papers were suspended; nobody labored that day. We have had 365 labor days every year for forty years, but always had to work all of them.

Roland Reed will appear at Music hall in "Check" on Saturday evening. Mr. Reed gave one of the most uproariously entertaining performances ever produced on Music hall stage about a year ago, when this same piece was performed. Tickets go on sale Thursday morning, at Goodrich's.

The fire alarm from box fifty-three at half-past twelve o'clock Monday night was caused by the bursting of an ashes box in the rear of Charlesworth's saloon on Congress street. No damage was done, beyond turning out the fire department.

Denman Thompson had a large audience in Music hall Monday evening, to see "The Old Homestead," which is a play in the same line as "Joshua Whitcomb," but a great improvement on that favorite production. There was some very fine quartette and solo singing, by male voices, which was highly appreciated by the refined audience.

The Flying Yankee, due in this city at half-past seven o'clock Monday evening, did not arrive until ten o'clock, having been detained by the delay of a train of sixteen passenger cars and one engine on the Maine Central road. The Flying Yankee was a heavy train, every seat being occupied, and many passengers unable to get seats.

Mr. C. W. Smith, for two years past the courteous and attentive station agent at Newmarket, has been transferred to the Salmon Falls station of the Boston & Maine road, at an increase of salary; the new station agent at Newmarket is Mr. C. A. White of Somerville, Mass., who assumed charge last Thursday. Previous to Mr. Smith's departure for his new position he was presented with a diamond pin, a diamond stud, a pair of sleeve buttons and a caligraphic pen by friends and business men of Newmarket, as a slight taken of the esteem in which he is held in that town.

The Oceanic hotel, Star island, will close today after having enjoyed the best season it has ever had, and with a large proportion of the most desirable rooms engaged for next year by parties who have occupied—or wished to occupy—them this year. During the autumn all the hotel buildings will be painted on the outside, the office enlarged and a fire-place put in, and other improvements made in confi[illegible]dent expectation of and preparatio[illegible] for a rushing season in 1888.

Albert Cartier, aged nineteen years, and Charles Michel, aged seventeen, of Biddeford, were drowned on Sunday afternoon in the narrows of the Saco river, through the capsizing of a boat in a squall. There were seven young men in the boat, but four succeeded in swimming ashore, and another held to the mast of the sunken boat until rescued.

By the fall of a staging in Springvale village at Sanford, Me., last Friday, George Chick, Lafayette Littlefield and Scott Young, the latter being on a visit there from Massachusetts, were thrown a distance of thirty feet to the ground. Young was thought to be fatally hurt, but the others, though severely injured, will recover.

No tidings had been heard up to Monday night of the thieving assistant cashier, McNeally, of the Saco & Biddeford savings bank. The boy seems to know more than his recent act would indicate.

Seats on sale at Goodrich's, Thursday, Sept. 8th.

The season at the Isles of Shoals, now drawing toward its end, but not yet ended so far as the Appledore is concerned, has been one of much success; and the engagements of rooms for next season are largely in excess of any previous year. The increase of the number of steamer trips to the islands, the excellence of the kitchen and table service, and the efforts to in many ways keep fully up with advances made by other establishments of the kind for the entertainment of their guests, have contributed to the success of '87. The outlook for another year is most gratifying in anticipation.

The trustees of the Biddeford Soldiers' & Sailors' Monument association have signed a contract with the Monumental Bronze company, of Bridgeport, Conn., for a white bronze monument similar to the one erected at Salem, Mass., last year. The monument will cost $2,500, and will be erected this fall.

Ladies will find a very complete line of new Ruchings, nearly a hundred different kinds, from the cheapest to the finest quality, at Lewis E. Staples' small ware department. Also Collars and Cuffs of latest styles.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a cure preventive and never failing cure for the incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, cures fast, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine. It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "ginzers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for

"WORD'S OF GINGER,"

The Delicious Summer Medicine.

Frank E. Blaisdell, who married Miss Lizzie C. McKeown, daughter of Rev. Dr. McKeown of Portland, Me., about two months ago, died last Saturday forenoon at West Bethel, Me. Mr. Blaisdell and wife were returning from their wedding tour, having been visiting the mountain region. Mr. Blaisdell had been suffering for several weeks from a recurrence of malarial troubles contracted in Central America, but his condition was not considered serious, and his death is a great shock to his friends. He was twenty-eight years old, and his residence was Boston. He was connected with the house of Chase & Son, Boston, and for five years represented them in their coffee business in Central America. He and his wife were intending to go to Central America in October.

Miss Winifred Edgerton of Ripon, Wisconsin, a "B. A." of Smith college and "Ph. D." of Columbia college, the first woman gratuated from Columbia, and a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, was married in Old Trinity church, New York, Sept. 1st, to Professor F. J. H. Merrill of Columbia, who was an instructor in the college when Miss Edgerton was a student there. Mrs. Merrill is recognized as one of the most accomplished mathematicians and astronomers in the country.

Resolutions of praise of the president by democratic party conventions are a matter of course, a formality like "In the name of God, Amen," at the beginning of wills, or "Rockingham ss," at the head of a court document, and apparently they have even less meaning. The Virginia and the Pennsylvania democrats alike passed such resolutions, and added to them others favoring a policy different from that favored by the president.

S. J. Donaldson, M. D., discourses in Babyhood for September on the pernicious results of compelling children to lie upon their backs. It is a sound and healthy instinct which leads them to prefer a different posture.

The latest style of dude is wildly, devotedly, and intensely English in every particular except one. Having still a faint glimmering of brains left, he still cures his colds with Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

The ship Falls of Bruar, of Glasgow, Scotland, bound from Hamburg for Calcutta with salt, foundered off Yarmouth, Eng., Sept. 4th, owing to the cargo having shifted. Five men were saved and twenty-four drowned.

Ugly and Hateful,

But I could't help it. Everything went wrong with me, and I thought I hadn't a friend in the world; dyspepsia caused this, and for months I couldn't eat anything, and just suffered in misery till I used Sulphur Bitters. Three bottles cured me.—D. Lewis, 22 Bowdoin street, Boston, Mass.

George Vittum of Dover had a hip broken and was otherwise injured on Friday evening last, by his horse running away.

In many localities Hood's Sarsaparilla is in such general demand that it is the recognized family medicine. People write that "the whole neighborhood is taking it," etc. Particularly is this true of Lowell, Mass., where it is made, and where more of Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold than of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier. It is the great remedy for debility, scrofula, dyspepsia, billiousness, or any disease caused by impure state or low condition of the blood. Give it a trial.

The third annual gathering of the Poor or Poore Family association will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 14th, in the Central church at Haverhill, Mass.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

Mr. Hayden, editor of the West Meath (Ireland) Examiner, has been summoned to court for infringement of the crimes act at an anti-eviction meeting.

To get relief from indigestion, billiousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, they will please you.

Mrs. McGarigle, wife of the fugitive hospital warden, left Chicago last Thursday evening on the steamer Muskegon. She had with her the children of the family, and it is supposed they have gone to join the convicted boodler in Canada.

Impurities of the blood often cause great annoyance at this season; Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, and cures all such affections.

HER LOVE REVEALED.

"Of course, I shall never dare to speak another word to her!" said Robert Dale.

"But why not, Bob? Only tell me why not?" cried out little Florrie, climbing up the beams of the barn-loft, so that her head should be just on a level with that of her tall brother, and clasping him around the neck with both arms.

Robert was a tall handsome young athlete, at that moment busy in mending one of the cogs of a steam-plough with deft and ready touch.

His dark-brown hair hung in heavy masses over his broad forehead; his hazel eyes were full of latent fire, and there was a world of character and resolve in his mouth and chin. One might easily excuse Florrie Dale for being proud of such a brother as that.

"Don't you see, Florrie?" said the young giant, gently putting away the hands that interfered with the delicate screws he held. "I never asked her to be my wife while she was a poor and dependent school-teacher here. How can I have the face to do it now that she has inherited a fortune?"

"But you were just going to ask her, Bob—you know you were!"

"Ah, but how is she to know it?"

"Why, by instinct, of course," decided Florrie.

Dale shook his head with rather a sad smile.

"No, my little girl," said he, "I do not choose to be mistaken for one of the great army of fortune-hunters. I've lost my opportunity, and there's an end of it. It's my own fault."

Florrie burst into tears.

"Oh, Bob!" said she.

Robert Dale stroked down her sunshiny head, not without a sparkle of moisture in his own eyes, but he smiled a wan smile nevertheless.

"I've often read that pride was a sin," sobbed Florrie, "but I never comprehended it before. Oh, Bob, I could almost hate you, if I didn't love you so dearly!"

And Florrie scrambled down from her perch on the beam and ran away, with both hands clasped over her face.

Dale looked after her.

"Poor little darling!" he said to himself. "It is but a scratch on the surface of her tender young heart. On mine it is a deep wound seared in with red-hot iron. God help me!"

It was one of those romances which occur in real life oftener than one has any idea of. Mabel Wayne was a pretty young school-teacher in Abbott's village, whose life of poverty had suddenly been turned into riches by the bequest of a distant and nearly-forgotten relative.

To Mabel herself it seemed like a golden dream. How often she had built castles in the air, whereof the foundation was, "If I were rich!" And now the dream had come true; the pinnacle of the air-castles were actually shining outward the sky of her life, heretofore such a cold and gray expanse!

"And now," said Mabel to herself, "I can fulfill all my heart's desires."

She took counsel with no one, unless now and then an hour with the gray-haired old lawyer might come under that head; she simply did as she pleased.

"Hev' ye seen the new house that Mabel Wynne is buildin'?" said one neighbor to another. "It's a regular Aladdin's castle! With the trees all cut away from the lake, and new drives made through the woods, and heathen statters set up here and there, and a row o' glass houses to raise furnin plants, and ripen grapes and peaches before their time."

"I don't approve of no such notions," solemnly answered the other. "To my mind, it's a clear settin' o' Providence at defiance. Grapes in March! And orange-trees a-flowerin' in this 'ere climate, with the snow on the ground! Mark my words, there won't be no good come of it!"

* * * * *

It was a bright September evening when Mabel Wynne stopped at the old Dale farm-house.

Florrie rushed to meet her, and greeted her with hugs and kisses innumerable.

"Dear, dear May!" she said; "why haven't you been to see us before?"

"Why haven't you been to see me?" retorted Mabel with the piquant offhand manner which was one of her greatest charms. "That is the question, I should think?"

Florrie's eyelashes dropped; instinctively she turned to her brother.

Robert advanced to her rescue, offering Miss Wynne his hand with an excellent imitation of composure.

"Because, Mabel, your time has been so much occupied," said he. "I told Florrie that things were changed—that you could hardly be expected to have leisure to devote to her silly prattle."

"How did you know that things were changed?" cried Mabel, with a resentful flash in her violet-blue eyes.

"My own common-sense told me so."

"Was that the reason you haven't been to see me?"

"One of the reasons."

"Oh!" said Mabel, with an indescribable intonation of voice, and fixing her eyes upon his with a sudden questioning glance, which he was but too thankful to evade by looking another way. "That was all that you cared for your old friend—eh?"

"If I could be of any real practical use to my old friend——"

"You can," briefly interrupted Miss Wynne.

"Tell me how, and I shall be at your service."

Florrie put her arms around her friend's neck, whispering softly:

"This is like old times, May?"

"And I shall want Florrie, too," added Mabel, "to help eke out my own inexperience. A man's judgment and a woman's taste! May I count on both of you?"

"On me, certainly," said Robert Dale.

"You might know that I would be ready to help you," cried Florrie, almost inclined to be aggrieved.

"Then will you both come up to 'The Glen' to-morrow at ten o'clock?"

"That's the name of your new fairy palace?"

"Didn't you know it?"

Robert smiled.

"I didn't ask many questions," said he.

"Yes, it is called 'The Glen,'" she answered.

Mabel Wynne stayed and spent the evening at the Dale farmhouse. She and Florrie sang sweet duets to the accompaniment of Robert's violin. They talked of old times and new, and when at last Robert returned from seeing Mabel home, Florrie clapped her hands gleefully.

"Oh, Bob," she cried, "isn't it nice to have Mabel here once more?"

And Bob's smile did her heart good.

The next day, however, things assumed a new aspect. Robert and Florrie walked up through the wood to the beautiful new house, whose stained-glass casement commanded so rare a view of hillside, woodlands, and distant winding river. Mabel was standing on the portico.

"Now come in," she cried radiantly. "Walk through all the rooms with me. Here is the library—I want Robert's idea about fitting that up—and here are the drawing-rooms. Florrie and I must decide about these; for, to tell you the truth"—and she colored pinker than a rose—"I am going to be married!"

Florrie started back, with a little exclamation; Robert stood calm and quiet as one of the marble statues in the vestibule.

"Married!" Florrie cried; "and not to confide in me! Oh, May!"

"Tell me," said Mabel, "shall we furnish the drawing-rooms in blue and silver, or pink and gold? And shall my rooms be the south ones, or the suite looking out over the river? And Bob must have the vestibule furnished to suit a man's taste. I shouldn't like to have my husband criticise them when he comes. Will you do this for me, Bob, because of our old friendship? Oh, don't look so solemnly at me! I know I am asking a good deal, but I thought I could depend on you."

"You can," he answered quietly.

"Come out and look at the new sundial on the south lawn," added Mabel. "Florrie has run upstairs to see the river from the observatory. We won't wait for her, because, Bob, I want to tell you a secret."

"Wouldn't your husband be the proper one to confide in, May?" he asked.

"In this case, no, Bob," she cried. "Listen to me. I love this man with all my soul—this husband that is to be—and he loves me."

"Naturally," observed Robert, setting his teeth.

"But he does not dare to tell me so. He thinks, don't you see, that I am an heiress. Well, so I am; but I am a woman, nevertheless, and I love him! Is my wretched money to part us? If so, I'll fling it all into the ocean, and begin life anew as a beggar-girl. Now, Bob, what shall I do? It is for this that I sent for you to come here. Answer me quickly."

"Tell him all," said Robert huskily. "For God's sake do not break his heart for so trifling a cause as this!"

Mabel's cheeks crimsoned, her eyes fell to the ground.

"I have told him," she murmured, "within this hour. Oh, Robert, Robert! have I said too much?"

"My May, my own darling!" cried Dale. "And to think that this miserable, false pride of mine failed to measure the nobility of your virtue!"

When Florrie came down from the observatory to the marble sun-dial, where the minutes were measured off by sunshine—ah, how appropriate it seems just now, this division of time!—Bob and Mabel were sitting side by side on a rustic bench, and there was something in their faces that betrayed the truth at once.

"You have discovered our secret, little sister," said he.

Florrie uttered a cry of joy.

"Oh, May!" she cried; "is it Bob?"

"Could it be anyone else than Bob?" Mabel whispered, her sweet eyes full of loving light.

A hen, half black Spanish and half game, has been doing a land office business in Rollo, Missouri. She laid her first egg on the tenth of May, 1886, and has continued to lay an egg every day since. She went to setting as soon as she had laid her first egg, and is still on her nest. She comes off every morning to get water and food and then goes back. She has hatched one egg a day except the first three weeks of her career. She has now been laying one year and is the mother and hatcher of 344 chickens, one-half pullets, and the other half roosters—and she still looks well.

Two sailors of a wrecked Gloucester schooner were adrift on the ocean for six days without a morsel of food or drop of water. After trying all imaginable experiments to allay their thirst, one man cut his arms in order that they might drink his blood, but the blood would not flow. They were picked up shortly afterward.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief came to me for years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrah. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

James W. Osborne of Boston, a young fellow of twenty-three years, of an excellent family, and left with a permanent income of $1500 yearly on the death of his father a few years ago, has been arrested in Chicago, charged with forgery and larceny. It is the old story of a young man reared in luxury, and then thrown upon the world with an income inadequate to meet the requirements of an extravagant taste. His parents were wealthy residents of New York, and he never knew the value of money, nor the pleasure of possessing a dollar honestly earned by himself. Many crimes are charged against him, and there is proof enough to make him a penitentiary bird till he is an old man.

We recommend Carter's Iron Pills to every woman who is weak, nervous and discouraged; particularly those who have thin, pale lips, cold hands and feet, and who are without strength or ambition. These are the cases for which Carter's Iron Pills are specially prepared, and this class cannot use them without benefit. Valuable for men also. In metal boxes, at fifty cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. See advertisement elsewhere.

Peculiar

In the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in its good name at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most successful medicine for purifying the blood, giving strength, and creating an appetite.

It did the work.

The direct liabilities of the suspended firm of E. L. Harper & Co., of Cincinnati, are stated at $1,462,744, and the indirect liabilities at $1,692,073, with assets of an appraised value of $103,202.

Golden Silence.

Attempts have been made, of late, to obtain from Geo. Wm. Curtis some expression of his opinion concerning the deflection of President Cleveland from the rectitude of civil service reform. A letter was written to Mr. Curtis asking his views. That gentleman sends the following expressive reply:

ASHFIELD, MASS., Sept. 2d, 1887.

Dear Sir: I have your note of the 24th, and thank you sincerely. But I am not disposed to talk just now, even were I more accessible to you than I am. It is a better time for thinking than for talking much, and I have a good gift for silence. Yours truly,

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS.

This goes to show that the mugwumps are again in the deep study of where they are to be found in their peculiar and constantly embarrassing situation. The little task which Mr. Curtis and his friends undertook of reforming and purifying the politics of the republican and democratic parties according to their own ideas, both at one swoop, seems just as far from being consummated as ever.

Labor Day.

The first legal "Labor day" in Massachusetts was generally observed all over the state by a cessation of business, in the towns and cities. In Boston there was an immence parrade of working men, four or five mammoth picnics, yacht races, ball games and other sports. Between 40,000 and 50,000 men took part in the Labor day parade in New York. The demonstration was orderly, and the socialists made no disturbance.

Red flags were barred out in the Labor day parade in Chicago. There were 25,000 men in line, but no anarchists.

Another Theatre Horror.

At Exeter, England, on the evening of Sept. 5th, fire broke out in a crowded theatre during a performance of "Rommany Rye." The building was known as the Theatre Royal, was built after the latest designs, elaborately fitted, and considered one of the prettiest and best theatres in the United Kingdom. At the end of the third act, at 10:30 o'clock, a drop scene fell, and in a moment the whole stage was a mass of fire. A wild panic ensued. The flames spread rapidly and filled the theatre with dense smoke. The scene was an awful one. Some men implored the audience to be cool, but it was impossible to check the frantic rush. The theatre hose was brought into use in a few minutes, but the water had little effect on the flames. The actors and actresses were in their dressing rooms and were taken from the windows with the aid of ladders. The occupants of the stage, pit and dress circle escaped after a dreadful crushing, many being fatally hurt. The people in the upper circle and gallery rushed to the windows screaming frantically. Many jumped from the windows and were fatally injured. Others were rescued with the aid of ladders from the verandas. The fire brigade arrived five minutes after the breaking out of the flames, but the efforts of the firemen were without effect, the building being destroyed to the bare walls.

There was only one exit from the gallery, and the crush there was murderous, scores being trodden under foot and suffocated; most of those saved from the gallery were rescued by a fire escape placed to a window. Many who were gotten out alive died in a short time from burns; twenty died in the hospitals soon after being admitted. Up to the date of the first despatch 130 dead bodies had been recovered from the ruins, most of them being men and boys, only about thirty being women.

A despatch of the 6th inst. from London says the deaths amount to 140, and that at least sixty others are severely injured.

Heavy Failure.

E. S. Wheeler & Co., of New Haven, Conn., heavy importers of bar iron, steel, tin, etc., with branch houses in New York, Liverpool, Baltimore and Chicago, suspended payments on the 5th inst., the failure also involving the New Haven Wire Co. The liabilities are thought likely to reach $2,000,000.

The approaching New York election has convinced the president as well as the secretary of the navy that more men should be required at the Brooklyn navy yard. Over two hundred men have recently been "called," and the political bosses at Brooklyn have a long list of others who have been promised a job. Last Thursday about a hundred men were taken on in the construction department, who will be employed in completing the monitor Miantonomoh. Additional workmen were taken on in the yards and docks department to utilize the $25,000 appropriated for the repairs of the buildings in the yard. Bids for the material for "repairing" the Miantonomoh will be opened on Saturday, and soon afterward the work on her will be more vigorously prosecuted. The vessel was originally built by John Roach & Sons at their works in Chester, and she is a monitor of the low free board type, originated by Ericsson. Her hull is of iron, with a double bottom, and her armor belt is to be of solid rolled iron plates, backed with yellow pine. Her two new turrets will be of steel-faced armor plates, and will weigh 194 tons. The system of turrets is the same as originally adopted by Ericsson in the first monitor, at a time when projectiles were lighter and discharged with comparatively little power.

Asa R. Bryant of Biddeford, a workman in a bakery, either fell or jumped from a second-story window of his boarding house, Sept. 5th, and was fatally injured. He had been taking ether, but whether with suicidal intent or not cannot be told. He was thirty-six years old, and a consistent member of the Congregational church. He had been very despodent, owing to much sickness in his family, and the recent death of two of his children.

Scott Young died Sept. 5th at Sanford, Me., from injuries received by the fall of a staging at Springvale on the 2d.

There have been many recent sales of real estate at Ogunquit beach, Wells. Parties from Greenfield, Mass., have purchased seven acres of land near the shore, and will begin the erection of several buildings thereon. Lumber for a new hotel to replace the Bald Head Cliff house, recently destroyed by fire, has arrived and the hotel will be rebuilt in time for the opening of summer travel next season. The building prospect at Ogunquit is better than it has been for years.

Odilon Menard of Salem and his infant were killed, and Mrs. Menard badly wounded, Monday afternoon, at the railroad crossing on Balch street, North Beverly, Mass., while driving across the Eastern railway track, being struck by a train.

Jeremiah True, of Richmond, Me., who was struck on a crossing by the Flying Yankee train, Aug. 17th, died on the 4th inst. from the effects of his injuries.

Much excitement is reported as existing in Epsom over the disappearance four or five weeks ago of a boy named Pinney, aged about fifteen years, son of R. S. Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

TEMPLARS' PILGRIMAGE.

Calvary Commandery of Knights Templar, of Providence, R. I., will arrive in this city on the 2:40 P. M. train to-day, and will be met informally at the railroad station by members of De Witt Clinton Commandery of this city and escorted to the Rockingham house, which hotel the visiting commandery will leave for the Wentworth in barges at 3:30. On Thursday morning, being conveyed from the Wentworth to the corner of Miller avenue and Middle street, this city, in barges, they will be met by De Witt Clinton Commandery and escorted through Middle, Cabot, Islington, Congress and Market streets to the steamer Oceanic. Promptly at 10:30 the entire party will embark on board the steamer for the Appledore, where entertainment will be furnished. The company will arrive back in this city in time for the visitors to take the evening train for Manchester. Reinewald's band, which has been engaged by De Witt Clinton Commandery, will arrive on the Pullman train this evening, and proceed to the Rockingham house.

MOUNTAIN EXCURSIONS.

There were not many from this city to take advantage of the excursion rates to Fabyan's on Tuesday morning, the price of round-trip tickets, $4.50 each, added to the knowledge that a much cheaper rate was to be offered shortly, prevening the over-crowding of the train, very effectually.

Next Tuesday, Sept. 13th, at seven o'clock in the morning, a special train will leave this city for Fabyan's, arriving there at about one o'clock P. M., and starting on the return at four o'clock. Tickets for the trip, good going on the special train, and for returning either on the special train or any regular train until Tuesday, Sept. 20th, will be sold at the station in this city at only $2 each; and holders of such tickets will be able to procure, on the train, tickets to the summit of Mt. Washington from Fabyan's, and return, at $3 each, and will also have reduced rates at all the mountain hotels.

ATHLETIC CLUB DINNER.

The Portsmouth Athletic club will have their second annual dinner at the Wentworth, Newcastle, next Friday evening. For the afternoon the club committee have prepared a programme of sports to consist of the usual events, such as hundred yards dash, running jumps, tug of war, etc., which will be carried out on the fine grounds adjoining the Wentworth. There will also be a hill-climbing contest for bicyclists. To add to the zeal of the participants in the above contests, the club have purchased medals and cups for the winners, aggregating in value about one hundred dollars. It is intended to commence the sports about two o'clock. After the events specified, if time allows, there will be a base ball match played in some adjacent field. Dance in the evening.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. J. A. Packard and daughter, of Lynn, Mass., are visiting Mrs. Packard's mother, Mrs. Asa Libbey of Eliot.

Hon. H. O. Houghton, the publisher of Mr. Stedman's writings, visited Kelp Rock, Newcastle, on Monday. Mr. Houghton has been at the Farragut house, Rye beach, during a greater part of the season. He returns this week to his residence in Cambridge.

Mrs. Wm. R. Preston and Frank S. Preston, of Middle street, are visiting the family of Commander Mortimer L. Johnson, U. S. N., at the Charlestown navy yard.

Medical Director Samuel F. Coues, U. S. N., will be retired, under the operation of the law, on the 17th inst. He is a native of this city, and was appointed to the service from this state as assistant surgeon in February, 1851, and attached to the sloop Portsmouth of the Pacific squadron. He was commissioned surgeon in April, 1861, and medical director in August, 1876. Medical Director Coues stands number four on the list of medical directors, and ranks as captain. He is now stationed at the naval hospital, Chelsea, Mass.

At the opening of the September term of the supreme court for Strafford county, in Dover on the 6th inst., the county solicitor announced that the cases against Mrs. Annie Marshall of Rochester (formerly Miss Annie Stover of this city) for alleged attempted poisoning of her husband, and against Miss Laura Johnstone as an accessory, had been abandoned by the state, there not being sufficient evidence to warrant a prosecution.

Many people went out to see the fire at half-past twelve o'clock Monday night, and the electric lights went out too.

The Penny Post says that "Francis Parkman, the historian, has purchased Leach's island, so-called, and hereafter there will probably be no more prize fights there."

There is to be a hearing on a motion for injunction at Newmarket to-day in the controversy between the town of Newmarket and the Newmarket Manufacturing company. Ex-Senator Wadleigh is to appear for the company, and Mr. Frink for the town.

The supreme court for Strafford county began its session at Dover on Tuesday, and took a recess for a week, for the reason that the engagements of counsel left no case which could be conveniently tried.

Will Jenness, a bell boy at the Hotel Wentworth, Newcastle, had one of his hands crushed in the elevator at that hotel last Sunday. A purse of $40 was raised among the guests for the injured boy.

The internal revenue collections for the northeastern revenue district, as taken from the report of Collector Page, show a total of $41,253.58, for the month ending Aug. 31st.

Grand picnic of Improved Order of Red Men at Dover point on Wednesday.

Wm. Davis of Dover on Sunday afternoon was visiting a friend in Madbury, and seeing a skunk near the chicken coop took an old gun that had been loaded a long time, and proceeded to exterminate the marauder. The gun burst, blowing over a hundred grains of powder into the man's face, and injuring his right arm and leg, and one eye. The skunk escaped harm.

MARITIME NOTES.

The ship Triumphant, of Boston, formerly for a number of years commanded by the late Capt. Henry Libby of this city, has been abandoned at sea, a sinking wreck, on the voyage from Liverpool to New York. The crew arrived at London on the 5th inst., in the steamer State of Indiana. The Triumphant registered 2046 tons, and was built in Quincy, Mass., in 1873.

The steamer Josie M., of Newburyport, was at the Isles of Shoals on Monday with a party of excursionists.

The fishing schooner M. C. Torrey, of Sedgwick, Me., was badly disabled on the banks in the gale of Aug. 24th; she managed to reach Scatterie, N. S., on the 4th inst., where the exhausted crew ran her ashore, she being then nearly full of water, and saved their lives, the vessel soon going to pieces.

STEAMER OCEANIC.

No excursion tickets will be sold for the Shoals steamer Oceanic for Thursday, Sept. 8th, on account of the boat having been chartered for that day for the excursion of Knights Templar.

PER ORDER.

I. O. O. F.

The members of New Hampshire Lodge, No. 17, I. O. O. F., are requested to be present at the next regular meeting, Wednesday evening, Sept. 7th. Business of importance will be presented. Per order of the N. G.

THORNTON BETTON, Secretary.

Ladies will find a very complete line of new Ruchings, nearly a hundred different kinds, from the cheapest to the finest quality, at Lewis E. Staples' small ware department. Also Collars and Cuffs of latest styles.

The other day Eugene Higgins and all the rest of the Maryland office holders went actively and vigorously into the local democratic caucuses, and procured the nominations of various candidates for office in that state, in direct violation of Cleveland's order. The mugwumps and civil service commissioners made a big rumpus about it, but as Higgins & Co. also took care to have Cleveland endorsed in various resolutions on purpose to tie his hands, he hesitated to interfere, but was finally almost induced to do it, when Senator Gorman and his aids gave him to understand that if he did interfere, they would knife him and prevent his renomination next year. So he let it all go, just as though he had never said a word.—Dover Democrat.

The British steamer Glenshiel, which has arrived at London from New York, had on board the crew of the British bark Alice Roy, from New York for Quebec, which was abandoned at sea.

George Putnam of Salem, Mass., aged thirty-five years, shot Anna Freels on the street, Sept. 5th, because she refused to marry him. The woman will probably recover. Putnam is under arrest.

Read the Looking-Glass.

I read a sensible article in a London newspaper the other day recommending people to study their countenances by aid of their mirrors. As a general thing, it is not necessary to tell your acquaintances to look in the glass. They do so without being told, and everyone is aware when she does her face wears an expression quite unlike that seen by other eyes. Disappointment at the reflection, for the vision rarely comes up to the expectations and hopes of the vainest mortal, perhaps, but as far as animation goes there is not a trace in the best French plate ever made. This writer suggests her readers should make a practice of smiling and talking, if not eating, before their mirrors, just to observe and correct the grimaces with which they favor the world around them. One of the first lessons a singer receives should be this, to watch her countenance while singing.

Precisely as an actor or actress studies a part before a glass, so should the non-professional society man or woman learn how to smile, to be charming, not to screw their faces into knots, or to fall into tricks with such features as nature has blessed them with. An agreeable smile, without affectation, a graceful carriage, are only results of training, and they become habits quite as easily as less pleasing tricks and mannerisms. There are people who appear tolerably well in repose, yet the instant they speak or laugh change to the grotesque and worry the beholder almost to death. A quite pretty actress, who has been seen more or less in society, spoils the contour of her face the instant she opens her mouth to speak. A little control of the muscles of the lips would obviate the fault and make her far more interesting. But wouldn't this study of the countenance make one very self-conscious? asks the reader. Possibly it might; yet, as self-consciousness is a prevailing sin, I see no reason why one can not add to it the grace of expression, and thus neutralize its evil effect. A sweet and gracious manner is always worth cultivating even if it takes a mirror to bring it to perfection.—Boston Herald.

Rose Marble in Tennessee.

The commissioner of agriculture, statistics and mines yesterday received over a dozen specimens of East Tennessee marble. The collection embraces different varieties of black, gray, and mahogany colored marble, the latter being susceptible of the finest polish and resembling in appearance a block of fine-grained mahogany. This species of marble is very rare; the only other quarry of it in the United States is in California. The most remarkable part of the story is that all the different kinds come from quarries on one farm containing not over twenty acres, situated in Hamblen county, East Tennessee, just three and one-half miles from Morristown. The quarry has just been opened.—Nashville Union.

Whale extract is recommended as an economical substitute for beef extract. A whale weighing 200 tons yields 5,000 pounds of extract. Every pound of extract means a hundred pints of soup. It has not the slightest oily or fishy taste.

OUR BREAD IN DANGER.

The United States Government Chemists, in their examinations of articles of food offered for Government use, have developed the alarming fact that almost all the brands of baking powders upon the market are made from alum or phosphates, or contain large quantities of lime or other adulterants. As a matter of fact, of the samples analyzed, the Royal was the only baking powder found free from all of these deleterious ingredients, and absolutely pure.

Alum is used as a substitute for cream of tartar to produce a cheap baking powder. It costs less than two cents a pound, whereas pure cream of tartar costs forty. The effect of alum upon the system has been ascertained to be poisonous, and over-doses have been attended with fatal results. The phosphate are next to the alum powders in cheapness. They contain a large amount of lime. The baking powders sold with a gift are of the alum or phosphate class.

Lime is the most useless adulterant yet found in baking powders. It is true that when subjected to heat it gives off a certain amount of carbonic acid gas, but a quicklime is left, one of the most powerful caustics known. Chemists have found twelve per cent., or one-eighth of the weight, of some of the baking powders advertised as pure to be lime.

The absolute purity and wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder—now affirmed by every chemist and food analyst of prominence, and conceded by all manufacturers of other brands—arise from the exclusive use of cream of tartar which is specially refined by patent processes that totally remove the lime and all other impurities. These facilities are possessed by no other manufacturer.

In his report, the United States Government Chemist says: "The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made for the United States Government. I will go still further and state that, because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public."

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for ills incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, conveys speedy and safe relief in the quickness of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, diarrhœa, dysentery, fevers in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "ginters" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for

SANFORD'S GINGER,

The Delicious Summer Medicine.

Don't Laugh at Nervous People.

Their sufferings are very real, although you, with your vigorous physique and strong nerves, can scarcely believe it. Rather suggest the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which, in removing every trace of dyspepsia, and regulating the liver and bowels, strikes at and extirpates the most prolific cause of chronic nervous trouble. That nerve-shattering disease, fever and ague, is among the formidable ailments, to the removal of which this genial remedy is specially adopted. Nervous prostration, resulting from prolonged mental or physical effort, is also a state of the system where the intervention of this tonic is very desirable, more particularly as its use is to quiet and relax the tension of overwrought nerves. The Bitters are invaluable in rheumatism, neuralgia and kidney troubles. Employ no substitute for it.

It is reported from Indianapolis that "one of the Toledo, Peoria & Western company's employes who worked at the Chatsworth wreck night and day until it was cleared away, is convinced that 126 persons lost their lives at that place. This employe says he personally knew of that number of bodies being taken out dead, which were shipped away to various parts of the country as rapidly as possible. This evidence is corroborated by the statements of residents of Peoria visiting Indianapolis. They say that a number of young men went out to the scene of the wreck on the first relief train, and remained all day. They stated on their return that they had counted 110 bodies taken out up to the time they left, and that it was believed that several more had been entirely consumed in the wreck."

TAFFY, THE WELSHMAN.

His proper name was William or Billy Roberts. But hailing from Holyhead, whence his father had sailed as channel pilot for years, and, moreover, having a strong Welsh "burr" on his tongue, we at once nicknamed him Taffy—the silly pseudonym for a Welshman.

"We" means Tom Derrington and the present writer. At the time of which I speak I had turned my sixteenth year, and with Tom above named had shipped as ordinary seamen, after two deep water passages, with Captain Carver in the ship Salem. Taffy, who was about the same age, joined us at London, and we three, through Captain Carver's kindness, were allowed to occupy the "boys' room"—for this was in the palmy days of American ships and American seamen.

"If you two chaps get ahead this voyage as fast as you did the two others you have sailed with me, I'll give one of you a second mate's berth the very first chance," Captain Carver had said, and of course this put us both on our mettle to do our level best.

But after Taffy came aboard, Tom and I found that he knew more of seamanship, both theoretically and in practice, than the pair of us put together. And I am ashamed to say that we were both mean enough to cherish that sort of petty spite against him which naturally rises from secret envy.

As I have said, this was in the days of American ships and sailors. Further, it was in the days of the "wild packets," which are now only a memory that will remain with some of us seafarers forever.

For the average packet sailor was something more than a "hard citizen" in those days. The worst of them, banded together in a sort of secret society known as the "bloody forties," comprised a gang of as thoroughly reckless and criminal desperadoes as ever stepped over a ship's rail—and I may add as thorough seamen as ever manned a yard.

As it unfortunately happened, men were scarce in Liverpool when the ship was ready to sail, and Captain Carver was obliged to take such as he could get. And to do them strict justice, in all my seafaring days I cannot recall seeing eight such villainous looking faces in one lot as those that made up our new crew.

There was trouble from the first day out. The men had been accustomed to ship discipline backed up by a revolver and a pair of brass knuckles, worn and used at the slightest show of insubordination. Captain Carver, on the other hand, had heretofore allowed neither threats nor abuse on the part of his officers, so that it soon became evident that unless some decided action was taken, open instead of half disguised mutiny would be the result.

We were bound for New York in ballast. Cotton freights were at their best, and in his stateroom Captain Carver had upward of forty thousand dollars in gold—the freight money of the preceding voyage. Unfortunately the steward, who was a garrulous Cockney, whether purposely or not, had made known the fact to the crew. And this without doubt laid the train for what followed.

It was in midsummer, and the ship, making the southern passage, was fifteen days out from Liverpool. Mr. Duffries, the mate, went forward in the dog watch to see that the sidelights were burning clear, as we were in the direct track of steamers and sailing vessels. He never came back.

None of the men knew anything as to his disappearance. The man on the lookout swore that as Mr. Duffries came up on the t'gallant forecastle, he—the lookout—stepped down to get a light for his pipe. When he returned Mr. Duffries was not there, and of course—so said the sailor—he presumed the mate had gone aft. So in like manner testified all the rest.

Nothing could be done about it, for nothing could be proved, as a matter of course. There had been no sound of blow or scuffle or splash in the water. All was wrapped in mystery, and Captain Carver was terribly worked up.

Mr. Grier, a canny Scotchman—was promoted to the position of first officer. Which of us two would be chosen to fill the second mate's berth was the unspoken question in my own and Tom's mind, as a matter of course.

On the following evening, at the beginning of the dog watch, Taffy was sent to put away the marline spikes, tarpots, and the like, in the "bo'sun's locker," a sort of closet under the t'gallant forecastle. He was absent so long that I think both Mr. Grier and Captain Carver imagined that something might have happened to him. But just as the wheel was relieved at eight bells, Taffy made his appearance aft. Instead of entering the boy's room, he made his way, "sneaked," so Tom and I said, into the cabin, where he remained closeted nearly an hour with Captain Carver.

"Say, fellers," he whispered, as he softly closed the doors, "there's trouble ahead for sure." And then before either of us could speak, Taffy went on hurriedly and briefly to tell us that while under the t'gallant forecastle, unknown to the crew, he had heard Casey and a fellow known as Brock, the two ringleaders, laying plans with the others to take charge of the ship some time during the middle watch, murder the two remaining officers, scuttle the vessel and escape in the two boats with the gold. Mr. Duffries had been quietly disposed of the night before by a knife thrust, and softly dropped over the side, so they reckoned on an easy accomplishment of the rest. We three "boys" were to be left to go down with the sinking ship!

Taffy then unfolded a desperate plan to frustrate the plot which had occurred to Captain Carver, who unfortunately had no weapon of any kind in the cabin with the exception of a single-barreled holster pistol. What this plan was will be seen shortly. But three more excited young fellows never obeyed the summons to "turn out" and relieve wheel and lookout, than Tom, Taffy and myself, at eight bells of the middle watch.

It was my first wheel—I relieving Casey, the acknowledged ringleader of the gang. With a heart that throbbed like a trip hammer, I took the spokes from his hands and received the course—"sou'west by west."

I saw Captain Carver glance quickly forward, as a murmur of voices from that part of the ship reached our ears. Suddenly putting out his foot as the sailor was passing, he at the same moment clutched Casey by the throat, and, bending him backward over the rail, hurled him headlong into the sea.

The whole affair took place so quickly that not a sound or cry escaped the sailor's lips. And hardly was the deed done when Captain Carver thundered out:

"Man overboard! Hard down the wheel—hard down! Aft here to the boat, three or four of you! Mr. Grier let fly head sheets! Brace aback the after yards!"

Knowing a second later that Casey was the missing man, and never suspecting the ruse, four sailors rushed aft, the quarter boat was swung out board, and three minutes later it was cleaving the water toward the spot where Casey's head could be plainly seen in the moonlight.

But scarcely was the boat twenty feet away, before Captain Carver, drawing the heavy pistol from his breast, sprang to the break of the quarter. At the same moment, in obedience to his order, I rapidly shifted the wheel.

"Now, Mr. Grier!" And then followed the stern commands to trim down the head sheets and round in the yards.

"I'll shoot the first man of you that refuses duty like a dog!" shouted the now thoroughly excited captain—and the three remaining scoundrels saw that the game was up.

In less time than I have taken to write it, the yards were braced in, and the ship, heading her course, was leaving the boat far astern.

Brock, Bill Matthews and Fox were sternly ordered to step forward. Captain Carver's remarks to them were brief and to the point. The first look or sign of insubordination would be punished with short shrift. Their scoundrelly companions would probably escape to be hung. On arrival the trio would be handed over to the authorities. Go for'ard!

When, on the following morning, Taffy was made second officer, Tom and I were speechless with astonishment and indignation. And short handed as we were, we had double duty to do for the rest of the passage, which naturally increased our hard feelings toward him. So that as far as we dared, we both showed our resentment in a very marked manner, thus making his office trebly difficult.

Fortunately we were favored with good weather, and a leading breeze which followed the ship almost into New York harbor. Here the three sailors managed to slip over the side into the tugboat and get off safely. I afterward heard that the boat containing the others was picked up bottom up by the Oceanica.

Taffy stayed by the ship till her return passage. Tom and I drifted away from each other in different ships and two years later I joined a small, swift sailing English fruiting schooner, bound from Liverpool to the Western Islands, as mate.

On the night of December 23, 1861, the schooner took the ground near Abendovey in St. George's Channel and was driven over the bar into shoal water, with an ebbing tide and an awful sea running. The masts went by the board, and with them three of the five men composing our entire ship's company. Jim Trefethern shook hands with me and started to swim to the rocks only a cable's length distant. His battered body was recovered by the coast guard next day.

My left arm was broken by a swing of the main boom, but I managed to lash myself to the stump of the mainmast, and benumbed with the drenching seas and icy blast, lay in a half stupefied condition. My only hope was that I could hold out till morning with a possibility of being rescued by the coast guard.

But gradually numbness of the extremities was followed by the terrible torpor which I knew was a prelude to perishing of cold and exhaustion. Vainly I fought against it, till it seemed at last that I must yield.

But, just as the first glimmer of the gray dawn broke through the fog, I heard a distant shout. Raising my head, I could make out through the driving mist and spray that a large life-boat had safely passed the surf line and was steering directly for the stern of the wrecked schooner, which was fast breaking up.

But the tide had ebbed so much that the boat's deep draught would not permit of a nearer approach. Rounding to under her rag of sail, an anchor was thrown out, and a little later three or four men in cork jackets and the cumbersome-looking rig of the crew of an English life-boat leaped over the side with a life-line.

"Hold on a bit longer, matey," cheerily sang out the one who took the lead, and just conscious enough to recognize Taffy's voice, I was transferred from the wreck to the anchored life-boat, where a dose of raw spirits poured down my throat brought back the ebbing life to my frame.

An hour later, my arm was being set by a surgeon as I lay in my warm nest of blankets in the cozy public house in Aberdovey village, while Taffy, whose weather-beaten young face glowed with pleasure, sat by my side. Tiring of merchant service he had chosen a more precarious one as one of the crew of the Aberdovey life-boat nearly two years previous.

"It's wuth all th'hardship I've been through just to ha' been head one in savin' of you, Harry. I allus liked you for all you took offense wi' me," said the honest fellow, as we shook hands at parting on the following morning.

"You've shown me what returning good for evil means, anyway, Taffy," I said. And he had.—Golden Argosy.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Peculiar

In the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in its good name at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most successful medicine for purifying the blood, giving strength, and creating an appetite.

If the Sufferers from Consumption, Scrofula and general debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, the will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr. H. A Grave Charge.

In the New Hampshire senate, on the afternoon of the 6th inst., Senator Oliver D. Sawyer of Weare, in the sixteenth (Amherst) district, arose to a question of privilege, and said:

Mr. President: It becomes my duty to myself and to the senate to place before this body the facts of a transaction which took place in the state house last week. On Wednesday I was called from this chamber by the sergeant-at-arms, and met Kirk D. Pierce. During the conversation with him he proposed to me that I make a speech for the Boston & Maine railroad for $5000. I need not say that the proposition was indignantly declined.

On motion of Senator Stearns of Rindge, the following preamble and resolution were adopted:

Whereas, Senator Sawyer has made a communication to the senate alleging an attempt to influence the vote of a senator by bribery, therefore be it

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed by the senate to investigate said allegation, with power to send for persons and papers.

The statement of Senator Sawyer created a great sensation in the senate, and the resolution of Senators Stearns was unanimously passed, whereupon President Currier appointed Senator Stearns of Rings, Jameson of Antrim, Putnam of Conway, Neally of Dover and Hersey of Keene, a committee to fully investigate the matter in issue.

Kirk D. Pierce, the person who is alleged to have offered the bribe to Senator Sawyer, is a lawyer resident in Hillsboro', and a nephew of the late President Franklin Pierce. Senator Sawyer is a native of Portland, Me., but has resided in Weare nearly all his life. He is a storekeeper, and has been in business for thirty years at the same stand. He was a member of the constitutional convention in 1876, and it is said is highly respected by all who know him as a man of the greatest integrity, honor and conscientiousness.

The Boston Post's Concord despatch of the 6th says:

The Boston & Maine people allege that Pierce is not in their employ, but he has been here ever since the fight opened. The investigation committee will hold a private meeting to-morrow morning and then arrange for future meetings and a plan of action. The matter will be sifted to the bottom by the committee before the investigation is concluded. There has not been so much excitement among the members of the legislature at any time since the railroad fight opened as is apparent this evening. There is a great deal of indignation expressed on all sides at the alleged attempt to influence the vote of the senate by bribery, and the members of the senate are particularly indignant over the matter. Kirk D. Pierce, who is alleged to have attempted to bribe Senator Sawyer, returned to this city this evening. He emphatically denied the charge of attempted bribery, and said there was no truth in it. At the proper time he would make a statement at length, but would say no more tonight.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 5th.

Messrs. Gazette: Our Free High school goes to Kittery Point to-day for a sojourn of eight weeks, which appears to me, et als., an unbusiness-like transaction—giving us less than two days' notice, and including Sunday at that.

Armory hall is conveniently and comfortably fitted for the school, for which we deserve a meed of credit. Our district, No. 9, has done its utmost to meet the contingent expenses of said school, and help pay the salary of an able assistant, one capable of taking charge of the school in any unavoidable absence of the principal; and had our resources allowed it, should have gladly continued in the "way of well doing."

It is a mistake for any party to assert that all the better element, i. e., thinking, capable men, of Kittery Point, united in asking for this change of place, for we know personally that several of this class, men who hold that honesty is safest in practice, and sugar-coated policy best in theory, who do not hesitate to say they think it an injudicious movement; but this class were not consulted!

The question is already being considered—shall we have a portable high school, or no high school, in 1888? Let us hope not the latter. MAXWELL.

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 6th.

Miss Amanda Abrams, the efficient assistant of our free high school, is teaching the fall term at Battery hill, Kittery Point. We sincerely hope that Miss Abrams' efforts will meet with better favor than did those of the two Normal school graduates who taught there, or commenced to teach there, once upon a time. But there; fortunately Miss Abrams' reputation is established.

Misses Minnie and Annie Pickering of Boston are visiting their uncle and aunt, Mr. B. Frank Pickering and wife, at their pleasant cottage at the Depot.

Mrs. Wallace E. Bartlett of Hartford, Conn., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Frank Bartlett, at North Kittery. Miss Susie E. Pettigrew of Newburyport, Mass., is also visiting Mrs. Bartlett and relatives there; she has just returned from an extended tour in central Maine.

Our schools commenced on Monday. The Free High school goes to Kittery Point for the "fall term; we understand that the committee gave but short notice of this action, and that only two of the committee being present, those two were divided in opinion, one being for the Point and the other for the Foreside. We do not know how they settled it, unless they flipped up a cent, in which case heads of course won, as it always does in our school affairs; hence the transfer.

At the examination of candidates for admission to the high school last week but one of the committee were present, and only one candidate put in an appearance, that one being a young lady. They could not get into the hall, and the member of the committee examined the candidate in her carriage in a pouring rain storm, and she passed the highest per cent, as she ought to; the question is now asked, Where was the other committee? "Tell me, ye winged winds," etc.

Dr. Walter E. Fernald, assistant superintendent of the Wisconsin state insane asylum at Mendota, will close his duties with that institution this month, having accepted a more lucrative position as superintendent of the asylum for feeble-minded children at South Boston. Dr. Fernald is highly spoken of in his practice, and is we venture to say worthy of all praise. He was formerly a student with Dr. M. F. Wentworth of this town.

Mr. Edward E. Shapleigh returned from the Shoals on Tuesday, where he has been engaged during the season as bookkeeper, at the Oceanic, Star Island.

The potato crop in this vicinity is reported to be almost a complete failure. Many farmers say theirs are not worth harvesting, as it is better for them to rot in the ground than in the cellar.

We understand that a detective has been spoken for in order that the miserable apologies for boys and young men who injured the property of several farmers of North Kittery (one of them a very old man) one night last week, may be arrested, and it is hoped speedily "jugged." Patience has ceased to be a virtue, as far as they are concerned.

The attempt to make a quotation of a rate for senators seems to have failed. No one credits that there was any serious approach to bribe a senator, and doubtless an investigation will show the occurrence named in the papers as to the Sawyer-Pierce interview to have been the merest idle badinage.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. If you suffer from scrofula, salt rheum, or any disease of the blood, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, or kidney and liver complaints, catarrh or rheumatism, do not fail to try

"CHEEK."

The quality known as "Cheek" does not always make its possessor popular, though it often puts him in positions of advantage where he has no business to be, or saves him from penalties he may richly deserve; but the "Cheek" of Mr. Roland Reed is something which all approve of who witness, and makes him a rousing favorite with his audiences. A chance to sample this pleasing variety of "Cheek" will be afforded in Music hall on Saturday evening, and tickets for reserved seats are now on sale at Goodrich's. One of the best entertainments given in Music hall last year was this, and it is said to have been greatly improved since that time; it was good enough then. The New York Journal says of it:

Mr. Reed has elaborated this creation to a point which makes it practically a new thing. When he is on the stage there is no dull moment in the piece. His amazing and natural impudence convulses the house. The supporting company have been well selected as to personnel, and there is in particular one lady who plays a designing adventuress so well that it is life-like in its fidelity, and almost ranks as a well-studied portraiture with that of the star.

JAMES FRANK SHANNON, JR.

The obsequies of the late James F. Shannon, Jr., were held in the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon of this week, and were attended by Rev. O. S. Baketel of that church and Rev. Wm. A. McGinley of the North parish, at which latter church and Sunday school the deceased had attended for the past few years up to the time of his being taken sick; he was a member of Mrs. James R. Connell's class, and for a long time sang in the choir. The church was filled with the friends and relatives of the deceased; among them were twenty-five or thirty cutters from the Portsmouth shoe factory, his shopmates for the long period that he had worked there, and the members of his Sunday school class.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Among them was a very handsome pillow of white and green, inscribed in the centre with the name "Frank;" also a crescent from the cutters at the shoe shop, and other floral designs from Mrs. Connell, Misses Lizzie and Annie Foster, Mrs. Geo. A. Silsbee, Miss Lillia and Guy Shannon, Geo. E. Gray, and Chas. Jenness. The singing was by Mrs. Huntress, Mrs. Betton, Goodwin Philbrick and Charles Gray.

The services were very impressive. Rev. Mr. Baketel visited him during his sickness, and for a number of days before he died was with him every day. He was ready and willing to go when the summons came, himself arranging all that was necessary for his funeral.

It seems hard for him to be taken from his friends in his early manhood and when he was just beginning his life in earnest, reasonably looking forward to years filled with brightness and joy; but divine wisdom saw fit to remove him to another home, to rest from suffering and pain. Having grown up with him and attended the same schools with him, I say for myself and the rest of his friends that we shall miss his ever pleasant face and ways from among us more than can be expressed in words. We hope the divine consolation will be with his parents in this hour of their affliction. E. L. M.

TEMPLARS' VISITATION.

Calvary Commandery, Eminent Commander Stevens, of Providence, R. I., about 60 men, arrived on the 2.40 train Wednesday, accompanied by the National Band of that city, 25 pieces. The visitors were met at the depot by about 80 members of DeWitt Clinton Commandery of this city. They proceeded at once to the Rockingham house, passing through Deer, Vaughan, Congress, Pleasant and State streets, where they took barges for the Wentworth house where they will remain until this morning. The programme for to-day we have already published.

THE ATHLETIC CLUB SPORTS.

The following is the order in which the several events will take place on the Wentworth grounds on Friday, the occasion of the second annual field day of the Portsmouth Athletic Club:

1, Putting shot; 2, Running broad jump; 3, sack race; 4, bicycle race; 5, running high jump; 6, throwing base ball; 7, 100 yards dash; 8, tug of war; 9, three standing jumps; 10, base ball.

We are requested to state that transportation tickets may be had of S. A. Reed at C. D. Hanscom's store.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 7th.

Edward Clinton, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90, with a stop at Brentwood as the alternative of not paying.

Robert Foster, for drunkenness, was ordered to Brentwood for thirty days without alternative, costs being taxed at $6.90.

Ellen Parks, drunk, fine $3, costs $6.90.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Charles Neil of Stewart, Iowa, who has been passing the summer in this city, will leave Portsmouth to-day for her home, accompanied by her sister, Miss Juliette Lydston, who will stop in the west several months.

Mrs. Wm. Ellis of Worcester, Mass., arrived in this city on Wednesday of this week, accompanied by her nephew, Master Harry Tarlton, son of Capt. Herman A. Tarlton, who has been in Worcester for the summer.

Mrs. E. P. Seavey of Lincoln hill, and Miss Lizzie G. Tompson of Newtonville, Mass., leave this city to-day for a month's stay at Mt. Pleasant, Littleton.

John Edw. Pickering of Newington was examined at Manchester on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week as a teacher in one of the public schools of that city.

Mr. Hartley W. Mason and son arrived home on Wednesday, the 7th inst., from a tour of several months in Europe.

Mr. Alexander H. Dennett, of Somerville, Mass., formerly of this city, is this week visiting friends here.

Hon. James Shaw of Aurora, Ill., formerly of this city, arrived here on Tuesday of this week for a brief stay. Mrs. Shaw and child have been here some weeks, on a visit to Mrs. Shaw's sisters, the Misses Lowd, on State street.

Mr. Albert E. Wood, formerly of this city and for years one of the Chronicle force, and a "natural newspaper man," now of New York, is telegraph editor of the New York Star—a good position, filled by a first-class man.

Rev. Alvah Hatch, a retired Methodist clergyman, died in Saco on the 6th inst. During his fifty years of active ministry he held pastoral charges in Eliot and York, as well as many other places.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Sept. 6th.

Mrs. J. Warren Dow, and family, with a few friends, are spending a few weeks most delightfully in a pleasant cottage at the seaside.

Jamie DeLancey, son of Mr. Curtis DeLancey, who was kicked in the face by a horse while driving a carriage to the railroad station ten days ago, is getting quite well, and his face will not be disfigured.

No arrests have been made for the cruel and wicked injury to one of the horses of Mr. Oliver Godfrey. The tongue, mouth and side of the head of the animal were badly cut, while standing for a few moments in front of the residence of Mr. Amos Tuck Redman.

Our farmers are sadly anxious about their potato crops, which are rotting badly. These "spuds" have been the staple harvest for cash marketing from immemorial times, in this good old agricultural borough.

Little Frankie, son of R. M. Mitchell, Esq., of Boston, had his fingers cut while playing with a hay cutter at DeLancey place. The little fellow is getting nicely well, but had a narrow chance of losing his hand.

MARITIME NOTES.

Among the arrivals on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week were the barkentines Jennie Sweeney with 920 tons of coal, and Navesink with 1070 tons; the schooners R. F. Hart with 752 tons, and the City of Augusta with 877 tons; the Golden Gate with 500 barrels of lime, and the George B. Ferguson with 1600 bbls. cement, all to J. Albert Walker.

The schooner Frank Harrington, with 913 tons of coal to E. F. Sise & Co., arrived at this port from Baltimore on the 6th inst. She discharges her cargo at the Concord railroad wharf.

The schooner John B. Harlem, Jr., with 900 tons coal for the navy yard, arrived from Philadelphia on the 6th inst.

Hon. John S. Treat's sign at his marble works, corner of Vaughan and Deer streets, was taken down on the 7th inst. by the sheriff. He took it down to paint it.

At the hearing before Judge Smith, on the question of continuing an injunction or dissolving it before the end of the week, at Newmarket on Wednesday, the 7th inst., an amicable arrangement between the counsel for the town and the Manufacturing Co. was reached, and peace now reigns on the Lamprey river.

That "Indian War."

The commissioner of Indian affairs, Mr. Atkins, is full of indignation over the treatment of his wards in Colorado. He has no hesitation in denouncing the attack upon Colorow as an outrage. "The whole matter," he said in talking of it to a correspondent, "is this: Some lawless men wanted to get possession of the cattle and sheep and horses which these peaceful Indians were raising there, and they worked up this trouble and gobbled up their stock. Colorow, poor old ignorant fellow that he is, didn't want to leave the reservation where he had been so long, and refused to be transferred to Utah. All this talk of his hostility or desire to go on the warpath is a fraud."

The murderous Gen. Reardon, commanding the Colorado state troops, told Gen. Crook that the militia had killed more Indians in three days than Crook had in his whole Arizona campaign with the United States government at his back, and if he (Crook) had kept away five days longer Colorado would never have been bothered again by the Utes.

A Pickwickian Declaration.

The declaration of the Iowa democratic platform that "Federal officers no longer neglect the duties of their offices for the manipulation of party politics" reads rather funnily when illuminated by the attendance of forty federal officers at the Pennsylvania democratic convention recently, following the raid of Higgins, Rusin and a score of other federal officials on the democratic primaries of Baltimore.

GREEN APPLE — SANFORD'S GINGER

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and by its use prevent and never failing cure for the incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Cloves, Cinnamon, and French Brandy, combined, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is a cure for cholera morbus, complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all warm drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, typhoid, malignant and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "ginger" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for

Don't Laugh at Nervous People.

Their sufferings are very real, although you, with your vigorous physique and strong nerves, can scarcely believe it. Rather suggest the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which, in removing every trace of dyspepsia, and regulating the liver and bowels, strikes at and extirpates the most prolific cause of chronic nervous trouble. That nerve-shattering disease, fever and ague, is among the formidable ailments, to the removal of which this genial remedy is specially adopted. Nervous prostration, resulting from prolonged mental or physical effort, is also a state of the system where the intervention of this tonic is very desirable, more particularly as its use is to quiet and relax the tension of overwrought nerves. The Bitters are invaluable in rheumatism, neuralgia and kidney troubles. Employ no substitute for it.

John F. Andrew declines to be the democratic party's candidate for governor of Massachusetts. It wouldn't hurt him to be; he need not fear an election.

For Six Cents

We will send you Dr. Kaufmann's great Medical Work; 100 pages, colored plates from life. The most valuable adviser ever published. To any address on receipt of three 2-cent stamps to pay postage. Address A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass.

Libel suits against the Herald, Globe, Journal and Advertiser of Boston have been filed in the sum of $50,000 each, in the office of the county clerk in East Cambridge, Mass., by Edward Lewis and Mary Colcaro of Malden.

We recommend Carter's Iron Pills to every woman who is weak, nervous and discouraged; particularly those who have thin, pale lips, cold hands and feet, and who are without strength or ambition. These are the cases for which Carter's Iron Pills are specially prepared, and this class cannot use them without benefit. Valuable for men also. In metal boxes, at fifty cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. See advertisement elsewhere.

The roads in the mountain district were badly washed by the storm of the 7th inst.

That tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

At Utica, N. Y., Sept. 7th, Amos Gormell was picked up by the wind, thrown twenty-five feet against a barrel, and instantly killed.

I have been a periodical sufferer from hay fever (a most annoying and loathsome affliction,) since the summer of 1879, and until I used Ely's Cream Balm was never able to find any relief until cold weather. I can truthfully say that Cream Balm cured me. I regard it as of great value and would not be without it during the hay fever season.—L. M. Georgia, Binghampton, N. Y.

I was afflicted with hay fever for seven years—Ely's Cream Balm cured me entirely.—H. D. Callihan, I. & St. L. R. R., Terre Haute, Ind.

Best for hog cholera is St. Jacobs Oil.—E. M. Robinson, Cherry Camp, W. Va.

The prohibitionists of Massachusetts have nominated William H. Earle of Worcester for governor, and John Blackmer of Springfield for lieutenant governor.

Ex-Gov. William Aiken of South Carolina, the most extensive slave-owner in the state before the war, and a very wealthy man, died on Sept. 7th. He was a representative in Congress from 1851 to 1857, and once came within one vote of being elected speaker. He took no part in the secession treason.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. mon,wed,sat.6

THE NEW SOUTH.

The train that rushed out of the wide-winding suburbs of Washington down into Virginia, in the dawn of a cold February morning, was filled with northerners going to New Orleans. They had, oddly enough, the alert, expectant air of explorers into an unknown country. The men looked out on the sleepy streets of Alexandria with as critical eyes as if it had been its namesake in Egypt, and the women buttoned their tight ulsters more closely, and slung their alligator sachels to their sides in readiness for any emergency.

They were intelligent people of the class who have leisure; they were familiar with the upper range of states; many of them ran over to Europe or to California every summer. But the three-cornered segment of their country, which had a climate, history, and character of its own, was foreign to them as Arabia Felix.

"I was in the south thirty years ago," said one fidgety old gentleman. "Visited a college found in eastern Virginia. Queer life! Great scrambling house in a large plantation, crowded with guests; leaky roof, magnificent old family plate, patched carpets, negroes swarming everywhere. Saddled horses hitched always by the door in case you wanted to cross a field. Old families, each with its coat of arms and pride of birth. The most generous, unmethodical, kindly people in the world."

The old gentleman in his enthusiasm took off his silk traveling-cap, letting the cold wind blow over his bald head, with its fringe of gray hair. His wife—a pudgy, prim little woman—replaced it with: "You forget, my dear!"

"Yes, yes, I forget that I'm a broken-down old invalid when I think of those days. It makes me a lad again to get into the south," turning to his listening neighbors. "I've been pastor of a church in western New York for forty years, you see. Never took a holiday. Some chronic trouble set in last fall, and the doctors said—Europe. My people raised the money at once. But I said, I'll go south and rest. No Europe for me. Why, gentlemen, in all the drive and struggle of these forty years, the remembrance of the leisure and quiet, the laziness, if you like, of the south has come before me like a glimpse of the isles of the blest. Life there is not all moneygetting. They take it as they go."

His companions listened to the eager talk of the garrulous old fellow with assenting nods and smiles, he being one of those people to whom the world in all its humor says yes and smiles. But they did not all agree with him. Having the usual large, careless good humor of the American, they had no lingering grudge or bitterness against the south because of the war. But it was alien to them, as it had always been; they were men whose occupations and thoughts ran in fixed and narrow ruts, and like the great mass of average northerners they knew of the south only through long-ago recollections or hearsay traditions. It was in their minds a vague tropical stretch of sugar and cotton and rice fields, peopled by indolent, arrogant men and haughty, languid women their feet still firmly set on the necks of the negro race.

The names of the stations, too, began to recall the fact that they were in a once hostile country, and among a people who had been their foe. As the conductor shouted "Fairfax," "Manasses," "Culpeper," they looked out eagerly at the snow-covered fields and the unpainted wooden stationhouses which replaced the brick Queen Anne villas affected by northern railways, expecting to find something novel and foreign.

A pursy young man from Chicago was superciliously calling attention to the worm fences, the lean fields, the forlorn houses, etc. as:

"Wretchedly poor, sir. Now, there is really no excuse for such poverty. Even grant that the state was laid waste by the war. All that was twenty years ago. Twenty years is enough for any man to get upon his legs again."

"It is all due to a lack of energy," decisively said a close-shaven, trim little iron-master from Pennsylvania. "We all know the south. Some of the best books in American literature are descriptions of these people. Did you ever read 'Uncle Tom's Cabin, or 'A Fool's Errand?' They show you that a more indolent, incapable, pig-headed race never breathed. The men spend their time in idling, dueling, and drinking. The women are merely lovely, helpless babies."

Mr. Ely, the old clergyman, with an indignant snort, girded himself to make battle; but at that moment the train stopped in the suburbs of Charlotteville. Steep streets ran up into the picturesque town, back of whose peaked roofs rose the snowy hills. A crowd of students from the university filled the platform. An elderly man, after much hand-shaking with them, entered the car.

"Hello!" said Mr. Ely; "surely I know that face, Sarah? Except for the bald head ——" He bristled up. "I beg pardon. It is a long time ago. But are you not Woolaston Pogue! I am James Ely. Don't you remember? I visited the Meddills in Accomac in '55, and you——"

"Bless my soul! Of course I remember. Why, my dear sir, I am glad to see you back in Virginia. And how has the world used you in all these years?"

"Well, well, roughly enough," said Ely, with a sigh. He had, in fact, a comfortable home, and until lately sound health, yet as the two men sat side by side, it was the anxious, lean northerner, who most looked the victim of a destructive war. The Virginian was a stout, ruddy, overgrown boy. Prosperity apparently oozed out of every pore, from the red fringe of hair about his shining pate to his beaming spectacled eyes, and the gurgling laugh of pure enjoyment that bubbled out every minute.

"Changes?" he said, rubbing his knees meditatively, as Ely plied him with questions. "Oh, great changes! Necessarily. The houses in which you visited have all passed from the old families—except the Grange. That is a place of summer resort, kept by Mrs. Leigh."

"Not that lovely Anna Page who married Joe Page?"

"The very same. Beautiful as a dream, wasn't she? But she is making money fast keeping boarders. The house was torn out by the Yan—by one of the armies. After the surrender that woman put up partitions, hung doors, glazed windows, papered, painted, with her own hands. She's equal to a whole troop of mechanics."

"And John Medill?"

"Killed at Manassas. His son lost a leg, and was invalided for life. His daughters carry on the plantation. Virginia is in the saddle every morning before dawn. She herself plowed and dug until she was able to hire hands. She had the banner crop of tobacco in that county last year."

Mr. Ely made a chuckling sound of amazement and dismay.

"And what became of the Allaires?"

"They lost everything? The boys as they grew up went to work—Fred in an iron-mill in Richmond, and St. Claire as brakeman on this road. They have both risen steadily."

"No lack of energy there!" said the old clergyman, with a sharp glance toward the scoffing iron man.

"I hope the trouble did not injure you, Mr. Pogue?" he said.

"Major Pogue," quietly amended the Virginian. "I had that rank in our army. Yes"—nodding good-humoredly—"I was left without a dollar. Fortune of war, eh? But I was young, and could accept the situation. It went harder with the old men. Our southern women, I will say, were the first to stagger to their feet. In every household it was invariably the women who first faced the inevitable and tried to make the best of it. The old men have never quite recovered from the blow. Some of them even yet fancy that the old issues are still alive. But it is the men who were children in '65 that have their hands on the lever now; and they make no mistake about issues. Where their fathers dreamed of reopening the slave trade and of conquering Mexico and annexing Cuba, to form a great empire, they talk of new cottonfigins, and Bessemer-steel works, and coal mines, and a thousand other ways of developing our resources. It is the young men who are the new south. I fancy you northern people know very little about the new south."

"Very little indeed," replied Mr. Ely, smiling uneasily. "In fact, I did not know, until five months ago, that there was such a nation."

"You will see"—laughing significantly.—Rebecca Harding Davis, in Harper's Magazine.

A Paradoxical Authoress.

Miss Mary Murfree is a perpetual surprise. Everybody has grown accustomed to the fact that Charles Egbert Craddock is a woman, but nobody who met the fragile, pale-faced lame girl during her recent flying visit to New York found it easily possible to understand how such a quiet little creature who was obliged to sit to receive her guests could have obtained such a mountaineer's familiarity with the rocks and the trees of the Tennessee crags, or have drawn such bold and masterly sketches of the rough characters who live among them. She writes like an active fearless man accustomed to every phase of a wild, out-of-door life. She looks like the most delicate of fireside-bred women. She is small, with big eyes that look bigger when a crowd has been lionizing her till she is pathetically tired, and dark-haired. She does not look like an invalid precisely, but is evidently far from strong. She is very simple, natural and straightforward in conversation, modest to a degree in spite of an amount of adulation that might have turned any woman's head. Any reference to the long mystification about her identity calls out a rougish smile, and they say that when Aldrich was made speechless with amazement on his first presentation to her, she merely said: "You know I owed you one for Marjorie Dow." Her present home is in St. Louis and she will spend the summer there busy with new literary plans.

Easily Explained.

"Your story does not hold together. You say that they were cast upon a desert island, with nothing but what they stood in, and yet you say that they went to work immediately and built houses and tilled the land and slew wild goats, dressed their skins, and made themselves shoes and clothing."

"Ah! but you see there was a woman in the party with a handful of hairpins and she taught her fellow-castaways how to use them."

"O, well! why didn't you tell me that in the first place?"—Boston Transcript.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. We know of no remedy for dyspepsia more successful than Hood's Sarsaparilla. It acts gently, yet surely and efficiently, tones the stomach and other organs, removes the faint feeling, creates a good appetite, cures headache, and refreshes the burdened mind. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial. It will do you good.

The continued heavy failures in New England and the condition of the money market render the present time one of unusual anxiety to the business community. It is to be hoped, however, that a little patience and consideration will permit the healthy condition of the country at large to recover from the effects of a temporary chill.

Regulation Needed.

The inevitable result of over-fishing in the salmon streams of the Pacific slope is already beginning to appear. The yield of fish is falling off. Nothing less could have been expected from the wholesale system of canning which has been put in operation along the Columbia and other rivers, a system which if allowed to continue unrestrained bids fair to be as disastrous to the western salmon fisheries as steam seiners, weirs, across-stream nets and other destructive agencies have been to other fisheries in eastern waters. The diminished yield reported is a timely warning that should be heeded. The resources of the salmon streams of the Pacific coast, though large, are not unlimited, and some check should be put to the greed of the canners, before those streams are made as bare of salmon as our eastern rivers, which once swarmed with these fish, now are. Congress is competent to make regulations so far as relates to Alaska and Washington territory, while so far as Oregon is concerned the state government ought to co-operate with Congress in the work of protecting the most valuable fresh water fisheries in the world.

ELIOT ITEMS.

ELIOT, ME., Sept. 8th.

The summer "season" is past, and it has been an exceedingly pleasant one for those who have passed it on the Eliot banks of the Piscataqua river; the pleasure expressed and evidently experienced by the many sojourners here this summer is a guaranty that those of our residents who open their houses another season will be generously patronized.

Charles F. Wherren and two of his chums, Engineer Carey and Postmaster Clapp of East Deerfield, Mass., arrived in town on Saturday, the 4th inst., having ridden a distance of about 200 miles on their bicycles. They are "camping" in the house of Mr. Wherren's father at Bolt hill, and intend to remain two or three weeks. On their trip here they wore wide-rimmed hats, and were termed "cow-boys" by the irreverent who saw them on the way.

Mr. J. Howard Paul left town on the 6th inst. for Boston, where he is to be engaged in a wholesale oyster house.

Mr. Charles B. Remick, after luxuriating in a brief period of sickness, on the 7th returned to his duties as brakeman on the Boston & Maine railroad.

Miss Mary K. Paul arrived home on the 5th inst. from Haverhill, Mass., where she has been assisting in the family of her sister on account of sickness.

John Dillingham and friends, Mrs. J. E. Staples and Mrs. Sloan, wife of Dr. E. L. Sloan, returned to Boston on the 6th from passing their summer vacation here.

Mr. E. H. Dixon is to commence the school in district seven, Eliot neck, on Monday, Sept. 12th. Mr. Dixon has been employed during the summer in the drug store of Capt. Jos. H. Thacher in Portsmouth.

Messrs. F. J. Paul, George P. Paul and William Willey are contemplating a trip to Florida about the first of November, to spend the winter. Mr. Willey has been there several times, but the Messrs. Paul will try it for the first time. F. J. Paul is going for his health, and we hope may be greatly benefitted. HARRY.

ELECTRICITY.

There was a magnificent display of lightning effects on Wednesdny evening of this week, from seven o'clock until nine, though there was but little thunder, and that distant. The celestial electric light was so much ahead of the artificial article that a considerable number of the Portsmouth street lights became discouraged, and gave up business at an early hour in the evening. There were heavy thunder showers in New York state, Massachusetts and the interior of New Hampshire, Wednesday afternoon and evening; at Laconia two men were knocked off a high staging by lightning, but were not killed.

At Rowley, Mass., during the thunder shower of Wednesday evening, 7th inst., John P. Saunders was killed by lightning, and a man in the room with him was made insensible for two hours. The Waterspout Mountain house at Bethel, Me., was burned by lightning on the same evening. Three large barns were burned in Lewiston, Me., and two barns owned by Silas W. Dana of Newbury, this state, were burned by lightning, with their contents.

"HIS KNIBBS" AGAIN.

Mayor Hodgdon and City Solicitor Emery of this city, Mayor Robertson and City Solicitor Sargent of Concord, Mayor Tolles and City Solicitor Hoitt of Nashua, Mayor Lowell and City Solicitor Pike of Dover, and Mayor Hosley of Manchester, had a meeting in Manchester on the 6th inst. to discuss and take informal action on the latest Knibbs valve suits that have been brought against the municipalities that they represent. It was resolved to make a test case of one of the five brought against the several cities, and in order to do this they will pool their issues and make a united fight against the claimants. Judge Wm. L. Foster of Concord, who acted as counsel for the cities in the previous fight, which they conducted as they have determined to do this, has been retained, and as he knows all about the matter is perfectly well qualified for the position. At the conclusion of the conference the party dined at the Manchester house, and then departed for their homes. The cases come up for trial at the next term of the United States circuit court at Concord, commencing Oct. 8th. We are pleased at the decision to fight these cases, believing that it will be the cheapest plan in the end, as it is certainly the most manly way from the start.

Col. Sise fire engine, No. 2, has been sent to Manchester for repairs.

The steamer Minnehoa, of Newburyport, arrived at this port on the afternoon of the 8th inst. with a small party of excursionists, and after a brief stop started on her return.

The Jones and Walker schools of this city are full to overflowing, made so it is said by the admission of pupils from Kittery, occasioned by the removal of the high school of that town from the Foreside to the Point.

The business portion of Newburg, Ont., was burned Sept. 7th, including thirty residences, several stores and a factory.

The French fishing schooner Cordelia, of St. Pierre, Miquelon, was capsized in the recent great gale on the Grand bank, and her crew of sixteen men drowned.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unrivalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

TEMPLARS' VISITATION.

On Thursday morning De Witt Clinton Commandery, in full regalia and headed by the splendid band of the 8th Reg't Massachusetts Militia, Ralph Reinewald of Salem leader, about half-past nine o'clock marched to the junction of Middle street and Miller avenue, and there received the visiting Sir Knights, who had been brought up from the Wentworth in barges; there were about seventy members of De Witt Clinton Commandery in line, and the display made was a very handsome one. The Providence Sir Knights had on over their regular regalia a white cape with a red cross, the cross being worn over the left shoulder; this is the "Palmer's cape," indicating that the wearer is on a pilgrimage—possibly one of penance, with dried peas in his shoes, etc.; but they did not seem very sorrowful, and from the way they stepped off we should judge that if they had any peas in their shoes, they were boiled ones. A march was made through Middle, Cabot, Islington, Congress and Market streets to Appledore wharf, where the entire party embarked on board the steamer Oceanic, Sir Knight Robinson captain and Sir Knight Guertin engineer, and at once proceeded to the Shoals, where a banquet was served at the Appledore house. The company arrived back in season for the Providence commandery to take the evening train over the Concord & Portsmouth road for Manchester, where they were to remain over night as guests of Trinity commandery of that city. The display on the streets during the brief parade of the Sir Knights was a very fine one, and it is a good while since our citizens heard so much excellent music in one day.

On returning from the steamboat landing to the railroad station the commanderies and bands consolidated; the music by the fifty musicians, on passing over the Parade, was very fine.

De Witt Clinton commandery, on their return from the station to their armory, halted near the former residence of their late commander, Sir Knight Tanton, while the band played an appropriate selection.

PORTSMOUTH VESSEL BLOWN UP AND BURNED.

The old schooner War Eagle came to a tragic end on Wednesday of this week, finishing her career in a blaze of destruction. She registered 129 tons, and was built at Boothbay, Me., in 1858, but had for many years been owned at this port. For a number of years she lay idle at her anchors in the shoal water off Gerrish's island, near the mouth of Chauncy's creek, but last spring was purchased by Boston parties and Capt. H. L. Philpot of this city, and she was again placed in the coasting trade, Capt. Philpot commanding her.

On Tuesday, the 6th inst., the War Eagle arrived at Cunningham's wharf, Chelsea, Mass., with 1000 barrels of naptha for a refining company. Next day the work of unloading her was commenced about 9:30 o'clock, but hardly had a start been made when a terrible explosion took place, and the vessel was almost instantly in flames fore and aft, and from deck to trucks. Henry O'Donnell of East Boston was instantly killed, and the cook, James Moran, was terribly burned, and either fell or jumped overboard, and was drowned. John Busby, John English and James Dillon narrowly escaped drowning, and Capt. Philpot and the mate, Mr. Friend, were so badly burned that they were taken to the Marine hospital. Several persons on the wharf were injured by the explosion, and it is feared other lives were lost besides those already known. The vessel was valued at $2500, and uninsured; the cargo was valued at $5,000. Capt. Philpot was seen at the hospital by a reporter several hours after the fire, and gave the following account:

"We reached this port yesterday from New York with a load of oil. You might as well say, though, that it was naptha, for that is what it really was. There were 100 large iron tanks on the deck, and as the tide was low we left those until we could roll them upon the wharf. We took the hatches off and lowered the staging preparatory to hoisting out the casks. I was standing on the staging, and the mate, Charles Friend, was just stooping down to hook on a cask when the explosion occurred. The first thing I knew I was hurled into the air by a solid column of flame. I don't know how high I went, but it seemed as though I never would come down. Finally my hands touched something, and I hung on with all my might. I had caught the jib halliards, and slid down to the deck almost in the same spot whence I went. The flames were all about me. It was awful. I scrambled through the fire and reached a place where I could breathe. The mate, who had gone up at the same time I did, was blown out of the reach of the fire, and so he wasn't very badly burned. In coming down, though, he hurt his arm, and I'm afraid it's broken. I saw at once that there was no chance to save the ship, so I yelled out, 'Everybody save yourselves.' There were three other men on the boat besides us. The cook was in the cabin when I yelled, and he rushed up the forward companionway just as the other casks went off. A big cask struck him on the head and he never rose again. His name was James Marin, and I believe he lived in Stockton, Me. A deck hand named Joe Abyher was hit on the head by a piece of iron, but I think he got off with a slight wound on the cheek. At any rate, he was alive when I left the wharf. After the mate and I reached the wharf we tried to find a doctor, for then I became conscious that I was pretty badly burned."

The schooner was completely destroyed, as was also the wharf and an old refinery; and the old bridge connecting Noddle's island with Chelsea was so damaged that it will probably have to be entirely rebuilt. A large number of engines and several steamboats were employed in preventing the fire from extending. The total loss is placed at $15,000, with $8500 insurance.

"CHEEK."

Of "Cheek," which is to be played in Music hall to-morrow evening by Mr. Roland Reed, the New York Tribune says:

The comedy is very laughable, and its humorous element is relieved by the introduction of certain dramatic episodes. The character of Smythe is as original to the stage as Bardwell Slote or Sam'l of Posen, and Mr. Reed plays it with a rare sense of what constitutes genuine fun. Throughout the evening, while he was on the stage, the audience laughed continuously. Reed's songs made hits, and were loudly redemanded. The star has elaborated his performance greatly since we saw him last, and it is even more exhilarating and enjoyable than it then was.

Kennard M. Green of this city, a fisherman, picked up Monday, about nine miles southeast of the Shoals, a boy's jacket, in one of the pockets of which was a small watch. Mr. Green on arriving in this city, took the watch to a jeweler, who recognized it as the property of one of the late Commodore Johnson's sons who were in the sad drowning accident at Bra' Boat harbor. The watch is of course valueless now, having been in to salt water several days. It is thought to be the property of the elder Johnson boy, who at the time of the accident, and while in the water, took off much of his clothing in order that he might keep afloat better. The oldest of the Johnson boys was an expert swimmer, and besides being able to keep himself above water until assistance arrived, was trying hard to save his little brother, and as it was, had succeeded in getting some ways toward the shore, and then being obliged to see him drown just before him. —Times, 8th inst.

Representative Hazen, whose name has become so well known from its connection with one of the railroad bills now before the legislature, on the 8th inst. repudiated that bill, and announced that he should support the Atherton bill, which is favored by the Concord railroad.

Work was begun on Monday, the 5th inst., by Mr. Allen Warren, the contractor, on the new road from the end of the Dover and Eliot bridge to the main road to Portsmouth at the top of Furbish hill, Eliot. When completed this road will shorten the distance between Dover and portions of Eliot about three-quarters of a mile.

Five hundred doctors made a visit the other day to President Cleveland. The president, though supposed to be in good health, is suffering just now from severe attacks of the mugwumps.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for ills incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine. It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for

SANFORD'S GINGER,

The Delicious Summer Medicine.

Cassius M. Radford, East Concord, assignor of one-half to N. E. Martin of Concord, railway train-signal.

The eldest and last surviving daughter of an historic figure in the war of 1812 died at New Providence, N. J., on the 4th inst., in her 86th year. Mrs. Mary Miller Ropes was the daughter of Gen. James Miller, who led the bloody and successful charge against the British battery at Lundy's Lane in 1814, for which brilliant achievement Congress voted him a gold medal, and the state of New York presented him with a sword. When the rebellion broke out she sent all four of her sons, also her son-in-law, into the Union army; and her husband, then over sixty years old, proffered his services, which were declined. She survived her husband fourteen years, and is survived by three of her children. Her death occurred on the 59th anniversary of her wedding.

I suffered with rheumatism in the shoulder for months and the only thing I found that did me any good was Salvation Oil. It cured me and I recommend it to all sufferers with said disease.

Henry George predicts a vote of 195,000 for the Labor ticket in New York state.

Ugly and Hateful,

But I could't help it. Everything went wrong with me, and I thought I hadn't a friend in the world; dyspepsia caused this, and for months I couldn't eat anything, and just suffered in misery till I used Sulphur Bitters. Three bottles cured me.—D. Lewis, 22 Bowdoin street, Boston, Mass.

H. F. Williams, president of the First National bank of Northampton, Mass., is dead.

In many localities Hood's Sarsaparilla is in such general demand that it is the recognized family medicine. People write that "the whole neighborhood is taking it," etc. Particularly is this true of Lowell, Mass., where it is made, and where more of Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold than of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier. It is the great remedy for debility, scrofula, dyspepsia, billiousness, or any disease caused by impure state or low condition of the blood. Give it a trial.

It is alleged that Marsh T. Polk, who several years ago robbed the Tennessee state treasury of over $200,000, and was supposed to have died in prison, is alive in Mexico.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

President and Mrs. Cleveland received the members of the international medical congress with their wives and friends, at the White House on the 6th inst. It is estimated that not less than 5000 came to pay their respects.

To get relief from indigestion, billiousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, they will please you.

Mr. Porter, assistant secretary of state, has resigned, on account of unpleasant relations with Sec. Bayard.

Get rid of that tired feeling as quick as possible. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives strength, a good appetite, and health.

Many reports of damage by the wind and lightning during the showers of the 7th inst. are reported in New England and New York.

Hog cholera, which is so dreaded by farmers, can be cured by St. Jacobs Oil.

Don't Laugh at Nervous People.

Their sufferings are very real, although you, with your vigorous physique and strong nerves, can scarcely believe it. Rather suggest the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which, in removing every trace of dyspepsia, and regulating the liver and bowels, strikes at and extirpates the most prolific cause of chronic nervous trouble. That nerve-shattering disease, fever and ague, is among the formidable ailments, to the removal of which this genial remedy is specially adopted. Nervous prostration, resulting from prolonged mental or physical effort, is also a state of the system where the intervention of this tonic is very desirable, more particularly as its use is to quiet and relax the tension of overwrought nerves. The Bitters are invaluable in rheumatism, neuralgia and kidney troubles. Employ no substitute for it.

Rev. J. Noyes and wife have entered upon their respective duties as superintendent and matron at the New Hampshire Orphan's Home, preparatory to taking full charge, the first of October, of the affairs of that institution. The brick building, which has hitherto been unoccupied, will at once be put in thorough condition to be used according to the purpose for which it was erected.

Chills and Fever Cured.

216 Seneca St., Buffalo, N. Y., December 14th 1885.—I was a great sufferer for many years with chills and fever, and tried remedies of all kinds, but found no relief until a friend of mine told me to buy a box of Brandreth's Pills and take them as directed. I used two boxes and believe that I am cured, as I have not been troubled with them for the past year. I cheerfully recommend them to all who suffer. G. W. MESSENGER.

Out on the Plains.

Room! Room to turn round in, to breathe and be free,
And grow to be giant—to sail as at sea
With the speed of the wind on a steed with his mane
To the wind—without pathway or route or a rein!
Room! Room to be free where the white-bordered sea
Blows a kiss to a brother as boundless as he;
And to east and to west, to the north and the sun,
Blue skies and brown grasses are wielded as one,
And the buffalo come like a cloud on the plain—
Pouring on like the tide of a storm-driven main;
And the lodge of the hunter to friend or to foe
Offers rest, and unquestioned you come or you go!

My plains of America! Seas of wild land!
From a land in the seas with a raiment of foam,
That has reached to a stranger the welcome of home,
I turn to you, lean to you, lift you my hand!
—Joaquin Miller.

STRUGGLE WITH PRIDE.

If I were single, and had your opportunities, in less than six months I should be Mrs. Chesney!"

And Mrs. Vane's musical laugh rang out as she watched the lovely face of her sister flushing and paling so painfully under her steady gaze.

"I wish you would not speak in that way, Clara. It is worse than heartless!" cried Rita passionately.

Clara Vane leaned further back on the luxurious cushion, entirely unmoved by her sister's indignation.

"My dear Rita, to succeed in this world you should do away with all heart, and——"

Rita rose to her feet. All the bright color had died out of her face.

"My life will be a failure, then, for I do not intend to adopt any such creed!"

And throwing the roses she had been arranging on the table, she left the room.

Once in her own room, she threw herself down beside the bed, passionsobs breaking from her lips.

"How can she be so cruel?" sobbed the poor girl.

And a feeling of bitter shame swept over her as she recalled all her sister's maneuvres to entrap the handsome young stranger.

Mrs. Vane was a thorough woman of the world. She had married her husband for his position and wealth, and she determined that her young sister, who lived with her, should follow in her footsteps.

But, alas! for her ambitious schemes. There was no one among all their acquaintance who suited her fastidious taste.

But one day Ralph Chesney returned from his travels. Then Mrs. Vane's organ, that stood for a heart, thrilled with satisfaction.

He was found at last!

A brilliant position and an immense fortune, a handsome person, polished manners, and a mind enriched by education and years of travel. The gods had been kind indeed! Mrs. Vane really envied her sister her good fortune.

Rita understood her sister's plans, and from the first she was unusually cold to Ralph.

She knew that nearly always a man simple and earnest is at the mercy of a clever designing woman; so all the attention Ralph bestowed on her she considered the result of her sister's scheming.

She declined all his invitations to drive or walk. If he asked for a dance, either her card was full or she was too weary to dance. In fact, she was coldly indifferent, and she nearly drove Mrs. Vane wild.

"What a fool that girl is!" she cried in a paroxysm of rage. "She must be blind not to see the man adores her."

However, she dared not interfere. Rita's manner prevented her touching the dangerous subject. She remembered their last interview.

Sometimes she wondered if Rita's indifference was not a bait to lure Ralph on, but she put the thought away from her with an impatient frown.

She knew her sister's sweet frank nature too well to believe she could be so deceptive.

And yet Rita felt that her life was one mass of concealment; for this man that she had vowed should be nothing to her had won her heart.

It was useless to deny it.

She tried to crush her love, but it would not be controlled at her bidding.

Then she longed to throw aside her haughty manner, and let him see her own winsome charming self.

Other men had loved her madly, why should not he?

Then pride would whisper:

"Remember how openly your sister courts him. Do not let him think it is with your consent."

This wavering frightened her, so she determined to crush her tormenting love with an iron hand; and her first step would be to go where she would not meet him.

When Mrs. Vane learned of Rita's intention to visit some friends in a distant city, she flew into a perfect passion.

"What is the use of all my planning?" she cried. "Are you mad, that you throw away this golden opportunity of winning the richest and the handsomest man in the city? There is the ball next week, too. What am I to say to Mrs. Wainwright? Really I do think——"

And Mrs. Vane, overcome with disappointment and vexation, did the best thing possible to win her own way—she burst into tears.

It was so unexpected, that poor Rita knew not what to do. To see her imperious and self-possessed sister in tears filled her with dismay.

"Oh, Clara!" she cried tremblingly, "if you wish it so much, I will not leave until after the ball."

"A few days will make little difference," she said wearily, as she went to her room after making her peace with her sister.

She passed the days in feverish excitement, playing the part she had set herself so well, that not even her sister dreamed of her love for Ralph.

The night of the ball came at last. When Rita entered the drawing-room, Mrs. Wainwright exclaimed, "Perfect!" and she could scarcely keep her eyes off her lovely guest; but there was a slight feeling of uneasiness in her heart as she noticed the dazzling brilliancy of the dark eyes and the brightened color on the lovely face.

For Rita the evening was a continued triumph, but for one thing—Ralph never came near her.

Several times she encountered his glance; and something in his earnest look moved her strangely.

There was a mad wild hope in her heart that he would ask her to dance.

Foolish Rita! She had been cold and indifferent, vouchsafing him neither word nor glance if she could avoid it; and now that he in his turn held aloof, she was miserable.

The lights and music jarred on her excited nerves, and she longed to be alone.

After several unsuccessful attempts, she finally escaped to the conservatory, unnoticed and unattended.

She had not been there many minutes when she was aroused by the sound of voices near her.

"What a foolish man!" Rita heard a strange voice say. "You have everything to make you happy, and yet you declare you are wretched."

"I have not the thing I most desire," answered a voice that made Rita shrink further behind the large plants that screened her.

Not for the world would she have Ralph Chesney find her there.

"And what is that?"

"The love of the woman I adore," said Ralph unsteadily.

"Old man, I am sorry for you—I did not know. Is it"—hesitatingly—"is it Rita Campbell?"

"Yes," admitted Ralph slowly; and they moved on.

Rita was too stunned to move, even when their voices had died away.

A tremor shook her frame; the slow tears gathered beneath her lashes and began to fall one by one.

"Does he love me?" she cried, trying to believe in her happiness.

And so absorbed was she that she did not hear the sound of approaching footsteps.

A startled exclamation roused her, and looking up, she found Ralph standing beside her.

They were both terribly agitated, but after a moment's silence, Ralph said very gently:

"Miss Campbell, you have learned in the last few minutes what I intended you should never know. I have always laughed at the idea of love at first sight, but the first time I saw you my heart went from me. How my love grew as the days went by it would be impossible to tell you, but the hope of my life was to call you my wife."

He paused for a moment, perhaps to steady his voice.

"But the more I showed my love, the colder you grew, and you will never know the agony I endured when I found your heart shut against me; but I determined not to pain you with an avowal of my love, and I should have held to my resolve if accident had not revealed my secret to you."

Not one word crossed the beautiful lips when he finished.

Fearing he had annoyed her beyond all forgiveness, Ralph started away; but, as though she divined his thoughts, Rita rose to her feet.

As she raised her eyes to his face, something in their lovely depths gave Ralph a touch of rapture he had never known before.

"Rita," he cried in a low impassioned tone, "can it be true that you love me—at last?"

She made no verbal answer, but turned to him a face full of happiness and content. In another moment she was in his arms.

"Rita," bending his face to hers, "say—'I love you.'"

"I love you!" she whispered back.

"My own, my wife!" he answered, with his lips to hers.

A moment later he knew, with a thrill of rapture, his kiss had been returned.

A Chilian Act of Vengeance.

One of the most abominable acts of criminal vengeance conceivable by a human being has recently been perpetrated in Chili. This monster lived in Los Andes, Chili; and in the neighborhood of him there resided a family, the members of which he hated. When small-pox appeared in the province he secretly obtained a number of dried pustules, and these he placed inside a plug of tobacco, which he threw away in a place where the people he hated were sure to see it. One of the children picked up the tobacco and gave it to her parents, who made cigarettes from it and smoked them. A very few days afterwards small pox broke out in the house, and with such virulence that no one of the family escaped. The criminal, however, was attacked with the disease, and died after confessing his crime.—Panama Star.

Small boy (outside of base-ball grounds)—"How many's on de groun's, Jimmy?" Jimmy (cooling his eye at a knot-hole)—"Bout four tousand." Small boy—"Cops an' all?" Jimmy—"No, includin' cops 'bout fi' tousand."—New York Sun.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors.

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Way, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that they have permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our country. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body and I was a mass of corrupulcers. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not walk in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS WILL TELL.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an enemy clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your lightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and hear of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to eject the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with full directions. Price, $1.00.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. We know of no remedy for dyspepsia more successful than Hood's Sarsaparilla. It acts gently, yet surely and efficiently, tones the stomach and other organs, removes the faint feeling, creates a good appetite, cures headache, and refreshes the burdened mind. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial. It will do you good.

Quite Too Much.

The London Times asks whether it is too much to expect that the American senate should in some way signify beforehand its willingness to be bound by the decisions of the fisheries commission?

Considering the fact that the American senate voted almost unanimously against such a commission, and that the appointment of such a commission is Bayard's pet scheme, in opposition to the expressed will of both houses of Congress, we should say it was quite too much to expect the American senate to do any such thing.

"Joe's Luck," by Horatio Alger, Jr. No. 1 of the "Boys' Home Library." Paper, 12mo; price twenty-five cents. Published by A. L. Burt, 162 William Street, New York.

To write successful stories for the young is a difficult matter, but Horatio Alger, Jr., has succeeded as well perhaps as any living author. Two generations of boys have been delighted with his books. His popularity is due to the thoroughly healthy and sound moral tone of his stories without lessening their exciting and adventuress interest. They are "safe" books to be placed in a boy's hands, and parents realizing this provide his stories for their children without hesitation. "Joe's Luck" is the first of the "Boys' Home Library," a series which is to include boys' books of the highest grade at a low price. For sale at Goodrich's.

An Enterprising Railroad.

The Daily World, of Omaha, Neb., tells the following:

Omaha Girl: "Now won't you please tell me what road you can recommend me for the eastern portion of my journey?"

Enterprising Ticket Agent: "I can conscientiously recommend the Maine Central. It is the most direct line and the quickest."

"The Maine Central! Is that one of these slow lines with old-fashioned passenger cars and ——"

"No, indeed. It's one of the most advanced roads in the country. All the conductors of the fast trains are equipped with linen and rubber bandages, court plaster, surgical instruments, liniments, and——"

"Horrors! I guess I'll stay at home." But she went just the same.

An Agricultural Wedding.

At the Lackawanna (Pa.) County Agricultural Society's fair this month will be some novel attractions On the afternoon of the second day a couple will be married in the judges' stand, right in sight of all the people on the grand stand. The happy couple will start out with a good supply of both useful and ornamental articles. One of the society's officers has bought a $20 dress pattern for the bride, and the citizens will give them a rousing send off in the shape of a $35 baby carriage, two barrels of flour, a parlor carpet, two dozen cabinet photographs, five bushels of potatoes, a $10 cradle, a $25 case of wine, a $7 silk umbrella, 1,000 feet of hemlock lumber, $5 worth of sheet music, an $8 mirror, two tons of coal, a $12 plow, an $18 range, shoes for bride and groom, a 20-pound bar of soap, one-half dozen bottles of wine, a $10 ring, a $15 picture picture, a toilet set worth $15, $10 worth of wedding cards and a $15 robe. All the daily newspapers in Scranton have volunteered to send the couple their journals for a year free, a dentist has offered to give them $15 worth of dental work at any time within five years, and a hardware firm will hand over $15 worth of cooking utensils as soon as the knot is tied.

—The editor of an art journal says the pronunciation of vase depends upon its price. One costing twenty-five cents he would call v-a-s-e; one costing $25 he would call v-a-h-z-e, while the Morgan peachblow should be called v-a-w-z-e.

—Two citizens were speaking of the small amount of lightning during the summer, when one asked of the other what he supposed was the reason. "Why," was the reply, "these ere electric lights is burning it all up, I suppose."

—Small boy (at church picnic): "I say, Johnny, where's them nice ham sandwiches your ma put for you? These ain't no good." Johnny (bitterly): "The superintendent an' the teachers is a-eatin' of em."

Caught By a Badger.

"Talking about badgers and their biting powers," said a California sportsman to a correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser, "I know of a case where one nearly killed a man, and in a mighty curious way. It was down in Texas. A young fellow was visiting a ranch there, and was in the habit of going hunting for several days at a time, sometimes running down to a town near by. So nothing was thought of it when he didn't show up for three days. Finally a telegram was brought him concerning some important business, and the ranchmen began to hunt him up. To their surprise they found that he had not been at the town, or even been heard of there. Parties were now organized and sent off in various directions where it was thought likely he would go. On the second day the party went into a little gulch and one of the men raised a cry and pointed ahead. There was the missing man lying flat on the ground, face down.

"They rushed up to him, but he couldn't speak, and when they tried to lift him they found his arm was fast in a burrow. Something had hold of him, and they were not long in finding out what. They went to work and dug down for about two feet, and came upon a big badger, lying, bracing back, with its teeth fastened tight through the boy's hand. It didn't take long to fill the animal with bullets and cut off its head. Even then they had to pry open its mouth with a bowie-knife before they could release him. They packed the boy home, and the next day he was able to speak. He was almost dead with thirst. The badger had held him for five days. Another day would have finished him.

"It seems that he had seen a little animal run into the hole, which he took for a young badger, and, dropping his rifle, he lay down and ran his arm in as far as he could and began to feel around for the young ones, when he was suddenly gripped. At first he pulled and hauled with all his power, and then he fainted away, and the arm began to swell so that he could not move, and any attempt to dig away the soil, baked hard, only made matters worse. So there he lay, gradually dying from hunger and thirst, every move making the ferocious animal renew its hold."

If all the instances like this could be collected they would make interesting reading. In the South Pacific a gigantic shell, the tridena gigas, is found, which weighs about 500 pounds, and men have been caught in it at low tide and held until drowned. At or near San Diego a Chinaman was caught by the hand by a huge abalone shell and drowned before he was discovered. Birds are often caught on oyster banks at low tide, and a fox was once seen caught by the tail.

The Pain From a Pugilist's Blow.

It has been said that the hurts suffered in pugilism are particularly severe, and that but few pains equal the pain resulting from a blow of the fist squarely and forcibly delivered upon the nose. An incident which goes to support this allegation is reported from Paris. A lion tamer in one of the Boulevard shows was set upon by a powerful and irritable old lion, whose cage he had entered according to habit in the course of an entertainment. The beast made his attack without warning or particular cause, and in an instant the man was upon his back between the lion's paws. The spectators screamed, thinking it was an end of the lion tamer, but, like a flash, he was upon his feet, and, striking out with his right in accurate pugilistic style, landed his fist upon the lion's nose, with a spat that was heard all over the place. The lion wheezed and sneezed and backed away, shaking his head and shutting his eyes as if dazed, while the man stepped quickly, but with dignity out of the cage. The blow was a good one, and if it had fallen upon a man would undoubtedly "knocked him out." Evidently it made the lion tingle from the spot where it was delivered to the tip of his tail.—Rochester Democrat.

"CHEEK."

This evening, at Music hall, there will be given a most amusing entertainment, "Cheek," by Roland Reed and competent support. Of this company the New York Herald says:

We like Roland Reed because he is not afraid to employ a favorable supporting company. It is too often the case that leading actors are so jealous of their reputation that they fear to risk it by association with people of comparative ability. Mr. Reed, on the contrary, secures the best talent obtainable, and assumes all the chances of being superceded in interest and prominence. If any of his assistants can "get to the front" the privilege is not withheld from them on account of professional envy. By this means he has surrounded himself with a company of positive merit, collectively and individually, and the entire cast is seen to the best advantage in "Cheek." The excellence of the secondary characters does not detract from Mr. Reed's conspicuous achievements in comedy roles, and his "Dick Smythe" remains one of his best efforts, being as well enjoyed last night as on the occasion of its former presentation in this city.

Tickets on sale at Goodrich's bookstore; see advertisement.

"ANNALS OF PORTSMOUTH."

Mr. William H. Saunders of Portsmouth, England, has presented to the Athenæum in this city, through Frank W. Hackett, Esq., a copy of the "Annals of Portsmouth,—historical, biographical and statistical," published in London. In the preface the author gives the origin of the name of Portsmouth as "Portus Magnus" or the "Great Port." Events which have occurred from 1545, when the French fleet came to Spithead, to 1805, are given; also an account of the seals of the city, banking houses, inns, list of mayors, etc., and much other interesting matter. The earliest newspaper printed in the town was the Portsmouth and Gosport Gazette, commenced Jan. 14, 1747, nine years before the New Hampshire Gazette in our Portsmouth. The Portsmouth Gas Co. was incorporated in 1821. St. Mary's church was built in 1839. Charles Dickens was born there in 1812. The town was burned by the French in 1336 and in 1377. The English fleet was blockaded there by the French in 1416. Edward III assembled there a fleet of 1600 ships, in 1346. The dock yard was established in the reign of King John. In 1650 the dock had no mast house, no dry docks, not over 100 shipwrights, and but one team of horses. The number of artisans and laborers now employed is 6000; fourteen miles of railway and fourteen locomotives are in constant use in the yard.

EVERY MAN TO HIS POST.

The city is engaged in setting a lot of posts on a lot opposite the residence of Alderman Wendell. The object is to protect the land around which the posts are being placed, from improper encroachments. As fast as a post is turned out the workmen, who have perhaps been taking lessons from the navy yard, put the post in place. Just how much the board of aldermen have appropriated for this commendable object we are not informed, as the vote authorizing the erection of these posts and designating the material therefor must have passed when our reporter's attention was called elsewhere. It makes a good job, however, for some one.

The attention of parents having children whom they wish to send to private school, is invited to the advertisement of Miss Rand, an experienced and successful teacher.

Landlord Grant, of the Sea Cottage at Long sands, York, was in town last Thursday on business, and reported considerable company still remaining at the sea-side resorts there. The Sea Cottage will remain open for visitors until the snow flies.

See advertisement for a primary school teacher wanted in one of our city schools.

The Dover canton of Patriarchs Militant will visit Canton Senter of this city on Thursday, Sept. 22d, and after a parade of the streets the two bodies will probably go to the Pocahontas hotel to spend the remainder of the day.

The hotel Wentworth, at Newcastle, is closed, the season just ended having been the most satisfactory one it has ever had. The Pocahontas, at Gerrish's island, and the Ocean Wave, at Rye beach, will keep open until the 20th inst.

The steamer Oceanic took out a very good company to the Shoals on Friday; the day was a very pleasant one on the water, and boating parties on the river were quite numerous.

The United States steamer Fortune, which arrived at the navy yard on the 9th inst., brought stores to the yard, and takes away certain freight for other naval stations. The Fortune proceeds to the Boston navy yard this morning.

A Portsmouth despatch to the Boston papers has the Alliance brought to this navy yard for repairs. This is a little previous. The ship is at present on the South Atlantic station, but it is not improbable that at the termination of her cruise she will come to this naval station for repairing.

There will be at least two more "excursion days" by the steamer Oceanic—Monday and Tuesday next; possibly more.

The 160-foot towboat B. W. Morse, for the Knickerbocker Towage company, was launched Sept. 7th from B. W. & H. F. Morse's yard at Bath, Me. It is the largest tug in the world. Has a Scotch compound engine, surface condenser. Her boilers are by the New England works, and are 1200 horse power. The boat is named in honor of the late president of the company, is of 200 tons, and is the tenth boat now owned by them. She will be used for towing coal, barges and for wrecking.

Schooner Niagara went down in Lake Michigan, Sept. 7th, and all hands perished. She carried ten men, all told, and is supposed to have had several lady passengers on board.

The sound steamer Pilgrim was disabled by the breaking of her cross-head on the trip from Fall River to New York, and was towed into New London, Conn.

Ladies will find a very complete line of new Ruchings, nearly a hundred different kinds, from the cheapest to the finest quality, at Lewis E. Staples' small ware department. Also Collars and Cuffs of latest styles.

—Wife (at breakfast): "I want to do some shopping to-day, dear, if the weather is favorable. What are the probabilities?" Husband (consulting his paper): "Rain, hail, thunder and lightning."

—"Will you please insert this obituary notice?" asked the old gentleman of the editor. "I make bold to ask it because the deceased had a great many friends here who'd be glad to hear of his death."

A despatch of the 8th inst. from Waterville, Me., says that on the evening after Frank McNeally and the funds of the bank disappeared from Saco, two young men hired a team at a livery stable in Waterville to go to Oakland, and failed to return. One of the two was a young fellow answering the description of McNeally; and the hostler who let the team, on being shown his photograph, at once recognized it as that of the man whom he let it to. The officers believe the pair were McNeally and a confederate, and that they drove to Canada, a distance of eighty-five miles from Waterville, perhaps exchanging teams on the way.

Large hauls of mackerel were taken off Eastern point, near Gloucester, on the night of the 8th inst., the steamer Novelty taking 400 barrels, and a number of schooners from 200 to 130 barrels each. The fish were very large.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a Sanford's Ginger in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for its incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in ginger.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "ginger" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for

In the Whole Hideous Catalogue

Of diseases, there were none which, previous to the discovery of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, offered more formidable resistance to the old fashioned modes of treatment than the group of maladies which, under the collective name of malarial disease, afflicted entire communities that suffered hopelessly. Chills and fever, dumb ague, ague cake and bilious remittent were once regarded as well night incurable. Now it rejoices the hearts of thousands who reside in places periodically subject to the visitation of malaria, to feel certain that in the Bitters they possess a certain defence against the scourge, a sure means of expelling its poison from the system. To the settler in the far west, the new emigrant thither, and to travellers and tourists by land and sea, the possession of this pleasant safeguard is guaranty of safety from diseases which they might vainly seek from any other source.

I used two boxes and believe that I am cured, as I have not been troubled with them for the past year. I cheerfully recommend them to all who suffer. G. W. MESSENGER.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1876 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all but the consciousness of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed a languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, sounding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrah. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

CARTER MEDICINE CO.,

New York City.

Danbury's Dummy.

For some time the prominent interest of the old Connecticut town, Danbury, has centered in a resident who is, from a physiological and psychological view, a wonder. His strangeness can only be accounted for in the light of a maternal ante natal experience, which seems to influence all his biological phenomena. John Tice, or "Dummy," as he is generally called, aged about 50, resides on Deerhill avenue, in the eastern part of Danbury. He is a farm hand, engaged most of the time in the service of Mrs. Ryder, who resides at Main and South streets, and owns a farm in the outskirts. "Dummy's" sobriquet indicates less than a half truth, for he converses readily enough with two persons, but is absolutely unable to talk to anyone else on earth. This statement necessitates a retrospect. "Dummy's" mother, according to undisputed testimony, was amazonian, inflexible, vindictive, unrelenting. Her animosities were as bitter as her friendships were enduring. Her husband was shiftless, indolent, and a poor provider, and bibulous, often arousing her wrath. About six months before "Dummy's" birth her husband committed an act so heinous in her eyes as fairly to stifle the accustomed torrent of vituperation. In her fury she could only sulk and mumble and grind her teeth. Finally her suppressed rage found vent in a single sentence:

"You brute! I'll never speak to you again to my dying day!"

Until after the birth of her child she nursed her wrath and kept her word. She spoke, indeed, to no one except to her mother, to her friend, Mrs. McCann, a young widow, and the latter's little daughter. The Nemesis that has pursued "Dummy" through life first manifested its presence in infancy. When alone with his mother, Mrs. McCann, or her daughter, Johnny was able without any more difficulty than other children of his age to frame words and unite them into sentences, but to everybody else the child was utterly unable to articulate. He was never able, try as he might, to speak a word to his father. As he could not recite anything he was not sent to school. He can not read or write. A party of roughs, some time ago, believing that he could, but would not converse, inveigled him to a secluded spot and threatened him with death if he did not speak to them and answer their questions. He could only plead in dumb show for his life. Then they beat and fearfully maltreated him, fully convinced at last that he was not shamming. After his mother's death he married one of the two remaining persons he could talk to, the Widow McCann. He lives with her at the present time, conversing readily with her and her daughter, now Mrs. Pudgley. A single incident will illustrate how he communicates with them.

A gentleman recently desired to buy one of his roosters, and he called upon "Dummy" and the latter's wife. He made his offer to them and inquired whether it was accepted.

"I'll take him one side and see what he says about it," she replied to the visitor. Then "Dummy" and his wife went out near an outhouse, beyond hearing, but the visitor could see "Dummy's" lips moving and the pair in evident conversation. Upon their return the woman accepted the offer in her husband's name. He can not converse with his wife in another's presence. His hearing and understanding are normal, and the two persons he can talk to say he manifests no difficulty in expressing himself to them clearly, not in enunciation. Mrs. Ryder, for whom he works, in common with all others who have had relations with him, pronounces him a good workman, faithful, intelligent, comprehending readily everything required of him, but doomed to general dumbness by an inexorable law antedating his birth. A physician who takes great interest in the case and has examined "Dummy's" throat, explains his physiological difficulties as follows:

"There is always nervous excitement attendant upon his efforts to speak before strangers. In ordinary speech the epiglottis is distended and the vibratory chords are expanded. In his case they do not respond to the will. A sort of paralysis exists. In the absence of nervous excitement they would act normally and speech would follow."

This is the pathological view, but it does not explain why speech is vouchsafed only when addressing those his mother favored just previous to his birth. It does not explain the prenatural phases, which puzzle physiologists and scientists alike, and are the wonder of townsmen and strangers.

Writing Society News.

The very ornate descriptions of one of the fashionable weddings of the past week which appeared in the columns of some of our usually prosaic contemporaries seems to justify the remark of the mistress of a Back bay mansion where a wedding was celebrated a few weeks ago. The reporter arrived on the scene after the wedding was over, but, nothing daunted, he asked the lady of the house to be kind enough to furnish him some of the details of the ceremony. "Well," said the lady, "the bride looked charming in white satin. Now, if you can't get up a beautiful description of the wedding with that information, you are not so smart as most reporters." The scribe fully justified the lady's expectations in the next morning's paper.—Boston Herald.

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOK.

By ABBEY & MUNGER.

By a happy thought, the above endearing name was given to a book containing the last compositions of Mr. A. J. Abbey, a good composer of refined taste, a child lover and successful teacher, who has recently passed away. This new collection of the sweetest of children's hymns and songs is likely to be received with great favor.

35 cts., $3.60 per dozen.

JEHOVAH'S PRAISE, L. O. EMERSON, is an entirely new and superior book for Choirs, Singing Classes and Conventions. A large and attractive collection of Sacred and Secular music for practice and Church Service, Anthems, and Hymn Tunes.

Price $1.00, $9.00 per dozen.

VOICES OF PRAISE, Rev. CHAS. L. HUTCHINS, occupies a high place in the esteem of those who need a collection of music of convenient size, not difficult and of moderate price, to use in religious meetings and in the Sunday school service. Everything is dignified and in good taste, yet there is spirit and brilliancy throughout. Please examine.

Price 40 cts., $4.20 per dozen.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. We know of no remedy for dyspepsia more successful than Hood's Sarsaparilla. It acts gently, yet surely and efficiently, tones the stomach and other organs, removes the faint feeling, creates a good appetite, cures headache, and refreshes the burdened mind. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial. It will do you good.

District Assembly 49, Knights of Labor, of New York, the same which ordered and directed, or mis-directed, the longshoreman's strike in that city and vicinity a year ago, has voted to extend moral and financial aid to the condemned anarchists in Chicago. Those fellows cannot make labor contemptible, but they are doing considerable toward making labor organizations so.

If the Sufferers from Consumption, Scrofula and general debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Pure God Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, the will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr. H. Railroad Consolidation.

It is stated that there is to be a business union between the New York & New Haven, the Boston & Albany and the New York & New England railroads. By straightening out the line of the Boston & Albany, and the use of some parts of the New York & New England line, the distance between Boston and New York can be accomplished in four hours and a half. If this rumor is true, then the preliminary work of our friend and former esteemed contemporary Mr. Wm. M. Thayer, in projecting an island air line between New York and Boston, will not have been performed in vain. There should be, if not as frequent, at least as rapid communication between New York and Boston as between New York and Philadelphia. Boston must outgrow the idea that all roads lead to Boston, and concede the fact that everything points toward New York. This being the case, Boston must supply a quick line to the commercial metropolis of the country, or be left behind other cities in its ability to reach it with its business as conveniently as her neighbors. With the Boston railway men, especially the Albany, whose head has for so long been in Springfield, there appears to be an oblivion of the fact that the travel east of the hub is as much interested in rapid transit to New York as are those who live nearer the centre of the business world. The improvements outlined by this rumored union of existing lines are colossal in their magnificence, and perhaps too excellent to prove true. Still, let us hope that the conservative railway interests so long in control of the highway between the two cities has been awakened to the proposition that if they do not supply the means of speedy carriage for the public, some other companies will be sure to do it ere long.

Life on the Ocean.

Captain Kavanagh, of a Nova Scotia schooner, reports that he suffered very serious damage in the gale of Sept. 3d. One of his crew who went aloft was blown from the crosstrees. The captain says he spoke the schooner Nellie Woodbury, of Boston, on Sept. 4th. She suffered terribly and was short handed, having lost six dories with six men in the gale of the 3d. The captain saw them go down before his eyes, but could do nothing to help them, as the sea was running mountains high; he cut his cable and endeavored to save the men, and did rescue one of the crew. Captain Kavanagh saw another schooner from Provincetown; he could not make out her name, but her bulwarks were gone and her decks swept, and the captain shouted that he had lost two men. He spoke several schooners, all of whom had the same tale of disaster to rigging, boats and hull, while some had the sadder tale to tell of men swamped in dories, blown from aloft, or swept off by seas.

The reports which continue to come in of the hurricane which prevailed in the West Indian waters on Aug. 20th, and travelled up along the Atlantic coast nearly parallel with the coast line, reaching the banks of Newfoundland on the 26th, show that it was one of the most violent and destructive storms of recent years. The schooner Restless, which arrived at Gloucester last week from Grand bank, had her decks swept on the 26th, losing six dories, anchor, and 200 fathoms of cable. The Alert on the way home passed the spars of a large square-rigged vessel, with sails and rigging attached.

Vessels report a second terrible gale on the banks, Sept. 3d. The schooner Chester R. Lawrence, of Gloucester, Capt. Cahoon, arrived at Canso, Nova Scotia, Sept. 9th, and reports the gales as the most disastrous of any for years. The captain says that during the first gale he had his decks swept, losing all his dories, gurry butts, cable, anchors and headgear. Capt. Nelson, of schooner Mabel Kennision, spoke to him after the gale, reporting decks swept, and losing five dories. He had boarded a wreck the day before, called the Ocean Pride, with men dead in the cabin, and one fast to a rope alongside. Capt. Cahoon saw spars butt up several times after the gale, apparently fast to sunken wrecks, and passed dories that had evidently lost their crews.

CORPORATION MEETINGS.

The annual meeting and dinner of the Newmarket Manufacturing company was held this year at the Rockingham house in this city, on Thursday of last week. The following officers were elected: Timothy M. Joy, clerk; J. Herbert Sawyer, treasurer; William D. Pickham, John D. W. Joy, Benj. W. Crowinshield, George Z. Silbee, Wm. G. Saltonstall, Samuel A. Haley, William Northey, directors.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Carolina Queen Consolidated Mining Co. was held at the Rockingham house in this city on Monday, Sept. 5th, and the following-named gentlemen were chosen directors for the ensuing year:

Dr. C. H. Starr, Dr. A. P. Lighthill, C. W. Wellington, G. W. Miller, N. B. Ingersoll and Thomas E. Smith, all of Boston.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors the board organized by electing Dr. C. H. Starr president, Dr. A. P. Lighhill vice president, C. W. Wellington treasurer, H. A. Tarlton of Portsmouth secretary, and G. W. Miller of Boston clerk to the board of directors.

There was a large crowd of lookers-on at the Creek railroad crossing on Sunday to witness the road construction gang of workmen place the new iron suspension bridge in position.

There are ten men at work at the kyanizing works of the Boston & Maine railroad at Noble's island. Timothy Cronin, while at work there last week, had his right hand pierced by a pick; the wound was dressed by Dr. Potter, and he is now recovering.

Deposit books on the Saco & Biddeford Savings Institution show that McNeally misappropriated small sums for several months before his departure with a big haul.

The Bar Harbor "vestibule train" over the Western division of the boston & Maine road made its last trip for this season on Saturday, Sept. 10th. It goes immediately into the service of the Pennsylvania railroad, and will be run between New York and Washington until next summer, when it will be again put on the route between Boston and Bar Harbor.

A South Berwick letter says: "The household furniture of H. P. Marston was sold at public auction on Tuesday, Sept. 6th. Mr. Marston and wife will board in future at Mrs. Levi Clark's; their house was sold several weeks ago to Mrs. Slater of Portsmouth."

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less.' I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

ATHLETIC CLUB ANNIVERSARY.

The second anniversary of the Portsmouth Athletic club was celebrated at the Wentworth, Newcastle, on Friday afternoon and evening of last week, by athletic games and a supper. The day was all that could be asked, and the attendance on the sports numbered over 600, of whom fully half were ladies. The athletic events resulted as follows:

Putting the shot, five entries, two prizes, cups; first, E. W. Trefethen, 27 ft.; second, J. Malloy, 26 ft. 6 in.

Running long jump, seven entries, one prize, a gold medal; winner, E. C. Nickerson, 16 ft. 4 in.; Thomas Flanagan, 16 ft. 2 1-2 in.

Sack race, four entries, one prize, cup; taken by W. G. Smart.

Hill-climbing bicycle race, four entries, two prizes, gold medals; first, Archie L. Jenness; second, Harry Boynton.

Running high jump, six entries, one prize, a medal; taken by C. E. Lear, 5 ft. 2 in.; Jenness 2d, with 5 ft. 1 in.

Throwing base ball, twelve entries, one prize, a medal; first, Thomas Flanagan, 343 feet; 2d, C. E. Lear, 339 feet.

Hundred-yards dash, nine entries, two prizes, cups; first, Thomas Flanagan, 8 3-4 seconds. W. J. Lear and W. G. Smart were tied for 2d prize, and on a second trial Smart won in nine seconds. [The time made in covering the distance was considered so remarkable that a remeasurement was made, and the actual distance found to be 206 feet.]

Tug-of-war, prize, a cup; won by team captained by W. G. Smart.

Three fast jumps, five entries, one prize, a medal; won by C. E. Lear, 32 ft. 2 in.; J. Malloy, 31 ft. 2 1-2 in.

The events reported were not concluded until too late for a game of base ball, which was intended to be had; and from six o'clock until ten, the time set for the supper, the members of the club and their invited guests amused themselves in various ways, largely in listening to the excellent music of Harlow's orchestra; then they sat down to a banquet of which the following is the menu:

Oysters on Deep Shell.
Boiled Penobscot Salmon, Hollandaise Sauce.
Mashed Potatoes Browned.
Cucumbers. Lettuce. Olives. Tomatoes.
Sirloin of Beef, Dish Gravy.
Spring Chicken, with Dressing.

After due attention had been paid to the excellent viands provided, remarks were made by President Hasty of the Athletic club, Mayor Hodgdon, Principal Pickard of the High school, Mr. Brewster of the Journal, Mr. Page of the Times, Dr. Sherburne, Col. Crowley and others; and barges were taken for home at about one o'clock Saturday morning.

MICHAEL STROGOFF.

Tickets are now for sale at Goodrich's bookstore for the great spectacular drama Michael Strogoff, to be presented in Music hall on Wednesday evening of this week. As one of the most engrossing spectacular pieces ever produced on the American stage, it is well known here; and as to the manner in which it is given by the Andrews' Minuet Carnival Co. the New York Herald says:

As brought out by the Andrews company it is both a majestic and massive representation. Its appointments are grand and picturesque in chromatic detail, and there is a peculiar fascination about the successive scenic accompaniments that defy imitation. It is an imposing spectacle of rude barbaric significance, attended with delicate coloring of Asiatic imagination and the surpassing richness of Mohammedan fancy. It is produced without any abatement of its original charms, and preserves all the fascination which characterized it throughout the varied romantic incidents of its scenic contrasts.

MARITIME NOTES.

Among the arrivals at this port on the 10th inst. were the steamer Lancaster, from Philadelphia with 1661 tons of coal; schooners H. P. Simmons with 945 tons, Charles A. Briggs with 1051 tons, A. H. Howe with 613 tons, and Jonathan Bourne with 1140 tons, all to J. Albert Walker.

The U. S. S. Constellation, third-rate, ten guns, Commander C. L. Huntington commanding, one of the old-style sailing ships, attached to the naval academy as a practice ship, sailed from Annapolis, Md., Sept. 1st, for this naval station, and arrived in the lower harbor on Saturday morning, the 10th. The navy department on the 2d inst. issued orders detaching Comdr. Huntington, Lieutenant J. M. Roper, Ensigns J. H. Glennon, H. M. P. Huse, F. J. Haeseler, S. Morgan and M. K. Eyre, and Passed Assistant Surgeon Richard Ashbridge, from the Constellation on her arrival at this station, and ordering them to duty at the naval academy. Also detaching Asst. Paymaster George W. Simpson, who is ordered to settle accounts and then wait orders. The ship comes to this yard for repairs.

Schooner yacht Belle, of Boston, arrived on Sunday, and anchored off the navy yard.

Sunday was a bright and beautiful day, though cool, and all the letting boats on the river were out. The boating season is nearing its close, and lovers of this exhilirating and healthful amusement are utilizing every opportunity for its enjoyment.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Leonard M. Laighton of New Haven, Conn., is passing a few days in town.

Mr. John G. Tompson of Newtonville, Mass., passed Sunday at Lincoln Hill cottage.

Hon. Frank Emerson of Farmington is making one of his periodical visits to this city, which is his favorite resort, and the place of his former residence. He has spent several days with his relative, Frank G. Sherburne, Esq., at the Plains, and is now the guest of his cousin, Hon. George E. Hodgdon.

"WHY I AM A THEIST."

The text in the Universalist church yesterday was: "The God that made the world, and all things therein, he being Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands, neither is he served at men's hands as though he needed anything, seeing that he himself giveth to all life, and breath, and all things, and he made of one every nation of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, having determined their appointed seasons and the bounds of their habitation, that they should seek God, if perhaps they might feel after him and find him." Acts 17th, 24-27.

Many articles have appeared of late in the North American Review, in which fluent writers have set forth their favorite ideas under a heading composed of the words "Why I am" followed by a name, which name the writer supposed himself entitled to by the claims advanced in said article. If there is anything in some of the writings beside the love of a name, why do they not make at least one claim which is the exclusive property of the writer? For instance one who writes "Why I am a ——," defends with great power and clearness a form of church government that the church or the individual churches of half a dozen other sects would not object to it in the least. Then he closes, and the reason why he chooses that name instead of one of the half-dozen others is not clear. The "Jew" is a Universalist. Nearly every one is silent as extreme modesty can make him upon the doctrine which the ordinary common-sense man would declare to be the one suggested by the caption.

This is carried to the very extreme by one who declares that he is a heathen because he hates the heathenism of America, and whose criticism of Christ is as false as the creed which he then uses, calling it the New Testament. He is better acquainted with the platitudes of a certain doctrine, than is the average heathen. And he who lately tells "Why I am not a heathen," and how he was convicted of his "lost estate," had better return to his evident original sense and goodness, than to embrace all the horror that is supposed to be in the creed of his converter. Such phrases as "lost estate," "enter heaven by repenting at the eleventh hour," "Slip into the heavenly Jerusalem," used in the sense that they are by him, are not significant of a very deep understanding of the Master. Christ did not tell a good Gentile of his "lost estate," but "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel." Jesus taught that the kingdom of Heaven is an inner moral growth, having nothing whatsoever to do with physical death, much less with those who wait on their own interest for a change; or who hope to "slip" into a state of goodness.

For these reasons, viz., the intuitive love of goodness that God has planted in the human soul everywhere, and at all times, for the growth of the historic Christ (who was like God as man can be) with the growth of the ever deepening mind of man, I am a Theist.

There was a large audience in Music hall on Saturday evening, when Roland Reed's company played "Cheek," and everybody enjoyed the entertainment. There is much fun in the piece, and the company brings it all out.

A team belonging to Mr. Zebulon Sanborn was on Saturday night driven into a trench on Cabot street, made by the Gas Co.'s workmen; no damage resulted except the breaking of the shafts. The cut it is said was properly lighted.

Henry Peyret, a native of Marseilles, France, who formerly kept a wine saloon on Congress street, this city, died in Manchester on Saturday evening last of rheumatism of the heart, at the age of seventy-four years.

Mr. Hannibal A. Williams of New York, an eminent Shakespearean reader, will on Saturday evening recite the great historical tragedy Julius Caesar before a select audience in the recitation room of Miss Morgan's young ladies' seminary. Admission is by invitation only.

The Boston Herald of Sunday last says the Wentworth, at Newcastle, is to be enlarged.

Coercion vs. Home Rule.

Editor William O'Brien, of the United Ireland, of Dublin, having disregarded a summons served on him to appear at court under the Irish crimes act, Sept. 9th, a warrant was issued for his arrest. This caused a great sensation, and an open-air indignation meeting was held, at which several speakers denounced the government in strong terms. The meeting was attended by 7000 persons. Messrs. Dillon, Brunner, Labouchere, John Ellis, Gill, Condon and O'Bea were present. A government reporter, with an escort of police, tried to push to the front. The crowd resisted them with sticks and stones. The police then made a charge against the crowd, and were repulsed by men on horseback. Mr. Condon tried to pacify the crowd. Mr. Dillon advised them to treat the police with silent contempt, because home rule was nearly won, and then the Irish forces would be under the control of the people instead of as now, in the hands of their enemies. The row was renewed, however, and reinforcements of police fired their rifles into the crowd. One man was killed and several others were wounded. One of the wounded soon died. The police then charged and dispersed the crowd.

"Let dogs delight to bark," etc., but when a cultured and "early englished" and well-dressed dude takes to it, it is then he needs a friend to lend him a quarter to buy a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Only one National League game was played Sept. 9th, and that one put Philadelphia into third place and New York down to fourth, Philadelphia beating Washington, 10 to 3. Other games were prevented by rain. The Bostons played an exhibition game at New Bedford with a picked nine, and won it, 8 to 2. The New Yorks played a game at Lowell with the Lowell club, of the New England League, and were beaten, 6 to 3.

National League games, Sept. 10th: Boston 5, New York 2; Detroit 14, Pittsburg 6; Detroit 14, Pittsburg 3; Philadelphia 17, Washington 3; Chicago 8, Indianapolis 5.

Ugly and Hateful,

But I could't help it. Everything went wrong with me, and I thought I hadn't a friend in the world; dyspepsia caused this, and for months I couldn't eat anything, and just suffered in misery till I used Sulphur Bitters. Three bottles cured me.—D. Lewis, 22 Bowdoin street, Boston, Mass.

The Pennsylvania brewers have formed an association to raise money to contest in the Supreme court of the United States the suit sent from Kansas as to seizures; to defeat the republicans in their efforts to aid prohibition; and also to pay the expenses of running a prohibition party if it can be used to aid the democracy in future elections.

In many localities Hood's Sarsaparilla is in such general demand that it is the recognized family medicine. People write that "the whole neighborhood is taking it," etc. Particularly is this true of Lowell, Mass., where it is made, and where more of Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold than of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier. It is the great remedy for debility, scrofula, dyspepsia, billiousness, or any disease caused by impure state or low condition of the blood. Give it a trial.

In the Whole Hideous Catalogue

Of diseases, there were none which, previous to the discovery of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, offered more formidable resistance to the old fashioned modes of treatment than the group of maladies which, under the collective name of malarial disease, afflicted entire communities that suffered hopelessly. Chills and fever, dumb ague, ague cake and bilious remittent were once regarded as well nigh incurable. Now it rejoices the hearts of thousands who reside in places periodically subject to the visitation of malaria, to feel certain that in the Bitters they possess a certain defence against the scourge, a sure means of expelling its poison from the system. To the settler in the far west, the new emigrant thither, and to travellers and tourists by land and sea, the possession of this pleasant safeguard is guaranty of safety from diseases which they might vainly seek from any other source.

OUT WITH THE TIDE.

"Wall, I guess the Lord has about concluded to give Randy her freedom."

This remark was made by Mrs. Yates the other morning, as we sat in the tent, each of us with a handful of pea-pods in her apron and each shelling peas with different degrees of alacrity. Maria Jane was doing most of the work, for we were still very red and moist and palpitating from rowing in our dory on Salt Pond. We had set up a dory the day before and, naturally, we wanted to use it, even though the wind was southwest and the sun scorching. It was hard, however, to come back to the tent and know that we couldn't have any dinner until we had prepared it. Fortunately Maria Jane dropped in at this moment, vigorous and alert as ever. She said that Marsh was pretty tired; she left him trying to rest, and took hold energetically in the matter of shelling peas.

"Didn't you know," she went on in answer to our questions, "that Mr. Rankin ain't well? He ain't. I don't know's I'm called upon to make believe I'm sorry, for I ain't, one grain. He's one of them kind that's always pleasant and smilin'—never says a cross word. But he will have his own way if he cuts yer heart out all the time and sees it a-bleedin', and he'll be just as soft, and you'd be sure to think 'twas you that was the wretch, and likely's not you'd beg his pardon, seein's he was so gentle. In the end you'll find out he's done jest what he calkilated on doin' all the time. When you plead with him, and cry and groan and agonize, as it were, he'll smile and say: 'Sho, now don't get excited.' I guess there wouldn't none of us git excited if we were as sure of our own way as that man's always been. But he ain't got no bad habits. You can't put your finger on a thing he's done. For all that, I believe he killed his first wife. And I sh'd think she'd ben glad of it. Yes, he jest killed her a-bein' so pleasant and so cussed. She never had her own way in a thing. They say she was as delikit as she could be, and she was a perfect picter to look at. I remember when she was married, and 'peared as a bride. I was a little tot, and set with my mother two seats behind where they sot. I reck'lect exactly how I felt and what I thought when they walked in slow along the broad aisle, she holding on to his arm. I didn't look at him at all, but I stared at her all the service. I was blacker even than I am now, and she was like a white rose, I thought. She hadn't had good health, and she'd had a spell a few months before of bleedin' at the lungs, but they sajd she' got over that and was well. She had on that fust Sunday a purple velvet bunnit with a long white feather. I c'n see jest how the plume lay along over the velvet. I sot and stared and stared. I knew I never could be so interestin' as to wear a purple bunnit with a white feather 'n bleed at the lungs."

Maria Jane took a large handful of pea-pods from the tin pan and was silent for a time reviewing those days. The hot wind fluttered the tent; there was the sound of talk and high laughter from a small sailboat that was gliding by so near as to seem to be almost on the sands below the bluff. How hot it was! It is only when the wind is in some other quarter than the south or west that it is cool on this coast, notwithstanding the hotel advertisements. And in summer, if you will notice, the wind is usually either in the south or west, or between those two points, and then it is at the hottest. Then, also, there is constant danger that the ma'sh will send forth its mysterious, hellish odor. I am choosing this latter adjective advisedly. The word infernal is not sufficiently strong, as you would say yourself if you had ever happened to be there when, as the natives say, "the ma'sh was a smellin'."

Nevertheless, we were glad to be in tent on the South Shore. The life was free and charming. The people thus far had a constant interest for us. We felt that it would be a long time yet before we should be tired of their different phases of character. Also now, and for almost two months more there would be the kaleidoscope of fashionable life to watch at a distance. This movement of gayety was just far enough away to amuse without fatiguing. If some unutterably fascinating belle came to us for a glass of water we could examine her more nearly, while she exempted us.

Just now we had also a visit to which to look forward, or we did have until we heard Maria Jane's words this morning. When Randy Rankin had left us the day she had called, she had given us a special invitation to spend a day with her in the following week. She named Wednesday, for on that day the baker came along the ridge here by the shore and then went over to the Two-Mile. She was confident he would let us go with him. But we had said we would go across Salt Pond in our boat, then hire a horse and carriage at one of the hotels on "the road." This arrangement had greatly shocked her, as being extravagant in the extreme. She said they were monstrous dear at their liv'ries. We promised after her remonstrances that if the wind should be in the east we could venture to walk from the road. Thus the matter was left. For some reason, we hardly knew why, Mrs. Rankin had interested us greatly; we were very desirous of making that visit.

Mrs. Yates remained silent so long that we asked her about Mr. Rankin. Was he ill? Instead of replying she went on from where she had left off.

"Wall, old Rankin—though he wan't old then—didn't have his wife but a year. She had one child, John, that lives under the cliff yender, and died in two months after. Lucky for her and good 'nough for him, I say. He was edgin up to Randy Sherman in les'n six months, pleasant as a barsket of chips, jest as he always is. I tell you, you c'n hev some hopes of a man or woman as sometimes rares up and is mad, and gits in the wrong, and is sorry. But when you find one that's always in the right and never gives in, look out, I tell ye! Randy Sherman was teachin' school in that very same schoolhouse where Mr. Rankin lives now when he began to shine up to her. I s'pose she thought he was sweeter nor honey. Anyway, she married him, and I don't reckon she's seen many happy days sence. Women is fools! Fools, I say!"

Maria Jane made such a violent gesture that the pans fell out of her lap and rolled over the floor. Max rose slowly from under the bed and casually ate all the peas he could find.

"Most everybody blames Randy, of course. They say there never was a pleasanter man to git along with than Mr. Rankin. There's only a few as has a kind of sense of what he really is. Wall, whatever he is, he's got to furl his sails now, for I do believe, as I said, that the Lord's goin' to take him. He's sick, and Randy, soon's she heard of it, which was night before last, was gone over to nuss him. She's wuth fifty of him, I say."

Evidently we should not spend the day at present with Mrs. Rankin.

The story that Mrs. Yates had told kept in our minds. The next afternoon an "east turn" came up, so that it was really cold sitting out in front. We started out for a walk along the cliff road, which winds along above the sea and close to it. Carriages were whirling by us and the dust flew. By this time we knew just where were the different routes of the public vehicles, "barges" they call them here. We suddenly decided to take a "barge," which went within a quarter of a mile of that schoolhouse where the Rankins were.

Alighting, we walked through a small patch of sweet fern that sent up to us its odor of wild and rock pastures. We were on a hill and the ocean, gray and misty in its east turn, was before us. There was the building we sought, alone, its old red paint nearly worn off, its whole aspect desolate.

Now that we were here we suddenly felt that we might be intruding. We sat down in a bed of sweet fern—"sweet fern" they call it here, and the boys sometimes dry its leaves and make cigars of them.

Presently we heard a sound at the door, and, looking, saw the gaunt form of Randy Rankin standing there. Her face was turned away from us and toward the water. Her dark gingham gown hung straight down. She had her hands clasped tightly before her, and she suddenly flung them upward. There was not a house in sight—a fog was setting fast over everything.

Turning to go back in the house, she saw us and started. Then she recognized us. We rose and she stepped out in the tall grass about the old, flat stepstone.

"I'm mighty glad you've come," she said hoarsely. "I didn't dare leave him, and I did wish somebody was here."

Her scraggy face was perfectly pallid. She had not slept since she came to the place.

"How is he?" we whispered.

"He's goin' fast. I don't expect he'll last more'n to the turnin' of the tide, and that's at eighteen minutes past 7 to-night. I've just ben a-lookin' into his almanac to find out; it's comin' in quick, ain't it? Just listen."

We did not need to listen. The roar of water dashing over rocks, sucking up through chasms, and pounding on ledges was plain enough to hear. It was now nearly 6 o'clock.

"He ain't known me sence the first half-day I was here. Then he told me he was much obleeged to me for comin' and 'twas more'n he expected. I'd know's I've done right a-separatin' from him."

She looked off again to the ocean. Then she cried out piercingly, "But God knows I couldn't help it! He knows I sh'd have to do the same thing over again! I should! I should!" She struck her hands to together. Her hollow eyes flamed. She was remembering her life with the man who was dying.

"Hush!" we said.

My friend put her hand on the woman's clasped bony fingers.

She felt the touch and looked down on Carlos, her gaze softening in a strange, sudden way that dimmed my eyes. It was almost as though she had never felt a touch so gentle and so kind.

"Come in," she said a moment after, in a faint voice.

And we went in. We knew that we should not leave her again that night.

It was the most lonesome room I had ever seen. The desks had been removed, but the floor remained as it had been in the old time, when a country schoolhouse floor was made slanting from the back of the building down to the front, where the teacher's desk was placed on a platform about six inches high. This platform was still there and on this, as the only level place, Mr. Rankin had his bed, which was a substantial four-posted one.

The windows were high and small. Mr. Rankin had evidently disposed of a good deal of his first wife's furniture, which he had taken when the separation occurred between him and his present wife.

The cook stove was rusted irreparably, which is a thing which happens quickly here by the salt water. On top of it was a small kerosene-lamp stove, whose flame was heating something in a tin dish covered with a blue saucer. There were three chairs of black walnut and haircloth, very dusty and daubed.

The figure on the bed was perfectly still and breathing deeply.

Mrs. Rankin sat down beside him and began mechanically to move a fan over the ghastly face on the pillow. We sat down silently, each on a hair-cloth chair. All the windows were open, and through them and the door the salt air came in damply and strongly. The broad flame in the lamp wavered and smoked. The sound of the swift, incoming tide pervaded the place. I had not sat there five minutes before I was absorbed in listening to that tide, and almost counting the distinct sounds that the large waves made as they broke on the rough beach below us.

My friend rose and took the fan from Randy's hand, standing beside her and wielding the fan slowly. Randy sat rigid. She was watching the man's face.

At last there was a change in the sound of the rollers—an indefinite softening. We knew that the tide had begun to go out.

In uncontrollable, but silent, excitement I rose, standing still. A quarter of an hour must have passed. Then I saw the sick man open his eyes and look at his wife.

"Randy," he said, in what seemed a perfectly natural voice, "I guess we won't have the Tree of Death hung up in the sett'n-room any longer, sence you kinder don't like it."

He turned his head more comfortably on his pillow and closed his eyes again.

The Lord has given Randy Rankin her freedom.—New York Tribune.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. We know of no remedy for dyspepsia more successful than Hood's Sarsaparilla. It acts gently, yet surely and efficiently, tones the stomach and other organs, removes the faint feeling, creates a good appetite, cures headache, and refreshes the burdened mind. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial. It will do you good.

Two of a Kind.

A despatch of the 9th inst. from Ottawa, Ont., says: The department of customs has been apprised of a trick which has just been played on the American authorities by the captain of the Alfred Adams, a British Columbia sealing schooner. The schooner was seized in Behring's sea last month by the United States revenue cutter Richard Rush, and her sealskins and fishing tackle were taken away. A prize crew was put on board, and the captain was ordered to navigate the schooner to Sitka. The captain seemingly obeyed for the time, but after having parted company with the cutter coolly headed the schooner for Victoria, B. C., where she arrived a few days ago. The prize crew could do nothing to compel the captain to proceed to Sitka, as it is understood to have consisted of only two men, and the crew of the schooner not having been removed, was too strong for them.

A despatch from Shelburne, Nova Scotia, says: The preventive officer at Northeast Harbor made an abortive attempt to seize an American fishing vessel on Saturday, the 3d inst. The facts appear to be briefly these: The schooner Walter M. Young of Lamoine, Me., is said to have shipped two men at Northeast Harbor last spring, when bound to the banks. Saturday she called into that place for the purpose, it is alleged, of landing those men at their homes. But the preventive officer was laying for the captain, and when the latter came on shore and produced his papers for entry the officer took the papers and locked them up, informing the captain at the same time that his vessel was seized for violating the customs law and that she must forthwith be given up to the authorities, cargo and all. The captain returned on board and held a consultation with his crew, who wanted to go ashore in force, raid the officer's premises, and recapture the papers. From this intent they were dissuaded by the captain, who decided to sail immediately for home, and did so, leaving his papers behind. A report of the affair states that three or four of the crew, who belonged to Northeast Harbor, came ashore in a dory as the vessel was leaving, and the preventive officer, not to be entirely baulked, met them on the beach, and demanded the surrender of the boat, oars, men and their personal effects. He placed the broad arrow on the dory, and carried off the oars and clothes bag and ditty-box containing some old squid jigs, etc., the kit of one of the fishermen. This property is now confiscated, and will doubtless be regularly sold.

Mr. Nathan Robbins, who has occupied a stall in Quincy market in Boston since its opening in 1826, celebrated his 84th birthday recently. Mr. Robbins lives in Arlington, but is prompt to appear at his place of business at six o'clock in the morning of every week day. In fact, Mr. Robbins is one of the early birds.

Charles Smith, the young sneak thief who robbed E. C. Stedman's house in New York on the 31st of July, and was pursued and captured by Mr. Arthur Stedman, was last week sentenced to five years and seven months in the penitentiary.

When the talk is about "insults," it is needful to remember that it was President Cleveland who first insulted the old soldiers. And the old soldiers, whether organized or unorganized, whether asking pensions or not, deserve as much respect from the official head of the nation they saved as he deserves from them.—New Haven Palladium.

Messrs. Howard & French of Nashua, extensive manufacturers of furniture, have purchased a tract of six acres of land on Crown street in that city, with a southern boundary on the Boston & Maine railroad, and have in contemplation the erection of the largest furniture manufacturing establishment in New Hampshire, together with cottages for their workmen.

At an early hour last Saturday morning a big fire was discovered in the large store-house connected with the corn-canning establishment of Joseph Knights in Springvale village, Sanford, Me., and when first seen had made such advance that the entire store-house, with its contents, comprising nearly all the corn canned this season, together with a large number of empty cans, were destroyed. The total loss is estimated at over ten thousand dollars. Partially insured.

West & Calderwood's bakery at Biddeford caught fire from the furnace Sept. 10th; the loss will not exceed $1000. The building is owned by Hon. William Emery of Alfred, whose loss is covered by insurance.

The casting of the stem of the new United States cruiser Charleston, now being built at San Francisco, Cal., has been successfully accomplished. The steel stern-post was cast June 22d, but the casting of the stem was a greater feat, the stem weighing fully 16,000 pounds. It is said to be the largest steel casting ever made on this continent.

The Gloucester fishing schooner Lillian Baxter was dismantled in the gale of Sept. 3d, on the Grand banks, and one of the crew drowned. The survivors, after suffering terribly for two days, were taken off by the steamship Umbria, from New York for Liverpool, and landed at Queenstown. The wreck was fired before being abandoned.

A despatch of Sept. 10th from Halifax says "the reports of the American fishermen making small catches on account of the alertness of the cruisers is not correct, as up to that date they have landed more fish than last year. Up to Sept. 1st, they landed 39,715 barrels of mackerel, being 2243 barrels more than at the same date last year. While the Americans have been more successful the present season, it is asserted that the provincial vessels have fared very poorly. From Port Hawkesbury alone there were four well equipped seiners in North bay, whose aggregate catch, notwithstanding the fact that they are not restricted to any water, is only about 300 barrels."

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less." I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

WOMAN'S TEMPERANCE LEAGUE.

At the late regular meeting of the Woman's Temperance League the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Jos. Pettigrew;
1st Vice Pres't, Mrs. Jas. Sanborn;
2d Vice Pres't, Mrs. T. H. Deverson;
Rec. Sec., Mrs. E. D. Smart;
Cor. Sec., Mrs. L. Perkins;
Treasurer, Miss H. Candage;
Chaplain, Miss K. Fritz.

The League have had a vacation of two months, and are now ready for work again. Mrs. Smart and Mrs. Deverson were appointed delegates to attend the State Union to be held in Manchester, Sept. 28th and 29th; and Miss Fritz and Miss Candage as alternates.

A SENSATION.

At the Brooklyn, N. Y., navy yard, on the 2d inst., a large quantity of condemned stores and materials, ranging from anchors to jewsharps, from bass drums to thick trousers, and from fog horns to tea spoons, were sold at auction, and over $70,000 realized. The following in connection with this sale, which we take from the Army and Navy Register, will be of interest to many persons in this vicinity:

A story was published yesterday in the Brooklyn Standard-Union in connection with the sale, which has caused much talk at the yard. It was alleged that of the 287 pieces of silverware in lot thirty-one, several pieces had been carried off by Mrs. Pook, the wife of Naval Constructor Pook, on a written order from Pay Director Stevenson, before the sale began.

"This morning," the report says, "Mrs. Pook and her daughter came into the buildings where the goods were with an order from Pay Director Stevenson, requesting the person in charge of the stores to let Mrs. Pook have what she wanted. The order from Stevenson was correct in form, and Bernard McNulty, the clerk, had nothing to do but let Mrs. Pook take her pick of the stuff. The lady selected the following articles and had them taken to the house occupied by the constructor in Flushing avenue: Two sugar bowls, two baking dishes, a half-dozen table spoons, one-half dozen dessert spoons, six vegetable dishes, one-half dozen teaspoons, six table and dessert forks, one fish slice, one cream scraper, twelve nut pickers, two nut crackers, twelve table and dessert knives, four baking dish linings, one ladle, one sauce boat and stand, a gravy dish, thirteen fruit saucers, twelve breakfast saucers, twelve tea saucers, twelve after-dinner coffee saucers, eight meat dishes, one fish dish, four vegetable dishes, one water pitcher, two cream ewers, twelve breakfast plates, twelve dinner plates, twelve bread plates, four fruit baskets and twelve egg cups."

Clerk McNulty is reported as saying that the above report was true in every particular, and that he intended to make a full report to the government about the matter. Pay Director Stevenson was indignant when he read the report last night. He said:

"This lot, No. 31, contained a lot of condemned old battered plated silverware and other stuff, and was not worth more than a trifle. Among the articles were two or three decanters and a cream pitcher. Some of the officers wanted to know from me if they could bid it in, and I believe they did go to the auction through a messenger, and divided the stuff between them. As to the allegation that I gave Mr. Pook, Mrs. Pook, or anybody else an order, why it is absurd on its face, and I do not believe that Mr. McNulty made such a statement. It must be a pure fabrication. I will give $10,000 to any person who will produce such an order. If I had issued such a document it would cost me my commission. I have charge of $50,000,000 worth of government property, and I cannot be expected to watch where every old spoon and fork goes. The sale to-day was fair and above board in every respect."

Naval Constructor Pook said: "I know nothing about this matter at all, and I can't imagine how such a report was circulated. My wife and daughter were not at the sale. They have been in New York all day. I have no knowledge whatever that they bought or received any of these articles mentioned, and am ignorant of any order from Mr. Stevenson to deliver them."

Mrs. Pook was seen later. She said: "I will not deny that I have got some of these articles mentioned, but the statement in the paper as to the manner in which I received them is false." She refused to say whether she received the articles before the sale or not.

GREAT CARRIAGE SALE.

Mr. J. H. Randlett of Dover, carriage and sleigh builder, whose vehicles have a reputation second to none for excellence of material, pattern and workmanship, in another column announces his third annual auction sale of new and second-hand carriages (to make room for winter goods) to take place next Saturday, the 17th inst. Thirty-five of the carriages are new. A partial list of the goods that will be offered is given in the advertisement. This sale offers an excellent chance for any person in want of a first-class carriage to get one cheap.

MARITIME NOTES.

The practice ship Constellation came up from the lower harbor to the navy yard on Monday afternoon, to go into the dry dock for repairs.

The old schooner E. A. Creed, lying near Liberty bridge, now looks like a new craft. Much time and considerable money has been expended on her during the past summer. Her present owner intends to run her as a coaster.—Times.

The schooner Nulato, of Machias, Me., Captain Sawyer, from Elizabethport for this port with a cargo of 217 tons of coal to C. E. Walker & Co., reports that on Friday at midnight, Highland Light bearing westnorthwest, distant six miles, she was run into by an unknown three-masted schooner, laden with ice, bound to Baltimore, the latter's jibboom striking the Nulato's foremast and breaking it in several pieces, also carrying away the jibboom of the unknown schooner. The Nulato arrived at Boston on Monday morning, and will make the necessary repairs before proceeding on this port.

The old favorite "Pinafore," which has not been superceded in popular favor by any of the numerous comic operas which have succeeded it, is in course of preparation for presentation on the Music hall stage by home talent—largely by the same persons who so successfully presented the Mikado some months ago.

Among the visitors in this city from other places on Monday were Mrs. E. E. Algar, Mrs. S. H. Shardlow, and Mr. J. N. McClintock and wife from Concord, Miss Helen Hutchins of Lebanon, and Mr. G. H. Lovering of New York.

The Boston Herald says: "Mr. William Sheafe, of the old and aristocratic Sheafe family of Portsmouth, who now resides in this city, arrived at the Crawford house, White mountains, last Saturday, in the most elegant six-in-hand turnout seen among the White hills for many a day. His party consisted of eight well-know Bostonians, Mrs. F. O. Dame, Miss Grace Dame (his fiancee), Miss Hunnress, the Misses Sheafe, C. R. Walker and H. P. Jacques. The horses, which are noble and spirited animals, the leaders being magnificent bays, the next pair superb iron grays, and the pole horses prancing blacks, attracted a good deal of attention, and the equipage was the admiration of every beholder. The party arrived at Crawford's from Bethlehem, at which latter place they had been staying for several days, in order to take side trips to the numerous point of interest in that locality. They are now at Jackson, at Wentworth Hall."

COCHECO MANUFACTURING CO.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the stockholders of the Cocheco Manufacturing Company for the choice of officers, and for such other business as may legally come before said meeting, will be holden at the Company's Counting Room in Dover on Tuesday, the 20th inst., at 12 o'clock, M.
By order of the Directors.

See advertisement in another column, of cashier wanted in a store in this city.

A tomato raised this season by Mr. Al. Hutton in the old Raynes shipyard weighed thirty-one ounces; it was well ripened, and the flesh was firm, solid and of fine flavor.

It is announced that Mrs. Lyttleton M. Laighton has sold her four-story brick house on Daniel street to Mr. Charles H. Mendum, who will fit it up for stores on the lower story, and very desirable tenements above.

The Maine Sentinel says it is the unanimous opinion of the democrats of York county that the Hon. Nathan Cleaves should be appointed surveyor of Portland. It would be more to the point to tell us what is the unanimous opinion of a gentleman by the name of Jones, who lives just over the border. His other name is Frank.—Portland Press.

Biddeford has a two legged horse; at least we judge so from an account of a horse trade given by the Times of that city, which concludes by saying that the horse possessed by Jim Avery at the end of the trade "was blind in one eye, and both legs were spavined."

Reports from every town in York county show that the potato crop this year will be very light. The early hot weather, followed by a long season of rain, caused them to rot badly. Many farmers say their crop is not worth digging, and they use the plow in harvesting, picking up what few are sound. The apple crop will be small. The best fruit is now being rushed into the market. The grain yield will be about the average amount. —Biddeford Journal.

Mrs. John A. Stevens of Kennebunk presented her husband with a fine boy on Sunday, the 4th inst., and on the same day his brother, James B. Stevens of the same town, was presented by his wife with a daughter.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

Free from Lime and Absolutely Pure.

The Royal Baking Powder is made from Cream of Tartar specially refined and prepared for its use by patent processes, by which the Tartrate of Lime is totally eliminated.

This highly important result has been attained only with great care, labor and expense. In money alone a quarter of a million dollars has been invested in patents, machinery and appliances by which the crude Cream of Tartar, being procured direct from the wine districts of Europe, and subjected in this country to these exclusive processes, is rendered entirely free, not only from the objectionable Tartrate of Lime, but from other foreign substances.

This adds greatly to the cost of manufacturing Royal Baking Powder; but, as all its other ingredients are selected and prepared with the same precise care and regardless of labor or expense, an article is produced that is entirely free from any extraneous substance and chemically pure in all respects.

No lime, earth, alum or impurity of any kind can, by inadvertence or by the use of adulterated articles or otherwise, be introduced into the "Royal," and it contains no ingredients except those certified by the most eminent chemists necessary to make a pure, wholesome and perfect baking powder.

It costs more to manufacture the Royal Baking Powder than any other, but it is, as shown by chemical analysis, the only absolutely pure Baking Powder made.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made that is free from both lime and alum.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for its incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

The New War Ships.

There appears to have been a most decided change of sentiment in regard to the new war ships Boston, Atlanta and Chicago, which were being built by John Roach & Sons when the present administration came into power. The controversy over the Dolphin, the long delay of the Navy Department in accepting her and in sealing with the builders, the opinion of Attorney General Garland to the effect that the contracts of the Government with the Roaches for the building of the larger ships were not valid, the subsequent assignment of the firm to save its creditors because of this opinion, the continuing of the building as begun by the contractors under direction of the Navy Department, the breaking up of the great shipbuilding industry of of the Roaches and the death of John Roach in consequence of the ruin of his life work by the methods of the administration, are matter which are fresh in the public mind. For years the Democratic and sensational press had been denouncing him as a corrupter of Congress and the favorite contractor who imposed worthless work upon the Navy Department, until many people honestly believe that these charges were true. The Administration proceeded upon the ground that it was its duty to suppress the Roaches, and that is one of the duties which it has discharged. But now two of the three Roach ships have been put to the test, and the result is described by the Washington special of the paper which led in the attacks on Mr. Roach as "satisfactory" and as "surpassing expectations." The steering capacity of the Boston is characterized as "remarkable," and while she did not make fifteen knots an hour because of the condition of her hull, her engines developed 700 horse power more than was called for by the contractors, and seventeen knots is predicted under favorable conditions. The vindication of Mr. Roach comes late, but is better late than never.—Boston Journal.

A despatch of the 40th from St. John, N. B., says: "It is reported that the cruiser Intrepid captured an American schooner of seventeen tons within the three-mile limit, off Campobello, Thursday, and took her into port. The customs department ordered the captain of the Intrepid to take his capture to St. Andrews, and report the facts and circumstances of the case to headquarters." The name of the captured vessel is not given.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquained with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the suffocating sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your lightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrah. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

TOM'S NUGGET.

It was early morning, yet, early as it seemed, the little Australian mining camp on the slope of Mount Magoari was astir.

Smoke was curling up from camp fires where battered teapots bubbled and boiled, and "dampers" were being baked in the embers.

The air on every side was vocal with bird music. Crowds of parrots flew overhead in screaming flocks, cockatoos chattered in the gum trees, and magpies whistled through the ravines.

But Tom Horton, "the Yankee lad," as he was generally called, had no ear for the melody of feathered songsters on this particular morning.

He was heavy hearted, and, in consequence, irritable. And the gurgling, discordant and altogether exasperating "He, ha, ha-a-a!" of a laughing jackass (a species of large kingfisher) from a thicket directly behind the rude shanty, did not serve to soothe his troubled mood.

It was almost as though some malicious individual was laughing at his ill luck, he moodily told himself, as crouched before the blaze, he sat waiting for his tea to "draw."

Yet Tom had not seemed to deserve ill fortune, if there was any truth in the old saws about pluck and perseverance.

More than a year before he had quitted the worn out down east farm where he had patiently toiled for his miserly uncle since he was left orphaned and penniless by the death of his parents.

He had no wild visions of finding a great fortune ready made to his hand. He expected to work for what he did succeed in getting.

But the rolling stone thus far had gathered no moss. He had sought work in large cities, but his ignorance of city ways, his lack of references, and his shabby clothing were all against him.

Then he thought to try a new country, and worked his passage to London in a sailing ship. There, to his surprise, he found things ten times worse.

From London he shipped as ordinary seaman, at two pounds a month, for Melbourne, Australia. There he was robbed of his scanty wages on the second night after his arrival. By mere accident he got a chance to drive a supply team to Ballarat, and from Ballarat he had drifted to the Magoari diggings, ninety miles to the westward.

Twenty years before, there had been rich finds in this vicinity, and in those palmy days the digging was of the most hasty and superficial kind. In the greed for gold, men dug awhile in one spot, and if unsuccessful, deserted it for another. And in a "nuggety" country not a foot of soil would be left unturned.

So a small colony of miners had located at Magoari, and here Tom Horton made his first essay at gold hunting. One and another of the friendly diggers contributed something to his simple outfit. They helped him repair a half-ruined shanty, and having taken possession of an abandoned claim close by, Tom went to work with his usual energy.

"And here I've dug and sweated for nearly six months," muttered Tom, disconsolately, as all these things passed in mental review, "and how much has it amounted to?"

Rising, Tom stepped into the shanty, which was lighted by a large window at the rear, guiltless of sash or glass. From under the coarse straw pillow at the head of his bunk he took a small bag, from which he emptied on the slab table a few very small nuggets.

"Not twenty pounds' worth in all," said Tom, continuing his soliloquy in the same discontented tone, "and here I'm owing pretty near half of it for supplies."

"Ha, ha, ha-a-a-a!" gurgled the big brown kingfisher from the dense underbrush close to the window.

"Con-found that bird!" angrily and unreasonably exclaimed Tom, and snatching up the nearest thing that came to hand, which happened to be a small iron skillet, he sent it crashing into the leafy thicket.

To his surprise and dismay, the act was followed by a howl of pain and a volley of oaths that certainly did not come from the laughing jackass, which skurried away with another exasperating "ha, ha!"

A heavily built man, whose dark, forbidding features were half hidden by an iron grey beard, dashed madly from the thicket, holding one hand to a nasty cut just under one of his eyes, as Tom, sweeping his nuggets into the bag, hastily returned it to his bunk.

The mildest type of colonial language is more or less emphasized by profanity; but during the whole of his stay in Magoari, Tom had never listened to anything like the fluent blasphemies that escaped the newcomer's lips, as presenting himself at the door he called attention to his wound.

"A-skitterin' of pots an' kittles through the winder into honist folks's faces as though the place was your own, you white-faced young kid!" he roared after somewhat exhausting his first outbreak of profanity.

"Honest people haven't any business sneakin' about in the underbrush back of a shanty window," sharply retorted Tom. "And as far as the place is concerned, I'd like to see any one make out that it wasn't mine," he went on, defiantly.

The man, who had a square brutal lower jaw, and a low retreating forehead, dashed his battered billycock hat on the ground in an ecstasy of rage.

"You would, eh?" he shouted, throwing his hand to his hip, where hung a heavy revolver.

Tom was too quick for him. Snatching from the corner an old single barreled fowling piece given him by one of the miners, he covered the stranger in an instant.

"Drop that or I'll riddle you with a charge of bucks'not," he said, but not a trace of his inward excitement was discernible in his voice.

By this time a small crowd had gathered from the neighboring shanties.

"Thunder!" exclaimed old Jimmy North, as his eyes rested on the scowling face of Tom's would-be assailant, "it's Black Mike. I thought he was—"

"Hang, eh?" surlily interrupted the gentleman in question, whose right hand had left the revolver butt; "well, I ain't, an' what's more, I've come back here to the shanty I built an' the claim I left nigh eighteen years ago—any one got anything to say agin it?"

It was evident to Tom, who turned his troubled face to the bystanders, that no one had. "Black Mike," otherwise Michael Deelish—with half a dozen aliases—was one of those characters not unlike the "Bad Man of Bitter Creek," known to the mining districts of southwestern Montana. He had been by turns a gambler, convict, ticket-of-leave man, digger and lounger. Old North, who had been one of the original discoverers of Magoari, remembered him as one of the community in his own day, and that he had abandoned his claim after taking out nearly two thousand pounds in gold.

"You better give up the shanty peaceable, my lad," he said to Tom, "mebbe some of us'll find room for you."

"No need of his leavin' 'less he wants to," put in the burly miner in a surly tone, "there's two bunks here; he's welcome to one of 'em, an' if he wants to go shares on the claim, I won't mind."

This was quite a concession on the part of Mr. Deelish, and Tom was advised to take up with it. But indeed he had no other resource. Until he was lucky enough to make more than he had been doing, he had no money to hire another shanty, and all the rest of the old claims were taken up.

"Very well," he finally said, and without being invited Black Mike proceeded to help himself liberally to Tom's tea and "damper."

It soon became evident that Mr. Deelish's idea of working the claim on halves differed essentially from the usual method. That is to say, Tom did most of the work and halved the scanty proceeds with his new partner, who spent most of his time smoking and drinking brandy obtained "on tick" at the canteen.

"If you don't like it you kin leave," he said, whenever Tom spiritedly expressed his views on the subject. And as Tom's luck grew poorer, he could not save enough to help him get even as far as Ballarat. So he stayed.

Perhaps because tired of inaction, Black Mike finally took an industrious fit. Working vigorously at one end of the claim, while Tom plied pick and shovel at the other, he began tunneling toward his young partner, who in turn worked his way slowly toward Deelish, both carefully "shoring up," as they went along.

But their utmost toil did not avail them anything. A few small nuggets from time to time, this was all that rewarded their search. And one morning Tom woke up to find that his partner had decamped, taking with him not only the canvas bag containing their joint savings, but also the little one, which held his own private store. He had buried this last under a loose slab in the floor, but Black Mike had discovered the hiding place in some way, and levanted with the whole.

Threats of vengeance were freely made by the other miners—a perfectly safe proceeding when Black Mike was miles away. Tom, far heavier hearted than ever, swallowed his sorrows and his scanty breakfast, and started for his claim. What prompted him to enter the excavation made by his rascally partner, rather than his own, is one of those inexplicable things for which there is no accounting. Some men call it Providence—others, "chance."

Induced by whatever cause, Tom crawled in with lantern and pick, and began work in the narrow aperture where he could only sit, not stand, stopping from time to time to remove the dislodged earth in a rude drag which he pulled after him by a rope.

"Deelish didn't even take the trouble to half shore up," he muttered crossly, as he noticed how insecurely placed were some of the short props.

"Now look at that!" he exclaimed aloud, pressing his foot against one back of him. "I can shake it."

But the action suited to the word was a terrible mistake. The prop and plank it supported gave way, and with a deafening crash the tunnel caved in behind him.

There was but a moment for collected thought. Already he breathed with difficulty in the confined space of five or six feet which remained. Behind him were tons of earth. It would be hours before his absence would be discovered.

As nearly as he could estimate only a few cubic feet of earth remained between the two miniature tunnels, which had been slowly approaching each other for a fortnight.

Nerved with the energy of despair, Tom plied his pick vigorously, yet with care, packing down the thus loosened earth to make room as he advanced—every moment fearing to be buried beneath some falling mass.

Suddenly his pick struck something hard, but it never occurred to him, in the fight for life and liberty, what the obstruction might be, till he saw by the light of his bull's-eye lantern the dull gleam of yellow metal.

Yet what would gold avail unless he could reach the light and air; the latter especially, for he was gasping for breath!

He hardly glanced at the dislodged nugget, which fell before him till—oh, joy of joys—his pick penetrated into the tunnel beyond, and with a few more strokes the cavity was made large enough for him to squeeze himself through.

Five minutes later a faint shout from the mouth of the Yankee lad's tunnel drew several eyes in that direction.

"I believe the boy has struck it!" exclaimed old North, leaping out of the trench and hurrying toward Tom, who, pale as death, reeking with perspiration, dirty, and breathless, stood in the mouth of the excavation.

Two or three left their tents and shanties and rushed to the spot where old North, holding in one hand the largest nugget ever seen in Magoari section, was peering at it eagerly through his pocket magnifying glass, while Tom looked up eagerly, awaiting his verdict.

"It's the biggest find these parts ever saw, and the purest," said old North enthusiastically, and I am happy to say that there was not one who gathered to congratulate Tom Horton who was not honestly glad for him.

"If that tramp had worked half a day longer, he'd a found it instid of you, lad," said some one, as, after he had told his story, Tom, with his nugget held in both hands, made his way back to his shanty, scarcely able to believe in his own good fortune.

"Much good it 'ud a done Tom, though," grimly returned another. "Black Mike would have kep' it to himself and lit out with it first chance."

But what "might have been" was not worth speaking of, and for the first time in months, Tom Horton turned in to his bunk with a really light heart.

And in the morning the bird concert which began with the day dawn had no more appreciative listner than Tom, even when the laughing jackass started in, for now there seemed to be something joyously exultant in the bird laugh itself.

Not many more mornings did he hear it though, for as soon as possible Tom set out for Ballarat. And though his "find" was not in itself a fortune, the sum realized by its sale will, I have no doubt, prove to be the nucleus of a future fortune, if Tom goes to work the right way. He is beginning right now at any rate.—The Golden Argosy.

Of diseases, there were none which, previous to the discovery of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, offered more formidable resistance to the old fashioned modes of treatment than the group of maladies which, under the collective name of malarial disease, afflicted entire communities that suffered hopelessly. Chills and fever, dumb ague, ague cake and bilious remittent were once regarded as well night incurable. Now it rejoices the hearts of thousands who reside in places periodically subject to the visitation of malaria, to feel certain that in the Bitters they possess a certain defence against the scourge, a sure means of expelling its poison from the system. To the settler in the far west, the new emigrant thither, and to travellers and tourists by land and sea, the possession of this pleasant safeguard is guaranty of safety from diseases which they might vainly seek from any other source.

Take Care Of The Throat.

Many orators use Allcock's Porous Plasters for throat and lung trouble. Few preachers escape some affection of the voice, and many wear a fringe of beard under the chin as a protector for the delicate organs of speech. The Rev. A. A. I have been using Allcock's Porous Plasters for the last two years with very marked benefit. I have been very much troubled with bronchitis, and a cough, which very much interfered with my preaching, but an Allcock's Plaster on my throat and on my chest completely cured me in two weeks.

Revenue Reform.

It is stated that one of the projects of the president to ensure his re-election is the arranging the tariff according to democratic promises and programmes, at the coming session of Congress, in order that this important question may not remain a source of annoying perplexity in the presidential canvass. To this end it is reported that the president and the speaker of the last house of representatives have been in conference to outline a plan which is to be mapped out and then submitted to Mr. Randall. The latter gentleman is expected to acquiesce in the programme—otherwise to cease his leadership. Mr. Randall has made a longer and more practical study of this question than has either the president or Mr. Carlisle. The earlier speaker knows full well that in the politics of this country the sentiment is divided substantially into three classes, as follows:

First, the ultra free-traders, who are kept on the qui vive by the great importing element of New York city, which represents, and in not a few instances is a part of, foreign manufacturing interests. These are ready to subscribe to campaign funds, and furnish articles to periodicals and papers discussing the free-trade policy and the iniquity of the tariff system, and find willing agents in the managers of that portion of the democratic party outside of regions where local industries do not exact a different policy. This element is the cause of the free-trade resolutions of democratic conventions, and abounds in statistics of the cost of the poor man's shirt!

Then there are the high tariff men; the men who are in favor of a protection which causes their especial interests to thrive. They desire especially no foreign competition. They maintain that the mechanic and artisan of this country should not be compelled to compete with the "pauper labor" of the old world. They can be prosperous only with a tariff which discriminates as their peculiar views indicate.

Aside from these opposing economists is found a large element which holds that the immense receipt of revenue and the changes in our business relations call for a proper adjustment of this question. They recognize the fact that every interested man who is willing to see the revenue receipts reformed, is quite ready to see his neighbor's interests lost sight of if his own products can be properly protected. It is the race where every one is for himself, and special legislation, not general enactment, is sought to be secured.

Now, Mr. Randall is a long-headed politician. He is aware that Mr. Cleveland can no more map out a tariff policy which can go through the house of representatives, than he could carry out his civil service professions as against the office-holders in a convention which should endorse his administration. He intends to do the proper thing, but he will not be able to accomplish it. His pet measure will start on its perilous voyage without the advantages of a skillful pilot through the intricacies of legislative channels. It will be hindered and hampered by all sorts of adverse interests, and perhaps lie in a condition of desuetude far into the session. Mr. Randall in the meantime, as far as this measure goes, to all appearances may lapse into a condition of masterly inactivity. Indeed, it may prove that his passive conduct will bring on an attack of his old enemy the gout, which would prevent his dining with the president if during the session he should be invited to the White House. But sooner or later the good of the party will compel them to ask Randall's aid in what is sought to be accomplished. Then, perhaps, the Pennsylvania statesman will take the bandages from his limbs and lightly step to the front in the battle. He will tell the democrats what they can and what they cannot accomplish in the way of legislation. He will take command of the forces and resume the role of leader. He will be Captain General, simply because the democracy have no bigger man in the ranks, and because he is backed by all the diverse interests which can and will play between the high tariff and free trade representatives. He will achieve what he seeks, and the party managers will continue to curse him while they deplore the circumstances which enable him to wield such power in their party.

Mr. Cleveland announces the startling proposition that if he runs for the second term he must direct the campaign! There is an element of ingenuous freshness about this, as if a president with his patronage and army of retainers would not be likely to direct the campaign for his re-election. Well may the democrats remark, "what are you giving us?"

The Massachusetts democrats are not to have the material aid of Mrs. Andrew's bank account in the coming campaign, and there is a search after a capitalist who will subscribe heavily. It is said that Leopold Morse can carry both branches of the democracy, the Cleveland men and the ones, saddly the mugwumps, cajole the easy republicans, purchase enough of the Irish vote and make it right with the prohibitionists, and beat Gov. Ames. Mr. Morse on one occasion shew in the Parker house his potent factor in an election contest. It was a pocket book.

We are informed on what should be good authority, that the first vote in the railroad fight at Concord will be taken in the house on Thursday. Everybody will be glad when the interminable flow of words is shut off.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

CRICKET GAME.

The second match between the Portsmouth cricket club and the club at Sanford, Me., took place on the grounds of the latter last Saturday. Some of the older horses seemed the younger colts, Sladen going first to wicket, and carrying out his bat with a score of seventeen. Cogan bowled well for Portsmouth, taking six wickets. The following is the score:

PORTSMOUTH.

Sladen, not out	17
Greyslon, b. Sawyer, by Aveyard	6

SANFORD.

Southers, b. by Sykes	16
Hartley, b. by Cogan	18
Peacock, b. by Sykes	12
C. Aveyard, b. by Cogan	4
Hogg, not out	13
Pugh, b. by Sykes	2

The reason the Portsmouth club has played twice in Sanford within three weeks, and not played one of the games on their own grounds in this city, is to be found in the very different quality of the encouragement given the game in the two places. If a good club comes here for a game, about all the interest displayed is shown by the members of the Portsmouth club and their immediate friends; whereas in Sanford there is always a very large turnout of spectators, and any skillful and brilliant play is heartily acknowledged.

ANOTHER BIG HOTEL.

Capt. George Donnell of York, Me., has sold the property at York harbor, including the field in which the store kept by Mr. Stevens is located, the land fronting on Short beach, between Hartley W. Mason's cottages at one end and the Marshall house premises on the other, and also fronting on the cove, on the riverside above the Marshall house, to Mr. W. M. Walker. The land conveyed has been in the name of Donnell for over 200 years; it has never before been deeded away, having passed from heir to heir in fee simple since first it came into possession of Capt. Donnell's ancestors by a colonial grant. It is reported, and apparently on good authority, that Mr. Walker, either alone or through a stock company, will put up on this property a first-class hotel, which will eclipse anything now in existence at York, to be four or five stories high and of large extent on the ground, fitted with elevators and all modern improvements and conveniences, and supplied with water by the new Water Co., of which Mr. Walker is one of the directors. Such a hotel would undoubtedly not only pay its promoters, but would as well give an additional impetus to the prosperity of that thriving summer resort; the location is unsurpassed, there being every convenience for surf bathing on the beach or still-water bathing on the river side, boating on the ocean or the placid river, and the spot being central to all accommodation. Such a hotel has been needed at York, and we hope the want will be supplied.

MICHAEL STROGOFF.

This great spectacular drama will be presented at Music hall this evening by the Charles L. Andrews' Minuet Carnival Co., with special scenery and accessories, rich costumes, a superior ballet and accomplished actors. It is well known as one of the best spectacular dramas on the modern stage. Tickets are to be had at Goodrich's.

PERSONAL.

The Misses Tilton of Littleton are guests at Col. Eastman's cottage, Odiorne's point, Rye.

Miss Annie L. Young, of Augusta, Me., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. P. M. Spinney, on Washington street.

Mrs. Bingham, wife of Rev. Dr. J. F. Bingham, of Hartford, Conn., formerly rector of St. John's church in this city, is visiting at Hon. John R. Reding's on State street.

MARITIME NOTES.

The U. S. S. Ossipee, recently from this naval station, arrived at Philadelphia on the 12th inst., in company with the Galena and the flagship Richmond of the North Atlantic squadron.

The schooner Geraldine arrived at Canso, N. S., Sept. 12th, and reported losing one man in the hurricane of Sept. 3d on the banks; also had bowsprit torn out, and windlass broken; oil butts, water casks and twenty barrels of clam bait swept off decks, and sixteen dories. Had to cut cable to escape a disabled schooner which drove down on her, and fired guns and blew foghorns as a warning. After the gale saw seven schooners at one time with flags half-masted for loss of men, and saw scores of dories bottom up.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY POINT, Me., Sept. 13th.

Quite a fleet of vessels are in the harbor this morning; among them are a number of large crafts. The school-ship Constellation came in on Saturday last under full sail. It is quite a rare sight to see a United States ship under full sail in these days, for most of them come in under steam. A mist hung over the water, and as the vessel passed Whale's-back light her masts appeared to tower far above the light-house. She reminded us of a few lines we have read somewhere describing such a vessel: "It was a stately ship * * with canvas piled on canvas till she was one towering mass of sail, white as the foam which she so gallantly tossed from her bow. She came speeding over the sea like a huge bird."

The schooner Golden Gate arrived from Rockland last week. She had on board among other freight a valuable cow belonging to Capt. G. D. Amee, watchman at Widow's island, Me. The cow is so tame she followed her master down over the beach at the island and stepped into a large boat, in which she was carried off to the vessel, and hoisted on board without any trouble. The cow was landed on the wharf at the navy yard, and walked down to the Point.

The dwellers at Boon island say that on the Thursday of the sad accident at Brave Boat Harbor the sea ran higher at the island than at any time last winter. It was so rough for three days it was impossible to launch a boat there.

Hotel Park-Field will probably keep open for some time; excursion parties from the city find this a very pleasant and convenient place to dine, and many of them improve the opportunity. The season has been a decided success, and the prospect is very encouraging for another summer.

Mrs. James Allen and daughter have returned from their visit to Portsmouth. Mrs. Allen's health is some better than when she went from home.

Mrs. Carrie Frisbee and Mrs. Hattie Fernald arrived home from the Lakes last week. They had a delightful time, and say the season there was one of the best.

Mrs. R. H. Bowman has gone to Boston Highlands to spend a few weeks with her daughter.

Miss Gertie Mugridge has been sick some weeks, but seems to be improving now.

Mr. O. L. Frisbee, proprietor of the Oceanic, Star island, is spending a few days in the once quiet village of Sir William Pepperrell.

Mrs. M. J. Williams and Miss Millie Williams, from the Oceanic, spent the Sabbath with friends at Kittery Point.

Miss Mamie Rice of Peabody, Mass., has been visiting Miss McClure at her home on Gerrish's island.

Mr. Charles E. Williams and wife, from Madbury, N. H., have been spending a few days at the Williams homestead on Gerrish's island.

The inmates of the Children's Home in Portsmouth spent the day a short time since with Mr. V. B. Williams and wife, at their pleasant home at Kittery Point. The little ones were hospitably entertained, and spent the day walking, rowing and playing in the green fields. They appeared to enjoy the day throughly, and it will probably be ever a bright spot in their memories.

Capt. J. C. Hurst and wife have returned from the Oceanic, Star island. We were delighted to see them again, and we have high hopes of receiving invitations to another flowery candy-pulling at their home this winter.

"Mamma," said a little boy of this place, "have I got a step-father?" "I did not know you had," replied his mother. "What is a step-father, Mamma?" "One who makes you step around, my son." "Well," said he, after a thoughtful pause, "if I aint got a step father I've got a step mother!" AUNT MOLLY.

Miss Van Doren, supported by a strong company, will appear in Music hall next Monday evening in "Charlotte Russe," a satirical society drama.

Miss A. C. Morgan's school for young ladies and girls will re-open Wednesday, Sept. 28th.

The White mountain excursion train on Tuesday took about 200 persons from this city.

Miss Mary Chase Toppan, formerly of Hampton, died on the 9th inst. at the residence of her sister, Mrs. S. J. Spaldieg, in Newburyport, where she had made her home for several years past. Miss Toppan is remembered by the older residents of Hampton as a lady of many accomplishments. She was the daughter of Edmund Toppan, Esq., for a long period the leading citizen of the town. Miss Toppan was the sister of Hon. Christopher S. Toppan, for many years a prominent ship-owner and merchant of this city. He was one of the early mayors of Portsmouth, and died in October, 1861.

New lines of Silk Plush, fine line of colors, at Lewis E. Staples', No. 7 Market street.

Annoying.

It is very annoying to some people to be deluded into reading cleverly written notices, in the newspapers, which are only intended to draw the reader's attention to the fact that some enterprising store-keeper has reduced eight-cent prints to five, and has also the best line of night-dresses, etc., in the city. But Foye's must advertise; see another column.

Wanted

A CASHIER to store in this city. Must be one competent to keep books and make sales. Make application in own handwriting, addressing DOX 828, Portsmouth, N. H.

PRIVATE SCHOOL.

MISS E. E. RAND, being about to commence a new term of her School, would call the attention of parents to the facts of her long and successful career as a teacher, and would solicit a continuation of patronage. Backward pupils receive special attention.

The receipts of the York Harbor & Beach railroad have been far in excess of the anticipations of the most sanguine of its projectors, and arrangements for a much extended service will be made before the opening of "the season" next year.

Mr. Cleveland is engaged in the heretofore much neglected work of conciliating the powerful newspapers of his party, preparatory to demanding a renomination at the hands of his party. Among those on the docket is Foster's Democrat of Dover. Just what will bring Joseph into line is not yet determined. The subject will be discussed early in the winter. Henry Watterson is being handled by Congressman W. I. Scott, who comes fresh from the president with an olive branch.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for the incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, converts speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is prevensive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Children's Diadem.

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOK.

By ABBEY & MUNGER.

By a happy thought, the above endearing name was given to a book containing the last compositions of Mr. A. J. Abbey, a good composer of refined taste, a child lover and successful teacher, who has recently passed away. This new collection of the sweetest of children's hymns and songs is likely to be received with great favor.

35 cts., $3.60 per dozen.

JEHOVAH'S PRAISE, L. O. EMERSON, is an entirely new and superior book for Choirs, Singing Classes and Conventions. A large and attractive collection of Sacred and Secular music for practice and Church Service, Anthems, and Hymn Tunes.

Price $1.00, $9.00 per dozen.

VOICES OF PRAISE, REV. CHAS. L. HUTCHINS, occupies a high place in the esteem of those who need a collection of music of convenient size, not difficult and of moderate price, to use in religious meetings and in the Sunday school service. Everything is dignified and in good taste, yet there is spirit and brilliancy throughout. Please examine.

Price 40 cts., $4.20 per dozen.

Ugly and Hateful,

But I could't help it. Everything went wrong with me, and I thought I hadn't a friend in the world; dyspepsia caused this, and for months I couldn't eat anything, and just suffered in misery till I used Sulphur Bitters. Three bottles cured me.—D. Lewis, 22 Bowdoin street, Boston, Mass.

The Congregational church at Hill village, Franklin, was burned on the night of Sept. 11th; cause unknown; loss $4000.

A peculiarity of Hood's Sarsaparilla is that while it purifies the blood, it imparts new vigor to every function of the body.

The house and barn of Charles Bohonon, Nashua, were burned Sept. 12th; loss $2500; partially insured.

How to Gain Health and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk and easily digested. Delicate people improve rapidly with its use. For consumption, throat affections and bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thomas Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month."

One desperado was killed and two of his companions were wounded in a fight with the sheriff's posse at Mauchaca, Texas, last week.

Hay Fever.

For twenty-five years I have been severely afflicted with hay fever. While I was suffering intensely I was induced, through Mr. Tichenor's testimonial, to try Ely's Cream Balm. The effect was marvelous. It enabled me to perform my pastoral duties without the slightest inconvenience, and I have escaped a return attack. I pronounced Ely's Cream Balm a cure for hay fever. VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

P. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

Reference: FRANK T. WRAY, Druggist, Apollo, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED,

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrah. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Tale of a Thoughtful Rat.

On a very warm day in early summer I happened to be standing near a chicken-coop in a back yard, when I noticed the head of a gray rat thrust from a neighboring rat-hole, and concluded to watch the movements of the veteran. After a careful survey of the surroundings, our old rodent seemed to be satisfied that all was right, and made a cautious exit from the home retreat. A fresh pan of water had been recently placed before the chicken-coop, and the water looked a friendly invitation to the thirsty old rat, which immediately started toward it.

The rat had not reached the pan before five half-grown young ones rushed ahead and tried to be the first at the water. The old rat thereupon made a leap like a kangaroo and was at the edge of the dish in advance of the foremost of her litter. Then ensued a most remarkable occurrence. The mother rat raised herself on her haunches and hit and scratched her offspring so severely whenever they attempted to reach the water that they all finally scudded away, evidently very much astonished and frightened at the strange and unaccountable behavior of their mother. When the little ones were at a safe distance the reasons for her extraordinary behavior began to be revealed at once in the intelligent action of the old mother rat.

She first wetted her whiskers in the water, looked suspiciously about her, then very cautiously and carefully took a dainty little sip of the liquid. She tasted it as tentatively and critically as a professional tea-taster, and then she was satisfied that it contained no poisonous or other deleterious matter she gave a couple of squeaks which quickly brought her young and thirsty brood to her side, and all fearlessly drank their fill. Now, this old mother rat was experienced, had evidently learned her lesson in that school thoroughly, and so she would not allow her young and untaught litter to taste water which might have contained rat-poison or what not until she had satisfied herself that the liquid was harmless.—American Natiuralist.

The Destructive Power of Torpedoes.

The destructive power of torpedoes was recently illustrated in the Resistance experiments; but no exact account of their action has yet been published, as far as we know, of their use in actual warfare. Although the destruction of the Chinese corvet Yank Wo during the fight between the French and the Chinese at Foochow has almost been forgotten, no authentic report of the encounter has ever reached us. The account just given of the annihilation of the Chinese vessel by a close eye-witness is therefore doubly interesting. The writer says that the French flagship had two torpedo boats attached to her at the gangways. The ship was about 300 yards below the Yang Wo. As soon as the firing commenced, both boats attacked the Chinese vessel. The first one fired her torpedo directly under the Yang Wo's after gangway—starboard side. No damage whatever was done to the ship; but the officer in charge of the torpedo-boat was wounded in the chest by the return action of the torpedo. The other had in the meantime attacked the ship forward, a little abaft the cathead, on the same side. This torpedo was in direct contact with the ship. The effect was that, when the torpedo exploded, it penetrated the fore magazine, or rather the fire from it did. This blew up, and the whole forward part of the ship was demolished. This all happened within three minutes. The remainder of the wreck drifted ashore, and burned for several days. The Yang Wo was a wooden corvet of fourteen guns. The torpedoes used were booms—contact ones.—Iron.

Transplanting Evergreen Shrubs.

Many failures occur from lack of proper treatment at transplanting. There is no more beautiful shrub of this kind, than our native "Laurel" (improperly so called, as it is not a Laurel), Kalmia latifolia, also called "Calico Bush." It is very rarely seen in cultivation, and there is a general belief that it cannot be transplanted from the woods, but if we would have it in our grounds, we must get nursery grown trees. We know of a great admirer of this shrub, who imported it from an English nursery, while it grew by thousands within a few miles of his place. Yet this shrub can be transplanted as readily as a willow, if one will, at transplanting it, cut it back to remove every leaf. This appears like severe treatment, but unless one will cut the beatiful shrub back to a naked stem, he had better leave it where it grew, for it will surely fail. Treated thus, success is certain as with any other shrub. In due time the naked stem will "break," producing an abundance of new shoots, and by autumn will be supplied with abundant foliage. Having done this and seen it done by others, it may be tried with full confidence of success. We have no doubt that other shrubs of this class, if on their removal from the nursery were treated in the same manner, would succeed more frequently than they now do. Yet few have the courage, when they pay a dollar, more or less, for a shrub, to mutilate it in this manner. Still it is worth trying. —American Agriculturist.

"Rum is a curse and must go," shouted a frenzied prohibition orator. "Yesh," said a thick voice near the door, "down with it!"—Life.

"GOT HIS REWARD."

A friend has handed us a slip with the above heading, cut from the Exeter News-Letter. We suppose that paper must have been imposed upon, as we have rarely seen so many mis-statements in so few lines. The article reads:

George E. Hodgdon, Esq., succeeded in getting elected a representative to the General Court last fall from the city of Portsmouth. That accomplished, he got the mayoralty "bee in his bonnet," and thinking that now was his opportunity, took his seat in the legislature, and was appointed on the railroad committee as one of the four supposed to be in favor of the Boston & Maine. The election of mayor was to come off on the first Tuesday of August, and although Mr. Eldredge, the old mayor, desired to be re-elected, the election was controlled by Frank Jones, who controls everything in Portsmouth. Mr. Jones had pledged his influence for Hodgdon, and went home to that city the week of the election, and stayed all of the week, the only time he has been absent from Concord for so long a time since the commencement of the session. Mr. Hodgdon was nominated and elected by a large vote, the republicans hardly putting in an appearance. Jones was too much for both the republicans and Eldredge. After his inauguration Mr. Hodgdon signed the majority report, and made a speech in the house last week in favor of the Hazen bill. Comment is unnecessary.

It is no secret, and it requires no one in the councils of the democratic party to be able to state, that these assertions, which practically amount to a charge of a bribe extended to the mayor, are false. Mr. Hodgdon, who before had been a member of the legislature, has for some time past had an ambition to serve the city as its mayor. Last year he served on the board of aldermen. In the late canvass he had no competitor in his own party, and was unanimously nominated in the caucus. Ex-Mayor Eldredge was invited by members of both political parties to run as a candidate. To the republicans, who represented that he ought to be mayor when the Soldiers' & Sailors' Monument was to be dedicated, and that leading citizens must take their turn in this service, the then mayor remarked that he had served two years and his business engagements required his time, and some one else should take a turn. To the letter of several democrats urging him to again allow his name to be used, Mr. Eldredge sent a reply unequivocally declining the honor. Mr. Jones we happen to know took no part in the nomination, except that after several days absence he returned to the city late in the afternoon of the day the caucus was held, drove to the court house, cast his vote and immediately went to his residence. Mr. Hodgdon is a lawyer, a prominent member of the G. A. R., and the gentleman whom his party decided should be the candidate for mayor because the democrats thought he was the best man mentioned for the office. In fact his nomination was a foregone conclusion before Mr. Eldredge declined publicly a renomination.

To charge Mr. Jones with spending his valuable time in fixing the incumbency in every office in the city is to suppose that the politics of Portsmouth are like those of Exeter, where a certain clique has controlled the patronage in town affairs from time immemorial, and where no one outside the select circle can come into the fold. Mr. Hodgdon has as a citizen of Portsmouth had abundant occasion to note the distinction between the progressive mode of conducting business by the Boston & Maine railway, and the conservative and contracted ideas displayed by their opponents. As a lawyer and a member of the railroad committee, it would have been strange if he had not made a speech upon the prominent question before the house of representatives. But to say Mr. Hodgdon owed his election either as representative or as mayor to Mr. Jones, is simply absurd, as every one who is conversant with our local politics will admit. Mr. Hodgdon has been the "coming man" for mayor for some time, and it is not owing to Mr. Jones' aid that he has got there. It was an inevitable result. The News-Letter item must have been conjured solely from imaginative theories. There is no foundation in fact for any of its assertions.

The Anarchist Murderers Must Hang.

The supreme court of Illinois on the 14th inst. unanimously affirmed the action of the lower court in the case of the condemned anarchists, and sentenced them to be hung on Nov. 11th.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

Kittery, Me., Sept. 13th.

Mr. John J. Lambert a few months ago offered a prize to the scholar of the 1st Methodist Sunday school, North Kittery, who should obtain the largest number of new members to join the school before September. It was found at the expiration of the time that Miss Grace Waldron and Miss Lillian Manson had each obtained the same number, consequently both were presented with a handsomely-bound Bible, with which the young ladies were much pleased.

There is considerable sickness now in this vicinity. Arthur Pettigrew, son of Owen E. Pettigrew of North Kittery, is dangerously sick with typhoid fever, and several others are reported quite ill.

Rev. Alva Hatch, who died in Saco last week, preached at the 1st Methodist church in this town about twenty years ago; he will be kindly remembered by many of his old parishioners.

A resident of North Kittery, so we are told, went out to shoot a skunk a few evenings since, and shot his neighbor's black-and-white cat, much to the disgust of both.

Mrs. John J. Lambert has quite a handsome flower garden in front of her pretty home on Pullet hill.

Miss Susie E. Pettigrew returned to her home in Newburyport, Monday morning, where she is an attache of the Herald.

Mr. Owen E. Pettigrew is making preparations to build a fine new barn on his premises, to take the place of the one recently burned by lightning.

The new overhead bridge in Rice's hollow (or where the hollow used to be) over the new railroad, is not yet completed, nor does it look as though it ever would be; it looms up like the tower of Babel. Sub Rosa.

The wooden bridge over Merrimac street in Newburyport, over which the Boston & Maine railroad ran, was on Sunday removed, and a new iron structure built by the Boston Bridge works put in its place. The new bridge is for a double track.

Hon. Leopold Morse went to Concord one day this week to place his son at St. Paul's school. One of the Concord & Montreal syndicate is said to have laid awake all night imagining for what purpose Frank Jones had induced his friend and former fellow congressman to come to Concord. He felt better in the morning when he learned the purpose of the congressman's visit to the capital.

Mr. Joe Manley, the well known politician of Augusta, Me., spent a night in Concord this week, where he went on private business. The Concord lobby held a meeting in order to ascertain which one of the impregnable members whom they had regarded as beyond hazard solid for the Atherton bill was sought to be seduced by the shrewd republican from the Kennebec. As Mr. Manley's visit had not the remotest connection with any question pending before the legislature, the smelling committee reported that there was no cause for alarm.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. Wood, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. Balcom, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. Proudfoot, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

WOMANS' CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION.

The New Hampshire Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold its fourteenth annual convention Sept. 27th, 28th and 29th, in Manchester. Annual business, reports, etc., will occupy the day sessions. Miss Francis E. Willard, Pundita Ramabai, a Hindoo lady of high caste, and Miss Ida C. Gother, will give the evening addresses. Each local Union is entitled to two delegates, for whom entertainment will be provided. Reduced rates have been secured on the various railroads, and everybody is invited to attend the convention.

MATRIMONIAL.

Mr. Frank E. Donnell and Miss Lulu E. Morse of Kittery were united in marriage on Wednesday evening, the 14th inst., by Rev. Francis Grovenor, at the residence of the bride at the Foreside. The bride made a handsome picture in brown silk, with a corsage bouquet of roses; and the manly looking bridegroom handsomely supplemented the picture. The bridal gifts were very numerous, handsome, and many of them costly, among them being a sewing machine and much silver ware. The newly wedded pair take up their residence at Sawyer's Mills, Dover, where Mr. Donnell has been employed for some six months past, and where they enter at once upon housekeeping in a cottage already furnished. The wedding guests consisted of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties, and a few intimate friends.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Sept. 13th.

The farmers' hay crop was gathered in in poor condition; now the potato crop is very light, and if early frosts are at hand much damage will be done to crops not yet ripe.

Labor day was observed in different ways by all lovers of pleasure in this town.

The school-houses have been thoroughly cleansed and repaired, and schools commenced yesterday morning with the same teachers as last year.

Several of our citizens went to the mountains on Tuesday last, and a large number went to Centre Harbor on Thursday.

Summer guests are leaving for their homes, and some for the mountains; the station is full as the regular trains come in. A few nights since a train with seventeen passenger cars passed through, eastward bound.

The weather was all that could be desired for the Farmers' Meeting at Boar's Head; a perfect day and fine music, good speaking, plenty to eat, and good cheer prevailed through the day. Crowds came in the cars, and the roads were full of teams the entire day.

The carpenters in this vicinity are having quite a rest. For several years lumber has been in good demand, but much that was sawed in the spring still remains at the mills, not sold as yet.

As fevers are prevalent in some of the cities, people are coming among their friends in this town to spend the most delightful season of the year, and enjoy the special beauties the country affords.

No school to-day, by order of the mayor. Proper.

R. L. REINWALD, CONDUCTOR.

The Nonpareil Associates are arranging for a social assembly in Franklin hall on Wednesday evening, the 28th inst. The Music hall orchestra will furnish the music.

The lasters at the Portsmouth Shoe factory are now working nights, business being driving.

Messrs. Alfred McCourt, head waiter, and Flagg F. Grant, steward, at the hotel Wentworth the past summer, received a few days since elegant easy chairs, the gifts of the young lady waiters at the hotel this season.

The announcement is made that Mr. Henry L. Harlow, for many years past prominent in musical affairs in this city, is to take up his residence in the west. If he has all the prosperity we wish him, he will have no cause to complain.

The White mountain excursionists who went on the special train Tuesday morning of this week, though they left threatening weather behind found on arriving at North Conway a bright and beautiful day; they arrived back, or many of them did, at about 9:30 o'clock the same evening, having had a highly enjoyable excursion.

The acting secretary of the treasury on the 14th inst. opened seventeen proposals for the sale of United States bonds to the treasury. In the list of proposals we did not see the name of Mr. McNeally of Biddeford, who is quite a large holder of government bonds.

The new tug boat "Cocheco," which was launched a few days since at Bath, Me., will be completed in about a month, She will not be brought around to the Piscataqua river until next season.

PERSONAL.

Mr. John Buzzell and wife, of Fernandina, Fla., who have passed the summer with friends in this city, started for home on Wednesday.

Mr. Charles A. Grant and wife, of Manchester, are visiting at the home of Mr. Grant's brother, Mr. John Grant of Washington street.

Mr. George Dennett of Nashua, formerly of this city, is visiting Mr. Benjamin Winn on Union street.

Mr. Oliver Maxwell of East Boston, formerly of Portsmouth, is visiting at Mr. John L. Randall's on Jefferson street.

CALLED OUT.

The firemen commenced their parade on Thursday by turning out at 1:30 A. M. in answer to an alarm from box twenty-four, corner of Washington and Gates streets, caused by a fire in the apartments of Richard Mayo, in the house No. 25 Washington street, owned by James Janvrin and occupied by Mayo, Daniel Danielson, Mrs. Hobley, and Edward R. Janvrin. The fire was extinguished without any water being put on by the steamers. Mr. Mayo is unlucky as to fires. It was in his premises that the fire started in the block on Pleasant street, next the North church, a year or so ago; and we are informed that he was previously burned out on Penhallow street. The firemen, who had got their machines all polished up for the parade, were considerably displeased at having to mud them all over.

The trustees of the Biddeford and Saco savings bank have increased the reward for the capture of McNeally and the recovery of the stolen property to $7500—$2500 for the thief, and $5000 for the money and bonds.

Col. Sise fire engine, No. 2, which was sent to Manchester for repairs, arrived back on Wednesday evening in time for the parade of the fire department to-day.

Jenness & Dowd invite all in want of marble posts or curbs, or any kind of cemetery work, to call on them, and save money.

Mr. J. W. Young, whose shoe shop is in the rear of the city building, is selling good shoes for seventy-five cents per pair; shoes a little out of fashion, well made of good stock. He also has an immense stock of shoe findings of all kinds, which he sells at lower prices than anyone else in town. He also does all kinds of repairing, as well as new work, promptly and well. He does not make a specialty of any one kind of work, but does every kind in a satisfactory manner.

The steamer James Sampson on Wednesday, the 14th inst., discontinued her trips to the Pocahontas hotel, the house closing that day. The steamer Mystic has discontinued her 9:30 P. M. trips between Kittery and this city.

Nora Perry, who has been at Hampton all the season, sends to a Boston paper the conundrum "Why, favored with such resources and such advantages of neighborhood, Boston capital has not come forward and long before this made of the Hamptons a second Newport?" There are very many respectable summer residents at the Hamptons who would seriously deplore their quiet place of summer rest being changed to the exhibit of the gay galore and questionable morals which have characterized the reported scenes at Newport of late. People visit the Hamptons for a quiet season, and not to be seen of men.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment nine as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for ills incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for Children's Diadem.

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOK.

By ABBEY & MUNGER.

By a happy thought, the above endearing name was given to a book containing the best compositions of Mr. A. J. Abbey, a good comp-ser of selected taste, a child lover and successful teacher, who has recently passed away. This new collection of the sweetest of children's hymns and songs is likely to be received with great favor.

35 cts., $3.60 per dozen.

JEHOVAH'S PRAISE, is an entirely new and superior book for Choirs, Singing Classes and Conventions. A large and attractive collection of Sacred and Secular music for practice and Church Service, Anthems, and Hymn Tunes.

Price $1.00, $9.00 per dozen.

VOICES OF PRAISE, Rev. Chas. L. Hutchins, occupies a high place in the esteem of those who need a collection of music of convenient size, not difficult and of moderate price, to use in religious meetings and in the Sunday school service. Everything is dignified and in good taste, yet there is spirit and brilliancy throughout. Please examine. a23

In the Whole Hideous Catalogue

Of diseases, there were none which, previous to the discovery of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, offered more formidable resistance to the old fashioned modes of treatment than the group of maladies which, under the collective name of malarial disease, afflicted entire communities that suffered hopelessly. Chills and fever, dumb ague, ague cake and bilious remittent were once regarded as well nigh incurable. Now it rejoices the hearts of thousands who reside in places periodically subject to the visitation of malaria, to feel certain that in the Bitters they possess a certain defence against the scourge, a sure means of expelling its poison from the system. To the settler in the far west, the new emigrant thither, and to travellers and tourists by land and by sea, the possession of this pleasant safeguard is guaranty of safety from diseases which they might vainly seek from any other source.

John H. Slade & Co., dry goods commission merchants, of New York, have suspended; liabilities about $857,000.

Ugly and Hateful,

But I couldn't help it. Everything went wrong with me, and I thought I hadn't a friend in the world; dyspepsia caused this, and for months I couldn't eat anything, and just suffered in misery till I used Sulphur Bitters. Three bottles cured me.—D. Lewis, 22 Bowdoin street, Boston, Mass.

James W. Osburne, charged with forgery, has been brought back from Chicago, by Cambridge, Mass., officers.

A peculiarity of Hood's Sarsaparilla is that while it purifies the blood, it imparts new vigor to every function of the body.

Sir Charles Young, a well known English dramatic writer, author of "Jim the Penman," is dead.

Hay Fever.

For twenty-five years I have been severely afflicted with hay fever. While I was suffering intensely I was induced, through Mr. Tichenor's testimonial, to try Ely's Cream Balm. The effect was marvelous. It enabled me to perform my pastoral duties without the slightest inconvenience, and I have escaped a return attack. I pronounced Ely's Cream Balm a cure for hay fever. William T. Carr, Presbyterian pastor, Elizabeth, N. J.

Six men were killed and eight others badly hurt by an explosion of dynamite in the custom house at Callao, Sept. 11th.

To be free from sick headache, biliousness, constipation, etc., use Carter's Little Liver Pills. Strictly vegetable. They gently stimulate the liver and free the stomach from bile.

Charles Foster, mate of the Bangor schooner Adeline Hamlin, fell overboard in Boston on the 13th inst., and was drowned.

You hardly realize that it is medicine, when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills; they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use.

The Rochester town fair will commence on Tuesday, Sept. 27th, and continue four days, with racing events each day, the purses offered amounting to $2225.

Dr. J. B. Mays says: "I used 'Digestylin' in my own case, and was much pleased; found it not only efficient for indigestion, but very palatable."

Sold by all druggists, $1.00 a bottle, or W. F. Kidder & Co., manufacturing chemists, 88 John street, New York.

The Lasters' Union fair at Dover will be held Sept. 22d and 23d, and prizes footing up $3500 will be "given away."

Prof. Loisette's Memory Plans.

Prof. Loisette, the famous memory improver has now returned from his lecturing tour during the heated term to his offices, No. 237 Fifth Avenue, where he will remain to attend to his correspondence during the holidays. During this holiday, he has lectured to large classes at Watch Hill, Saratoga and elsewhere, winding up with three large classes at Chautauqua. We cannot imagine how a system of memory training could be more strongly endorsed than Prof. Loisette's has been by such men as Mr. Richard A. Proctor, Hon. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Doctors Brown and Minor, etc. If more could be added it has been afforded in the case of the patronage of his system by 100 Columbia College law students, two classes of 100 each at Yale, 400 at Wesleyan College, 400 at University of Pennsylvania, and three large classes at Chautauqua. In face of these facts who can hesitate to apply to this Memory Specialist for needed memory improvement?

Do Not Let The Fortune Slip By You Now.

No one doubted but it would take place, but their hope was confirmed by the 207th Grand Monthly Drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery, New Orleans, La., on Tuesday—Rye Tuesday—August 9th. Here is how things went and where Fortune scattered her favors: No. 50,265 drew the First Capital Prize of $150,000; it was sold in fractions of one-tenth each at $1; two-tenths ($30,000) were held by W. C. Moorman, collected through Kentucky National Bank at Louisville, Ky.; another one was paid through the same Bank; one to J. B. Fontaine, Callenie, Ga.; one paid through Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Bank at San Francisco, Cal.; one to the Alexander Co. National Bank at Cairo, Ill.; one to E. Rapp, Houston, Texas; one to W. H. Anthony, Houston, Texas; one paid through the National Park Bank of New York city, N. Y., to Charles Hoffman, Hornellsville, N. Y. No. 29,146 drew the Second Capital Prize of $50,000, also sold in fractions of tenths at $1 each; one was held by H. T. Woods of Portland, Me.; one by T. J. Baker, Chicago, Ill.; one to Thos. D. Crump of Jonesburg, Mo.; one was paid through Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal.; one by W. A. Barnhill, paid through First National Bank at Jackson, Tenn.; one to S. J. Hill of New Orleans, La.; one to J. F. Schulze, No. 213 W. Markham St., Little Rock, Ark.; one to Wm. Higgins Adams, Boston, Mass. No. 46,866 drew Third Capital Prize of $20,000, sold also in fractions of tenths at $1 each; one was held by Robt. McNaughton, Governor St., Richmond, Va.; one by W. H. Scott, Camp Point, Ill.; one to Geo. Ober, Ladonia, Tex.; one to Robt. Young, Jr., 48 Customhouse St., New Orleans, La.; one to the Misses M. and A. Meyer, New York; one paid through the Falls City Bank, Louisville, Ky.; one paid through the Anglo-Californian Bank at San Francisco, Cal.; one to H. M. Eddins, Glencoe, Minn.; one to James Stevenson, No. 38 Hanover St., Providence, R. I.; one to Oscar Grosheli, care of Richardson Drug Co., Omaha, Neb.; one to W. Dowling, San Francisco, Cal. Tickets Nos. 46,425 and 46,261 drew the two Fourth Prizes of $10,000 each; the fractions of tickets were sold all over, and parties winning live in New Orleans, Mobile, Ala., Key West, Fla., Dallas, Tex., Washington, D. C., Cleveland, O., Memphis, Tenn., Kansas City, Mo., Birmingham, Ala., Camden, Ark., Jacksonville, Tex., and San Francisco, Cal. It will all go over on Tuesday, October 11th, 1887, and no one should let the occasion slip.

—"Do you play base ball much, Mr. Featherly?" asked Bobby. "I never played a game in my life, Bobby." "Then pa must be off his base," said Bobby, who is well up in the game himself; "he told me something about your getting on a bat pretty often."

—"Hello, Charley, what are you doing; moving?" asked one young man of another whom he met with a big valise in his hand. "I've just commenced my vacation." "Your vacation?" "Yes. I'm vacating at the request of my landlady."

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED,

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

France's Wonderful New Rifle.

The Lebel rifle, the new arm with which the French infantry will be supplied before next spring, is, according to all accounts, a wonder, and several models of the gun which have been received here have excited great interest. The new rifle is known by the name of its inventor, Lebel, and is smaller and lighter than the rifles now in use; the French soldiers call it "the little gun." The most authentic descriptions given to the gun agree in attributing to it a carrying power beyond that of any rifle heretofore in use. The models received in New York are not known to be accurate copies of the Lebel gun, and experiments with them are impossible, owing to the fact that the powder used is a secret compound of which the French Government has the monopoly.

According to all accounts the Lebel gun will carry its bullet more than a mile and a half, and with a more certain aim than has been possible with ordinary rifles. The bore of the gun is very small, and the ball, which is of steel and sharply pointed at one end, is said to revolve at a speed of a thousand revolutions a second. In the tests made by the French Government this bullet has penetrated a brick wall eight inches thick at a distance of 500 yards; it will go through any kind of armor which can be worn by soldiers, and at a distance of more than a mile will pass through a man as easily as at ten paces. The gun has no recoil under fire, and the powder gives out no smoke whatever. It has been said that the powder used must be a type of the smokeless hunting powder already in the market, but this is denied by the inventor, who says that he uses an entirely new compound. The Lebel gun is, of course, a repeater, and the cartridges are so small that each soldier carries 220 rounds of ammunition, as against 116 rounds, formerly considered the maximum.—Evening Post.

Ex-Senator Tabor's Divorced Wife.

A tall, fine-looking, well-dressed woman was sitting near the fare box in a Broadway street-car as I entered it. She had a high forehead, dark-brown hair, black eyes and remarkably intelligent features. A friend sat beside her and to him she talked pleasantly. Her tones were low and her English was of the purest. She was apparently about forty years of age, and my attention was first attracted to her by the fact that she had overpaid her fare, putting in a dime for a nickel. I made this even by giving her my fare instead of putting it in the box. As she left the car I learned she was a woman with a history, and that she was none other then ex-Senator Tabor's first wife—the woman who made his big strike for him by taking boarders and keeping the store which supplied the feed for the prospectors who struck the Little Pittsburg mine. This was the woman from whom Tabor got his divorce, and it was this woman he left to marry the present Mrs. Tabor, whom he first wedded at St. Louis; afterwards another marriage ceremony was solemnized at Washington. She does not look like a disappointed woman, and she is by no means one of the frail reeds of the fair sex. I don't think she would have disgraced her husband at Washington, and that there at Denver her standing is very good. She is in good circumstances, the property which Tabor gave her having largely increased in value. She is worth at least $500,000 to-day, and she lately sold sixteen lots out of a piece of forty which Tabor gave her for $60,000. She has left twenty-four lots and a house upon them that costs $45,000, and she still owns the La Veta property. This last consists of fourteen three-story houses, built in the best manner and forming good renting property worth about $200,000.—Denver Letter.

The Prince of Wales' Heir.

In everything except the indispensable tawny beard that falls like a roll of dead gold silk to the extremity of a massive chest, Prince Albert Victor, the eldest son of the Prince of Wales, models himself on Ouida's heroes. He is as fond of knickknacks as a lady. His private apartments are the nearest approach to the talented but vulgar authoress's ideal of a young guardsman's rooms. He would not brush his hair otherwise than with an ivory-backed brush to save his life. Eau de Cologne and other perfumes have their place in his bath. To write a note on paper that was not the triumph of the perfumer's art, would, in his own imagination, be unworthy of his tastes and position. He has started in life, in fact, as an exquisite of the George IV. type; but luckily for himself and for the nation, he is preserved from some of the most objectionable traits of the "First Gentleman's" character by the sensitive shyness of his disposition. He differs again from most exquisites in having a praiseworthy desire to pay promptly for the luxuries in which he indulges. Indeed, he worries his attendants to worry his tradespeople to send in their bills sharp, and frets and fumes if the astute shopkeeper—alive to the value of having the future King of England upon their books within decent limits—delay in delivering their accounts. Like his father, he gets his clothes—and plenty of them—from Poole. Prince Albert Victor's idea of dignified mufti is a frock coat and lavender or gray trousers. He seldom wears a cutaway coat, and even when traveling hardly ever appears in a suit of dittoes. On the whole, he may be described as a very stately and solemn young man.—London Letter.

Never Travel Without Them.

Persons should never travel without a box of Brandreth's Pills. A few doses taken before going on ship will prevent sea sickness, and one pill every night on ship-board will counteract the costive action of the sea air. When sick, troubled with pains, colds, or dizziness, or having rheumatism take from three to five pills and if they do not operate in an hour or so take three or four more.

An Important Element

Of the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is the fact that every purchaser receives a fair equivalent for his money. The familiar headline "100 Doses One Dollar," stolen by imitators, is original with and true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla. This can easily be proven by any one who desires to test the matter. For real economy, buy only Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists.

Charles Cassily of Dover, who has two bad fingers caused by his hand being caught in a machine in the Cocheco printery, got to fooling with a revolver on the 13th inst., and in some way it went off and the bullet went through one of his fingers. A doctor took out three pieces of splintered bones. His hand will be no worse than before.

One application of St. Jacobs Oil has cured neuralgia. Druggists and dealers have it.

There were two theatrical entertainments in Dover on the night of the 14th inst., — Roland Reed's company in "Cheek," and Floy Crowell's company in "A Wife's Secret." No such circumstance ever occurred in Dover before.

How to Gain Health and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk and easily digested. Delicate people improve rapidly with its use. For consumption, throat affections and bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thomas Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month."

Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb's Next Grand Transcontinental Trip.

An autumn trip to California ought to be extremely popular. The season is delightful for travelling, and the Pacific coast is reached when the vineyards and orchards are in their richest fruitage. A party will leave Boston Tuesday, October 11th, for the Pacific Northwest and California. The route outward is over the Northern Pacific railroad from St. Paul to Tacoma. The Puget sound region, the Columbia river, the picturesque Mount Shasta section, Central California, and Southern California will then be visited. The trip occupies only fifty-one days, but the tickets returning are good until next July, so that the time of sojourn on the Pacific coast can be prolonged at pleasure. In addition to this tour Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb have a long list of autumn trips through New England, Canada, the Middle States, etc. Send to W. Raymond, 296 Washington street, opposite School street, Boston, for descriptive circular, designating whether the Pacific coast tour or the book of autumn trips is wanted.

Major William H. Trickey of Dover, a well known war veteran and Grand Army lecturer, has notified the post-office department that he will shortly retire, after sixteen years service, from his position as first-class clerk in the railway mail service between Boston and Portland via the western division of the Boston & Maine railroad. He is about to enter Tufts college to study for the ministry. Major Trickey is one of the best known G. A. R. men in New England.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. Wood, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. Balcom, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. Proudfoot, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

THE FIREMEN'S PARADE.

Thursday was a perfect day for the first annual parade of the Fire Department, and the affair was a brilliant success from first to last, the previously-announced programme being carried out without a hitch of any kind.

All the engines presented a very attractive appearance, all being more or less elaborately decorated with flags and bouquets of flowers. Moses H. Goodrich, No. 4, doubtless made the finest display in this direction, being very profusely decorated with banners and flowers, all the work of fireman Smart, who has spent much time in polishing and painting up his machine, a pleasing feature of this decoration being a metal rim around the smoke stack, to which were attached crystal pendants of white and red, which glistened and sparkled in the sunlight all along the long route over which the procession passed. The engine was drawn by a fine pair of dappled gray horses owned by the Eldredge Brewing company, decorated with red, white and blue ribbons, and bouquets of flowers.

Kearsarge, No. 3, was drawn by a black pair of horses owned by the Portsmouth brewing Co. This machine also was attractively decorated, and its company wore new uniform helmet hats.

Col. Sise Company, No. Two, made a very fine showing, in the line of drill, and when passing the city building, company front, their line and marching were characterized by great precision. Along the route there were several patriotic ones who decorated their houses or hoisted the national colors. Among those which we noticed were the city building, J. S. Whidden's store, custom House, the residence of Capt. John G. Moses, the Rockingham house, John J. Laskey's and that of Howard Laskey, the residences of J. Woodsum, John Nutter, C. E. Leach, A. K. W. Green; Liberty Bridge, Messrs. Randall & Caswell's office. The steamer Mystic also had her colors flying. The procession having started a few moments after 11 o'clock arrived at the field where the clambake was served just as the clock was striking one. The bake was opened at half-past one and a very determined assault made upon it by the entire company, such an assault as only hungry men can make. The bake was a grand success. The clams, lobsters and all the other fixings were excellently cooked by Capt. Jenks, and, notwithstanding the large crowd, all were served by Mr. Wells and his assistants.

There were present as invited guests from abroad, Chief Engineer Lane, Capt. Clarence D. Palmer, Capt. J. H. Allsop, Asst. foreman, D. G. Mills, Charles G. Renno, Engr. Frank Pherson, George Forsaith, Wm. Dodge, D. W. Morse, A. A. Puffer, O. R. Merrill, John Brown, George Wheeler, Henry C. Morrill, Parker A. Brown of Manchester; fireman Dennett of Nashua, Chief Engineer Hadley of Salem, foreman Post, asst. foreman Ives, Messrs. Frank Hardy, James Moore, Thomas H. Glynn of Newburyport; Frank A. Morgan, Walter Woodbury of Beverly, the guests of Kearsarge three; Oliver Maxwell of East Boston and Herman Manson, guests of Col. Sise, two. Chief Engineer Marden received letters from Hon. Daniel Marcy of this city, the chief engineers of Concord, Dover and Newburyport, and ex-chief engineer J. A. Waterhouse of this city, who could not be present.

The trial of engines took place on the Parade, commencing at 3 o'clock, and the exhibition was witnessed by a large number of people on the sidewalks, and in all the windows on each side of the street. Nathan Whalley and E. C. Neally tested the gauges, and Messrs. Horace S. Hatch and J. F. Mcgraw acted as judges of the stream for No. 4, C. D. Palmer and T. W. Lane of Manchester for No. 3, Joseph Randall and Herman Manson for No. 2. No. 4 opened the trial and threw a stream of water 224 feet.

Col. Sise, No. 2, 235 feet 8 3-4 inches.
Kearsarge, No. 3, 222 feet 8 inches.

M'LLE RHEA.

M'lle Rhea, the celebrated actress, will appear at Music hall on Thursday evening, Sept. 22d, in her new emotional drama in five acts entitled "Fairy Fingers." The play has achieved a wonderful success during the past season, and was produced by M'lle Rhea in nearly every large city in the Union. At the Boston theatre the critics were unanimous in praise of both star any play. Owen Ferree, M'lle Rhea's manager, in speaking of the play said: "'Fairy Fingers' is a charming emotional drama from the French of Ernest Lejoure, the author of Adrienne Lecouvreier. It had a run of four hundred nights in Paris, and it was in this play that M'lle. Rhea made her first great success; the role is exacly suited to her protean talents. The story of the play is the old one of love—of a poor girl who is ill-treated by her rich relatives and leaves their home to battle with the world alone. But in this case she does not fight in rags—she conquers in elegant dresses; she opens a dress-making establishment in Paris, and by her skill in designing beautiful costumes soon has at her feet the fashionable world of Paris, who declare she must be possessed of 'fairy fingers' to invent so many clever dresses. The play derives its name from this fact." "How about M'lle Rhea's dresses?" was asked. "She will surpass any previous effort. She will wear five of her handsomest dresses, all the work of Worth, the famous man-milliner of Paris." How is the company supporting M'lle Rhea?" "Even superior to the one she had on her former visit. The ladies in Fairy Fingers will all display some marvelous dresses. One scene in the play I assure you will create a sensation. It represents the interior of a Parisian millinery establishment, with sales-ladies, customers, and a real man-milliner, that lend an air of realism to it that is exciting. The ladies all enthuse over 'Fairy Fingers' and its elegant dresses." "How is M'lle Rhea?" "Never better; she has had an excellent season, and is surrounded by an excellent company. By the way, she has improved wonderfully in her English since she was here last year; she speaks it like a native. I am trying to get her to take out naturalization papers."

TEAM STOLEN.

About ten o'clock Wednesday forenoon, the 14th inst., while Mr. Henry M. Tucker was in a house on Cabot street, a rough looking man about five feet six inches high, and with black whiskers, got into his team and drove off. At first Mr. Tucker thought likely that some person had taken the team for temporary use, and would soon return it, but was not long in coming to the conclusion that it had been stolen, and after notifying the police, procured another team and set out in chase. The thief drove through Exeter, before reaching which place he endeavored to sell the vehicle, a light express wagon with side steps, for $15, less than one-third of its value. From Exeter he drove toward Haverhill, Mass., but turned into a field just before reaching that place, and camped for the night, Mr. Tucker being but a few minutes behind him when he left the road. The Haverhill police were notified and every aid was rendered by them, but the thief slipped away before daylight in another direction, as was discovered in the morning. Mr. Tucker returned home on Thursday evening without his team, which was worth about $150. He thinks that had the local police telephoned to Exeter and other places when first notified of the theft, the thief would have been caught.

The Boston & Maine road has laid the new heavy steel rails on the inward track from Boston into this station, and also on the spur to the Jones brewery; the old-fashioned switches have also been replaced by the new patent needle-switch. The new overhead bridge across Creek street—it used to be Creek street but has another name now, which we cannot think of—is a strong structure, but persons passing under it wonder why the supporting trusses were not placed above instead of below the track level, which would have given the passage-way beneath about five feet more height; as it is, it looks as though a man on top of a lofty load of hay might be scraped off by the lower part of the trusses.

Thy Patriarchs Militant of North Berwick, Me., will accompany Canton Parker of Dover to this city on the 27th inst.

The clambake of the Improved Order of Red Men at Dover point on the 14th inst. was attended by about 500 people in all, and was a great success. Over a hundred members of the order, with their wives, were present from Farmington and Rochester, with the American band of the latter-named town; also large delegations from Salmon Falls and Manchester, and a number of Big Injuns from this city. Three or four great braves from Manchester, on their way to the feast, when at Newmarket junction saw a camp of "really" Indians, and leaving the train got into conversation with the squaws who had baskets and knick-knacks to sell, and were so much engrossed in the interview that they got left by their train, and had to stop over at that interesting spot until afternoon.

The barn of George Boynton at Little Boar's Head was burned on Thursday.

Tickets for "Charlotte Russe," Miss Augusta Van Doren's new satirical society comedy, are now on sale at Goodrich's.

It was rumored on Wednesday evening of this week that a prize fight was to take place at the Isles of Shoals on Thursday morning. Sheriff Coffin and a posse strong enough to prevent any such disgraceful affair went to the islands Wednesday night in the steamer James Sampson, but came in during the forenoon on Thursday, no pugilists having appeared and no steamer being in sight when they left. The sheriff was bound to have something, so he brought in a mess of mackerel, which he bought from a schooner.

The work of dredging the Cocheco river is nearly at an end, and Capt. Symonds thinks it will be finished the latter part of next week. The contractor's men have taken from the river about 1000 cubic yards of rock this season.

The locomotive Huntress, drawing a train on the western division of the Boston & Maine railroad, broke an eccentric at Kennebunk on the 13th inst., and the train was two hours late in arriving at Dover from Portland.

The National Brewers' Union denounce the Knights of Labor because they are opposed to the sale of intoxicating liquors. That is simply talking back.

DON'T SIGN IT.

The latest scheme to swindle the farmer is being perpetrated under the guise of a so-called society to prevent the killing of birds. A man invades the rural home, talks glibly about the good being done for the farmer by the birds, and ends by asking him to sign a pledge, not to kill a bird for a year, which with a little manipulation turns up in the shape of a promissory note, and makes trouble. The safe rule is to sign no paper, however innocent appearing, for any stranger.

In the Massachusetts supreme court, Sept. 13th, before Judge Charles Allen, the case of Adam Forepaugh vs. the Maine Central Railroad company was sent to an auditor. This is a suit brought to recover damages for a lot of animals killed in an accident on the defendant's road in Maine last year.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for its incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" effusively urged by unscrupulous druggists on those who call for

SANFORD'S GINGER,
The Delicious Summer Medicine.

Europe and Its Colonies.

How ought you decide the population of different countries—by the number of inhabitants in the several mother countries only, or by that of their subjects all the world over? On the latter basis a French writer has recently compiled some interesting statistics. Thus, Portugal-in Europe has only 4,000,000 inhabitants, but the total number of persons living under the Portuguese flag is nearly twice as many (7,896,628.) Of 24,000,000 Spanish subjects only 16,000,000 live in Europe. The population of the Netherlands is only 4,000,000, but the total number of Dutch subjects is 31,000,000. On this same basis Germany is far less populous than France. It is France, says the writer we are quoting, wherever the French flag flies. The number of Frenchmen thus interpreted is 70,798,083 (of whom 58,218,903 live in France-in-Europe,) but that of the Germans is only a little more than 47,-000,000. The total number of British subjects, we may add, is put at 306,-271,514.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Tea-Taster.

In one of the pretty summer houses on the bluff, in front of the Howland, a youngish-looking man sat this morning peering through an opera-glass directed at a group of girls bathing. He wore a suit of white serge, with a dark gray flannel shirt tied loosely with a sailor knot, a straw hat, and around his waist was a wide cloth belt that had a lot of gold cording on it. I was told that it was some sort of a Chinese scarf. There was a blase air of unconcern about him, as if he had seen everything worth seeing in this world and was only studying the specimens of feminine anatomy before him because he had nothing else to do. He was looking through a powerful set of lenses though, for an acquaintance to whom he condescendingly suggested a trial assured me that he could easily see every stitching in the bathing suits. "I would not have come down here," said the young man with the lorgnets, "if I had not remembered that the prettiest forms I saw anywhere last summer were here. It's really the only pleasure I have," he added, adjusting the glasses at a rather plump girl in a white flannel bathing dress.

"By Joe, she's a stunner," he exclaimed, after giving her a thorough inspection through the glasses. Then, peering at her again, he said, in a tone of disappointment, "Ah, but she's wearing stays."

All unconscious of the fact that every move they made was being watched and commented on, the girls jumped and romped around in the surf, but the tired young man kept on in his peculiar occupation. He is at it every morning, I am told. No one knows how he spends the rest of his time. He has seen everything, been everywhere, and there is a constant look of ennui and depression on his face as if he thought that life were scarcely worth the living. He is a queer individual and he follows a strange pursuit. It is tasting tea. He samples it for half a dozen of the biggest houses in the country and earns about $25,000 a year by it. He has the reputation of knowing more about teas than any one else in the country. It is at the sacrifice of his stomach and good digestion that he has earned the reputation, for both are ruined, though he is still a young man.

The only thing he really enjoys in the way of nourishment is a cup of tea that he brews himself every morning. It is made of leaves that in China are used only for the Imperial family and cost here $25 a pound. He boils it over a gas jet, then pours it into the thinnest sort of a blue China cup—almost as thin as a champagne glass. Then he sips it as he lies in bed, and it brings on a dreamy sensation, which, he declares, is the one delight of his life. It lasts from two to three hours and then passes away. Unlike opium, no bad effects are left behind, for he is over it as soon as he moves about and shakes off the drowsiness. Then he takes his opera-glasses and goes over in the summer-house to study the anatomy of the Long Branch girl.—Philadelphia Press.

"The man that blushes is not quite a brute." We suppose not, but they say there is a whole family out in Dakota, who had never even heard of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. How they must blush to have it found out!

Gen. Greely, chief signal officer of the army, has gone to Europe for two or three months.

Ugly and Hateful,
But I could't help it. Everything went wrong with me, and I thought I hadn't a friend in the world; dyspepsia caused this, and for months I couldn't eat anything, and just suffered in misery till I used Sulphur Bitters. Three bottles cured me.—D. Lewis, 22 Bowdoin street, Boston, Mass.

The boarding house of Thomas Printy in Dover was robbed on the 10th inst. of about $40, taken from the trunks in the different rooms, in the afternoon.

The McKay stitchers in the Haverhill, Mass., shoe shops are on a strike, and their places are being rapidly filled.

You hardly realize that it is medicine, when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills; they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

P. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

Reference: FRANK T. WRAY, Druggist, Apollo, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in two years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. H. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED,

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

PIMPLES, Blackheads, Skin Blemishes, and Baby Humors, use CUTICURA SOAP.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and heal of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

The Action of a Tornado.

When the conditions of atmospheric instability have given birth to a tornado, the fact is announced to the observer by a sudden gathering of dark, swift-whirling clouds, from which depend a writhing, serpent-like body formed of condensed vapor. This writhing column extends rapidly downward until it touches the earth. When it attains the surface it becomes audible from the violent rending actions which it creates upon that surface. As soon as the whirl is created it begins to move away, generally toward the northeast—for the evident reason that the upper cold layer of air against which it originates has, in the northern hemisphere, a movement in that direction.

In its path over the surface, the circling movement of the writhing air and the suction action of the partial vacuum in the central portion of the shaft combine to bring about an extreme devastation. On the outside of the whirl the air, which rushes in a circling path toward the vortex, overturns all movable objects, and in the center these objects, if they are not too heavy, are sucked up as by a great air-pump. Thus the roofs of houses, bodies of men and animals, may be lifted to great elevations, until they are tossed by the tumultuous movements beyond the limits of the ascending currents and fall back upon the earth. Where the center of the whirlwind passes over a building, the sudden decrease in the pressure of the outer air often causes the atmosphere which is contained within the walls suddenly to press against the sides of the structure, so that three sides are quickly driven outward as if by a charge of gunpowder.

It is not unlikely that the diminution of pressure brought about by the passage of the interior of the whirl over a building may be about as much as is indicated by the fall of four inches in the barometer. This is equivalent to a change in the pressure amounting to about three hundred pounds to the square foot. This force operates to burst out the walls of a building. It is not improbable that the diminution of pressure may be much greater than this, but even the amount named is sufficient to account for the bursting out of the frail-walled structures which these devastating movements encounter in the western parts of the United States.—Scribner's Magazine.

A Chinese Agony Column.

The North China Herald gives one or two very curious specimens of advertisements which appear in the Chinese papers. One is from a mother to her son who has run away from home, and it is worded as follows: "Take care that you are not struck down by lightning. Your mother weeps bitterly for you as she pens these lines in order that they may be read by her son. When you ran away from home on the 30th of the eighth moon, the people of the shop came and asked us what had become of you; it was thus that we learned your flight. I nearly died of fright, and since then my food and sleep have benefitted me but little. I am still crying and moaning. I have received your letter which has come from beyond the horizon, but it does not tell me where I can find you. I am now at almost the last extremity, and our family has had to put up with cruel insult from strangers. If you do not return I can stand all this no longer and shall assuredly put an end to my existence, in which case you would be in danger of being struck down by lightning. If you return, no matter in what way, all will be arranged. I have even invented a plan by which your father will know nothing of your escapade. My life or death is a question of only a few more days. I entreat all well-disposed persons to spread abroad the advertisement, so that may be read by all whom it may concern. They will thus earn a profusion of hidden merit. Written by a woman of Soacho—Take care that you are not struck by lightning!" A second advertisement is from a husband whose wife has run away with a man whom she had met in a tea-house. The advertisement sets out at a great length the circumstances attending the elopement, and offers a reward of $20 to anyone giving him information as to her whereabouts.

Catching Crabs.

To catch a crab properly requires two ladies, two gentlemen, and an English pug dog. The pug dog is to attract the crabs. He never fails. A New York Times man tells how it is done at Narragansett Pier: "The crab's summer residence is at Petaquamscott River. The pug dog, with an old gold ribbon about his neck, walks to the edge of the bridge and barks. Thereupon all the crabs in the shallow water come scuttling up to look at him. One of the ladies then throws a line into the water baited with the head of a menhaden. The nearest crab slides to the exact spot where the head will touch bottom and opens his arms for a fly catch. With a death-alone shall-part-us intensity he hangs on while he is drawn to the surface and lifted out with a scoop-net. If you catch a crab by either of his last pair of legs he cannot bite you. There have been men who were eager to take a crab from a net, but, like the Detroit boy who was told there was a little lump of gold in every mule's hind hoof, they never commit the same error twice in a life-time."

Hereditary gout is a most unjust disease. The father had all the fun and the son catches most of the pain.—New Orleans Picayune.

"Thus am I doubly armed—my death and life, my bane and antidote are both before me," whether to sit alone suffering with neuralgia, or buy one bottle of Salvation Oil.

A mob at Galbally Ireland, while returning from a funeral on the 15th inst., drove several obnoxious tenants form their houses, and stoned the police into their barracks.

For Six Cents

We will send you Dr. Kaufmann's great Medical Work; 100 pages, colored plates from life. The most valuable adviser ever published. To any address on receipt of three 2-cent stamps to pay postage. Address A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass.

The men in Jones & Laughlin's puddling and steel mill at Pittsburgh, Pa., left work Sept. 15th to the number of 2500, in consequence of the firm's refusal to raise the wages of fourteen men from $2.60 to $3 per day.

They make one feel as though life was worth living. Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating; it will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system.

The Sons of Britain held a rousing meeting in Faneuil hall, Boston, on the evening of Sept. 15th, and enthusiastically applauded speeches to the effect that it is the duty of British subjects residing permanently in this country, to become American citizens.

Every nervous person should try Carter' Little Nerve Pills. They are made specially for nervous and dyspeptic men and women, and are just the medicine needed by all persons who, from any cause, do not sleep well, or who fail to get proper strength from their food. Cases of weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous and sick headache, etc., readily yield to the use of the Little Nerve Pills, particularly if combined with Carter's Little Liver Pills. In vials at twenty-five cents.

Vigor and Vitality

Are quickly given to every part of the body by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The blood is purified, enriched, and vitalized, and carries health instead of disease to every organ. The stomach is toned and strengthened, the appetite restored. The kidneys and liver are roused and invigorated. The brain is refreshed, the mind made clear and ready for work. Try it.

Three masked highwaymen held up a stage in Texas, and relieved the passengers of their valuables, and the driver of his watch, a few days ago.

How to Gain Health and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk and easily digested. Delicate people improve rapidly with its use. For consumption, throat affections and bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thomas Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month."

Senator Hiscock and Ex-Senator Warner Miller of New York state have buried the hatchet, and pledged their best efforts for the success of the republican party.

Dr. H. Schafer says: "The results obtained in my use of 'Digestylin' for indigestion and dyspepsia are most satisfactory."

Mr. Atherton's Speech.

The speech of Ex-Postmaster Atherton of Nashua, who presented the "Atherton bill" in the house of representatives, upon the indefinite postponement of the Hazen bill, may in some respects be regarded as the ablest speech yet delivered in opposition to the latter bill.

Mr. Atherton refers to the evils of stock increase in the abstract, and tells us that the Concord road has, with a capital of $1,500,000 and no debt, honestly acquired a property worth five millions. That is, this has not been, according to Mr. Atherton's text, where the people have paid this three and a half millions. This is glossed with the thinnest possible coat of varnish. It is not the result of a tax upon the business of Nashua and other places in the state. It is not a surplus beyond what the law allows above ten per cent dividends, but possibly made out of the roads above Concord in doing their business. The Concord, as is contended, is still willing to do business at the old stand, and would prefer that outside competitors who will do it more reasonably shall not enter into competition with it. Such as these are foreigners, and foreign capital should be kept out of the state. The state will be developed by the Concord syndicate if we wait long enough. Mr. Atherton's idea that several short railroads run by diverse interests will better accommodate or more cheaply conduct the business of a community shows that he has not given the subject of railroad economy a fair and careful examination.

If there were once six distinct lines of railway centering at Nashua, freighters of course were compelled to pay the cost of keeping more engines, offices and men, and indeed were subject to various expenditures for each distinct road more than if they were operated as now complained of. Is it to be supposed that six stores, each with partners, salesmen, clerks, delivery wagons, rentals, taxes, insurance, and all the expenditures incident to each keeping a stock and being prepared for trade, could begin to sell goods or would sell goods as cheaply (and avoid a failure) as could one concern with but one store and one set of expenditures? The history of railways, when short lines have been placed under one management, nay, when competing lines have each developed the traffic of former rivals, by running in such connection that the traffic would be better accommodated, where such lines have been operated each with a purpose of discommoding its rival, or at least not to encourage patrons of the other, has shown that the public gain in cheaper transportation and saving of time in the matter of connections. This is eminently true of the result at Rochester, where all the lines made up of the Nashua & Rochester, Portland & Rochester, Boston & Maine and the Conway branch of the Eastern, were once operated with but little regard for the convenience of travellers, but now much time is saved to both passengers and freight by the varied heretofore competing interests being practically under a single management.

Much has been uttered during the session of the legislature concerning foreign capital. A good deal of this impolitic talk has come from gentlemen who represent places whose growth and importance can be traced almost entirely to the development caused by foreign capital. New Hampshire, with its most intensely jealous regard in years past, for the rights of her people, has always welcomed the capital of other states in the development of her water power and the construction of railways, and in other improvements. It has allowed this capital to be unmolested as far as the enactment of oppressive or restrictive laws was concerned, and nothing has been lost by the state or her inhabitants by such wisdom. To suppose that in the era of progress, in the problem of railway economy it is to be enacted substantially that the owners of thirty-six miles of railway shall have a supreme control over the entire line from Lake Champlain to the Atlantic, for it practically comes to this, is to presume that the commonly conceded wisdom of the legislature is incapable of comprehending the question before it. A defeat of the Hazen bill is simply voting that contrary to all business and natural laws, the tail shall wag the dog.

The Centennial of the Constitution.

The celebration of the centennial of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, Sept. 17th, 1787, is taking place in Philadelphia this week, the president of the United States, Ex-President Hayes, many governors and ex-governors of states, senators and representatives in Congress, mayors of cities, and thousands of other prominent men, being in attendance. On Thursday there was an immense procession, representing the changes in mechanical, agricultural and business pursuits during the century. The city was crowded by scores of thousands of visitors, and the buildings profusely decorated with flags, bunting and whatever else could be used in that way. The ships of the North Atlantic squadron fired salutes of thirteen guns at sunrise, and the foreign war vessel Queen Emma fired eleven guns an hour later. There were grand illuminations and fireworks in the evening.

On Friday there was a grand military pageant, nearly 30,000 soldiers passing the president in review, Gen. Sheridan heading the column.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Friday evening, Sept. 16th, Mayor Hodgdon in the chair:

Present the full board, except Alderman Fletcher.

Andrew M. Gardner was granted leave to encumber South street for building purposes.

Dennis Shea was granted leave to open Water and Pray streets, for building a drain.

Request of heirs of Thomas Treadwell for relay of sidewalk on Congress street was referred to the committee on streets.

Petition of Charles H. Sides and others for an electric light corner of Cabot and State streets, was referred.

A drinking fountain was ordered to be placed at the corner of Islington and Bartlett streets.

Charles Haley was appointed supernumerary police officer.

Bonds of Richard D. Smart and Albert S. Eastman, as police officers, were approved.

The board instructed the committee on street lights to have the electric light poles at the southerly end of Pleasant street re-located.

On the petition of Charles O. Hanscom and others for the widening of Water street at land of Margaret Humphreys, a hearing was ordered on the premises, Monday, Oct. 3d.

Adjourned to Oct 6th, at 7:30 P. M.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Sailmaker James W. Wingate is ordered to duty at this navy yard Oct. 1st, relieving Sailmaker John S. Franklin, placed on waiting orders on that date.

Orders have been received at the navy yard to go ahead with work on the Constellation, and ten riggers were set to work on her on the 16th inst. She is to be hauled out on the ways, and thoroughly overhauled.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Orville D. Bryant of Biddeford, formerly of this city, has been visiting friends here several days this week.

Mrs. Alexander L. Rand of Islington street, this city, is now in Boston on a visit to her sons, Frank W. and Wm. T. Rand.

Miss Mary Pickering of Newington is the guest of Mrs. F. W. Miller and sisters at Lincoln Hill cottage.

Mrs. Frank Longstreet of Providence, R. I., and her daughters Grace and Elizabeth, are visiting the family of Capt. I. H. Washburne, U. S. M. C., on Vaughan street.

Miss Clara A. Lynn, of Winter street, is passing a few weeks in Strafford and Pittsfield.

Commander M. L. Johnson of the navy, who has been granted a leave of absence for one year, will go to Europe with his family for a year's residence abroad.

Hon. J. E. Johnston, who has been invalided from overwork for five years past at Haverhill, Mass., is now gravitating between Portsmouth and Newcastle, and rapidly recovering his health during this fine autumnal weather among the friends of himself and wife. Mr. Johnston has occupied many prominent positions in this city and Rockingham county, and his friends are unwilling for him to leave until he fully recovers his health. For five years past he has been partially employed in the preparation of material for the hat manufactory of William B. Thom & Co., said to be the largest manufacturers of that class of goods in the New England states.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Grace Choate, of this port, arrived in Boston on Friday morning last with thirty barrels of mackerel, most of them large, which she sold at from 7 1-2 to thirteen cents each, by count.

The Appledore landing stage and brow have been towed in from the Shoals, and moored for the winter at Appledore wharf. The steamer Oceanic went to Newburyport on Friday, intending to run on excursions for several days, should business enough offer to make it an object.

There were about 5000 tons of coal on board vessels at the Concord railroad wharf on Thursday last, waiting for discharge; and a number of other vessels were in the lower harbor, awaiting berths.

The fishing schooner Nellie Woodbury has arrived at Lamoine, Me., from the Grand banks. Captain Hodgkins reports that he lost his mate, Leprelette Hopkins, of Trenton, Me., and five fishermen belonging to the provinces, in the great gale of Sept. 3d. He further reports that the schooner Edith B. Coombs, of Lamoine, lost one man belonging to Deer Isle, and several dories.

Mr. Ben. Tetherly of Eliot neck one day this week captured a bass of forty-eight pounds, and 225 pounds of cod fish each weighing from five pounds upward. They were sold to Randall & Son.

The Volunteer and the Mayflower had a trial race over a triangular outside course at New York on Friday, in a stiff breeze, the Volunteer beating the Mayflower by two miles. The Thistle went over the course, but she and the Mayflower had to house their topmasts, while the Volunteer carried her topsail all through.

M., Tuesday and Friday evenings at 7:30. Communion first Sunday in each month, at close of afternoon service. No pastor.

At the Freewill Baptist church, on Pearl street, (now without a pastor,) service at 2:45 o'clock P. M.; Sabbath school at 10:30 A. M.; prayer meeting at 7:30 P. M. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings at 7:45.

"Censorious Judging" will be the subject of Rev. Dr. Alden's lecture on Sunday evening at the Middle street Baptist church.

The subject in the Universalist church to-morrow will be, "Unknown Things."

Elder Bryan McLellan will preach in the Court street Christian church to-morrow.

Rev. Dr. Peabody will preach in the Unitarian church.

The clothing store of Charles H. Webber of Saco was entered on the night of Sept. 14th, and over and undercoats, hats of all kinds, including silk ones, underwear, etc., were stolen. The stiff Derby hats had the mark "Webber" inside. Loss about $300.

Mr. Warren K. Pineo, who has been occupying a forge for a considerable time past in Mr. Ira C. Seymour's establishment on Bow street, will leave in a few days to take charge of a shop at Kennebunk, Me., which he has hired during the next season. Mr. Seymour regrets losing his services.

The postal department has ordered new lock boxes for our post-office and has accepted the bid of Martin Brothers to put them in position. The work will be done as soon as the boxes arrive.

Seventy-five barrels of Irish moss, so-called, were brought from Gerrish's island in small boats to the landing at Spring hill this week, and thence transhipped. The persons engaged in the gathering and preparation of it along the beach there have been similarly occupied every summer for some years. Besides the use of it for culinary purposes, it is extensively utilized for sizing, and in the manufacture of beer, being excellent for clarifying that fluid.

How would it do to replace the gas light on Haymarket square, while the electric light in that quarter fails to shine?

Mr. Lemuel T. Davis has gone to Bath, Me., to work at his trade of sail making.

The ladies from some of the cottages at Little Boar's Head did noble work in removing furniture from the Boynton cottage on Thursday while the stable was burning.

Frank McNeally, the boy who recently ran away from Saco, Me., with $300,000 of other people's money, was cash clerk of the bank on a salary of $6 a week.

The vesper service at the Unitarian church will be resumed on the first Sunday in October, on which occasion Rev. James DeNormandie will officiate, it being the 25th anniversary of his installation as pastor of the South Parish.

John B. Fogg, a farmer of Saco, fell twenty-five feet down an elevator in his barn on the 13th inst., and sustained injuries from which he will probably die.

Tickets for "Charlotte Russe," Miss Augusta Van Doren's new satirical society comedy, are now on sale at Goodrich's.

New lines of Silk Plush, fine line of colors, at Lewis E. Staples', No. 7 Market street.

The New Hampshire senate has passed a bill providing that no railroad car in the state shall be heated by any method unless approved by the railroad commissioners, and that in no event shall the common stove be allowed.

The annual meeting of the Northern Pacific railroad directors was held in New York on the 15th inst., and Henry Villard, who retired from control of the road a few years ago after a disastrous failure, again appeared, and voted on 380,000 shares of stock. The previous reports as to the early retirement of Mr. Harris from the presidency of the road were confirmed.

The bill to reduce passenger rates in New Hampshire to two cents a mile on all railroads paying ten percent on their capital stock, was killed in the senate.

Twenty persons were killed and many others wounded by an excursion train disaster in England on Friday.

The Comte de Paris has issued a manifesto, which has been posted by the royalists in the capital towns of each of the eighty-six departments of France, declaring the need of a return of the monarchy to avoid a crisis which may be brought about by republican misgovernment.

In the British house of commons, Sept. 13th, Mr. Labouchere denounced the police account of the Mitchellstown affray as a gross and impudent tissue of lies, and characterized the men who issued the account as liars and murderers. He demanded an impartial inquiry into the outrages.

Florence Ordway, daughter of Hon. N. G. Ordway, ex-governor of Dakota, was married in Concord on the 15th inst. to Henry F. Wilkins of Washington, D. C.

The Baby Pathfinder Railway Guide for September is out; price ten cents.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for life incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine. It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for Children's Diadem.

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOK.
By ABBEY & MUNGER.

By a happy thought, the above endearing name was given to a book containing the last compositions of Mr. A. J. Abbey, the well-known composer of refined taste, a child lover and successful teacher, who has recently passed away. This new collection of the sweetest of children's hymns and songs is likely to be received with great favor.

35 cts., $3.60 per dozen.

JEHOVAH'S PRAISE, L. O. EMERSON, is an entirely new and superior book for Choirs, Singing Classes and Conventions. A large and attractive collection of Sacred and Secular music for Practice and Church Service, Anthems, and Hymn Tunes.

Price $1.00, $9.00 per dozen.

VOICES OF PRAISE, Rev. CHAS. L. HUTCHINS, occupies a high place in the esteem of those who need a collection of music of convenient size, not difficult and of moderate price, to use in religious meetings and in the Sunday school service. Everything is dignified and in good taste, yet there is spirit and brilliancy throughout. Please examine. 823

The Great German Remedy.

In the Whole Hideous Catalogue

Of diseases, there were none which, previous to the discovery of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, offered more formidable resistance to the old fashioned modes of treatment than the group of maladies which, under the collective name of malarial disease, afflicted entire communities that suffered hopelessly. Chills and fever, dumb ague, ague cake and bilious remittent were once regarded as well nigh incurable. Now it rejoices the hearts of thousands who reside in places periodically subject to the visitation of malaria, to feel certain that in the Bitters they possess a certain defence against the scourge, a sure means of expelling its poison from the system. To the settler in the far west, the new emigrant thither, and to travellers and tourists by land and sea, the possession of this pleasant safeguard is guaranty of safety from diseases which they might vainly seek from any other source.

Ex-Governor Luke Blackburn, of Kentucky, died Sept. 14th.

Ugly and Hateful,

But I couldn't help it. Everything went wrong with me, and I thought I hadn't a friend in the world; dyspepsia caused this, and for months I couldn't eat anything, and just suffered in misery till I used Sulphur Bitters. Three bottles cured me.—D. Lewis, 22 Bowdoin street, Boston, Mass.

Prof. Frederick Theodore Vischer, the German critic, is dead.

To be free from sick headache, biliousness, constipation, etc., use Carter's Little Liver Pills. Strictly vegetable. They gently stimulate the liver and free the stomach from bile.

The late Captain Joseph Hendley of Middletown, Conn., leaves an estate of $2,000,000.

You hardly realize that it is medicine, when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills; they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use.

Irish landlords held a conference at Dublin, Sept. 15th, and passed a resolution denying that the present rents in Ireland are excessive.

For the cure of pain St. Jacobs Oil has no equal. Price fifty cents a bottle.

Henry Watterson says the democrats must renominate Cleveland. Mr. Cleveland says the same thing.

Hay Fever.

For twenty-five years I have been severely afflicted with hay fever. While I was suffering intensely I was induced, through Mr. Tichenor's testimonial, to try Ely's Cream Balm. The effect was marvelous. It enabled me to perform my pastoral duties without the slightest inconvenience, and I have escaped a return attack. I pronounced Ely's Cream Balm a cure for hay fever. William T. Carr, Presbyterian pastor, Elizabeth, N. J.

One hundred houses have been burned at Nevel, Russian Poland, and twelve persons were burned to death.

Pimples, boils and other humors are liable to appear when the blood gets heated. To cure them, take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A threatened strike of 50,000 coal workers employed by the Philadelphia & Reading Co. has been averted by the concessions of the company.

St Jacobs Oil always cures my pains.—F. Worbes, Plymouth, Wis.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in consumptives from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

It is not a secret remedy, but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach.

It will positively CURE CHOLERA INFANTUM, Summer Complaints, and CHRONIC DIARRHŒA, after all other remedies have failed to produce a permanent effect. Give your children Digestylin. One bottle may save a life. Not one case of death reported for the past year from above diseases where the patient had taken Digestylin. Ask your Druggist for it. Price $1.00. Large bottles. If he does not keep it, send one dollar to us and we will send you a bottle. Express prepaid.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books I received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

P. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

Reference: FRANK T. WRAY, Druggist, Apollo, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James S. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, one cash says: "In 1878 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. H. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

WISTAR'S BALSAM WILD CHERRY

Is Your Wife A Beggar.

I was conversing the other evening with a young married man of my acquaintance, writes a Boston correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch, on a subject which has recently attracted some attention in the newspapers and magazines—namely, the financial relations that should exist between husband and wife. The ideas he expressed were so strikingly original that I can not forbear to quote them. Said he: "Before I abandoned the condition of bachelorhood I had made up my mind, from extended observations, that the average husband was a pig. I did not wish to be a pig myself, and so I determined to pursue in everything a course precisely the reverse of that followed by the average husband. The average husband makes a great fuss if he is requested to do an errand. Accordingly I make a point of asking my wife before I go to my office every morning for a list of commissions. I execute with the utmost care. The average husband at home bullies the woman, frets like a year-old infant over everything that does not suit him, and makes his family unhappy. I try to do just the opposite. The average husband doles out his money to his wife as if she were a beggar. Therefore, I give my wife every cent I earn, and she makes me an allowance for pocket money.

"For it seems to me," continued this eccentric young man, "that the notion entertained by the average husband concerning his wife's rights in the family purse is as wrong as wrong can be. In sober truth he thinks she has not any. He supports the family, and for the money he generously gives her she should be duly grateful. Now, in my opinion, this is a false assumption. As a rule, she does as much to support the family as he does, and I can very easily prove it. Take my own case as an example. We live very comfortably, although our means are not sufficient to employ more than one domestic. But if I had no wife I should have to engage a housekeeper, with an under servant, and it would cost me nearly twice as much to keep up my little establishment as it does now; in fact, I could not live on my income. Thus, you see, that my wife is equally with myself a producer of values. She makes as much money as I but in another form. I enjoy a share of what she produces. Is she, then, not entitled to a share of what I produce? What I have said is simply intended to cover the case of the average husband, who is a pig. Certainly the gentleman who deserves the name will force his wife to beg for anything he has to give, whether he has a right to it or not."

Now, did anybody ever hear of such an absurd young man as this?

A Woman's Promise and Her Memory.

Daniel S. Dickinson, formerly United States Senator from New York, who was very fond of saying sharp things, sometimes gave offense by his witticism when he least expected to do so. One day when he was walking moodily along the street in Albany, at the time Silas Wright was Governor, he met Mrs. Wright, the Governor's wife. She, observing his abstracted air, said to him in a jocular manner: "What does a man think of when he is thinking of nothing?" "Of a woman's promise," responded Dickinson. "Well done, Senator," said Mrs. Wright, who passed on, but did not forget Dickinson's remark. Some time afterward he requested her to help him to persuade the Governor to appoint a friend to office, reminding her, at the same time, that she had promised to aid him whenever he should ask for her assistance. "That is true, Senator," she replied, "but of course it was nothing." "How is that?" exclaimed Dickinson, much surprised. "Because it was a woman's promise, don't you know?" responded Mrs. Wright. The Senator did know, and he had to tell his friend that the "adverse influences, were so strong that the coveted appointment could not be obtained for him."—New York Ledger.

Padlock Bracelets for the Girls.

"Chain bracelets are very fashionable now for girls engaged to be married," said a jeweler to a New York Mail reporter. "Some have a padlock attached. The lover places the chain about the wrist whose pulses beat for him, locks the dainty symbol of bondage, and wears the key on his watch-chain. Ladies who wear their bonds lightly find it easy to slip the pretty evidence of engaged affections far up the arm and hide it beneath the sleeve when they wish to please others than their Romeos. The big conspicuous diamond ring is not so easily hidden. Some of the chain bracelets are of beaten gold and others of nugget gold. Some are made as a simple chain, while in others the links are beautifully engraved. Some have diamonds and precious stones set in the links. We made a very novel bracelet recently. It was an acrostic ornament, if one may use that term. It was a chain with a padlock, but the middle seven links were nuggets with precious stones in each one. The first letter of the stones read: 'D. E. A. R. E. S. T.,' and the stones where placed in the order: Diamond, Emerald, Amethyst, Ruby, Emerald, Sapphire, Topaz. This bracelet cost $250 and was one of the handsomest I have ever seen."

When a young man detects the first evidence of hair on his upper lip he feels elevated, when in reality it is a sort of a coming down.—Yonkers Statesman.

Peculiar

In the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in its good name at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most successful medicine for purifying the blood, giving strength, and creating an appetite.

How to Gain Health and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk and easily digested. Delicate people improve rapidly with its use. For consumption, throat affections and bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thomas Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month."

A Lost Whaleship.

Advices received from San Francisco state that the fate of the missing whaler Amethyst of that port is settled. The mate of the sealing schooner Angel Dolly recently arrived in San Franciso, and reports that while cruising near Castle rock, of the Choumagin group, a wreck was discovered on the island. It was found to be the Amethyst, broken in two. Everything was in confusion in the cabin. Whaling gear was covered with rust, looking as though it had been lying for months. The captain of the Angel Dolly made an entry in his log book, but later his vessel was seized for illegal sealing and the log book was taken for evidence.

The Amethyst sailed from San Francisco in the spring of 1886, and as she did not return in December the revenue cutter Richard Rush was sent in search of her, but without result. She was commanded by P. H. Cooley, and was last seen in the icefields in June, 1886. The last heard of the Amethyst she was supposed to have on board five of the crew of the missing bark Rainbow of New Bedford, Mass. The crew of the Amethyst numbered thirty-eight men, and their fate is still enshrouded in mystery. The Amethyst was one of the oldest whalers in the country, built in Boston in 1822. She was formerly owned in New Bedford by William Phillips & Son. She was valued at $35,000, and was uninsured. Her owner was John Knowland of San Francisco.

Democratic Row.

"A pretty quarrel as it stands" is that between Gen. Corse, the hero of Altoona Pass, now postmaster of Boston, and Hon. Patrick A. Maguire, engineer of the democratic machine of that city. The machinists want to run the post-office in the interests of Cleveland and true reform, as exemplified by the rule of the saloons in municipal affairs in Boston; the post-master refuses to displace invaluable subordinates for no other reasons than that they are republicans, and that men whose only qualification for their places is that they can control democratic primary meetings want their jobs. This conflict of opinion is making much trouble in the reform camp, and charges of trifling with the truth are freely made.

Lizzie Hughes of New Haven, Conn., a star on the variety stage, was married in New Haven last week to Frank P. Clark, a popular young "society man," and son of Massena Clark, a millionaire real estate dealer of that city.

Two twelve-year-old boys named Kelley and King were arrested at Kennebunk Depot for breaking into a store and stealing money and goods to the amount of $100, last week, and will go to the reform school during their minority.

Leonard Rowe, an aged farmer of Fishon's Ferry, Me., while on his way toward Clinton one day last week with two horses and a loaded team, broke through a bridge over the Carrabasset stream, resulting in the loss of his life and the death of one horse.

The Pepperell, Laconia, York and Water Power companies of Saco and Biddeford on Saturday last abandoned the holiday system for that day of the week. Beginning Monday, the mills now run from a quarter of seven in the morning to six in the evening, with the usual dinner hour at noon. On Saturdays they will run but 8 3-4 hours, the machinery being stopped at half-past four o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. Young is always enterprising and is looking out for the interests of his customers as well as the yeast company and the public. The yeast will keep better and longer in these jars than out of them.

Mr. Young has acted as the agent of the company here for nine years, working up the business from nothing to about $3000 per year he has had several opposition concerns to contend with but none have ever been able to gain a foothold so faithfully does he do his work. He sells nearly every store and all the bakers of the city, and every public house in the vicinity at wholesale, but does not figure as a retailer. He has in his shop a refrigerator and always has the yeast on hand.

The annual conclave of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of the state of New Hampshire will be held at the asylum of Mt. Horeb Commandery in Concord on Tuesday, September 27th, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon.

The Constitutional celebration ended on Saturday. President Cleveland held a reception, and Hon. Samuel F. Miller, senior justice of the United States supreme court, delivered a memorial oration. As a whole, the celebration was one of the most extensive affairs Philadelphia has seen for many years.

A BIG AEROLITE.

Several persons in this city reported seeing, between eight and nine o'clock last Thursday evening, a very large and brilliant meteor pass from southwest to northeast; and more would no doubt have seen it had it not been for the fireworks which were at the time being set off on Pleasant street, near the North church. This meteor was remarked in many towns in Maine, and a despatch of the 16th inst. from Augusta, Me., says of it:

A celestial phenomenon which rivals anything in the way of a meteoric fall on record occurred Thursday evening about eight o'clock. As it was starlight at the time many thought it the discharge of fireworks, and soon forgot all about it. Friday morning, however, after the arrival of trains from the east, reports were circulated that an immense meteor, larger than a box railroad car, had fallen on the land of the New Brunswick railway, in New Brunswick, six miles from Vanceboro. The stone is buried in the ground quite deep, and projects 10 1-2 feet into the air. It is of the color of burnt rock. When it fell it was very hot; so intense was the heat that people who approached within fifty feet were driven away by the heat.

That is either a very large aerolite or a very large story.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, Sept. 17th.

Daniel Lynch, charged with drunkenness, promised to skip the town if let off, and was allowed to go.

James Corrigan, drunk, was fined $3, costs $6 90, and was committed to Brentwood in default of payment.

George Roberts paid $3 fine and $5.-76 costs for his drunk, and was released.

CHARLOTTE RUSSE.

Of this new comedy, which is to be presented at Music hall this evening by Miss Augusta Van Doren's dramatic company, the Lowell Mail of last Thursday says:

The new comedy of the above title, by Charles Griffin Morris, was presented for the first time in this city at Music hall last evening, by Augusta Van Doren and company. The piece has much genuine merit, and the company is amply qualified to do it general justice. The dialogue is unusually bright and pointed, and is tinctured with enough of the mysterious vernacular of stock brokerage to make it interesting without being tedious. Miss Van Doren made a decided hit in her rendering of the title role, and her clear enunciation and vivacious, breezy manner at once gained favor with the audience. The remaining characters in the cast were all well drawn, and the humorous element which runs through the action was well interpreted. A prominent feature in the cast is the large mastiff dog "Charlie," who acquits himself with remarkable decorum and intelligence. "Charlotte Russe" certainly established its reputation as a most pleasing comedy, and the company, particularly Miss Van Doren, has left an impression that will be favorably remembered in a second visit.

Tickets at Goodrich's to-day; see advertisement.

A WORTHY INSTITUTION.

The Coffee and Free Reading room in Duncan street, Gloucester, Mass., opened in April, 1886, for the benefit of fishermen and other seamen, under the direction of the Gloucester Temperance Union, after being temporarily closed for a few months, has been re-opened. It has been well appreciated since its opening, and a great many seamen have availed themselves of the privileges of the rooms, reading the papers and books, and writing to their friends. Packages of magazines and papers have also been distributed among the vessels. A good library has been donated to the rooms; a mug of hot coffee is for sale at all times, and at cost price; the rooms are open day and evening, and all are welcome. Donations will be gratefully received, as the maintenance of the rooms depends entirely upon voluntary contributions. In every prominent seaport of Massachusetts, also in New York, Philadelphia, Portland and this city, there have been gentlemen selected by the directors to receive and acknowledge contributions to this end; and persons in this city desiring to aid in the support of this institution, whose benefits to seamen are great in proportion to its cost, can send their subscriptions through Col. William H. Hackett, whose office is in the custom house building.

PERSONAL.

Misses Nellie and Gracie Milton, of Haverhill, Mass., are visiting their uncle, John E. Milton, of Maplewood avenue.

Miss May Johnson of Greenland is passing a few days with Mrs. Simon H. Mills of Maplewood avenue.

Miss A. C. Morgan arrived home in this city last Friday evening, from her annual summer tour in Europe.

Mr. Joseph L. Ham of Plymouth, Mass., formerly of this city, was in town on Sunday.

"UNKNOWN THINGS."

The text in the Universalist church yesterday was Romans 2d, 4th: "Or despisest thou the riches of his goodness, and forbearance and long suffering, not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance."

There are Unknowables much simpler than Spencer's. They are those which we cannot fathom now, yet which we feel sure we can sometimé. Men should not make a convenient resting-place upon Paul's mystery of Godliness. He meant, as will be seen by the context, the mystery of the origin of Christ's mental and moral power, also of its natural culmination in the rising of his spirit. This text should not be used as a last resort in argument, nor as a quietus upon a mental growing faith. There is no compulsory mystery in the Bible. God does not in the plenitude of his power make mysteries for us. We have them because of own ignorance. The line between the known and unknown is not a fixed line, for the list of unknown things becomes shorter every day.

The text declares that one of the unknown things is that the goodness of God leads men to repentance. To make a real change in one's feeling toward God, there is but one efficient divine attribute, and that is goodness. In fact, that of all qualities in its widest executive sense is what draws men to a line of business, of thought, of friendship, our conviction of its goodness. Even Mr. Spencer after his optimistic conclusion is forced to admit "the presence of an Infinite, an Eternal Energy from which all things proceed."

The success of sin, if it may be so called, is its good-natured cheerfulness. The seller of Bibles is apt to be solemn and forbidding. The bartender is jolly and flattering. The first does not know that he is selling a history of the goodness of God, the other does not think that he is retailing the goodness of man. And men are ready to be sold for good-fellowship.

The magnetic power of any form of faith is not the anger and wrath it teaches, but the goodness of its followers. That goodness has reared every real religious monument in the world. Even the rearing of man from the animal up to the condition of choosing good or evil for himself, is a part, yes, the whole of God's goodness.

Townspeople come in to our associations and conventions, drawn by the goodness of God. They at last are willing to trust their own hearts for a faith. They find that he who made the human heart made the Gospel of Life. The hard incentives to change are forced upon us by the goodness of God. The "Infinite Energy" will force them until we are changed. The goodness of God ends to status highest human power.

MARITIME NOTES.

The tug Cocheco, built at Bath for C. H. Trickey & Co. of Dover for towing on the upper Piscataqua, will be finished in about a month, and will at once come around to this port, instead of waiting until next spring, as before reported.

The schooner Lizzie Guptill, Smith master, with lime from Rockland, Me., arrived in the lower harbor at ten o'clock Friday night after a run of fourteen hours from that port. She followed the coast along, and had a smooth sea all the way. On Saturday she was discharging at the Concord railroad wharf.

The steamer Oceanic, Capt. Robinson, arrived back at noon on Saturday last from Newburyport, having taken out two excursion parties from that city. She made a trip to the Isles of Shoals from here on Sunday, and will make several excursion trips this week, leaving this port next Saturday for New York, in order to arrive there in time to take out a party to see the international yacht race.

It is reported that fish dealers of Boston and Gloucester will during the coming winter buy fish at Kittery Point, shipping their purchases from there direct to Boston and New York via the York Beach railroad and its connections. This will be a great advantage to the fishermen sailing out of this port in the winter, as it will save them the trip up to the city wharves from the lower harbor to dispose of their fares; it will also have a tendency to increase the number of vessels fishing out of this port, but it will hardly be viewed with favor by the local fish buyers.

The famous old schooner yacht America and the crack Gitana sailed a match race for $1000 off Marblehead, Mass., Sept. 17th, the America winning by five seconds actual sailing time.

AROUND HOME.

A very large meteor was seen in the western sky about nine o'clock last Saturday evening.

The vestry at St. John's church is to be enlarged, the ladies connected with the parish having obtained sufficient funds for that purpose.

The DeNormandie house on State street, a few months ago purchased by Laighton Bros., is being fitted for the reception of its new occupants.

A man named Palmer, recently in the employ of the Bangor Electric Light Co., has been engaged by the Portsmouth Electric Light Co. to take full charge of the lights. Glad of it, if he is an expert.

Every lady who attends the performance of M'lle Rhea at Music hall on Thursday evening of this week, will receive as a souvenir a silver thimble with "Rhea" handsomely engraved on it.

The new opera house at Exeter was opened on Thursday evening of last week, by the Michael Strogoff company, which gave an entertainment at Music hall in this city the first of the week.

Mr. Henry W. Tucker's team, stolen by a tramp on Cabot street, Wednesday forenoon of last week, has been recovered, having been found in Chelsea, Mass., for which place Mr. Tucker started on Saturday morning to bring the team home.

The city marshal of Gloucester, Mass., publishes a list of the names of owners of unlicensed dogs in that city. What a boon to the papers of Portsmouth would be such a publication of the unlicensed of this town! They would have to issue supplements.

Suit has been entered against the Boston & Maine railroad by Mr. George M. Huntress of Christian Shore, to recover damages for the killing of his wife, and of Mrs. Lydia J. Huntress, his mother, by the defendant's train at Young's crossing some months ago.

Mr. Robert Farley died at Ipswich, Mass., on Friday last, aged eighty-seven years. Mr. Farley was for many years a broker in Boston, and will be remembered by travellers between this city and Boston in years past as a season-ticket passenger for many years, going on every business day between Ipswich and Boston.

Friday evening as the York Beach train due in this city at 6.20 was coming into the depot a woman named Crowley, somewhat under the influence of liquor, was proceeding across the track just ahead of the engine when Master Willie Tanton, who resides on Deer street, standing near by, jumped forward, grabbed her by the collar and dragged her out of the way of the engine just in time to save her from being struck by the machine, which had approached within a few inches of where she stood before he could reach her.—Times.

Maud Banks played Joan of Arc to a crowded audience in the new Exeter opera house on Saturday evening.

A Card.

I take this method through the public press to express my heartfelt thanks to all who so generously contributed in different ways to encourage and assist us in making the first annual firemen's parade such a perfect success. To Hon. Frank Jones, Eldredge Brewing Co. and Portsmouth Brewing Co. for the loan of horses, to the city government for courtesies shown, to G. A. R. Post for the kind loan of tables, to the officers and members of the department for the kind interest shown by them in turning out in such numbers, and in fact to the public generally for the interest displayed towards the department on that occasion, I would extend my sincere thanks, hoping and assuring you that if occasion should ever call upon us, we will make as good a show in the discharge of our duties as we did Thursday last.

HERBERT A. MARDEN, Chief Eng'r.

Portsmouth, Sept. 17, '87.

Story of a Lost Watch.

"For some time," said the doctor to a Philadelphia Call reporter, "I have been attending a colored man on Wood street who is confined to his bed by a chronic disorder. There was no money in the case, but a true physician never thinks of that, and I kept pegging away at my man until I got him on the turn. Then he fell back again, and I began to think that his mind was diseased—that is, that he was brooding over something, and that plays the mischief with medicine. You take the case of a beautiful girl who loses her hair from fever. Her recovery is retarded for weeks if you give her a looking-glass.

"Well, I kept quiet and made myself friendly, and one day the secret came out. He waited until he was alone with me, and then he asked me to go to a closet in the room and hunt up a black stocking. I did so and handed it to him, and he took therefrom something that looked like a bundle of rags. Removing the rags disclosed a roll of paper tied with old twine, and inside was a piece of chamois, and inside of that a beautiful gold watch. I had been watching these proceedings with considerable interest, and when I saw the watch I jumped at once to the conclusion that my patient was about to make restitution for a robbery. I was mistaken.

"'You's away off, boss,' said he, with a smile, as he evidently read my thoughts. 'I didn't stole that watch; I found 'um. I picked up that watch 'bout a year ago on the corner of 13th and Market streets, and I want to give 'um back before I die.' The story looked fishy, but it all turned out naturally enough when I questioned him. He found the watch and brought it home and told no one about it for fear of being robbed. He didn't advertise it because he had no money to pay for the advertisement, and he didn't read the papers to see if a reward had been offered simply because neither he nor any of his family could read. So he hid the watch in a closet and did nothing at all.

"I examined the watch and saw that it was a lady's watch and valuable. On the inside of the case was engraved a date and the name 'Sarah Matilda Shreve.' Here was a clew. 'What do you want me to do with this?' I asked. He replied that I was to find the owner and return the watch with or without a reward, and he seemed actually grateful as I carried it away.

"When I returned to my office I got out the directory and wrote a letter to every Shreve in the city, about a half-dozen, detailing the circumstances and asking for Sarah Matilda. The next day I got a letter from a Shreve telling me that the owner of the watch was now the wife of a prominent citizen—never mind his name—and lived at 17th and Pine. That afternoon I called on the lady, told my story, and she identified the watch beyond question and told how she lost it in coming from Broad street station.

"She was gratified at its recovery and surprised when she heard where it had been for a year, and I am happy to say that her gratitude did not stop at words. The next day she called to see my patient and left a liberal present behind her, and she has been a regular caller ever since. The result is that my man is getting well, and it looks now as if his modest future was assured.

"There is often a notion," says an exchange, "that scholars are not practical men, and they cannot get down to the practical plane of life." O, pshaw, we know better than that, and we want to put in a defense right here for the college boys. We know several young men who graduated with big honors, who are now cutting stone and making shoes in plain, ordinary striped clothes.—Bismarck Tribune.

Analyzing the Baking Powders.

"Royal," only, found free from lime, alum, and phosphatic acid, and absolutely pure.

Under the direction of the New York State Board of Health, eighty-four different kinds of baking powders, embracing all the brands that could be found for sale in the State, were submitted to examination and analysis by Prof. C. F. CHANDLER, a member of the State Board and President of the New York City Board of Health, assisted by Prof. EDWARD G. LOVE, the well-known United States Government chemist.

The official report shows that a large number of the powders examined were found to contain alum or lime; many of them to such an extent as to render them seriously objectionable for use in the preparation of human food.

Alum was found in twenty-nine samples. This drug is employed in baking powders to cheapen their cost. The presence of lime is attributed to the impure cream of tartar of commerce used in their manufacture. Such cream of tartar was also analyzed and found to contain lime and other impurities, in some samples to the extent of 93 per cent of their entire weight.

All the baking powders of the market, with the single exception of "Royal" (not including the alum and phosphate powders, which were long since discarded as unsafe or inefficient by prudent housekeepers), are made from the impure cream of tartar of commerce, and consequently contain lime to a corresponding extent.

The only baking powder yet found by chemical analysis to be entirely free from lime and absolutely pure is the "Royal." This perfect purity results from the exclusive use of cream of tartar specially refined and prepared by patent processes, which totally remove the tartrate of lime and other impurities. The cost of this chemically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other, and it is used in no baking powder but the "Royal."

Prof. LOVE, who made the analyses of baking powders for the New York State Board of Health, as well as for the Government, says of the purity and wholesomeness of "Royal":

"I have tested a package of 'Royal Baking Powder' which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates or any injurious substances.

"E. G. LOVE, PH.D."

NEAR BOSTON & MAINE R. R. STATION.

I would respectfully ask my old friends and customers, and all who are about purchasing monuments for departed friends, to give me a call before leaving orders with any one. Employing no Agent, I shall sell work at prices that cannot be duplicated.

Photographs always on hand, and Drawings made to suit customers.

☞ As Brimstone discolors both Marble and Granite, all work will be set in Lead and warranted to give satisfaction.

Particular attention paid to Fencing Cemetery Lots with Granite or Marble Posts and Curbs.

DON'T

Allow your Clothing, Paint, or Woodwork, washed in the old rubbing, twisting, wrecking way. Join that large army of sensible, economical people, who from experience have learned that James Pyle's Pearline, used as directed on each package, saves time, labor, rubbing, wear and tear.

Your Clothes are worn out more by washing than wearing. It is to your advantage to try Pearline.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for its incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaints, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for Henry George and Dr. McGlynn propose to establish a daily newspaper in each of the large cities of the country to advocate the interest of the workingmen. Dr. McGlynn, it is said, is not enthusiastic over the scheme, regarding it as impracticable, but George is reported as saying that, by a system of co-operation, the papers can be made successful and can contain all the news without the assistance of the regularly-organized press associations. He is also confident that the money necessary for the enterprise can be raised.

KIDDER'S

DIGESTYLIN

—FOR—

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

It is not a secret remedy, but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the pepsin in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach.

It will positively CURE CHOLERA INFANTUM, Summer Complaints, and CHRONIC DIARRHŒA, all of which are direct results of imperfect digestion. Give your children Digestylin. One bottle may save a life. Not one case of death reported for the past year from above diseases where the patient had taken Digestylin. Ask your Druggist for it. Price $1.00. Large bottles, containing 3 times the quantity, sent on receipt of one dollar to us and we will send you a bottle. Express prepaid.

Misery After Eating

Is avoided by dyspeptics who, guided by the recorded experience of thousands, begin and systematical pursue a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Persistence in the use of this pure and highly accredited stomachic, is the sole and agreeable condition of the entire removal of the obstinate forms of dyspepsia, no less than a temporary fit of indigestion. In connection with the use of this specific, it is desirable to avoid articles of food which individual experience has shown to be difficult of digestion, by the stomach sought to be benefitted. Each dyspeptic's past observation of his digestive capacity should enable him to be his own guide and mentor in this particular, not trusting to any set of dietetic rules too general to be suited to any particular cases. Billiousness and constipation, heartburn, wind upon the stomach, sour eructations, headache and mental despondency, are among the concomitants of dyspepsia, and we put it to flight by the Bitters.

The signal station at Pike's Peak, Colorado, is to be abandoned.

Ugly and Hateful,

But I couldn't help it. Everything went wrong with me, and I thought I hadn't a friend in the world; dyspepsia caused this, and for months I couldn't eat anything, and just suffered in misery till I used Sulphur Bitters. Three bottles cured me.—D. Lewis, 22 Bowdoin street, Boston, Mass.

The strike of the Boston furniture finishers has been declared off.

To be free from sick headache, biliousness, constipation, etc., use Carter's Little Liver Pills. Strictly vegetable. They gently stimulate the liver and free the stomach from bile.

The new railroad between Harwich and Chatham, Mass., is fast approaching completion.

You hardly realize that it is medicine, when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills; they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use.

An Irish police inspector has signed a protest against the conduct of the police at Mitchelstown.

Hay Fever.

For twenty-five years I have been severely afflicted with hay fever. While I was suffering intensely I was induced, through Mr. Tichenor's testimonial, to try Ely's Cream Balm. The effect was marvelous. It enabled me to perform my pastoral duties without the slightest inconvenience, and I have escaped a return attack. I pronounced Ely's Cream Balm a cure for hay fever. William T. Carr, Presbyterian pastor, Elizabeth, N. J.

The department of state declines to ask for the extradition of McGarigle, the Chicago boodler.

The liver and kidneys must be kept in good condition. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a great remedy for regulating these organs.

Only $1,971,000 of the three per cent loan of '82 is now outstanding. The total loan originally was $305,581,250.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. mon.wed,sat.&

A CARD.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquained with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take the opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

P. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1876 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify, who are afflicted with catarrah. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Home-Made Cutlery.

"We have changed the old style of carrying on the cutlery business," said a manufacturer recently to a reporter for the Mail and Express. "Instead of importing knives, scissors, razors, shears, and scythes, we are now exporting them. You will find various tools, such as saws, chisels, and planes of American make, in many of the large warehouses of English cities."

"In the manufacture of what kind of cutlery do Americans excel?"

"Knife blades, razor blades, and axes. In the latter the United States has made such advances that it excels all other countries excepting, perhaps, Canada. In 1872 there was imported into the country cutlery to the value of $10,500,000, which was cut down to $900,000 in 1882. In 1882 about $750,000 worth of domestic goods were sent abroad. Last year the imports were less than $500,00, and the exports were more than $2,000,000.

"Good table knives are made of iron and steel welded together. The blade is of steel and the shoulders and the part that goes into the handle, called technically the tang, are of iron. The blade is made from sheet or cast steel; the tang is forged from bar iron. Knife blades and other small articles are usually forged into shape while still attached to the bar, which serves for the workmen to hold them by. Two men are employed in forging such work. The principal workman, or foreman, as he is sometimes called, has a small hammer of from two to four pounds in weight, while the hammerman wields the sledge-hammer, weighing from ten to fifty pounds. The foreman directs the hammerman, whose blows merely follow those of the small directing hammer. In drawing down or reducing a bar both in length and width the flat face of the hammer is used, but when the length or breadth only is to be extended the narrow edge of the hammer is used.

"The cavity in the razor blade is made by hammering the blade on a small round-faced anvil. The notch or nail-hole in a pennyknife is struck with a chisel."

"Are cheap knives made in the same manner as the more expensive?"

"No; common knives are made entirely of iron, and the difference in price arises not merely from the difference in the cost of material but from the greater facility of working. Forks are wrought into shape as though a single prong was all that was necessary. They are then shaped out with a stamping die."

"Are not grinding and polishing very injurious work to the men employed?"

"Yes, on account of the particles of steel which enter the nostrils of the workingmen and which causes painful irritation and produces a disease called grinders' asthma. Few grinders live to be over 40 years of age. Many experiments have been tried to remedy this evil. A magnetic mouthpiece was invented, but for some reason or other the men will not wear it. A revolving fan to create a current and carry off the dust is very successful, but even this the men oppose."—New York Mail.

An Ohio Ghost.

There is a highly respectable family by the name of Mark living in the vicinity of Sugar creek, Fayette county, Ohio, who claim to have had a remarkable experience for many years; and what they willingly relate may be of interest to many readers. The family settled in the neighborhood in an early day, when this section of the state was sparsely settled. On the banks of Sugar creek some woodman had built a frame structure, and for some years had taken up his abode within it. Eventually, however, changes occurred, and Mr. Mark took possession of the house. One very warm night while sleeping alone in an upper room, he states that he was looking toward the open window, unable to sleep, when a stately, serious-looking man in broadcloth glided into the room and approached his bed. The apparition—for so he regarded it—had a strange unearthly expression of countenance, and didn't use its feet in moving about. Mr. Mark was utterly terrified, and, as he says, leaped almost to the foot of the stairs and hurried from the building to the home of a neighbor as rapidly as his feet could take him. Sometime afterward, while workmen were procuring gravel from a pit near by, they came upon a barrel in which was secreted a hideous skeleton, which became the basis of many unpleasant conjectures. On another occasion, after the gentleman referred to had become the head of a large and prosperous family, while some of the children were playing about the kitchen-door, a cadaverous object, with a strange livid complexion and long outstretched arms, rose apparently out of the ground immediately in front of them. The affrighted children ran into the house to their mother, screaming, and unable to make known what they had seen. It was not long after this affair until one of the daughters died. A few months elapsed, and the mother was awakened about 4 o'clock one morning by an ominous sound in the front yard. She arose to investigate. About midway between the house and the street gate her deceased daughter seemed to be standing, as if in trouble, and as if she were searching for something that had been lost. The mother says that it all seemed so real to her that she attempted to approach her daughter but was disappointed by seeing her suddenly vanish. The entire family are firm in the belief that all these circumstances were real, and nothing will make them more indignant than to call them in question.

Misery After Eating

Is avoided by dyspeptics who, guided by the recorded experience of thousands, begin and systematical pursue a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Persistence in the use of this pure and highly accredited stomachic, is the sole and agreeable condition of the entire removal of the obstinate forms of dyspepsia, no less than a temporary fit of indigestion. In connection with the use of this specific, it is desirable to avoid articles of food which individual experience has shown to be difficult of digestion, by the stomach sought to be benefitted. Each dyspeptic's past observation of his digestive capacity should enable him to be his own guide and mentor in this particular, not trusting to any set of dietetic rules too general to be suited to any particular cases. Billiousness and constipation, heartburn, wind upon the stomach, sour eructations, headache and mental despondency, are among the concomitants of dyspepsia, and we put it to flight by the Bitters.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. We know of no remedy for dyspepsia more successful than Hood's Sarsaparilla. It acts gently, yet surely and efficiently, tones the stomach and other organs, removes the faint feeling, creates a good appetite, cures headache, and refreshes the burdened mind. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial. It will do you good.

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER.

Changeableness will be the rule next winter, except where, for the sake of change, one may depart from monotonous changeableness to something which does not change. New silks and velvets show varied colors as lights and shadows glance; wool novelties imitate less successfully; sometimes one color looking up through another in doubtful taste, or in lieu of this, producing a sought-for confusion by small crooked lines of different colors which intersect with all abandon possible. New plaids at times display indistinctness, but often are characterized as of old, and this winter there will be seen repetitions of the plaided costumes offset by plain material which were so successful last summer, and have proved too pretty to be given up; especially where with a plain basque the skirt was plaid, and this therefore will again be a favorite idea. Plain tailor-made costumes are continued with almost an old-time ardor, but often now as a change two colors are put together, and the severity of a tailor finish is at times succeeded by braid that can be run on fancifully, particularly in forming vests, which are still in extraordinary vogue. Navy blue is a favorite color this season, and comes in several shades; the seal and lighter browns are also conspicuous, as likewise plum and green, and as a closing hint on economy in sewing, it can be added that Clark's Mile End Cotton is much used as a substitute for sewing silk, both because carefully dyed to match new colors and also from its strength and smoothness.

SHILLINERY.

Bonnets and hats are changeable, that uniformity may govern. Velvet is a leading material and there are changeable velvets; gros grain, moire and faille francaise change in keeping; even felts at times show changing colors, while as a special change from old ideas, some felts which double over in plaits as cloth might do. Changeable ribbon trims, and often there is a change of texture, as where velvet, gros grain, or moire alternate in stripes or where colors are combined, as for 'example in very fine ribbons or varieties wrought in tapestry or jardiniere effects. The newest idea in fancy edged ribbons is a simulated crape border, but quite new ribbons have a satin band. Nature has given to feathers the glancing lights and colors peculiar to the season, and feathers therefore in native irridescence (or "florescence" as the new term would say) are in especial demand. Cock's plumage was never more popular, and stands out in bristling groups or is placed in bunches of sharp feathers dyed in different hues, among which gilt is prominent. Ostrich feathers partake of the all-pervading "florescent," and feathers of all kinds are dyed in changing tints. Shapes in bonnets are still small, but crowns are often lower and much more varied than formerly in outline; some extending over the forehead, others rolling back, others unequal on the sides, while the coronet brim is quite a feature.

OUT DOOR GARMENTS.

Jackets, also called coats, are in great numbers, the finer varieties being tailor-made and of diagonal or corkscrew cloth, single breasted or with vests, some of which are only just visible while others are conspicuous, especially those that are gilt-braided on white. Fitted at the back and with stiff high collar, many of these jackets have a military look, a decided contrast to the rough cloth jackets of looser outline, double breasted and in semi-dress checks, bars and lines that show indistinctly. Newmarkets again flood the market, but a newmarket to fat women should be an abomination, and for this latter class there are found raglans in great numbers. Last year's experience with both was so satisfactory that a prolonged lease of life was given them.

LUCY CARTER.

Mr. George B. Hooper, a highly respected citizen of Exeter, died on the 12th inst. He was born in Great Falls, in 1849, and was the son of Noah and Lucy W. Hooper. Entering in business in his native town, he soon became connected with the Somersworth Machine company, and for the past seven years has been its traveling agent. He married, in 1881, Miss Emily J. Towle, and leaves three children.

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, all humors, boils, pimples, general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints, and all affections caused by impure blood or low condition of the system. Try it.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PEBLE, Salem, Mass.

AWOKE THE WRONG PASSENGER.

It seems that some kind of an exploring minister from Biddeford, Me., has visited the office of the collector of internal revenue in this city, to discover something which he did not ascertain. He has relieved his mind by a gentle poke in one of the Dover newspapers at our esteemed friend the collector of the port, who until he read in the newspapers a mystical allusion to himself had no idea that the peripatetic prosecuting preacher had visited here. The drubbing was intended for the collector of internal revenue. He receives a decent salary, and can afford to be scolded now and then. But to rebuke the collector of customs for the sins and omissions of another official shows that the newspaper ammunition of the beligerent man from Maine has been entirely wasted.

YORK DEEDS.

The first volume of the printed copies of deeds recorded in the registry of York county, Me., collated and printed under the auspices of the Maine Historical Society, and published by Mr. John T. Hall at Portland, has been placed in the Kittery library. The copies from the records are preceded by an introduction by H. W. Richardson, which comprises over fifty pages, and is full of historic facts. The volume is a copy of the first book of records of the registry of deeds in York county, with the exception of about all of the first twenty-eight pages, which are missing. The first deed was recorded March 15th, 1647. There is an index of grantors and of grantees, also of other persons, and an index of places which contains reference to many points other than towns, such as Brave Boat harbor, Great island in New Hampshire, Champernowne island and Darby's Fort, Kittery, Strawberry Bank, and so on. The book is of great interest to persons of historic tastes.

MLLE. RHEA.

Belgium has produced some remarkable artists, but none more deservedly popular than Mlle. Rhea. Born in Brussels, and reared by wealthy parents, Mlle. Rhea had all the educational advantages necessary in preparing her for an honorable and brilliant career upon the stage. Charles Fletcher became her friend, and through him she became acquainted with the great Sanson, teacher of Rachel. By their offices she gained admittance to the Paris Conservatoire, where she received the benefit of Beauvallet's instructions. Her progress was remarkable, and shortly after she made her debut at the leading theatre in Brussels, she journeyed to Paris and thence on a tour through France. From France she went to Russia, where she remained for five years. The assassination of the Czar closed the theatre for a time, and Mlle. Rhea determined to come to America. Her first appearance in this country was at Boston during the season of 1881-82 in the part of "Adrienne Lecouvreur." Since then she has visited nearly every state in the union, and has fairly won a place in the foremost ranks of the great artistes of the world.

Mlle. Rhea will appear in Music hall on Thursday evening, Sept. 22d, and present her latest success of "Fairy Fingers;" she will wear a number of handsome dresses, and be supported by an excellent company. Tickets at Goodrich's.

PERSONAL.

Hon. James Shaw, wife and child, and Miss Clara E. Lowd, Mrs. Shaw's sister, left this city on Monday for their home in Aurora, Ill., after a visit of several weeks to the Misses Lowd of State street.

Mrs. Almira Bird of Revere, Mass., is visiting her brother, Mr. Thomas Green, who lives on the corner of Gates and Washington streets.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer Oceanic, Capt. Robinson, took out a large party to the Shoals on Sunday afternoon.

The steamer James Sampson is taken off the route between this city, Newcastle, Kittery Point and Gerrish's island, and will engage in up-river towing.

The steamer Oceanic makes her last excursion trip to the Shoals for this year this afternoon, leaving Appledore wharf at two o'clock. On Wednesday she will make a trip to Great bay, starting at 1:30 P. M. Fare for either trip, fifty cents.

The naval board appointed to consider plans for floating batteries, rams, and other means of naval defence of our coasts, met at the navy department on Friday. There is $2,000,000 available for "types" of any plan they may recommend. Many naval officers consider that a complete naval harbor defence is all that is now necessary, and that there is no need now to hasten the work of constructing vessels for offensive war.

The old North Atlantic flagship Tennessee was sold at the Brooklyn navy yard by auction last week for the sum of $34,425. The purchaser was Burdett Pond of the Meriden (Conn.) Railway company, and the understanding is that she will be used as a freight boat hereafter by that company. The Tennessee originally cost $1,500,000. She was built just after the war, in 1865. For many years, however, she has been the flagship of the North Atlantic squadron, under Admirals Wyman, Cooper, Jouett and Luce. She was regarded as one of the prettiest models in the navy, and, although condemned by the navy department about six months ago, is regarded still as a serviceable boat.

The sun crosses the line and enters the southern hemisphere to-day.

See announcement of White Mountain excursions, Sept. 21st and 24th.

The vestry at St. John's church is to be enlarged, the ladies connected with the parish having obtained sufficient funds for that purpose.

A new court of the Ancient Order of Foresters was instituted in this city by Chief Ranger E. J. Sheehan and Sub-Chief John J. Connor of Manchester on Saturday evening last. Robert J. Donnelly was elected chief ranger, and John Griffin sub-chief ranger. The new organization of Foresters will be known as Court Rockingham.

The Creek Mission Association are about to erect a chapel building to accommodate the school. The chapel when completed will seat 150 persons, and it is hoped to have it ready for occupancy before Christmas. The work of building it will be commenced as soon as the amount of subscriptions are slightly increased.

On Saturday evening last Mr. Frank Harmon of the Rockingham house was presented with a very fine gold watch and chain, the gift of a number of his friends. The presentation was made at the Rockingham house by Mr. T. C. Meagher in a very pleasant manner, and Mr. Harmon responded appropriately.

It is now stated that the immense aerolite which was reported as having fallen in New Brunswick, near the Maine state line, cannot be found. We thought that aerolite story was a big one—bigger than the aerolite.

Canton Parker, Patriarchs Militant, of Dover, accompanied by the canton from South Berwick, Me., will arrive in this city on Thursday, Sept. 22d, with Sawyer's band of Dover, and will be received in due form by Canton Senter of this city. A parade will be had through some of the principal streets of this city, after which an excursion will be had down the harbor on the steamer Mystic, the party returning for dinner at the Rockingham, in time for the visitors to take the evening train for Dover.

The annual reunion of the veterans of the 10th New Hampshire Reg't, United States Volunteers, will be held at Dover on Thursday, the 22d inst. On arrival at Dover the veterans will be received by Post 17, G. A. R., of Dover, and escorted to Grand Army hall, where the business meeting will be held. At noon the comrades will proceed by rail to Dover point, where a clambake will be served.

The coroner's inquest over the remains of William Waterhouse, who was killed by a crossing accident at Hollis Center, Me., was concluded last week at Saco; the verdict exonerates the employes of the Portland & Rochester railroad from all blame.

One of the amusing features in journalism is to note the manner in which certain mugwump newspapers heartily defend the president alike for his political enemies and the fair of his own household. These papers serve as self-selected champions of the commander-in-chief. But what the president is most in need of just now is, not the advice of the mugwumps, but the support of the victor-spoils organs of the genuine democracy. These count best for campaign purposes.

An enthusiastic woman kissed the president at the Philadelphia reception last week. The Philadelphia reporters have not the push which characterizes some of the profession, hence we are deprived of the knowledge of what Frances remarked when she had a quiet word with her wayward spouse.

The Boston Sunday Herald of the 18th inst. deplores the invading of the quiet of the Sabbath in that city by the return of the Massachusetts delegation to Philadelphia on that day, and its consequent interference with the devotion of the Bostonians to—their Sunday newspapers.

Since Boston has become controlled in its city government by the mugwump democracy it is the boast of the Athenian that in the matter of dirty streets Boston leads New York.

The comical trials of pleasure-hunting are capitally told by Kate Field in Harper's Magazine for October, in an autobiographical story, called "Our Summer's Outing." The exasperating adventures of this vacation party in an obscure New York village form a diverting history for the after-summer period, and Frost's characteristic illustrations render its humorous scenes all the more vivid.

Mrs. Joseph Baker, of Johnson, Vt., was greatly afflicted with phthisic for twenty years, and was pronounced by physicians as incurable. Two bottles of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry afforded her much relief, and five completely cured her.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for its incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent inflammation, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for

SANFORD'S GINGER,

Death of Hon. Joseph Cilley.

Hon. Joseph Cilley, the oldest ex-United States senator, and a veteran of the war of 1812, died at his residence in Nottingham, on Friday morning, 16th inst., at the age of 96 years. He was descended from a family of that name which acquired distinction during the Revolution and his grandfather was a member of General Washington's staff. Joseph Cilley was born in Nottingham on January 4, 1791; studied law in Maine and was elected to the 25th congress in 1836; was chosen United States senator by the New Hampshire legislature in 1845 to fill the unexpired term ending March, 1847, which vacancy was caused by the resignation of Hon. Levi Woodbury. Mr. Cilley was also distinguished as one of the early abolitionists and was one of the first to present petitions to congress for the abolition of slavery. He was the brother of Congressman Cilley, who was killed by Congressman Graves in a memorable duel near New York in 1838.

Mr. Cilley entered the American army in 1812, and continued in the service until after the battle of Lundy's Lane. He fought at Sackett's Harbor and Chippewa and visited Buffalo, which had been burned by the British, and Detroit, where his right eye was rendered sightless by an explosion of gunpowder. At the battle of Lundy's Lane, Brevet Captain Cilley served under the immediate command of Colonel James Miller of Peterborough. The latter had been asked by General Ripley if he could take a battery which was playing upon American troops, and, answering "I'll try, sir," ordered his men to charge and captured the English guns. While defending the new position Captain Cilley was struck by a solid shot, sustaining a fracture of the left thigh, which resulted in permanent deformity and consequent lameness.

The evening of the venerable gentleman's life was spent in comfort and happiness. He had hosts of friends who seemed anxious to contribute to his enjoyment and at each recurring anniversary of his birth they were wont to gather in force to wish him many happy returns.

The oldest surviving senators now are Simon Cameron, Pennsylvania, born in 1799; James Bradbury, Maine, born in 1805; Jefferson Davis, Mississippi, born in 1808; Hannibal Hamlin, Maine, born in 1809. Simon Cameron served in the senate with all of them.

I have always been much annoyed by neuralgia and headache, and finally determined to try Salvation Oil. I am glad to recommend it as it made a perfect cure in my case. MARKS NEW, 62 Aisquith street, Baltimore, Md.

Nine suits have been brought against the Concord railroad by the owners of buildings burned in the Suncook fire last May. The fire originated, as is alleged, from a locomotive spark.

We think we can cure a bad case of backache quicker than any one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters, than by any other application, and after the backache is cured, you can still wear the plaster without discomfort for two or three weeks, or longer. This combination of smart weed and belladonna is a great hit, and it is hard to find any pain or ache that will not yield to it. Price 25 cents. Sold by druggists everywhere.

As a result of the Kennebec, Me., campaign against the rumsellers, $8,000 has been paid into the county treasury, and ten dealers are behind prison bars.

Not one in twenty are free from some little ailment caused by inaction of the liver. Use Carter's Little Liver Pills. The result will be a pleasant surprise. They give positive relief.

At Provincetown, Mass., one day last week, seven vessels arrived from Grand banks, with 14,600 quintals of cod. All had nearly full fares.

A Strange Freak.

The wife of our esteemed citizen, Mr. John Rowell, while suffering under a severe attack of the blues, tried to commit the crime of infanticide, but was prevented by the opportune arrival of a neighbor. Her case has been considered by the doctors incurable, but her husband was highly pleased, after using a course of Sulphur Bitters, to find she was entirely cured.—Kingston Herald.

Six suits, involving from $5,000 to $30,000 each, have been instituted against the Central Vermont road for deaths and injuries caused by the accident last winter.

The suspicious presence of Spanish rams off Key West is noted. Guess they won't steal the island; if they do, it's only a coral reef and sand bank anyway.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books I received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that your CUTICURA has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

P. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1876 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED,

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! Have you felt it to be the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous sludge all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and often cries for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with practice and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

DIGESTYLIN

FOR

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

It is not a secret remedy, but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach.

It will positively CURE CHOLERA INFANTUM, Summer Complaints, and CHRONIC DIARRHŒA, all of which are direct results of imperfect digestion. Give your children Digestylin. One bottle may save a life. Not one case of death reported for the past year from above diseases where the patient had taken Digestylin. Ask your Druggist for it. Price $1.00. Large bottles. If he does not keep it, send one dollar to us and we will send you a bottle. Express prepaid.

The Land Market.

It is stated that the price of real estate in many sections of the great and growing west has paused in its rapid rise, and buyers are not as plenty as formerly. In fine, there is a check in land speculation. Whether this is to be attributed to the stringency in the money market caused by the democratic policy of locking up the funds of the country in the treasury, and allowing nothing to be expended for public purposes, that Mr. Randall could prevent, or whether Mr. Henry George's proposition to put all the taxes on the land, has caused the dullness in the land market, is not satisfactorily stated. Perhaps Gen. Butler's advice as to the plan of young men in order to obtain wealth, to buy improved real estate, has changed the current of the coming capitalist from the prairie town lot to city corner sites. At all events, the acme of prices at the west has been reached. The eloquence of the land speculator for a time ceases to fill the air, while the holders of mortgages on unoccupied real estate consider what are the chances to receive the January interest.

Henry B. Lovering of Lynn was nominated for governor of Massachusetts by the democratic state convention on the 29th inst.

The "Physical Wreck."

The Dover Democrat remarks: "A despatch from Concord says that Pension Commissioner Black, the recipient of $5000 a year salary and a $1200 pension in addition, who is parading up and down as the 'friend of the soldier,' charged the New Hampshire veterans $25 for coming on to their reunion, when he dilated on his services to the pensioners. It is no wonder that the New Hampshire veterans are indignant, but how grand Black must feel. Squeezing $25 out of the old soldiers of New Hampshire, while he draws what practically amounts to a pension of $6200 a year. Meanness is not all gone yet, by any means, but rather it has become enlarged and intensified in Washington in the sacred name of Reform."

Glad He's Got Back.

A Washington despatch of the 18th inst. to the Boston Post says:

"I am sincerely glad to see you," said Commodore Walker to Chief Constructor Wilson at the navy department, as the latter entered the commodore's office yesterday.

"Why are you so particularly pleased to see me?" queried Mr. Wilson, who had just arrived from a long vacation.

"Because," the commodore replied, "the return of yourself and Mr. Sicard enables me to throw aside the title of Poo-Bah, which the absence of several of you gentlemen has put upon me. You may not know, but for the past fortnight I have been signing letters for Mr. Whitney as acting secretary; for Commodore Harmony as chief of the bureau of yards and docks; for Mr. Sicard as chief of ordnance; for yourself as chief constructor, and for myself as chief of the navigation bureau. I resign my quintet of titles with great satisfaction, I assure you."

Four hundred trains carried over 150,000 people from Philadelphia on the last day of the constitutional celebration. In all the crush not an accident was reported.

The flag-ship Bellerophon, of the British North Atlantic squadron, has arrived at Halifax from Quebec and placed in the hospital ten of her seamen, who were seriously injured by an explosion of a pile of rockets during an illumination in honor of Governor General Lansdowne. One midshipman and thirty other sailors were also hurt, but not so badly as to force them to leave the ship.

Father O'Leary, of St. Louis, addressed a meeting of the National League at Mitchellstown, Ireland, Sept. 18th. The speaker announced himself a follower of Henry George. Mr. Condon, member of parliament, expressed disapproval of his remarks.

Haolan the oarsman has arrived at Auckland, New Zealand.

Cholera continues its ravages in Italy. In Catania on the 19th there were seven new cases and four deaths; in Palermo eight new cases and five deaths, and in Messina, 107 new cases and forty deaths.

Eight men were killed by a boiler explosion on board the West Indian steamer Elbe, during a trial trip in Stokes bay, England, Sept. 19th.

The Farmingdale, Me., train wrecker is at work again. One night last week an attempt was made to throw off the evening train by placing big timbers across the rails. The attempt was not successful.

The remaining buildings at Oak Grove (Me.) Seminary were destroyed by fire Sept. 13th. They consisted of a gymnasium and stable, and the loss is $3,000.

A serious fire broke out at Milltown, N. B., Saturday, and the village was only saved by the united efforts of fire companies from four towns. As it was the loss amounted to $10,000.

Secretary Bayard denies point blank that he has ordered the British sealers released.

Dr. Cogswell and his wife, of San Francisco, have given a million dollars for the establishment of a technic school, where youths will be taught the mechanic arts gratuitously, in San Francisco.

It is reported that the young Duc d'Orleans, eldest son of the Comte de Paris, will in a few weeks start on a tour of the world, spending the autumn and winter in Egypt, India and Japan, coming in the spring to San Francisco, and so on leisurely across America to New York. He is eighteen years old and remarkably fat.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravated forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilton, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, CLARK J.

The District court came in on Tuesday, and was in session for only a brief time. No business being brought before the court an early adjournment was ordered.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, Sept. 20th.

Charles Marston, charged with being an idle person, and proven to be a worthless one, was ordered to the county farm for sixty days, and to pay $7.67 costs.

"CHARLOTTE RUSSE."

There was the smallest audience of the season at Music hall on Monday evening to witness the presentation of Charlotte Russe. The comedy was finely presented by the actors, but they failed to awaken any enthusiasm in the spectators, the play needing some reconstruction before it will be as good as it can be made. The music by the orchestra was the best part of the entertainment.

ATHLETIC CLUB ELECTION.

The adjourned meeting of the Portsmouth Athletic club for the election of officers was held at the gymnasium Monday evening when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, James G. Ward; vice-president, George W. Boardman; secretary, D. J. Sullivan; treasurer, Fred F. Church; directors, Charles E. Lear, W. D. Smart, Chas. Fred Green, Myers Dempsey, Eugene Sullivan.

PERSONAL.

Postmaster Dearborn of Manchester was in town on Tuesday.

Mrs. Alfred W. Haven is at Mrs. Whipple's on State street.

Mr. John Hersey of Ward Hill, Mass., is visiting friends in this city.

Mrs. Wm. F. Kidder and family, formerly of Portsmouth, are visiting friends here.

Mrs. J. C. Bush of Brooklyn, N. Y., formerly of Portsmouth, was in town on Monday.

H. U. Brooks of this city arrived at the Hygeia hotel, Old Point Comfort, Va., on the 16th inst.

Mrs. Lyttleton M. Laighton left this city on Tuesday for Bangor, Me., for a stay of several months.

Miss Kate Davis, of Echo Lake cottage, East Wakefield, this state, is passing several weeks at Mr. John W. Young's on Washington street.

Passed Assistant Engineer William H. Nauman of the navy was in town on Monday, and left on the Flying Yankee for Washington, where he is on duty in the bureau of steam engineering at the Navy Department.

Mr. Plumer Spinney, who broke one of his legs some weeks ago while unloading a stove from his city express wagon, has so far recovered that he was able to be out of doors for a short time on Tuesday.

MLLE. RHEA.

Music hall will have an attraction on Thursday evening next that should crowd the house. Mlle. Rhea will present her new emotional drama, "Fairy Fingers," which has been a great success everywhere the past season. Mlle. Rhea will wear a number of beautiful toilet-es. The Buffalo Express says: "The play has the old-fashioned romantic motive underlying its plot,—the impediments to the union of two young hearts which result in temporary estrangement, but inevitably are swept away to permit a blissful culmination. In some cases the obstacles to earlier matrimony are proposed by the designing villain; in the present instance, by ambitious parents. In some the hero makes the sacrifice; in this it is the heroine. Alike in all, the constancy of the one who goes forth is misconstrued into perfidy by the other, and the misunderstanding is cleared up with the defeat of the opposing forces. In "Fairy Fingers" a duchess turns dressmaker; and her pecuniary success as a modiste enables her to marry the man she loves, despite the contrary plans of the dowager. Rhea is the heroine, of course, and makes a charming figure for the displayment of several bewildering toilets. The associate ladies of the cast are tastefully, even elegantly, dressed; and the lavish show of fine apparel in the millinery scene caused all the glasses of the ladies in the audience to be levelled at the stage. Mlle. Rhea plays with naïve grace and charming address; and, making no attempt to be melodramatic in the mild climaxes of the play, is consistently and agreeably undemonstrative throughout."

MARITIME NOTES.

The tug Clara Batemen, Capt. Rand, took down the river at one tow on Tuesday forenoon two big schooners, a four-master and a three-master.

The schooner Maggie J. Smith, Bennett master, arrived at this port on the 20th inst. from Newport News with 1151 tons of coal to J. Albert Walker.

A steam yacht from New York, with a party of eight gentlemen on board, came up the river on Monday and anchored near Pumpkin island, where she remained until Tuesday afternoon. She was a very nice-looking craft.

A despatch of the 18th from Halifax, N. S., says: "The mackerel are now solid from East point to Port Hood, and the American seiners are doing well, one or two of them having secured as high as 400 barrels of No. 1 fish. Some of the American captains have been receiving despatches from their owners to remain on the Canadian coast."

Schooner yacht Ambassadress, owned by E. V. R. Thayer, and General Butler's America, have gone out of commission.

Advices from Victoria, British Columbia, state that when the steamer Bear was in the Arctic sea she found the only survivor of the whaling vessel Napoleon, lost two years ago. The vessel was crushed among the ice, and the crew took to their boats. Eight lived on the ice floes for thirteen days, but all but one died from starvation and exposure. The survivor was picked up by Esquimaux, and cared for until the arrival of the Bear.

On Sunday last the brick schooner Satelite arrived in the lower harbor. There was but little breeze, and the tide was running up. The schooner had one anchor down which did not hold, and the vessel dragged up river to a point near Gangway ledge, when the anchor caught and held the vessel fast. When the crew began to heave the anchor they found it came up unusually hard, but they kept on heaving and soon brought to the surface their own anchor and an extra one. The pick-up proved to be a 500-pound anchor, lost several years ago by a coal laden vessel.—Times.

RAILROAD ITEMS.

Mr. Charles McCarthy, who has for four years been baggage master at the Boston & Maine depot in this city has resigned that position. Mr. Fred Young who has been Mr. McCarthy's assistant, has been promoted to be chief and Howard Dame has taken the position of assistant.

Mr. Timothy C. Crowley of this city, who has for some years been station master at Seabrook, has resigned that position to accept the position of day telegraph operator at Lynn, which place has heretofore been held by Mr. Frank Hobbs who has just been appointed night operator in the train dispatcher's office in Boston.

A new railroad telegraph line has been completed between this city and Union Bluffs, York, and is now in working order.

The flower inspection committee of the B. & M. R. R. made their annual visit to the several stations Monday on a special train that passed through this city about 2.50 p. m. The committee was much pleased with the display of flowers at the depot and round house in this city.

Two large panes of plate glass in a front window of an establishment called "The Broken Bank," kept in what was formerly the Ten Cents savings bank building, were broken some time during Monday night, and on Tuesday morning a stone weighing eight or ten pounds was found lying on the floor inside the window of what was once the savings bank's counting room.

One of the early landmarks of the city of San Francisco, the old Portsmouth House, on the northeast corner of Clay and Dupont streets, will be removed at the end of this month. The building was the postoffice in the early fifties, and later the centre of gambling saloons. The property was bought last year by a rich Chinese merchant for $70,000. He will build a large brick block for stores and lodging houses.

Horace Sawyer has about forty guests at his excellent boarding house in Rye. The Farragut closes to-day.

The stone for the foundation of the Soldiers' monument is now being hauled into Goodwin park, and preparations for laying the same are being made. The top soil is to be taken off before grading the lot, and a portion of the ground was broken up on Monday with an ox team.

Mr. A. W. Wingate of Bolt hill, Eliot, this year raised a squash, a cross of the marrowfat and Hubbard varieties, which measures five feet in circumference one way, and four feet ten inches the other, and is estimated to weigh 130 lbs.

Editor of Gazette: Will you please correct a mistake in your last issue. The location of the overhead railroad bridge in Kittery is not Rice's hollow, but on a high hill; the land bordering it on both sides and for some distance has been owned by the Remick family for nearly a hundred years. It is naturally called the Remick bridge from its location. The abutment is twenty-two feet high, because of a law passed in the Maine legislature last winter fixing the height of bridges over railroad crossings, for greater security to the lives of brakemen. Your correspondent needs to visit this part of the country, to get clear impressions in these small matters.

A LOOKER-ON.

PERSONAL. If the lady who wished for the infant's cloak will now call, we will be pleased to show the line to her, and to any one else that will come and see them. M. C. FOYE.

Henry George was fined $100 the other day for not answering a summons as a juror. George has tried to convince the judge that he ought to be let off, but the court regards George's money just as good as the next man's to fill the treasury.

A jury in Kansas City, Missouri, rendered a verdict of guilty in a case of a man charged with a heinous offence, with the inadequate penalty of six months in the county jail. Judge White administered a deserved rebuke to the jury. "Gentlemen," he said, "I shall take the liberty to set aside your verdict. If you had found the defendant not guilty, I should have had nothing to say; but when you find him guilty, and assess his punishment at six months, you perpetrate an outrage. You will now all be discharged from attendance, and forever disqualified as jurors in this court."

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus unite a sure preventive and never failing cure for ills incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, composed of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine. It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

by reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines, and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest, is the only road which unites the most transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, LaSalle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Creston, Kearney, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown, in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who patronize it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and mechanical—its employees are trained and careful. Its history of its passenger accommodation is unequaled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

All Express Trains between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of Comfortable Day Coaches, magnificent Pullman Palace Parlor and Sleeping Cars, elegant Dining Cars (meals a la carte), direct connections Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—Overland Northern Pacific Route.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Pullman Trains run daily in the summer resorts, picturesque Dewdrops and Spirit Lake, and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of Dakota Territory are reached via Watertown. A short, desirable route via Seneca and Kankakee, offers superior inducements between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points. All classes of patrons, especially families, can, by addressing, receive from officials and employes of Rock Island trains protection, courtesy and kindly attention.

ALL DRUGGISTS SELL IT.

—A "young gent just graduated from high school" advertises for a position, in a St. Louis paper. He would be exactly the man to sell "pants" and "kids."

—"Just think, Bobby," said his mother, "those poor little children are orphans, and have no papas and mammas to care for them. You wouldn't like to be an orphan, would you? "I feel like it sometimes," was Bobby's reply.

—Bobby was inspecting the new baby for the first time, and his dicum was as follows: "I s'pose he's nice enough, what there is of it," he said without enthusiasm; "but I'm sorry it ain't a parrot."

—The two Chicago boodlers who are in the county jail are getting poetic justice. They declare that there is sewer gas in their cells, but the warden says that if they had attended to their duties, instead of plundering Cook county, the jail would be in proper condition, and he refuses to remove them.

Misery After Eating

Is avoided by dyspeptics who, guided by the recorded experience of thousands, begin and systematical pursue a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Persistence in the use of this pure and highly accredited stomachic, is the sole and agreeable condition of the entire removal of the obstinate forms of dyspepsia, no less than a temporary fit of indigestion. In connection with the use of this specific, it is desirable to avoid articles of food which individual experience has shown to be difficult of digestion, by the stomach sought to be benefitted. Each dyspeptic's past observation of his digestive capacity should enable him to be his own guide and mentor in this particular, not trusting to any set of dietetic rules too general to be suited to any particular cases. Biliousness and constipation, heartburn, wisp upon the stomach, sour eructations, headache and mental despondency, are among the concomitants of dyspepsia, and we put it to flight by the Bitters.

—Highwayman (in Pullman palace car): "Your money or your life." "Is you 'dressin' dose remarks to me, sah? "You bet I am. Hurry up." "Well, I'm the pohtah of dis yeah cah." "Oh! Excuse me. How are you, comrade?"

Distress after eating, heartburn, sick headache, and indigestion are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It also creates a good appetite.

—Citizen: "What's the matter, Doc—in a hurry?" Doctor: "I should say so! I've more than I can do." Citizen: "Some epidemic?" Doctor: "No, people are getting back from their summer vacations."

We think we can cure a bad case of backache quicker with one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters, than by any other application, and after the backache is cured, you can still wear the plaster without discomfort for two or three weeks, or longer. This combination of smart weed and belladonna is a great hit, and it is hard to find any pain or ache that will not yield to it. Price 25 cents. Sold by druggists everywhere.

—"To what do you attribute the curative properties of your springs?" asked a visitor at a health resort. "Well," answered the proprietor thoughtfully, "I guess the advertising I've done has something to do with it."

Not one in twenty are free from some little ailment caused by inaction of the liver. Use Carter's Little Liver Pills. The result will be a pleasant surprise. They give positive relief.

—First Scotch Citizen—"Did ye hear tell, Tam, that the Thizzle had come owre the grup yon America cup? "Wull there be onything in that cup, think ye; onything strong? "Shouldna wun'ner." "Then ye mark ma words, Geordie—the 'Thuzzle's gawn tae grup it."

A Strange Freak.

The wife of our esteemed citizen, Mr. John Rowell, while suffering under a severe attack of the blues, tried to commit the crime of infanticide, but was prevented by the opportune arrival of a neighbor. Her case has been considered by the doctors incurable, but her husband was highly pleased, after using a course of Sulphur Bitters, to find she was entirely cured.—Kingston Herald.

—A small boy, Tommy Peterby, who is one of a family of ten, was taken out in the family carriage with his mother. As they drove past a small cottage of three rooms Mrs. Peterby remarked how pretty it looked. "Yes, it looks very nice," said Tommy, "and it wouldn't be a bit too small for our family if it wasn't for pa and the children."

How to Gain Health and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk and easily digested. Delicate people improve rapidly with its use. For consumption, throat affections and bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thomas Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month."

—A San Francisco Chinaman registers his contradictory names as Joy Wo.

I have been an annual sufferer from Hay fever for forty years, it recurring about Aug. 20th each year. For several summers I have used Ely's Cream Balm with excellent results. I am free from any asthmatic symptoms. I hope many sufferers will be induced to try the remedy. GEORGE EARP, Baltimore, Md.

I have been afflicted with Hay fever from early in August until frost. My eyes would run a stream of water and I sneezed continually. I was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like a charm and I can say I am entirely cured. MRS. EMELINE JOHNSON, Chester, Conn.

—The proprietor of a Niagara hotel has great faith in falls profits.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

P. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

Reference: FRANK T. WRAY, Druggist, Apollo, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1876 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED,

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

MACMILLAN & CO., Druggists, Latrobe, Pa.

PIMPLES, Blackheads, Skin Blemishes, and Baby Humors, use CUTICURA SOAP.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you an access the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrah. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera, Infantium, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering testimonials upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

It is not a secret remedy, but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach.

It will positively CURE CHOLERA INFANTUM, Summer Complaints, and CHRONIC DIARRHŒA, all of which are direct results of imperfect digestion. Give your children Digestylin. One bottle may save a life. Not one case of death reported for the past year from above diseases where the patient had taken Digestylin. Ask your Druggist for it. Price $1.00. Large bottles. If he does not keep it, send one dollar to us and we will send you a bottle. Express prepaid.

There is one admirable feature about the barbed wire fence and that is they can't paint Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup advertisement on it.

An official test of Lieut. Zalinski's dynamite gun was made at Fort Lafayette, New York harbor, Sept. 20th, in presence of Secretary Whitney, and of representatives of many foreign nations. The target was an old eighty-ton schooner anchored a mile from the fort, and nothing but kindling wood was left of her at the conclusion of the test. The gun used throws fifty pounds of dynamite; another one is being constructed, to carry 600 lbs.

An Important Element

Of the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is the fact that every purchaser receives a fair equivalent for his money. The familiar headline "100 Doses One Dollar," stolen by imitators, is original with and true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla. This can easily be proven by any one who desires to test the matter. For real economy, buy only Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists.

ELIOT ITEMS.

ELIOT, ME., Sept. 20th.

The excursion trip to Fabyan's last Wednesday afforded much pleasure and most beautiful scenery of mountains and valleys, and many things which cannot be mentioned or pictured out. It is very cheap fare on these excursions, and it would pay any one to go and see for themselves. Quite a large number from this town visited the mountain region on Wednesday, and some remained until Monday last. Miss Caroline B. Knight and Miss Mary L. Spinney spent a few days at North Conway.

The Bicycle Boys of East Deerfield left town on Saturday, Sept. 17th, to make their trip home; they have enjoyed the past two weeks largely, and they hope to be able to spend a portion of next season here.

Mr. D. W. Mirrow and wife of Grand Island, Neb., are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Mirrow's parents, Mr. Samuel Dixon and wife.

Mrs. John W. Knight is visiting her daughter, Mrs. P. E. Rogers of Manchester, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Chauncey have been visiting Mrs. Chauncey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Adams, and other friends here, for a short time. Mr. Chauncy returned home to Somerville, Mass., on Monday. Mrs. Chauncy will remain a few days longer.

Albert Shapleigh, employed in the Boston & Maine car shops at Salem, Mass., will move his family there shortly, as it will be more convenient for him, and much more pleasant to have them with him. Charles Foye will occupy the house that Mr. Shapleigh has lived in for several years, owned by Dr. Fogg of Boston.

On Friday, Sept. 16th, born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knight, a son.

Thaddeus Knight is erecting a barn close to his house.

Mr. Samuel Dixon has quite a large fruit orchard from which he has gathered some of the most excellent peaches that have ever been raised in this section of Maine; they were rich in flavor as well as in looks, and we think Mr. Dixon should be proud of his crop this year.

Amos W. Wingate of Bolt hill has a squash that weighs in the vicinity of eighty pounds; if it had been at the Lewiston fair it would have taken the first premium.

Roy Staples, son of Abner Staples, fell from the wagon while riding with his sisters on Monday, and broke his arm above the elbow.

Mrs. George Frye, living near Eliot Depot, went down to her father's, Mr. Hamilton Spinney of Eliot Neck. While there her little girl was taken ill, and died on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Frye have no child left.

Solomon Staples is having a house erected on the same foundations that the old one stood on, burned a short time ago, caused by a spark from a locomotive.

Geo. A. Hammond is making some improvements on his buildings, and having a cupola put on his barn.

Prof. M. G. Farmer is improving the street in front of his house and the street leading eastward, by putting a fine fence around his lot. Prof. Farmer is a great benefit to the people of Eliot; we wish there were more such men in the place.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 20th.

We are on the eve of husking parties, harvest suppers, new cider and many weddings in this town. For further particulars, watch the columns of the NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE.

We hear that one of our citizens at the Foreside was robbed of $160 while doing the water froot of Portsmouth one day last week.

Engineer Oliver P. Remick, U. S. R. M., is in town passing his annual vacation.

We are pleased to hear that Arthur Pettigrew, who has been so dangerously sick with typhoid fever, is improving a little.

Mr. Franklin W. Blaney of North Kittery has been visiting his son, Mr. Frank W. Blaney of Hubbardstown, Mass., for several weeks past.

Another sensation in town; this time it is at the Point, but we have not the time nor inclination to write it out. We will simply say that it was a case of misplaced confidence.

The Pepperell house, at the Point, still has about twenty-five guests, and will keep open till October. SUB ROSA.

The Bribery Investigation.

The senate committee appointed to investigate the charge of Senator Oliver D. Sawyer of an attempt by Kirk D. Pierce to bribe him to vote for the Hazen bill, on the 21st inst. reported, in effect that Senator Sawyer was justified in the construction he placed upon Pierce's language, and "in the conclusion that it was the intent of Mr. Pierce to offer a bribe."

Another Train Robbery in Texas.

As the east-bound train from California over the Texas & Pacific railroad was leaving the little station at Ben Brook, twelve miles west of Fort Worth, Texas, on the night of Sept. 20th, two masked men carrying revolvers in their hands jumped into the cab of the engine, and forced the engineer to run his train as far as a high trestle, and there stop it in such a manner that the express car was off the trestle, the passenger cars remaining on it, so that the passengers could not alight if they wished. The express and mail car was forced, and the money in the safe stolen; all the registered letters were also taken. The amount of booty is estimated at $20,000. The same train was robbed on the same trestle, and in the same manner, one night last June. None of the passengers were molested on either occasion.

Students of natural history are greatly interested in the remarkable discovery of the bones of extinct animals in Washington territory. Among the several species found is one heretofore unknown to science, having horns or tusks protruding downward from the head just below the eyes, and probably extending to the ground, thus giving support to the enormous head, which is estimated to have weighed a ton. One of the horns found measured ten feet and one inch in length, and was worn at the lower curve as if by constant rubbing over the ground and rocks. The jaw-bone of this antique monster weighed sixty-three pounds, the molar teeth eighteen pounds each, the skeleton when put up was eighteen feet and six inches high, and the animal in life must have weighed at least twenty tons.

Henry George was fined a hundred dollars because it was not convenient for him to serve as a juror, and is very angry with the judge for not remitting the amount. If Mr. George expects to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of dollars under the present forms of civilization he should be willing to render some trifling service in return, at least until he has established the new Utopia, when all such petty inconveniences will cease with the ownership of land.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

MLLE. RHEA.

The charming actress, M'lle Rhea, will appear in Music hall this evening in her latest and greatest success, "Fairy Fingers," which is declared by the critics of Boston, Baltimore, Cleveland, Chicago and other cities to be the finest play she has presented. The Buffalo Times says of the play:

Notwithstanding the weather there was an enormous audience at the Academy of Music last evening to witness the performance of "Fairy Fingers," by M'lle Rhea and her excellent company. As all society comedy dramas should be, it is bright and sparkling, and well calculated to entertain, if not to intensely interest or pleasingly instruct. Rhea's impersonation was another triumph to her already successful engagement. As the happy milliner, she acted with a brilliancy and vivaciousness that is really her own. The several characters were well sustained, and the action good throughout, thus making the success above noted.

Tickets at Goodrich's; see advertisement.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Henry A. Turner and daughter, Miss Mary Turner, of Boston, are visiting friends in this city.

Commodore C. W. Pickering, U. S. N., and wife, were registered at the Parker house, Boston, on the 21st inst.

Fred McIntire, Esq., of Boston, who is passing a few days in York on a visit to his father, Mr. Leonard McIntire, was in town on Wednesday.

Mr. Charles H. Salter arrived home on the 20th inst. from Coney island, where he has during the season been cashier of the Manhattan Beach hotel.

Miss Isa Frisbee, who has been spending a two months' vacation at her home in this city, will return this week to Boston, where she is meeting with marked success as a teacher of the piano.

Mr. W. M. Babbitt, general agent of the Pat Rooney Comedy Co., was in this city on Wednesday of this week, making arrangements for the appearance of his company at Music hall on Friday evening, Sept. 30th, in "Pat's Wardrobe."

Mr. Adolph Nelson, of the New York custom house force, formerly of this city, who has been spending a vacation at the eastward, passed through this city on the three o'clock train Wednesday afternoon, the 21st inst., on his way back to New York.

Mr. Phineas Drake was in town on Wednesday evening, 21st inst., after passing the summer in the hotels at Campobello island, New Brunswick, as steward. Mr. Drake will at the end of this month start for Lamando Park, Los Angeles county, California, to assume the stewardship of Sierra Madre Villa, a large hotel in that place.

Mrs. Martha Laskey, of Portsmouth, is enjoying her accustomed annual visit to this place, making her home with Mrs. S. N. Hersey. Mrs. Laskey is in her 81st year, and is what we term a young old lady, in its fullest sense. She arrived Thursday, in company with her daughter, Sarah. "Aunt Martha," as we call her, though advanced in years, retains to a remarkable degree her faculties and vigor, is jovial and sprightly in conversation, and no social gathering is dull when "Aunt Martha" is there to contribute enlivening snatches of her long and varied experiences in life.—Wolfeborough News.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Commodore W. S. Schley, chief of the bureau of equipment and recruiting, visited the Portsmouth navy yard Wednesday forenoon of this week, and was duly saluted.

The crew of the practice-ship Constellation were taken from this navy yard to Boston on the 21st inst., on the steamer Leyden.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Helen H. Benedict, from Baltimore with 1172 tons coal to E. F. Sise & Co., arrived at this port on the 21st inst. and will discharge at the Concord railroad wharf.

The steamer Oceanic, Capt. Robinson, made an excursion to Great bay on Wednesday, 21st inst., and had a good party and a very pleasant trip; the up-river pilot was Capt. Fernald, of the gondola Alice. The Oceanic leaves on Friday for New York, taking around as passengers a number of Portsmouth gentlemen.

SI PERKINS.

Lack of space compels us to touch very briefly on the delightful comedy, "Si Perkins, or; the Girl I Left Behind Me," which was rendered before a large and highly pleased audience, in the Opera house, on Friday evening last. From the time the curtain was rung up on the first act until the close of the three hours of solid playing which followed, the shouts of laughter and applause were deafening to hear. Frank Jones as the irresistible, side-splitting Si, was a whole troupe, with brass band and orchestra thrown in. Miss Alice Montague as Zana, the gipsy waif, was good as was also the balance of the troupe. All that was necessary for Si was to open his mouth and start that lively tongue going to cause a shout to re-echo through the house which shook it as though a tornado was raging on the outside. Everybody held tight to the arms of their chairs in order to keep from being drawn away by the current of enthusiasm that followed his appearance upon the stage, and many of his hearers have been doing their sides with St. Jacob's oil ever since. The orchestra was the best we ever heard, and if the company comes again they will be greeted with an overflowing house. Before closing, however, we must not forget to say a word of praise for Mr. J. C. Miller who so creditably took the part of Tiad, a young urchin, always in mischief, ready for a lark, and whose qualification for pure, unadulterated devilry can only be likened unto that of Peck's bad boy. Mr. Miller is a young man, but notwithstanding, he displays a natural talent which will ere long, if nothing overtakes him, cause him to shine as a star in the cluster of brilliant stage performers.—Philipsburg, Pa., Journal.

At Music hall on Monday evening, Sept. 26th. Tickets at Goodrich's, on and after Friday.

BURGLARIES.

The store of Edward Standley in Rochester was broken into on the night of the 19th inst., the groceries upset generally, and the contents of the money drawer and a few small articles taken away. There is no clue to the thieves.

The Boston & Maine railroad station in Farmington was broken into the same night, the safe drilled into and blown open, and all the money it contained, which was not much, stolen; also a number of railroad tickets. The job was evidently done by professionals, who did not get very largely paid for their enterprise. There are no houses near the station, so the noise of the explosion disturbed no one, though the door of the safe was blown clear across the room.

The same night Ira Miller's provision and general supply store at Milton Three Ponds was entered and the safe blown open, and the store thoroughly ransacked, everything being in utter confusion when the owner of the store entered in the morning. The safe contained about $80, which of course was stolen, as was also about $100 worth of cigars, tobacco and cutlery. A man living near the store heard an explosion about midnight, and looked out of the window but saw nothing suspicious.

Canton Parker, Patriarchs Militant, of Dover, accompanied by a considerable number of Patriarchs from South Berwick as guests, will arrive in this city this forenoon on a visit to Canton Senter; the exercises will include a parade, a trip down the harbor in the steamer Mystic, and dinner at the Rockingham.

Messrs. John Hatch, John Christie, C. S. Franklin and Robert C. Pierce of this city have been selected as delegates to the diocean convention of the Protestant Episcopal church of New Hampshire, to be held at Concord on Wednesday, Sept. 28th.

The veterans of the 10th New Hampshire regiment have a reunion in Dover to-day, and a clam-bake at Dover point.

M'lle Rhea will present every lady who attends at Music hall this evening with a beautiful silver thimble with the name "Rhea" engraved on it, so they can adorn their own "Fairy Fingers."

Mr. Edward Raitt has been appointed second assistant baggage master at the Boston & Maine railroad station in this city.

Hon. Henry B. Lovering of Lynn, Mass., who was a member of the Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth Congresses from the sixth district of Massachusetts, and is now the democratic candidate for governor of that state—which is as near the gubernatorial chair as he is likely to get—is a native of this city, having been born here in 1841, his parents removing with him, when he was five years old, to Lynn, where he has since resided. He has an excellent war record, having served two enlistments, and had his left leg shot away in the battle of Winchester.

The annual session of the State Convention of the Church Universal will be held in this city, Oct. 5th and 6th.

A house standing next to Morrill's block in Dover, and owned by the same parties, took fire in the second story from a defective chimney on the 20th inst. There were two tenements in the upper story, the lower story being occupied for business purposes. The occupants of the two tenements lost all all their property, and had no insurance. The fire worked into Morrill's block, but was soon drowned out there, the loss on the two buildings being about $2000; insured. An undertaker, two grocers, a provision dealer, a restaurant keeper, a lanadryman and others, suffered damage by smoke and water to the amount of some $2300, most of the parties being insured.

Charles H. Davis, formerly of the firm of Smith & Davis, grain merchants at South Berwick, was instantly killed about seven o'clock in the evening on the 19th inst., by being thrown from his team, it is supposed by the sudden shying of the horse, while passing through a piece of wooded road between Rollinsford and Salmon Falls. He was found by two men who were driving through the woods at a late hour, lying beside the road with his neck broken. He was forty-two years old, and unmarried.

Capt. Walker of the Cunard steamer Cephalonia, at Boston from Liverpool, reports having seen the big meteor on the night of the 15th inst. at about 8:30 o'clock, the ship being then in the vicinity of Cape Sable. The meteor was very brilliant, sparks radiating from the centre, and it left a long, fiery track; the sky and the ship were brilliantly illuminated for about six seconds, and the meteor was seen to fall into the sea about half a mile from the vessel.

A stable at Springvale village, Sanford, owned by Howard Frost, and in which was stored some household goods owned by Mrs. H. Cook, was destroyed by fire early in the morning on the 20th inst.; cause of fire unknown; loss, about $300.

The Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution of the 3d inst. remarked: "Twenty-three years ago yesterday a route agent named W. T. Sherman piloted the biggest party of excursionists into Atlanta that ever visited Georgia. Efforts were made to entertain the party here, but they decided to extend their trip to Savannah."

Rear-Admiral J. R. Madison Mullaney, U. S. N., retired, has died at Bryn Mawr, Penn. He was born in New York, Oct. 26th, 1818, entered the navy in 1832, was a lieutenant in the Mexican war, commanded several vessels in the rebellion, and lost an arm in the Fort Morgan engagement at Mobile, Ala. His record is an excellent one.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for the incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent Indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines from the Atlantic and continuous lines at terminal points West, North west and Southwest, is the only road which runs in that direction through Sleepers which include and facilitate travel and traffic in either direction between Chicago and Pacific points.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peru, Peoria, Geneso, Skyline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Center and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Lawson and Kearney, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown, in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel, laid to the latest approved styles of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. Its well known safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its system of information is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodation is unequaled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

All Express Trains leave Chicago and the Missouri River consist of Comfortable Day Coaches, magnificent Pullman Palace Parlor and Sleeping Cars, elegant Dining Cars providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, Council Bluffs, Atchison and Kansas City—restful Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

is the direct route between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the manufacturing, pleasure resort, pleasure localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The only direct and grazing lands of Interior Dakota are reached via Watertown. A short, desirable route, via Seneca and Kankakee, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Fairfield and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points. All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from employees of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly treatment.

WEAK MEN and WOMEN can quickly cure themselves of Weakness, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood from youthful errors, &c., quietly at home. 32 page Book on All Private Diseases sent free, sealed. Perfectly reliable. 20 years experience. Dr. D. H. LOWE, Winsted, Conn.

Misery After Eating

Is avoided by dyspeptics who, guided by the recorded experience of thousands, begin and systematical pursue a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Persistence in the use of this pure and highly accredited stomachic, is the sole and agreeable condition of the entire removal of the obstinate forms of dyspepsia, no less than a temporary fit of indigestion. In connection with the use of this specific, it is desirable to avoid articles of food which individual experience has shown to be difficult of digestion, by the stomach sought to be benefitted. Each dyspeptic's past observation of his digestive capacity should enable him to be his own guide and mentor in this particular, not trusting to any set of dietetic rules too general to be suited to any particular cases. Billiousness and constipation, heartburn, wind upon the stomach, sour eructations, headache and mental despondency, are among the concomitants of dyspepsia, and we put it to flight by the Bitters.

It is said that the Duke of Buccleugh, who is the richest man in Scotland, and has an income of $1,600,000 a year, is sometimes hard up for money. He has five establishments to keep up, and so many poor relations, retainers, pensioners, etc., that this enormous amount of money quickly disappears.

Economy and strength are peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, the only medicine of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true.

At Louisville, Ky., Sept. 20th, William Thompson, concealed himself near the house of J. Thompson, and shot three members of the family, one fatally; he also shot a school teacher. The victims were cousins of the murderer.

We think we can cure a bad case of backache quicker with one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters, than by any other application, and after the backache is cured, you can still wear the plaster without discomfort for two or three weeks, or longer. This combination of smart weed and belladonna is a great hit, and it is hard to find any pain or ache that will not yield to it. Price 25 cents. Sold by druggists everywhere.

I have been an annual sufferer from Hay fever for forty years, it recurring about Aug. 20th each year. For several summers I have used Ely's Cream Balm with excellent results. I am free from any asthmatic symptoms. I hope many sufferers will be induced to try the remedy. GEORGE EARP, Baltimore, Md.

I have been afflicted with Hay fever from early in August until frost. My eyes would run a stream of water and I sneezed continually. I was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like a charm and I can say I am entirely cured. MRS. EMELINE JOHNSON, Chester, Conn.

M. V. B. Herson, formerly a state detective in Massachusetts, has been arrested on a charge of stealing $1500 worth of diamonds in Providence, R. I., from a drunken drummer whom he was taking to a hotel.

Neuralgia cured by St. Jacobs Oil.—C. H. Rossiter, Philadelphia, Pa.

In Dover, Sept. 19th, an electric light workman named George Day fell thirty feet from a tree to the ground, through the breaking of a limb. He was badly hurt, but will recover.

Cramps of the Muscles Cured.

John I. Wood, of Stratford, Ont., was cured of cramps in the legs by wearing Allcock's Porous Plasters. Mr. Wood says:

"Some three months ago I was taken very sick with severe pain in the small of my back over the kidneys. The pain was excruciating. I applied an Allcock's Porous Plaster over the affected region and had relief almost within an hour. At the same time, in conjunction with this trouble, I had very great nervous disturbance, affecting my legs with cramps so I could scarcely sleep. Meeting with such success with my back I applied a plaster under the knee on each leg, and in three days was completely cured, and have never been troubled in either way since."

An Iowa railroad saved $35 a month by not having a night telegraph operator at Dubuque. A collision resulted, by which two trains were wrecked, six train men and several passengers killed, and eight or ten other persons badly injured, some of them fatally.

How to Gain Health and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk and easily digested. Delicate people improve rapidly with its use. For consumption, throat affections and bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thomas Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month."

Fr. Barry, of Hyde Park, Mass., contemplates the building of three parochial schools in that town at an expense of $13,000.

Neuralgia is unknown to people who use the great pain cure, St. Jacobs Oil.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my legs, and until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint we receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the language and delility that accompanied the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and making the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of the poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrah. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most responsible and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Funny Toads.

"No one knows the funny things toads will do," said the Hon. James A. Sweeney, a Luzerne county naturalist and ex-member of the Pennsylvania legislature. "On a recent cloudy day, after a hard rain, there there was a cool breeze blowing. I was walking in a friend's garden near Hazleton when I heard a peculiar sound. Looking in the direction from which it came, I saw two toads in an open space in the garden. One was quite large, and the other was at least a third smaller. They were both standing on their hind feet, facing each other. The large toad had its fore feet over on each side of the smaller toad's shoulder's; the small toad his left fore foot on the large one's right leg. As they stood in that way they uttered strange guttural, sounds, as if they were discussing some subject between themselves. Suddenly the small toad thrust its right foot or hand, you might call it, against the large one's stomach, and the next instant the latter threw the former to the ground and a lively wrestle between them began.

"During the struggle on the ground the skins of both toads burst open on the back, and I supposed I was about to see an interesting process of toads taking off their old coats rolling them up in little balls, and swallowing them, as naturalists say they do. I did witness the process of shedding the skins, but something much more singular than the swallowing incident then occurred. The day was raw and windy, as I said, and after the toads had rubbed their skins in a comical way toward their heads until they had both pulled themselves clear of them each one began to shiver very perceptibly with the cold. Suddenly the small toad hopped quickly to where the skin of the big one lay and picking it up in his mouth hopped away several feet. The big toad followed the purloiner of his cast-off clothing with his eyes, and gave two or three appealing croaks, but made no other effort to recapture the stolen goods. When the small toad saw that he was not followed he deliberately set to work to don the skin he had taken. It took him some time to do it, but he finally accomplished his purpose and went masquerading around in the misfit garment exactly like a clown in a circus wearing the big baggy costume some of them appear in.

"The little fellow seemed to enjoy the novelty of the situation and hopped around the large toad in what must have been a most tantalizing manner. The big toad was shivering like a person chilled through, and by and by picked up the skin of the small one and began to force it on his body.

The process was a difficult one, but after several minutes of unceasing effort he stood habilitated in the cast-off garment of his diminutive companion. If the effect of the big skin on the little toad had been comical, that of the little skin on the big toad was more so. The sleeves of the coat, so to speak, only came half way down the arms, and the legs of the trousers covered the toad's legs as though they had been knickerbockers. The body of the garment was so tight that the toad could not work either his legs or his arms, and he stood there the picture of comical despair. By and by he began to swell himself up, and that apparently stretched the skin, for he was able afterward to move away slowly. He followed the small toad into the bushes in a dignified manner and both disappeared. What the outcome of this curious exchange of clothing was I never knew, but the incident satisfied me that toads do funny things sometimes."

Mr. Hathaway's Buttons.

There is a curious story told in regard to C. F. Hathaway, Esq., proprietor of the extensive shirt works in Waterville, Mr. Hathaway, it seems, wears no buttons on his coats except those absolutely necessary to keep them together. This eccentricity is thus accounted for: Mr. Hathaway one day met one of his operatives, a girl about 18 decked out in furbelows and various bright colored ribbons. Noticing a particularly fascinating bow in her hair, Mr. Hathaway said:

"What do you wear that for? Does it make you look or feel any better?"

"The girl pertly replied: "What makes you wear buttons on the back of your coat?"

The justice of the criticism struck Mr. Hathaway so forcibly that he has never allowed his tailor, since then, to make him anything but buttonless coat tails.—Lewiston Journal.

American Children in Europe.

A letter from abroad says: "There are here in Europe multitudes of American children who can speak French and German better than their own language. I met the other evening a family from Ohio, and found the son, a boy of 12, reading Cooper's novels and 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' in German. 'I understand them better in German than in English,' he remarked with a strong foreign accent. The parents spoke of the fact with evident satisfaction. Another American family, in which are five daughters, who have made a great success in science, medicine, painting, and music, employ German or French in their home circle, and cannot pronounce an English sentence without making a blunder of some kind."

The Crown Prince of Germany is said to have been beyond question the handsomest man in England's jubilee procession.

A Strange Freak.

The wife of our esteemed citizen, Mr. John Rowell, while suffering under a severe attack of the blues, tried to commit the crime of infanticide, but was prevented by the opportune arrival of a neighbor. Her case has been considered by the doctors incurable, but her husband was highly pleased, after using a course of Sulphur Bitters, to find she was entirely cured.—Kingston Herald.

Mrs. Joseph Baker, of Johnson, Vt., was greatly afflicted with phthisic for twenty years, and was pronounced by physicians as incurable. Two bottles of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry afforded her much relief, and five completely cured her.

Removing a Serious Obstruction Gently.

Dynamite and giant powder might answer admirably to remove obstructions from Hell Gate in East river, New York, but explosive measures in medication are ever attended with disastrous consequences. For instances, the bowels cannot be violently drenched with safety, nor is there the slightest necessity for so doing. On the contrary, it is most unwise. None but the purblind adherents of antiquated theories in medicine advise or sanction such a course. To weaken the intestines—the effect of drastic purgation—is to compromise the health of the entire system. With Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, on the other hand, the bowels are relaxed, not by a convulsion of nature approximating to an eruption of Mt. Popocatapetl, but gradually, beneficially, without wrenching or drenching. The liver and stomach, as well as the bowels, are toned and benefitted by it.

DIGESTYLIN

— FOR —

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent us as the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from impaired digestion.

It is not a secret remedy, but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. It is a great DIGESTIVE POWER in created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach.

It will positively CURE CHOLERA INFANTUM, Summer Complaints, and CHRONIC DIARRHŒA, all of which are direct results of imperfect digestion. Give your children Digestylin. One bottle may save a life. Not one case of death reported for the past year from above diseases where the patients had taken Digestylin. Ask your Druggist for it. Price $1.00. Large bottles. If he does not keep it, send one dollar to us and we will send you a bottle. Express prepaid.

"If humor, wit, and honesty could save us" from the ills flesh is heir to, what a good price they'd bring in the market. Well, twenty-five cents will buy a good panacea—Salvation Oil, a certain cure.

Samuel Pickering of Rochester, a carpenter, while at work on the roof of the Mansion house there on the 21st inst., slipped and fell to the ground, a distance of thirty-five feet, striking upon his side. He was taken up insensible and carried to his home, where a surgeon examined and found that his left shoulder blade had been broken, and his side very badly bruised. It is thought he will recover.

Vigor and Vitality

Are quickly given to every part of the body by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The blood is purified, enriched, and vitalized, and carries health instead of disease to every organ. The stomach is toned and strengthened, the appetite restored. The kidneys and liver are roused and invigorated. The brain is refreshed, the mind made clear and ready for work. Try it.

The Hazen Bill.

The house of representatives on Thursday, by the very decisive vote of 167 to 136 rejected Mr. O. C. Moore's motion to indefinitely postpone the further consideration of the Hazen bill. How any different result could have been reached, especially after the recent practical, candid and cogent remarks by Mr. Bell of Exeter, it is difficult to see. The vote we presume may be regarded as a test expression of the members upon the merits of the bill. There are likely to be numerous amendments offered to the bill, as the debate up to this time has been upon the motion to postpone indefinitely, which under the rules takes precedence of motions to recommit, or to amend. We in common with the rest of the state will be glad when the question has been finally disposed of and the legislature completes its duties. We hope that when that happy period shall have arrived, that some one will have the presence of mind to offer a resolution that the governor be informed that the business of the session has reached its close and that both branches of the legislature are ready to adjourn. We think the governor will welcome the arrival of a committee with such a message in the council chamber.

An Early Gun in the Presidential Campaign.

The Massachusetts Jackson victor-spoils democrats drew the line at their state convention with unmistakable clearness. They are in favor of a democratic administration, but out and out opposed to any of the president's ideas of civil service reform. This was manifest from the applause at the opening address of Col. French when he gave a shot at the administration through the collector of Boston, and in the resolutions, as well as in the rejection of the president's favorite, George M. Stearns, and the choice of Col. John H. George's sponsor for the naval office, the heretofore ignored Judge Josiah G. Abbott, who goes to the next national convention, and votes for Mr. Cleveland if the documents hereafter sent to Washington properly vised shall receive what they have not in the past history of the administration, due recognition. The ancient democrat with his papers duly endorsed by the local party authorities now comes to the front in Massachusetts, while the respectable, though until after the national convention makes its nominations, unappreciated mugwump, is expected to retire to the back seats and preserve a discreet silence. What Mr. Cleveland expectantly claims is, not a majority in the Bay state, but to have the delegates march in a body, with the erect form of Judge Abbott at their head, and vote for his renomination next summer. If he comes down with his patronage this proposition will be considered. In the meantime the shouters will cry "Oh! no one beside Cleveland for us, of course." The mugwumps will say, we elected Cleveland, and he must carry out our ideas as to civil service and tariff reform. Just what is to be the outcome of these divergent elements, which quarrel every day except on election anniversary, depends of course upon the strength of the labor party and the wisdom of the republicans.

Crops in New Hampshire.

The present season has been one of the most unfortunate for New Hampshire. Crops at one time promised much, but the excessive rains with the lack of sunshine have made many failures. The hay crop has been heavy, but was secured in poor shape, and much hay, otherwise first-class, has been reduced to third-rate by repeated wetting. Again, many fields were much over-ripe before it became possible to cut them. Grain has been a half-crop. Oats were poor, but wheat was a failure, while barley and buckwheat scarcely stand at over a half crop. Potatoes are a failure. The tops were cut down by rust, while the potatoes were small, and added to this the scab and rot are now destroying the few that grew. Corn made a heavy growth, and is a rank crop to-day, but the ears are light and not well filled. It will scarcely come to the crib an average crop. Apples are a light crop, and unless high prices prevail the value of all crops will fall below that of the dry years just past.

"On the Wrong Tack."

Candidate Lovering, of Massachusetts, wanted the nomination for the office of governor, to aid him in obtaining the office of United States marshal. It is a matter of doubt whether, when he reads the record of the convention's sayings to the White House, the president in one of his moods of firmness may not conclude that his own ideas may be represented by a different kind of a politician. It is by no means certain that this son of Portsmouth may not, when the spoils for which his friends yearn are to be distributed, have occasion to cry out "Defend me from my friends."

Vice President A. Kimball of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway, has been appointed assistant to President R. R. Cable, and E. St. John general manager. W. G. Purdy, secretary and treasurer, has been elected vice president also, in Mr. Kimball's place; and J. F. Phillips, late cashier, has been appointed assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

The Washington Post says: "Secretary Prince, of the democratic national committee, thinks Boston can get the convention next year by raising $2500. Washington can afford to make better figures, if required, but it ought not to be necessary. This is a place in which a national convention can be held without prejudice. We have no candidates for president or vice president. Our people do not vote, and have mighty little influence. On this strictly neutral ground everybody's interests would be safe."

The Trafalgar, the largest ironclad ever constructed, was successfully launched at Portsmouth, England, Sept. 20th. The Trafalgar is of 11,940 tons, and 12,000 horse power. She is to carry twelve guns, four of sixty-seven tons and eight of forty tons, each. Her side armor is twenty inches thick.

Over 100 houses were burned at Danby, province of Quebec, Sept. 21st, and over 400 people are homeless. Three children are supposed to have been burned to death.

John J. Love, the dock superintendent and bookkeeper of the Delaware & Hudson Canal company, acknowledged in court at Chicago that he had embezzled upward of $10,000 from the company, and was sentenced to two and a half years in the penitentiary at hard labor.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less." I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

AN EXCELLENT APPOINTMENT.

By a despatch received on Thursday morning from Concord, we learn that Col. J. Horace Kent was nominated as Warden of the State prison and the nomination has been unanimously confirmed by the council.

This appointment, coming to the ex-sheriff of Rockingham county in the way it does, is certainly a compliment to our fellow citizen. While Col. Kent desired the appointment, he has neither in any manner criticised the present incumbent, nor importuned the appointing power. He has been content to let the question of the appointment of warden rest with the governor and council. This has left the appointing power free to exercise their own judgment in the premises. We wish this would be the universal rule. Col. Kent recently retired from the office of sheriff, a position he has held either by appointment or election since 1876 down to July last. In his official relations with the courts and bar of the state he has always proved abundantly equal to every emergency. He has been a faithful officer, a humane custodian of the unfortunate inmates of our jails, and has possessed a keen knowledge and apparent intuition of the ways that are dark in which the floating, erring population who go up and down the land delight to indulge. In fine, the selection of Col. Kent will give the state the benefit of the services of an officer of experience, good judgment and knowledge which will be of much aid in the position.

The new appointee is to succeed an excellent officer. Warden Frank S. Dodge will retire, we believe, with an excellent record. The officials from the Department of Justice at Washington who have from time to time visited the prison to see how the United States prisoners confined there fared, have frequently expressed their satisfaction at the excellent discipline, the superior sanitary condition and the general air of health, order and efficiency, the evidence of which was at once apparent to an official visitor. It is safe to assert that the prison in its new and commodious quarters under Mr. Dodge was in point of excellence second to no similar institution in the country. We have full faith that under Warden Kent, this reputation for efficiency will be maintained. We regret to lose Col. Kent from among our residents, but what is our loss is a gain to our sister city. The office is an important one not only for the interests of the state, but on account of the welfare of the unfortunate convicts within the prison walls. In the present selection, the executive has made no mistake.

SI PERKINS.

Frank Jones and his beautiful wife, Alice Montague, have struck a rich thing in "Si Perkins," and large audiences witness the performances. From the rise to the fall of the curtain it is full of pleasing situations and funny sayings. It will undoubtedly be a success, and the "Musical Moke" will make both his mark and fortune out of the character. The piece will hold the boards at this afternoon's matinee and to-night.—Labor Herald.

Si Perkins, threashing machine and all, will be in Music hall next Monday evening. Tickets at Goodrich's. See advertisement.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

THURSDAY, Sept. 22d.

Charles Nolan, James Argyle, James O'Brien, James Gillen, Alexander Bustman and Charles Allen, six hard-looking customers, for drunkenness were fined $3, costs $6.90, each; none of them had so much cash to spare, and all were sent to Brentwood except Allen, who will board out his assessment in jail.

Charles Winkler, charged with brawl and tumult, was let off.

THE PATRIARCHS' VISIT.

Canton Parker, Patriarchs Militant, of Dover, accompanied by Sawyer's band, and by some twenty members of Canton Columbia of North Berwick, Me., as guests, arrived in this city shortly before eleven o'clock Thursday forenoon, and were received at the railroad station by Canton Senter of this city. Line was formed in the following order:

City Marshal Rowe, and platoon of police; band; Major David Urch and Major J. S. Abbott, mounted; Canton Senter, Albert R. Junkins captain; Cantons Parker and Columbia, A. T. Peirce captain.

The procession passed through Bridge, Congress and Daniel streets to the navy landing, where the party boarded the steamer Mystic for an hour's trip down the harbor, on returning from which the line was again formed and quite a long march made about town, ending at the Rockingham, where dinner was served. After the banquet the party proceeded to Odd Fellows' hall, when the afternoon was passed with speeches, music, etc., until time for the visitors to proceed to the station to take the half-past five o'clock train for home.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The U. S. S. Leyden, which went to Boston with the detached crew of the Constellation, arrived back at this naval station on Thursday, the 22d.

Commander George H. Wadleigh, U. S. N., inspector of the second lighthouse district, is to succeed Commander Mortimer L. Johnson on the 1st of October as head of the navigation department at the Charlestown navy yard.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Helen H. Benedict, which arrived at this port on the 21st inst. from Baltimore with 1171 tons of coal to E. F. Sise & Co., had her flying-jibboom carried away on the passage.

The yacht White Wing, Capt. Charles S. Drowne, started on Thursday for New York, two or three young gentlemen of this city going out in her.

Mr. Wm. C. Walker, the popular clerk of the Mansion house "on the hill" in Andover, Mass., was in town on Thursday.

A false alarm of fire, and considerably mixed at that, was caused about one o'clock Thursday afternoon by the contact of a telegraph wire with the wire of the fire alarm.

The reunion of Tenth Regiment veterans at Dover on the 22d inst. was a very satisfactory one, the day being most favorable and the attendance large, about twenty veterans and several invited guests going up from this city. An excellent and abundant clambake was served at Dover point.

During the week ending Sept. 16th the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York paid death claims amounting to $106,065.89, and endowments amounting to $8,310.99. Among the death claims were three policies paid to the heirs of the late Harry G. Tanton of this city, aggregating $2588.64. Mr. Tanton had paid to the company on these three policies $575.64.

There was a large audience in Music hall on Thursday evening, when M'lle Rhea presented her new drama "Fairy Fingers," and an excellent entertainment was enjoyed.

The work of grading about the new round-house and turn-table of the Boston & Maine railroad at Dover is about half completed; the turn-table is in position, and as soon as it is ready for use the tracks of the Dover & Winnepiseogee and Portsmouth & Dover railroads will be raised to the level of those of the Boston & Maine.

In the supreme court at Dover, Sept. 20th, the jury in the suit of Jonathan Bickford vs. the Great Falls Manufacturing company rendered a verdict for the defendants. The plaintiff sought to recover $10,000 for the loss of a minor son, killed while at work in the defendants' mill. Another case in which the plaintiff sought to recover $5,000 for the loss of wages and services which plaintiff claimed he suffered by reason of the son's death, was non-suited.

The case of Winfield S. Dennett, agent of the Saco Water Co., against Dennis O'Connor of Biddeford, for damages for causing the death of James W. Dennett, the young man who was poisoned by drinking cider from a barrel sold by O'Connor to the cider manufacturer, and which had previously contained embalming fluid, has been settled by the parties; as also has the suit brought by Mrs. Dennett, for damages for the serious sickness she suffered through tasting some of the same cider.

Patrick Kiley, first mate of the brigantine Salisbury, of St. John, N. B., has been arrested for attempting to scuttle the vessel while in Shelburne harbor, Nova Scotia. The Salisbury put in at Salisbury four weeks ago for repairs.

Mr. Kilbride, Lord Lansdowne's principal tenant, who accompanied Editor O'Brien to Cadada, has been elected to represent South Kerry in the British house of commons.

General Roger A. Pryor, of New York, has been retained in the case of the condemned anarchists, and has proceeded to formulate an appeal to the United States supreme court.

The labor party in New York will not be allowed election inspectors at the polls, the ruling powers having notified the bureau of elections not to qualify any.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for its incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent infection, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic diseases.

The "Atlantic Monthly" for October opens with a series of letters edited by Lucretia P. Hale and Edwin Lassetter Bynner, which are published under the title of "An Uncloseted Skeleton." Whether they really are old letters, or a clever story cast into the form of correspondence, the reader must discover for himself; their theme, however, is a psychological phenomenon which is, to say the least, bewildering. Dr. Holmes' final paper in his series, "One Hundred Days in Europe," is devoted to some general observations on the climate of England, its flora and fauna, the dress and general appearance of the English, and also London clubs, London physicians, and other observations on England and the English. The tragic incident in the installment of Mrs. Oliphant's serial serves to bring out that power which she never shows to better advantage than when she depicts some sudden and terrible occurrence in the midst of the prosaic surroundings of every-day life. Percival Lowell has a second paper on "The Soul of the Far East," in which he gives a very amusing and interesting account of the curiosities of the Japanese language and expression; while Mr. Theodore Child gives an account of Millet and the Millet exhibition in Paris. There is also a paper composed of anecdotes of Charles Reade; an article on the "Bluebird," and poems by Helen Gray Cone, entitled "Two Moods of Failure," a Royalist song of 1645 being contrasted with a Puritan song of 1660. Under the title of "A Second Glance Backward" Susan Fenimore Cooper gives an account of her father's endeavors to have an American book printed in Italy about 1825, and also gives descriptions of Cooper's Italian life. The number concludes with a continuation of Crawford's "Paul Patoff," two able reviews, Books of the Month, and the Contributors' Club. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston, publishers.

Impurities of the blood often cause great annoyance at this season; Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, and cures all such affections.

The stringency of the money market is exacting serious consideration, and the talk of an extra session of congress to be called in November is revived.

We think we can cure a bad case of backache quicker with one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters, than by any other application, and after the backache is cured, you can still wear the plaster without discomfort for two or three weeks, or longer. How to Gain Health and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk and readily digested. Delicate people improve rapidly with its use. For consumption, throat affections and bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thomas Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month."

Eighty thousand socialist pamphlets have been distributed at Berlin, Germany, by women.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The long takes the "cake" here as a medicinal song.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange notions! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the throat, lungs, kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

WISTAR'S BALSAM WILD CHERRY

SIEGE OF THE ALAMO.

An Eye-Witness Tells the Story of That Bloody Fight.

Col. R. L. Crompton, of Roxbury, Mass., is probably the only living American who was an eye-witness of that fearful struggle, and from him were obtained the facts on which this article is founded. He left his Massachusetts home in the winter of 1834, to hunt fortune in the west. He started for Lexington, Ky., but fell in with a band bound for Texas to join Col. Travis, near San Anitonio de Bexar. He decided to cast his lot in the struggle for Texan independence. The party was largely made up of young and fiery Kentuckians and Tennesseeans, some of them hardly more than boys. Many exciting incidents marked their journey, but they finally reached the great Lone Star state. Young Crompton at once enlisted under Col. Milan.

"As soon as we had gathered sufficient strength," he said, in telling the rest of the story, "we attacked the Mexican forces in San Antonio. They far outnumbered us and a desperate struggle ensued. For days we fought in the streets and among the adobe houses, each one of which was a miniature fortress. With pick and spades we dug our way through the walls from house to house. The fight for the Veremida house was fierce and bloody, but at last we drove the Mexicans out and took possession.

"Our triumph was soon turned to mourning. On that very day, Milan, our beloved leader, fell dead, shot by a Mexican who lay concealed behind a wall on the opposite side of the San Antonio river. We did not retain the house long, as the advance of Santa Anna compelled us to withdraw, leaving Travis with less than 150 men to garrison the place.

"I shall never forget the day when young Maverick dashed into our camp with the news that Travis, refusing to retreat, was shut up in the Alamo and surrounded by an overwhelming force. While Houston was so weak he could not come to the rescue.

"I started off to join the imprisoned band. It was a hopeless undertaking as I soon found when I got a bullet in me. I crawled away in the darkness. A Mexican whom I had befriended during our occupation of the city generously agreed to conceal me in his house. A narrow window commanded an excellent view of one front of the Alamo wall, and from this point I could see nearly all of that memorable struggle.

"Day after day the Mexican fire was kept up, and time after time were their storming columns hurled against the old church wall, which formed the Texan rampart. But nothing could disturb the defenders. At the close of each day the Lone Star flag floated as proudly and, apparently, as secure as ever from the roof of the mission. The Mexican losses were fearful. Their clumsy escopetas were no match for the long Hawkins' rifles. Hundreds fell every day, but they were little missed from that overwhelming host while every man of the garrison who died was an irreparable loss. The line along the wall grew very thin. Still there was no thought of surrender. At length, when death and wounds had reduced the poor handful to half its original numbers, the Mexicans effected a lodgement on an undefended part of wall. Instantly they poured in by hundreds.

"Although there was no hope of success the brave Texans fought as steadily and as firmly as on the first day of the siege. From room to room went the fight. The puny Mexicans learned by bitter experience the deadly power of bowie knives and clubbed rifles in the hands of desperate Americans. But human endurance has its limits. At length Santa Anna was master of the Alamo, but not one last American lay cold in death. From my window I could hear the shouts and yells and see the struggling figures.

"When all was over I begged my host to go into the Alamo and bring me news of all that had occurred. He came back in an hour or two, and said that such shambles never had been seen before. The dead were heaped in wild confusion throughout the building. The gutters fairly ran with blood. In a room on the ground floor was the corpse of Col. Bowie. He had been butchered upon his sick bed. Not far away from him was found the brave and eccentric Davy Crockett. But the most impressive sight was in a small room in the upper story, where the gallant Travis lay, a bullet hole in his forehead. Strewn around him were the corpses of fifteen Mexicans, who had died by his hand. Of the Texans not one survived, but they did not die unavenged. No less than 1,600 Mexicans fell before less than 150 Americans."

Labor-Saving in the World's Work.

When the historian of the future writes the history of the nineteenth century he will doubtless assign to the period embraced by the life of the generation terminating in 1885, a place of importance, considered in its relations to the interests of humanity, second to but very few, and perhaps to none, of the many similar epochs of time in any of the centuries that have preceded it; inasmuch as all economists who have specially studied this matter are substantially agreed that, within the period named, man in general has attained to such greater control over the forces of Nature, and has so completely passed their use, that he has been able to do far more work in a given time, obtain a much larger product, "measured by quantity in ratio to a given amount of labor," and reduce the effort necessary to insure a comfortable subsistence in a far greater measure, than it was possible for him to accomplish twenty or thirty years anterior to the time of the present writing. In the absence of sufficiently complete data, it is not easy, and perhaps not possible, to estimate accurately, and specifically state the average saving in time and labor in the world's work of production and distribution that has been thus achieved. In a few departments of industrial effort the saving in both of these factors has certainly amounted to seventy or eighty per cent; in not a few to more than fifty per cent. Mr. Edward Atkinson, who has made this matter a special study, considers one third as the minimum average that can be accepted for the period above specified. Other authorities are inclined to assign a considerably higher average. The deductions of Mr. William Fowler, Fellow of University College, London, are to the effect that the saving of labor since 1850 in the production of any given article amounts to forty per cent; and the British Royal Commission (minority report, 1886) characterizes the amount of labor required to accomplish a given amount of production and transport at the present time as "incomparably less" than was requisite forty years ago, and as "being constantly reduced."—Hon. David A. Wells, in Popular Science Monthly.

Mme. Wolter.

Mme. Wolter's jubilee has just been celebrated in Vienna. This lady, whose real name is Comtesse O'Sullivan, is one of the greatest artists of the Hofburg. The following anecdote is related of her: At the last meeting of their imperial Majesties of Austria and Russia at Kremsier, the Hofburg had performed before the sovereigns. Later, the Empress of Austria invited Mme. Wolter, wishing to present her to the Czarina. She did so, calling her "Mme. Wolter." After this presentation the Empress said, in an aside to the actress, "You must not mistake my intention, dear Countess, in calling you 'Mme. Wolter' instead of Countess O'Sullivan. I am proud of you as being Mme. Wolter. I have plenty of Countesses around me daily; but it is only when I have an Empress as guest that I have the occasion of receiving Mme. Wolter."

Something the Matter with the Landscape.

When an Englishman travels on the Continent he relies entirely on his guide-book for information. He regards his Baedecker as absolutely infallible.

A couple of traveling Britons were observed to be studying, Baedeker in hand, a landscape on the Rhine. One of them said, reading from the book:

"A tall tower is to be seen on the right of the ruins of the old castle."

"But, 'Arry, me boy, there's no tower there."

"That's so, by Jove; the landscape must be wrong."—Texas Siftings.

Removing a Serious Obstruction Gently.

Dynamite and giant powder might answer admirably to remove obstructions from Hell Gate in East river, New York, but explosive measures in medication are ever attended with disastrous consequences. For instances, the bowels cannot be violently drenched with safety, nor is there the slightest necessity for so doing. On the contrary, it is most unwise. None but the purblind adherents of antiquated theories in medicine advise or sanction such a course. To weaken the intestines—the effect of drastic purgation—is to compromise the health of the entire system. With Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, on the other hand, the bowels are relaxed, not by a convulsion of nature approximating to an eruption of Mt. Popocatapetl, but gradually, beneficially, without wrenching or drenching. The liver and stomach, as well as the bowels, are toned and benefitted by it.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. DIGESTYLIN

— FOR —

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

It is not a secret remedy, but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach.

It will positively CURE CHOLERA INFANTUM, Summer Complaints, and CHRONIC DIARRHŒA, all of which are direct results of imperfect digestion. Give your children Digestylin. One bottle may save a life. Not one case of death reported for the past year from above diseases where the patient had taken Digestylin. Ask your Druggist for it. Price $1.00. Large bottles. If he does not keep it, send one dollar to us and we will send you a bottle. Express prepaid.

Peculiar

In the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in its good name at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most successful medicine for purifying the blood, giving strength, and creating an appetite.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1887.

How They See It.

In commenting on the action of the Massachusetts democratic convention the New York Tribune (republican) says: "The mugwump tail of the Massachusetts democracy has been wagged clean off by the infuriated animal."

The New York Sun (democratic) remarks as follows: "The only difference of opinion in Massachusetts now is between the mugwumps and the democrats. The mugwumps believe that the president is greater than his party. The Massachusetts democracy believe that the party is greater than the president."

And the New York Times (mugwump) thus laments: "The proceedings of the democratic convention in Massachusetts on Tuesday give evidence of a strong disposition in the democratic party to commit a fatal blunder."

Cholera at New York.

The steamship Alesia, from Naples and Marseilles with 600 passengers on board, arrived at quarantine in New York on the 22d inst. with four cases of Asiatic cholera on board, eight of her passengers having died of the disease on the passage.

Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb's October Tours.

To see the autumn foliage in the greatest brilliancy one should visit Western Massachusetts or Northern New Hampshire and Vermont. Nothing can exceed the gorgeous display of nature's tinting to be seen in the Deerfield Valley, the White Mountains, and along the Connecticut and Passumpsic Rivers. Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb have arranged several very delightful tours to take place in the early part of October. The special features of these trips are briefly set forth in their advertisement to-day. In addition to four attractive tours through New England, New York and Canada, the firm has planned a magnificent trip through the most picturesque parts of the South, with visits to Baltimore, Old Point Comfort, Fortress Monroe, Richmond, the Natural Bridge of Virginia, the magnificent Luray Caverns, Harper's Ferry, and Washington. The battle-field of Gettysburg will also be included in this delightful round. On the 11th of October a party will leave Boston for a tour of 51 days across the continent and through California. A circular giving full details of the five autumn trips, and another descriptive of the Pacific Coast tour, may be obtained of W. Raymond, 296 Washington street, opposite School street, Boston.

Naval Intelligence.

Lieut. Sidney A. Staunton has been ordered to duty in the bureau of navigation.

Lieut. Charles F. Pond is ordered to the Ranger.

Paymaster G. E. Hendee is ordered to to take charge of the property and accounts of the ironclads at City Point, Va.

Past Asst. Paymaster John Corwins is detached from duty at City Point, ordered to settle accounts and then await orders.

The new democratic daily to be started in Concord is to be named the Democratic Review. Singularly appropriate. The democrats always look back. They are far better at the rear view of the train than as pilots in the car of progress.

Herr Most's organ, Der Freiheit, of New York, on Sept. 22d contained a letter from Liegg and Engel, the condemned Chicago anarchists, requesting their friends and comrades to abandon all efforts to secure justice for them. The declare it is useless to expect justice from the courts. Their execution, they allege, will hasten the downfall of tyranny.

Mourning Jewelry.

The strangest freak of all the fashions of grief has been the wearing of "mourning jewelry," to demonstrate our inconsolable lot by a pertinent reference to it in our adornment is surely paradoxical. I saw the other day a "mourning ring" very interesting in its quaint frivolity. A slender circle of gold held an oblong disk of white enameled surface, on which was depicted the tomb, the weeping willow, and the visiting relative (in this case a widow), all neatly placed under glass. It was an old, old ring, belonging to a great-grandmother, who wore it for her first husband's memory, although, as she survived two more, it may have done tender memorial services for all three. The process which converts the golden curl, the brown tress, or the gray hair of our lost one into "hair jewelry" is among the curiosities of sentiment. Is it not cruel to wear a portion of our dead for ornament? Surely the wiry strand, repellant and rigid, was never the soft hair about the "old familiar faces." I remember seeing some "mother's hair" woven into the design of anchors for ear-rings, and the daughters were assuming to derive comfort from the light tossing of this emblem of security, and no doubt finding some occult satisfactory reason for the incongruity of design and fact. In our youth there clustered about us all maiden aunts wearing chains and bracelets of hair, their stiffness seeming to testify to an unyielding sorrow, and their quantity that the "departed" must have been Samsons. Then there were the brooches with the bulging serpentine twists of hair forming a frame for the pictured face of the original possessor of the hair—an uncertain appeal to frame, as the exigencies of a brooch sometimes subjected the head to the vicissitude of being worn upside down, thus marring the act of would-be respectful memory.—Jewelry News.

Hoodlumism Among Girls.

The growth of hoodlumism among girls is a bad sign in our social life. We have sufficiently indicated that this peculiar feminine development is not confined to any station or class. It prevails among rich and poor very much alike. Neither is the girl hoodlum any worse in fact than the boy hoodlum, though she seems worse, probably on account of the higher plane woman occupies in the popular estimation. In conclusion, the Republican disclaims any intention to charge that hoodlumism is sweeping over the country like a tidal-wave to engulf American womanhood. It is already too prevalent, and is apparently increasing, but it lies in the power of the sensible women of this country to stay its progress, and the effort is worth making. Let every woman teach her daughter that the higher compliment can ever be paid her than the simple words, "she is a perfect lady," addressed to other ears than her own.—St. Louis Republican.

Nothing Perfect.

"There is nothing quite perfect in this world," said the young man who boards on South Division street. "Now, there's green corn, for instance. It always has either eight or ten rows of kernels. Now, I can't get my mouth over four rows, never. So I gnaw three rows, and if it's an eight-rowed ear I come pretty soon to two rows, which is unsatisfactory. If its a ten-rowed ear, it's just twice as bad. I don't see why it couldn't have been invented in nine and twelve rowed ears, so that it would eat evep."—Buffalo Courier.

"Young man," said a stern parent, with the accent on the young, "do you intend to stay here all night holding my daughter's hand looking her in the eyes like a sick calf?" "No, sir." "What do you intend to do, then?" "Well, I had thought that when you did us the kindness to retire I would put my arm around her waist, and if she did not object to it forcibly I might risk a kiss."—San Francisco Post.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. Wood, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. Balcom, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. Throumbroy, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

PUT OUT OF COURT.

In the supreme court at Dover, this week, Judge Carpenter presiding, the case of Wm. Penn Tuttle of Dover came up for a hearing. Tuttle brought suit against Col. Marvin, president of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, in the sum of $400 to recover the alleged value of a horse which Dr. Seavey of Dover, a veterinary surgeon, had pronounced infected with the glanders, a loathsome contagious disease, on the ground that the horse, killed by order of Col. Marvin, was not affected with any dangerous or infectious disease, and the testimony of a horse doctor from Maine who did not see the animal until it had been buried six days was introduced to prove it. After the prosecution had put in their testimony, and without hearing any testimony for the defence, the judge declared that Mr. Tuttle had no cause of action, and the suit against the president of the S. P. C. A. was dismissed.

PERSONAL.

Mr. J. Foster Shores of New York is paying a visit to his former home in this city.

Mr. John Tanton and wife of this city are on a week's visit to friends in Boston and vicinity.

Mrs. S. C. Davis and daughter of Echo Lake cottage, East Wakefield, and Mrs. S. B. Cole of Great Falls, are visiting at Mr. John W. Young's, Washington street.

Miss Wentworth, the only daughter of the late John Wentworth, will shortly be married to Rev. Mr. Little, who is a widower with a daughter eighteen years of age. Miss Wentworth is one of the riches heiresses in the United States, and spends most of her time abroad.

THAT LITTLE LIST.

[From the Biddeford Journal.]

The Lewiston Journal says that a member of our congressional delegation recently addressed a letter to the United States commissioner of internal revenue in relation to the pompous refusal of Collector Page, of Portsmouth, to exhibit a list of tax-paying rumsellers for Maine, and has received the following in reply:

You are advised that this office has prescribed a form under the provisions of Section 3,-240, R. S., in which the record required by statute shall be kept by collectors. In this record is required to be written "an alphabetical list of the names of all persons who shall have paid special taxes" within the collection district, and "the time, place and business for which such special taxes have been paid." This list is required to be placed and kept conspicuously in the collector's office for public inspection.

If any system of book-keeping has been adopted in the offices of collectors of internal revenue that fails to answer these requirements, I would be glad to have the same particularly described.

If it is found that collectors are not observing the law in good faith, a proper remedy will be applied.

Respectfully,

JAS. A. MILLER, Commissioner.

As the plain letter of the law calls for such a list for public examination it has been a puzzler to understand upon what ground the revenue collector refused to produce it. Now that his chief declares that he had no ground whatever for such refusal, we shall see what the subordinate will do about it. Possibly his sudden lift in the official scale unduly inflated said subordinate, and gave him, for the time being, at least, a feeling that Page was a "biger man" than old Miller.

SI PERKINS.

The play abounds with laughable scenes and witty sayings. Si Perkins would draw smiles from even the soberest Quaker from Quakerdom. The character is ably taken by Mr. Frank Jones. Zana, a Gypsy waif, was finely sustained by Miss Alice Montague, a springily and vivacious actress. Both Si and Zana rendered some fine music on several instruments. Betsy Baggles, the widder, by Mrs. Genie Howard; Israel Budge, a Gypsy, by Harry Lloyd; and Prof. J. Potiphar Hopper, by William Blaisdell, were all rendered in a very acceptable manner. The invesning machine scene where "The Agitator" is in operation is very amusing.—Kingston (N. Y.) Leader.

At Music hall Monday evening; tickets now on sale at Goodrich's.

MARITIME NOTES.

The Volunteer will have to allow the Thistle five seconds over the inside course of the New York yacht club.

The schooner Lizzie Maud, Capt. Spurling, arrived at Portland on the 22d inst. with 125 bbls. of mackerel taken off Boon island.

The steamer Oceanic, Capt. William Robinson, sailed from this port for New York on Friday evening last, taking around a number of passengers, among them being Messrs. S. P. Jones, Thomas E. Call, Jr. and Charles A. Green.

The directors of the Boston & Hingham Steamboat company have decided to have a new steamboat built to accommodate 1500 or 1600 passengers, and to sell the Rose Standish to the Frontier Steamboat company of Eastport, Me., by which she will be run between Calais and Eastport.

The Canadian department of fisheries is advised that ten Behring sea sealers have ended the United States cutter Richard Rush, and have arrived at Victoria, B. C. The total catch is reported to be 19,046 skins by Canadian vessels, and 2639 skins landed in British Columbia by American schooners. At $6.50 per skin, the value of the catch reaches the sum of over $140,000.

The original Norfolk Colored Jubilee Singers, from Norfolk, Va., under the management of Mr. Charles S. Dwinell, will give a concert of over twenty selections of jubilee music in Music hall on Sunday evening. There are three male and three female vocalists in the company, and they are vouched for by the press as being most pleasing singers, and as preserving all the amusing plantation characteristics, while the entertainment is unexceptionable in moral tone. See advertisement.

Warfield & Week's Minstrel Co., at Franklin theatre next Wednesday evening, will no doubt have a packed house, as a minstrel company is a favorite attraction with theatre-going people of Portsmouth, and a good company like this should fill the house.

At the annual meeting of St. John's guild, held this week, the president, Mrs. Francis C. Bassett, resigned, and Miss A. W. Peirce was elected to the position. Mrs. Henry E. Hovey was elected vice president.

Mayor Hodgdon has given no little much-needed attention to the condition of the sidewalks in some of our leading thoroughfares. It is a source of satisfaction to many a pedestrian, for the city to have at times a mayor who does not keep his carriage, but knows the condition of our pavements from personal observation.

The guild connected with St. John's church has collected over $1100 the past year, which has been used in aiding various charities connected with the church.

Noel Mott, alias Walter Sutherland, left South Boston on the 17th inst. in the yacht Tike, which he purchased of John Bertram, paying for it with a check on the New Hampshire national bank of this city. He also stocked the boat well before sailing, with goods from the store of L. S. Trafton, which he paid for in the same way. The checks have been refused by the bank, the man having no funds there.

The governor of Maine has made the following appointments for York county: Fish and game warden, J. E. Heald of Newfield; trial justice, George E. Allen of Sanford; to solemnize marriages, Rev. Christopher A. Dereby of Cornish.

The bank examiner has completed his investigation of the affairs of the Saco & Biddeford Savings institution, and finds that from July 14th, when he stole $50, up to August 16th, McNeally stole in cash $670, the largest amount appropriated at one time being $150. These comparatively small thefts were very simply effected; when a depositor handed in money which McNeally concluded to steal he would pocket it, and enter the amount in the depositor's book but not on the books of the bank. The bank value of the bonds and cash stolen, in addition to the $185,000 in registered bonds, is $79,759, and the par value of the same is $85,500. The institution has a surplus of $161,912.

The society drama of "Fairy Fingers," as presented at Music hall by M'lle Rhea and her accomplished company, gave great pleasure to the refined audience. M'lle Rhea, as the Duchess Horteuse, was of course the central figure, and her graceful, easy acting was most pleasing. The costumes of the ladies were of the richest materials, and delighted the lady spectators. A man-milliner, a burlesque on the lady's tailor of Paris, was extremely amusing. The whole afforded a very pleasing entertainment.

Among the jurors summoned to serve at the present term of the supreme judicial court of Maine for York county, in session at Alfred, are the following: Grand jurors, Wm. R. Parker of Kittery, Willis G. Moulton of York, Hiram Walker of South Berwick, James O. Gowell of Berwick, Jeremiah Moulton 2d of Sanford; traverse jurors, Dennis Hanson and Arno L. Wilson of Kittery, Charles F. Hanscom of Eliot, Josiah T. Bragdon of York, Wm. A. H. Goodwin of South Berwick, Justin E. Hobbs of Berwick, Nathan H. Wiggin of Kennebunk, Allen Winn Jr. of Wells, J. The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for ills incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sovereign against summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for Relieved of Kidney Trouble.

Rossini House, Toronto, Ontario, Dec. 6, 1885.—I have been troubled with a back-ache for some time past, and great difficulty in passing urine. Three weeks ago I applied an Allcock's Porous Plaster, and have done so every five days since. Almost immediately I had partial relief, and now I am entirely free from pain—water passing freely and perfectly clear, without burning. I owe my great relief to Allcock's Porous Plasters and heartily recommend them in any case of kidney trouble. S. J. CRONIN.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquained with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

P. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1879 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED,

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and present you the breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with painful and strange noises? Have you cult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Death Bed Repentance.

The owner of a paper lay dying in his hair, says the Boston Globe, and the dew of death had gathered on his brow so calm and fair; but a printer knelt beside him as his life blood ebbed away, and asked the dying writer if he had a word to say. The doomed man murmured softly as he grabbed the printer's fist: "Well, at last the struggle's over, and never will be missed; take a message and a token to that city man of mine, that all his wornout chestnuts he had better put in brine. There's his joke about the weather, which he's used these many years, and the gag about the fellow who is always hunting beers, and the item he's so fond of on the man who peddles books, and the chestnut based on people who go fishing at the brooks; just to save the paper's credit and cast no slurs on mine, I would ask him as a favor, just to put such gags in brine. And the lie he's fond of telling of the street-cars and the tracks, and the ancient joke about the man who steps upon some tacks; and the one about some dandy who will never pay for clothes, and the one on women—its weary, heaven knows! Oh, I know I'll slumber happy in my grave beneath the vine, if the man who does the city work will put these jokes in brine. Tell the man who tends to business not to weep when I am dead, but to buy himself a club and hit the first man on the head who comes in with strings of items and requests them printed free when the regular rates are cheaper than they really ought to be. Tell the foreman when he makes up not to turn a rule for me, but to simply print an item saying that my soul is free; for I want no eulogistic taffy of that kind in mine, and I think such hoary chestnuts should be pickled well in brine. Have that gay and fresh reporter I engaged the other day put a stop to saying 'selah,' also 'We have come to stay'; and if he should say 'ye local' you must trample him in his gore, for you know I'd never allow it in the happy days of yore. And the man who comes to tell you how to run the paper well, should be greeted when he enters with a power chestnut bell; and you'll print the paper promptly, be the weather full of storms, and the foreman must be careful, when he's making up the forms, that the beauty of the paper may through all the ages shine, and not be like its neighbors, only fit to put in brine." The dying writer faltered, as these simple words he spoke, and the printer knew directly that he was about to croak. So he propped him up as gently as a mother would her child, but the writer's soul had wandered to the land of undefiled. And the printer sobbed a little, as he gave one last caress, and he muttered: "I must leave him, for it's time to go to press. Very few could beat him writing, for his writings were divine, and he never had to place them in a bucketful of brine."

Cologne's Great Bell.

An official notice has been published of the great bell for the Cathedral of Cologne, the solemn inauguration of which took place some days ago with great pomp. The bell weighs 27,000 kilos, or about 26 tons 13 hundredweight. The clapper alone weighs 800 kilos, or nearly 1½ hundredweight. Its perpendicular height is almost 14½ feet; its diameter at the mouth nearly 11½ feet. Twenty-two cannon taken from the French were assigned by the Emperor William for its manufacture; 5,000 kilos of tin were added. It was cast by Andreas Hamm of Franenthal, and 21,000 marks (£1,050) were paid for the casting. It will be known as the Kaiserglocke, or Emperor's bell as the two other large bells in the cathedral bear the epithets, respectively, of Pretiosa (precious) and Speciosa (beautiful) this one is styled Gloriosa. It bears above an inscription recording that "William, the most august Emperor of the Germans and King of the Prussians, mindful of the heavenly help granted to him whereby he conducted the late French war to a prosperous issue and restored the German Empire, caused cannon taken from the French to be devoted to founding a bell to be hung in the wonderful cathedral when approaching completion." A likeness of St. Peter, the name patron of the church, is on the side, beneath which is a quatrain in the style of the medieval conceits, praying that, as devouts heart rise heavenward at hearing the sound of the bell, so may the doorkeeper of Heaven open wide the gates of the celestial mansion. On the opposite side is inscribed a sestet in German, of which the translation is:

I am called the Emperor's bell;
I proclaim the Emperor's honor;
On the holy watch-tower I am placed.
I pray for the German Empire,
That peace and protection
God may ever grant to it.

The bell was solemnly blessed in the cathedral by the Archbishop of Cologne according to the elaborate ritual set out in the Pontificale Romanum. The ceremony was very long, many psalms being chanted by the clergy and choristers while the bell was being sprinkled with blessed water and anointed with chrism, and the portion of St. Luke, x., 38-42, was chanted by a deacon. Incense and myrrh were burned within it and many symbolical rites performed. The opinions of experts are divided as to whether the note which the bell sounds is C sharp or D.—London Times.

Gus—"What's the matter, Jack?" Jack—"I'm hungry." Gus—"Haven't you had lunch?" Jack—"Yes; but I only had 50 cents." Gus—"Can't you get enough to eat for 50 cents?" Jack—"Yes; but 25 of it had to go to the waiter."—New York Sun.

JOHN HENRY MILLER.

The comprehensive article printed below is from the pen of Editor Brewster, and is published in to-day's issue of the Journal. Probably no other citizen is better qualified by intimate acquaintance with Mr. Miller to review the incidents of his active life. To those who have known him many years as friend and companion, mere words are unnecessary to recall remembrance. Ever helpful and ready, of a genial spirit, his companionship was enjoyable at all times. His writings for the local press have been voluminous, and it is said that no resident of his native city has contributed more to its literature. As successor to Mr. J. H. Thompson as editor of the Chronicle, he became prominent, and his removal to Boston lost to journalism a brilliant and versatile writer.

In the short space allowed for the introduction of Mr. Brewster's tribute, the writer can only express in brief the sincere sorrow that the demise of so genial a companion occasions. A comradeship that extended North and South, of personal friends who were political foes, is broken, but the rare qualities of heart, the quick wit, the generous impulse that made "Jack" an ever welcome presence, remain most cherished memories.

JOHN HENRY MILLER, whose death occurred on Sunday last, was the youngest son of the late Tobias H. Miller, and was born in Portsmouth Jan. 2, 1838. After completing a common school education, he learned the printer's trade with his brother, Frank W., in the Chronicle office. From there he went South, and for a number of years resided at New Orleans. When the war broke out, he was a member of the Crescent regiment of that city, the "crack" regiment of Louisiana, consisting of 900 members, rank and file, which volunteered its services in the interest of the Confederacy, for ninety days. This ninety-days' service was to be done as "home guards," the implied and expressed understanding being that no other service would be demanded of the regiment; but before the time was up the imperative need of the Confederacy caused the Crescents to be ordered to the front, where the Union forces were pressing hard at an important point. Mr. Miller went with them. [During his last illness, and not long previous to his death, when from increasing weakness his mind was occasionally wandering, he was heard by the friend at his bedside to say: "Well, Tom, the bullets are coming thick enough this morning, hey? You said the Yankees wouldn't fight. I told you what they'd do. Is this hot enough for you?"] The regiment did not return until after three years' service, when its ranks were depleted to only 120 all told. At the battle of Corinth, Mr. Miller was promoted on the field to the rank of Color Sergeant, by the vote of his company, (that being the only regiment that had the privilege of electing its non-commissioned officers,) he being the third that was elected, the others having been killed in the battle. He returned North just previous to the second election of President Lincoln, and made the almost unequaled record of having cast a vote first for Jefferson Davis and then for Lincoln. At that time he became an associate local editor with Mr. Jacob H. Thompson, of the Chronicle, having no inconsiderable ability in that direction. After remaining there for several years he went to Boston and was in the employ of Mr. S. R. Niles, advertising agent, where he was a valuable assistant, until he came home about two years ago, to die. He married Miss Mary A. Sweetser, (sister of Mr. John P. Sweetser,) who with one child survives him. On the death of his mother, when he was a mere child, he became a member of the family of the late Charles W. Brewster, where he remained until he had completed his school studies; consequently he was well-known to the present editor of the Journal. He was a bright, active lad, whose abilities were shown afterwards in whatever he undertook, and fitted him for more prominence than he aspired to. His long sickness, though one of much suffering, was borne without a complaint. He was buried on Tuesday in the family lot in Harmony Grove cemetery. The funeral, though private, was largely attended by relatives. Mr. Miller became a Freemason in 1886, in St. John's Lodge of this city, of which he was a member at the time of his decease; and his body was borne from the house to the grave by a delegation of members from that Lodge.

AARON BURR'S WOOING.

[From Harper's Magazine for October.]

From the commandant's quarters on Westchester Height
The blue hills of Ramapo lie in full light;
On their slope gleam the gables that shield his heart's queen,
But the redcoats are wary—the Hudson's between.
Through the camp runs a jest, "There's no moon, 'twill be dark—
'Tis odds little Aaron will go on a spark"—
And the toast of the troopers is, "Pickets, lie low,
And good luck to the Colonel and Widow Prevost!"

Eight miles to the river he gallops his steed,
Lays him bound in the barge, bids his escort make speed,
Loose their swords, sit athwart, through the fleet reach you shore;
Not a word! not a plash of the thick-muffled oar!
Once across, once again in the seat and away—
Five leagues are soon over when love has the say;
And "Old Put" and his rider a bridle-path know
To the Hermitage Manor of Madame Prevost.

Lightly done! but he halts in the grove's deepest glade,
Ties his horse to a birch, trims his cue, slings his blade,
Wipes the dust and the dew from his smooth, handsome face,
With the kerchief she broidered and bordered in lace;
Then slips through the box-rows and taps at the hall;
Sees the glint of a wax-light, a hand white and small,
And the door is unlerred by herself all aglow—
Half in smiles, half in tears—Theodosia Prevost.

Alack, for the soldier that's buried and gone!
What's a valley above him, a wreath on his stone,
Compared with sweet life and a wife for one's view
Like this dame ripe and warm in her India fichu?
She chides her bold lover, yet holds him more dear,
For the daring that brings him a night-rider here;
British galants by day through her doors come and go,
But a Yankee's the winner of Theo Prevost.

Where's the widow or maid with a mouth to be kissed,
When Burr comes a-wooing that long would resist?
Lights and wine on the beaufet, the shutters all fast,
And "Old Put" stamps in vain till an hour has flown past—
But an hour, for eight leagues must be covered ere day;
Laughs Aaron, "Let Washington frown as he may;
When he hears of me next in a raid on the foe,
He'll forgive this night's tryst with the Widow Prevost."

—EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN.

Blood Will Tell.

John W. Nowlan, a boy of fifteen years, is locked up in the Somerville, Mass., police station, on a charge of stealing two boxes of cigars and $5 in money from a barber shop in East Somerville. Young Nowlan is a brother of James Edward Nowlan, who is lying in Cambridge jail awaiting his execution in January next for the murder of his employer, George A. Codman, a Somerville milkman. Another brother, William Nowlan, is in the Massachusetts reformatory at Concord for burglary committed since the murder. The father of these young men killed himself while serving a sentence in a prison in the British provinces.

—The chinch bug eats the farmer's grain, the bee moth spoils his honey, the bed bug fills him full of pain, the humbug scoops his money.

—"Now, how must I do with this wedding cake to dream on it?" asked a gushing damsel of a matter-of-fact young man. "Just eat it; that's all," was the reply.

—"James," said the grocer to his clerk, "a new family has moved into the vacant flat house across the way, and I want their trade." "Yes, sir." "So if they ask you if that maple sugar is this year's, tell 'em "No."

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. If you suffer from scrofula, salt rheum, or any disease of the blood, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, or kidney and liver complaints, catarrh or rheumatism, do not fail to try

Hon. N. P. Banks is to be permitted to serve out his official term as marshal of the United States for the district of Massachusetts. That means that the civil service ideas of President Cleveland would not permit the summary decapitation of an ex-governor, an ex-speaker of the national house of representatives, and an ex-general in the civil war, but would allow him to serve out an official term and not be removed to make a place for a political adherent of the democratic party. In this the president has been discreet, and has heeded the sentiment of the best men in his party in Massacauusetts, who regard the general as a man who has given the best years of his life to the public service, and has never left an office with any imputation against his integrity.

SI PERKINS.

This evening, at Music hall, Si Perkins will be on hand with his threshing machine and lots of fun. The Pughtown Farmer band will parade at noon. Tickets at Goodrich's; see advertisement.

THE MINSTREL SHOW.

Warfield & Week's minstrel company are fortunate in the posession of Mr. J. Alex. Power, who personates the prima donna to perfection. His trilling while giving "Flirting on the Lawn" last evening, indeed his entire singing, was good, and far exceeded in merit the efforts of many professional songstresses whom we have heard. As to his "get up," it could not be beaten.—San Antonio Star.

Wakefield & Week's minstrels will be at Franklin theatre on Wednesday evening, the 28th inst. Tickets at Stich Bau. See advertisement for prices, etc.

PAT ROONEY.

There are a great many garments, including a pair of trousers of extraordinary length and a number of very pretty feminine confections in "Pat's Wardrobe," which was produced last evening at Poole's theatre by Mr. Pat Rooney and his company for the first time in this city. Pat's brogue is as broad and as rich as ever and the play in many ways an amusing one, and the company that supports Mr. Rooney is a capable one. There are funny situations, some clever dialogue, and a number of catchy and tuneful airs in "Pat's Wardrobe."—N. Y. Herald.

"Pat's Wardrobe" will be displayed to the public at Music hall next Friday evening. See advertisement.

A SAD CASE.

A woman giving the name of Lizzie Franklin arrived at Augusta, Me., Wednesday night of last week, on a train from the westward. She was evidently demented, and could give no coherent account of herself; she had no money, but said she was put on the train, she could not tell where, by a man who bought a ticket with her own money, of which she had a considerable sum, earned at a hotel somewhere near the sea during the summer. She said she lived in Calais when a child, and talked of various people without being able to give any clue as to her residence. The unfortunate woman was taken to the poorhouse at Augusta, where she spoke of Dr. Jenkins and Dr. Black, who were supposed to be attached to the insane asylum at Shallowtown, Prince Edward island, and also of Dr. Lincoln, concerning whose location nothing could be surmised. She was a well appearing woman and well dressed, and the doctors thought her insanity might have been caused by her being drugged and robbed. On Friday, the 23d, she was reported to be growing more insane, and a despatch from Augusta said:

A letter from the proprietor of the Ocean View house at Rye beach, N. H., says Lizzie Franklin, the mysterious demented woman at the Augusta poorhouse, worked there this summer, was paid $60, and went from there to Portsmouth, N. H.

MARITIME NOTES.

Capt. Levi Downs, of the schooner Agnes E. Downs of this port, was in town on Friday night, having left his vessel in the lower harbor, where she arrived at eight o'clock Friday evening. Capt. Downs reported having sailed through mackerel all along the coast from Provincetown here, the water being full of the fish, but they were so wild that nothing could be done with them. The Agnes E. Downs sailed again on Saturday morning.

Capt. Duncan, of the steamer James Sampson, was one of the party which left this city for New York last Friday evening in the steamer Oceanic, Capt. Robinson, to see the great yacht races this week. During his absence the James Sampson will lie in snug quarters alongside of Union wharf.

The schooner Mary Willey, Capt. Williams, arrived at this port on the 24th inst. from Bangor, with 500,000 shingles and 55,000 feet long lumber to John H. Broughton.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. J. E. Dimmick of this city is visiting her son, Mr. George W. Prescott, of Manchester.

Mrs. George S. Shaw of Cincinnati is is visiting her brother, Mr. George N. Jones, on Warren street.

Henry E. Campbell and wife, of Austin street, are at Frankfort, Me., visiting Mrs. Campbell's parents.

Mrs. Grace Morgan of East Boston, formerly of this city, is visiting Mr. Simpson and wife on State street.

Mr. Sanford Allen and wife, of this city, are on a visit to Mr. Allen's parents, Mr. James P. Allen and wife of South Sanford, Me.

Mr. E. E. Seymore, for some time past the clarionet player in the Music hall orchestra, started on Saturday for Leadville, Col., where he has a permanent engagement to play in the orchestra of the leading theatre.

Dr. Frank Clinton Fernald, son of Naval Constructor Frank L. Fernald, U. S. N., and a graduate of Harvard, class of '81, was married in Boston last week to Miss Lois H. Curtis, daughter of Mr. Thomas Curtis of Worcester square. After a short trip to Lake George the couple will take up their abode in Washington, D. C.

"MISSING THE MARK."

This failing, considered in the Universalist church yesterday, was suggested by Proverbs, 8, 36: "He that misseth me wrongeth his own soul;" and the remedy was to "watch, therefore, for ye know not the day your Lord cometh." Matt. 25, 12.

The first text is the speech of Wisdom; the second is a truth of constant relevance spoken by Jesus. The first, characteristic of the Old Testament, is a negative warning not to miss something. The second, characteristic of Christ, is an affirmative provision, and motive furnished that we may not miss the same thing.

That thing is Life, the fullest life of all the faculties God has given. Every worthy young man has a more or less clear notion that he is going to succeed in life. Very few would confess that they expect to fail; they all cherish a vague, tacit sort of feeling that life would be good enough for them by-and-by. No man lays his plans to fail, but aims, in his speech, at "plenty of money sometime." But he misses the mark! He wrongs his own soul, that is, he does violence to some of his faculties. Nearly every man or woman who goes out of this life miserable, so different from the life they feebly aimed at, can trace their misery to missing some point of wisdom. In other words, to wronging the soul by a non-use of some one of its noblest potential faculties.

A tainted faculty soon pollutes the soul. God kindly put it there for use, creating us better than multitudes of irresponsible beings who have no such powerful faculty. And the larger its ability the worse the mortification, and the greater the violence. He that misseth his special faculty wrongeth his own soul. Misses the mark. Now for the remedy.

Watch, therefore, for ye know not the day, nor the hour, your Lord cometh. Wisdom will watch, with the lamp of energy, of sagacity, of readiness, trimmed and burning. The Lord of your life waits; the great dominant faculty, that is to wed your life to God, is coming. Watch, be prepared, be ready for the greatest opportunity; open intelligently to that Fortune who knocks once. Be on that tide which taken at the flood leads on to Fortune. Well, how be ready? This leads to the great need we have of Jesus, preparation for opportunity, spiritual strength to hit the mark.

How dull the human eyes are made by living in close and darkened rooms! How unconscious is the human soul made of its grandest opportunity, of its coming Lord, by having a closed and darkened life, a life narrowed down to an inferior ambition, a life burned out by a loathsome habit, a life constantly dead to its hourly duties, a life that sees not farther ahead than to-morrow!

Then, watch! You have a greater Lord than money. You have a larger faculty than that of the miser. Life is not made up either of wages or of amusement; these are not the marks we aim it, and more than this, they palsy the arm that shoots.

The question to ask is, "what is my highest duty for the next hour?" The hand that reaches for the next duty, steadily, eyes clear, points the arrow aright, we hit the mark, and go into life with our Lord.

In digging for the foundations of the extension of the robing-room of St. John's church, last week, the workmen came upon a number of human bones, among them a skull in perfect condition.

Mr. Samuel S. Frye was thrown from his team and very much bruised about the head and shoulders, Friday afternoon, as he was turning from Islington street into Cass, through the horse being started by a dog.

Heavy frosts on Friday night were reported from many places in this state and throughout New England, the cold wave coming from the westward, where it was much more severe than in this region. Ice formed to the thickness of a half-dollar on Friday night, in a pump-trough near the residence of Mr. Jere. Marden on Christian Shore.

On Thursday of last week a young man named Fred Canney, while working at coal, fell from the top to the bottom of one of the northend coal-pockets, a distance of twenty-eight feet; he was badly shaken up, but was able to go to work on Saturday.

A young fellow belonging to a Nova Scotia schooner lying at one of the northend wharves, on Saturday evening got drunk and made a disturbance in Mrs. Dwyer's place on Market street. He was arrested, but while being taken to the station wrestled mightily with the officer, whom he finally tripped and escaped from, the officer firing four shots after him without effect. It is reported. Later the man was carried to the lockup by several officers, accompanied by a big throng of spectators; he struggled like a drunken maniac all the way, and caused quite an excitement.

Emanuel Charlesworth is reported to have sold out his saloon and business on Bridge street to a Biddeford man.

From the annual report of the commissioner of pensions for 1887 we learn that during the quarter ending June 3d there was paid $29,478.75 to 915 pensioners, in Rockingham county; $16,703.25 to 539 pensioners, in Strafford county; and $24,541.25 to 780 pensioners in York county, Maine.

It is reported that the house corner of Court and Pleasant streets, opposite Mr. Thomas E Call's, has been purchased by Mrs. Wm. A. Plaisted for $3500.

The case of Adam Forepaugh, the circus manager, against the Maine Central railroad company for $30,000 damages on account of losses of horses and rolling stock at the accident near Vassalboro', Me., last year, which was assigned for trial in Boston at the October term of the United States court, has been postponed, probably until next April, to give an auditor an oppotunity to value the property destroyed. The counsel for Forepaugh is R. M. Morse, Jr., of Boston; the railroad is represented by Hon. Orville D. Baker of Augusta and Richard Olney, Esq., of Boston.

GOVERNMENT TESTS.

The Royal Baking Powder Declared Superior to all others.

The fact that Royal Baking Powder is, in all respects, the best baking powder offered to the public has been established beyond question.

Prof. H. A. Mott, when employed by the U. S. Government to analyze the various baking powders of the market to determine which was the best and most economical, after an extended investigation, reported in favor of the Royal, and it was adopted for government use.

Prof. Mott has continued his examinations of baking powders sold at the present day, and now affirms it as his deliberate judgment, arrived at after most thorough research and a careful examination of the principal brands of the market, that the Royal is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public. Prof. Mott, in his recent report, says:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the U. S. Government.

"I will go still further and state that, because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public. DR. HENRY A. MOTT, PH.D."

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for ills incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaints, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

SULPHUR BITTERS

The Best and Purest Medicine EVER MADE.

SULPHUR BITTERS. Will drive the Humor from your system, and make your skin clean and smooth. Those Pimples and Blotches which mar your beauty are caused by impure blood, and can be removed in a short time, if you are wise and use the great blood-purifier, SULPHUR BITTERS. Why suffer with Boils, Pimples, Blotches, Tetter, Ringworm, Scaly Skin, Scrofula, Rheumatism? Why do you look so pale and sickly? Why have you Headaches? Why do you feel so much of the time as if you had the blues? Your complexion is sallow, your system is out of order, your blood is impure, and you need a gentle stimulant to put you in good health. What you need is SULPHUR BITTERS. Why are so many of our best citizens using Sulphur Bitters? Because they know it is a cheap Rum on Poor Whiskey, and is sold only by druggists. Why do druggists recommend Sulphur Bitters in preference to other bitters? Because they know it is a meritorious medicine which eliminates only the DISEASE, leaving the system in good condition. Why do so many of our best citizens take Sulphur Bitters? Because they know it cures them when all other means fail. Why do physicians prescribe Sulphur Bitters? Because they know it is a medicine which cures the sick, while other bitters only stimulate the sick into a temporary feeling of health, which is followed by a relapse, leaving the victim worse than before taking the bitters. Why do so many of our best citizens say Sulphur Bitters? Because they know it cures them when all other means fail. Why do Ministers recommend Sulphur Bitters? Because they know it cures the sick, while other bitters only stimulate the sick into a temporary feeling of health, which is followed by a relapse, leaving the victim worse than before taking the bitters. Why do so many of our best citizens take

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to inform you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

F. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED,

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your lightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to find the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrah. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one Box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Long Distance Cavalry Riders.

Long distance rides were a feature of the army exercises in India last season. Capt. Dean-Pitt, officiating A. Q. M. G., of the Mhow Division, has issued a pamphlet in which the official reports are reproduced, giving full particulars of each.

The most important experiment, in point of numbers engaged, was that which was undertaken by Gen. Luck under the camp exercise at Sibi. Here a complete cavalry brigade, consisting of the Fifth Bombay Cavalry and the Belooch Horse, nearly 800 all told, was called out. Gen. Luck appeared to have aimed at giving as practical a character as possible to the enterprise. In his belief, distance marches performed by a few specially trained and selected men are of no value as proofs of what the regiment can perform; hence the calling out of two entire regiments.

An old horse, over 14 years old, broke down after the first 50 miles; another fell out at 80 miles. Other of the old horses were exhausted later in the march, and two died. These casualties happened in the Fifth Cavalry. The Belooch Regiment was more fortunate, for of the 326 who started, only two were unable to complete the march. In the detailed account of the condition of the horses of the Royal Artillery which took part in the long march from Kamptee to Jubbulpore and back, weakness and age certainly are not shown to have gone together, a 16-year old horse being entered as in fairly good condition after a march of 315 miles; while horses of 12, 13, and 15 are included among the class in good condition.

Excited wife—O, John! John! Quick! Stop fumbling behind that bureau and run for a doctor. Half-drunk husband—What's the matter with you, anyhow? "Baby has swallowed your collar-button." "How on earth do you expect me to get ready to go for a doctor without that collar-button?"—Philadelphia Press.

Pittsburger—Doctor, I am convinced that I am suffering from the most pronounced form of insomnia. M. D.—What are your symptoms? Pittsburger—Sunday last I remained awake during the entire services, though the sermon was one hour long and the thermometer in the vestibule stood at 92.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Miss Hood—Three in the gold, Captain! I've outshot you this time. Captain Angus—Yes; but what's become of my other arrow? I shot three. Voice of tramp in bushes—When you folks git through countin' up I wish you'd jest come in an' unpin my ear from this hickory tree; 'tain't gold, but it's got feelin' in it.—Pick-Bits.

A Chicago man who had been married twenty-two years described his wife to the police as "a rather tall woman with a Roman nose and big mouth." When she was found she proved to be a little woman with a Grecian nose and a very small mouth. He probably hadn't looked at her since the close of the Honeymoon.—Detroit Free Press.

Gen. John Bidwell, who recently gave eight acres of his great ranch at Chico, Cal., as a site for the new Normal School of Northern California, went to that State long before the discovery of gold. He bought his ranch of 30,000 acres for $3,000, and now it is worth $2,000,000, and yields an income of $100,000. Gen. Bidwell used to be a great wine producer, but his second wife has induced him to root out all his wine grapes and replace them with raisin grapes.

From the Pacific Ocean comes news of a pending royal divorce between Pomare V., King of the Society Islands, and his Queen Marau, the pretty brunet, who was for a time "a lion"—or I should say "a lioness"?—in Parisian society when she was staying at the French Capital in 1883. King Pomare considers himself the aggrieved party, having even gone so far as to disavow the paternity of the two charming little girls, who according to the Queen, form part of the royal family.

Miss Louise Chandler Moulton has lately visited Mr. Oscar Wilde in London. "The 'Apostle of the Beautiful' has," she says, "a pretty wife and a pretty house. I found his dainty, cream-colored dining-room especially attractive. I think it must be an original design, this white room, white walls, white chairs, white cabinets, a white shelf a foot wide running around the walls at a convenient height—not a trace of color anywhere, save in the rare glass and china and the flowers and fruit on the well-spread table. Oscar Wilde tells the best stories of any one I know, and the only fault I could find with some he told was that they were too good to be true."

The famous English "bone-setter," Mr. Hutton, who died recently (says the Liverpool Mercury), had no learning. He neither "walked the hospitals" nor ever learned the names of all the crevices in the human skeleton. If he had had all the bones of a human body thrown down before him he would have been at great pains to arrange them in order. Yet trained men sent patients with dislocations to him. He had a knack which was almost a genius for discovering what was the matter, and he took the strongest not to say the most violent, way of putting bones together again in their proper places. While the cautious surgeon was thinking what might safely be done, he had done it. He was rarely unsuccessful where there was only displacement and no actual disease. His patients were the most distinguished in the land, and he shrank from nothing when once he had decided what was to be done.

Removing a Serious Obstruction Gently.

Dynamite and giant powder might answer admirably to remove obstructions from Hell Gate in East river, New York, but explosive measures in medication are ever attended with disastrous consequences. For instances, the bowels cannot be violently drenched with safety, nor is there the slightest necessity for so doing. On the contrary, it is most unwise. None but the purblind adherents of antiquated theories in medicine advise or sanction such a course. To weaken the intestines—the effect of drastic purgation—is to compromise the health of the entire system. With Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, on the other hand, the bowels are relaxed, not by a convulsion or anything approximating to an eruption of Mt. Popocatapetl, but gradually, beneficially, without wrenching or drenching. The liver and stomach, as well as the bowels, are toned and benefitted by it.

Two cholera patients died at the New New York quarantine station on the 24th inst. and one on the 25th. One other was reported as dying, and twenty-three others very ill.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

The supreme court of New York has confirmed the verdict in the case of Jacob Sharp.

Prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, pain in the side, guaranteed to those using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One a dose. Small price. Small dose. Small pill.

Mr. William E. Barrett, whose next door neighbor the Sunday Globe is moved to designate as "the youthful editor of the Daily Advertiser," is reported to have become engaged to Miss Bailey of Claremont in this state. Mr. Barrett may be youthful, but it seems he gets there all the same.

Father James L. Nilan of St. Peter's church, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., the leading Catholic divine of that section, has come out strongly for the United Labor party. He urges the prohibitionists to join that party, as the best means to obtain their own ends. Father Nilan has won the censure of his clerical superiors by attending a meeting at which Dr. McGlynn spoke.

I have been a great sufferer from catarrh for over ten years; had it very bad, could hardly breathe. Some nights I could not sleep—had to walk the floor. I purchased Ely's Cream Balm and am using it freely, it is working a cure surely. I have advised several friends to use it, and with happy results in every case. It is the one medicine above all others made to cure catarrh, and worth its worth its weight in gold. I thank God I have found a remedy I can use with safety and that does all that is claimed for it. It is curing my deafness.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

Our Little Worries and Ills.

It is the little things of life, the worries of to-day and to-morrow, that make the crow's-feet around our eyes. So the little pains of an hour or a minute break down the constitution. Look after the little ills. Brandreth's Pills cure dyspepsia, or indigestion, headache, pain in the shoulders, coughs, tightness of the chest, dizziness, sour stomach, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, palpitation of the heart, inflamation of the lungs. Pain in the region of the kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offspring of dyspepsia. One or two pills every night is sufficient.

A deed transferring that part of the road lying in Pennsylania to the Erie & State company by the same granters, consideration $4,800,000, was also filed.

Rascally Junk Dealers.

It has been discovered that tons of books, many of them very valuable, have been stolen from the storerooms of the old state building in Indianapolis, Ind., and sold to junk dealers. One lot, found last Saturday night at the Indiana Paper company's rooms, consisted of state officers' reports, many reports of the various legislatures and the various laws passed by Congress for years back, including the laws of 1886 and 1887. The colored janitors are suspected of the theft.

The post-office at Kennebunkport was burglarized on the morning of the 26th inst., the safe blown open and $30 stolen.

Postmaster Butler, of Sanford, Me., who went to California some time ago for the benefit of his health, died a few days since at Boulder in that state.

The Sanford, Me., base ball club disbanded at the end of last week. The club was a strong one, and played good ball, but the season ended with the management $900 behind.

Joseph Taylor of Kennebunkport, aged sixty-five years, while attempting to catch a colt on the 24th inst. was knocked down by the animal, and so badly hurt that it was supposed he would die.

Freeman Cox, Sidney Cox and George Cox, three brothers, of Biddeford, last Saturday went to Hamilton's stable on Washington street in that city, called out an hostler named George W. Verrill, and proceeded to "put a head on him." A few hours later two of them paid $10 each and the other $5, with one-third costs each, for ther fun.

A Big Mistake.

The moulting season, or the season when hens shed their feathers, will soon be at an end. The process is one that in certain respects debilitates and prevents hens from laying. The reason of this is that the growing of new feathers requires all the nitrogen and phosphates contained in the food and there is none left to form the egg. A curious fact about the hen, and one that illustrates the foregoing statement, is this, if a hen's leg be broken during the laying season, she will lay her eggs without shells until the break is mended. The reason for this must be that all the lime contained in the food is required to unite the broken bone, there is therefore none for the formation of egg shells. The formation of new feathers does not require any carbonaceous or fat producing food, consequently well fed hens get very fat during the moulting. Many farmers and poultry raisers not understanding all about these things kill off their old hens because they think they have stopped laying and are fat. This is a great mistake, because if the proper material be furnished with their food to supply the increased demand for nitrogen and phosphates before mentioned the old hens will be through shedding feathers much sooner and will begin laying on the approach of cold weather, and they will continue to lay vigorously all winter, while the young pullets reserved to take the place of the old hens may not begin to lay until much later in the season. Very many people have learned from experience that Sheridan's Condition Powder mixed once daily with their food will supply the extra material needed to strengthen and invigorate their hens, enabling them to grow new plumage quickly and commence laying early. Those who commence to use Sheridan's Powder, will find that their young pullets will commence to lay at from four to six months old, and will lay continuously through the winter. The "Farmers' Poultry Raising Guide," published by I. S. Johnson & Co., at No. 22 Custom House street, Boston, at twenty-five cents, contains a vast amount of information on this subject. Johnson & Co. will send post paid, two twenty-five cent packs of powder and one Guide for sixty cents; or 2 1-4 lb can of the powder, postage or express prepaid, for $1.20, and a guide free.

There is considerable excitement in north Kennebunkport over a recent attempt to burn the farm buildings of Asa Seavey, on what is known as the Seth Dennett place. About two years ago the buildings there were burned, and Mr. Seavey last fall put up new ones at a cost of $1200 or $1300, insuring them to the amount of $800. On a recent night, when Mr. Seavey had gone away with his family, leaving a young man named William Green in charge of the place, the latter saw a light in the barn, and summoning the neighbors an entrance was effected, when two candles were found in candlesticks in the haymow, having burned down to within an inch or two of the hay.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

THE MINSTREL SHOW.

Messrs. Kennedy and Creigg, with Warfield & Week's Model Minstrels, in their new medley clog dance were pronounced to be the best that ever visited our city, and the addition of a number of popular airs brought to them many demonstrations of delight from the audience, at each appearance.—Joplin (Mo.) Times.

At Franklin theatre to-morrow evening. Tickets now on sale at Stich Ban.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, Sept. 27th.

Philip H. Kirby, charged with aggravated assault on Nellie Kirby, his wife, was held in $200 for the October term of the supreme court, and was committed to jail in default of sureties. The city has been well rid of the presence of this precious pair for a year or so past.

Nancy DeKoff, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90.

Henry McPhee, assault on Officer Smart, case nol. pros'd.

Henry McPhee, drunk, fine $3, costs $6.90. County farm in default of payment.

ALLEGED BURGLARY.

J. G. Adams of Newington was arrested at his home in that town on Monday forenoon by Sheriff Coffin, on the charge of breaking and entering the residence of P. H. Copp at Dover point last Sunday night. Copp recognized Adams as a person who, in company with another man, was in his house Saturday night. He says that one of the men was watching him with a revolver pointed at his head, while the other was searching the house for valuables. The burglars soon left with a considerable sum of money. Adams was taken to Dover by City Marshal Fogarty of that city for trial.

BIG SENSATION IN DOVER.

Patrick A. Crosby of Dover, late treasurer of the Lasters' Protective Union fair in that city, and a married man, has skipped to Canada, accompanied by Mrs. Emma (Sawyer) Lord. Crosby is thirty-seven years old, and arrived in Dover eighteen months ago from Richmond, Me. Last May the Lasters' Protective Union of Dover voted to have a fair, with Crosby as manager and treasurer. Some 186 prizes, valued at $3500, were offered, 10,000 tickets were printed, and 5000 were sold at $1 each. The fair began last Thursday night, the drawing to take place Friday night, but it was postponed until Saturday night. When the hour for the drawing came, Saturday night, Crosby was missing. The management stated that Crosby was unavoidably absent, and, as he had the tickets in his possession, the drawing was again adjourned to Monday evening. The committee then began to investigate, and found conclusive proof that Crosby left Dover on Saturday afternoon in company with Mrs. Lord, probably reaching Concord in time to catch the 9:30 P. M. express for Montreal. Tickets were sold in every state in New England, and the amount will be a dead loss, as the union has no funds, and no means, at the present outlook, of returning the money received for tickets. Crosby leaves an aged mother, a broken-hearted wife and two small children to suffer; he left them penniless, except for two dollars that he gave his wife just before deserting her. The articles offered as prizes not being paid for, and in possession of their owners, will be kept by them. Many bills are due from him for printing and advertising the fair. The managers of the fair had such implicit confidence in Crosby that no bonds were required of him.

The woman who ran off with Crosby is described as a blonde of rare beauty, about twenty years old, who was married on Thanksgiving day, 1885, to Charles Lord, a well-to-do citizen of Barrington about twice her age, with whom she lived but a few months, when she went to Dover and did housework in several families. It is stated that on Friday she hired a team in Dover and drove to Barrington, where it is alleged she told some of her friends that she was intimate with Mr. Crosby of Dover, and that he was treasurer of the Lasters' Union fair; that he proposed that she elope with him to Canada, and that she would have charge of the funds of the fair, which he proposed to take with him. She wanted to make arrangements so that they could leave Dover on Saturday afternoon and drive to Barrington, and she offered a relative of hers $2 50 to convey them from Barrington to Concord, so that they could catch the train leaving Concord for Montreal on Saturday evening. The arrangements were not perfected, as the young woman's relative did not relish the idea of having anything to do with the matter. She returned to Dover early Saturday morning. Then in the forenoon she engaged a horse and buggy of John W. Ricker to go to Barrington. Assistant Marshal Conway is confident from what he learned at Barrington that when Crosby and his accomplice left Dover for Concord they avoided Barrington, drove to the capital, and then skipped to Canada by the 9:30 express.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Edwin R. Pearson on Monday returned to Boston, to complete his course at the Institute of Technology.

Mr. Wm. H. Rideing, of the Youths' Companion of Boston, has been passing a few days with the poet, Mr. Edmund Clarence Stedman, at the latter's summer home, Kelp Rock, Newcastle.

Messrs. Harry L. Beacham and Samuel L. Kingsbury, and Dr. E. C. Blaisdell, started on the 25th inst. for a fishing and shooting expedition of two weeks in the streams and woods of eastern Maine.

The Boston Sunday Globe says: "Wallace Rand, the Park street jeweller, whose store a society woman pronounced the other day 'the most utterly fascinating one in town,' has returned from a trip to Franconia."

Mr. M. W. Mahoney and wife, of Haverhill, Mass., arrived in town Saturday on a brief visit to Mr. John L. Randall and wife, and leave to-day, accompanied by Mrs. Randall, for a week's stay at Wells, Me.

Mr. William T. Jones, employed at the South Boston brewery, is at present in this city on a visit to relatives and friends. Just now he is in charge of the business of his father, Nathan Jones, who is absent in order to recuperate in the Ossipee region. Mr. Jones expects to return to South Boston in about a week.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer Oceanic, Capt. Robinson, from this port last Friday evening for New York, arrived there Monday morning; all well.

The first of the international yacht races, between the Volunteer and the Thistle for the America's cup, is to be sailed to-day, wind and weather permitting, over the inside course of the New York yacht club.

There were numerous fishing vessels outside the harbor on Sunday, scattered along the coast from off Whale's-back to Boar's Head, looking for mackerel. Among them was the big fishing steamer Novelty, which carries a crew of forty-eight men all told, and so far this season has stocked $54,000. Plenty of mackerel were seen, but they were wild, and there was too much wind for successful fishing. The fleet all ran into the lower harbor Sunday afternoon and evening.

The fishing schooner Mary H. Thomas, Captain Henry B. Thomas, sailed from Gloucester on the 23d inst. for mackerel, and while off Jeffries bank met with a singular experience. The schooner came across a school of herring which were being driven by horse mackerel, and appeared to be bunched together with fear. The crew went to the school of herring in a dory, and caught nearly every one with dip nets, no seine being used. When the school was out the schooner had twenty-four barrels of mackerel.

The old schooner E. A. Creed, which has laid up at the wharf near the southerly end of Liberty bridge for several years, having been repaired to a considerable extent made a trip to the Isles of Shoals on Sunday, with Frank Raymond as captain, James O. Spinney as mate, William Lawson as steward and William Laighton as seaman. She made the run from Fort point to the Shoals in just forty-five minutes. At the Shoals the foresail was set, and after beating about all night the schooner arrived in the river at about four o'clock Monday morning. The old boat apparently sails as well as ever.

The schooner yacht White Wing, Capt. Charles S. Drowne, which left this port on Thursday evening last with three persons on board, arrived at Wood's Hole in twenty-five hours—big work for so small a craft.

Checks for interest on United States registered loan due Oct. 1st were received in this city on Monday.

We understand that Rev. William P. Israel has purchased the Islington street house formerly owned and now occupied by Mrs. William A. Plaisted.

Hon. Frank Jones has given $500 to the Odd Fellows' Home at Concord.

A petition against the passage of the Hazen bill, so-called, was being circulated for signatures in this city on Monday, and will be presented to the legislature before final action is taken in the house on that bill.

The Portsmouth Electric Light Company have adopted the Thompson-Houston system of electric light appliance, and the work of changing the apparatus will soon be commenced.

The house and land corner of Richmond and Pleasant streets, advertised to be sold at auction to-day (Tuesday,) unless previously disposed of at private sale, were sold on Monday, so of course there will be no auction.

Officers visited the Webster house with a search and seizure warrant on Monday. We are not aware of this very effective weapon of the prohibitory law having before been used in this city.

Our brethren in Maine much disfavor our fellow citizen the collector of internal revenue. We clip from the Biddeford Times the following: "The Kennebec Journal says that just prior to the opening of the present term of the superior court at Augusta the county attorney dispatched Sheriff McFadden to Portsmouth to examine the list of persons in Maine who paid the special United States revenue tax for selling liquor, but was refused by Mr. Page access to them, and was assured that access to them could only be obtained by process of law. It is about time it was settled which is the bigger, this man Page or the United States."

Director James R. Nichols of the Boston & Maine railroad, Supt. Merritt of the western division, Mrs. James R. Nichols, Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Bradley went over the western division of the road last week to inspect the floral display on the grounds at the different stations, with a view to the award of the annual prize for the handsomest and best-kept grounds.

Mr. Charles W. Roberts of Cider hill, York, where he has a nice new residence on a sightly site in view of York river, was in this city on Monday. His place there has been much improved by his own labor, while he has at the same time been employed on the road improvements throughout the town. Mr. Roberts was formerly a member of the Portsmouth police force, and was also for a long time employed at the tannery of Hon. Moses H. Goodrich; and it is reported that after and absence of nearly five years from the city, he will shortly return to take charge of the tannery.

A Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Club was organized in this city last week, with about twenty members; Rev. O. S. Baketel was elected president, Rev. L. H. Fisher vice president, and Mr. F. W. Sweet secretary and treasurer.

As Bad as War.

A despatch of Sept. 25th from Quebec says: "Friday four little children belonging to the family of P. Godbout, a farmer living close to the camping ground at the Island Orleans, where the Dominion Artillery Association held its annual competition a few weeks ago, went to pick up pieces of shells. They came across a large shell. Their curiosity being aroused, they set to work to dissect the fuse, and applied a lighted match to it, the result being that the shell exploded, killing three of the children instantly, and injuring the fourth so seriously that its life is despaired of. The mother has been unconscious ever since, and her recovery is doubtful."

"St. Nicholas" for October is the last but not the least excellent number of the current volume. A charming story by Miss Alcott, with which it opens, lends strength to the hope that there are "more to come" in the new year of St. Nicholas. The present story is entitled "An Ivy Spray." It is a kirmess story, and it tells in a strong, helpful style how a brave girl danced her way to happiness. Frank R. Stockton contributes one of his capital "Personally Conducted" papers, on "The Low Countries and the Rhine," with abundant illustrations. "General Grant at Vicksburg" is the title of General Adam Badeau's war story, which is pleasantly supplemented by a very clever southern sketch,—"Ole Mammy Prissy,"—by Jessie C. Glasier. There are four characteristic illustrations by W. E. Kemble. John R. Coryell tells about the curious habits of an absurd bird with the queer name of Kiwi-Kiwi; and Mary J. Safford writes about a self-respecting and knowing dog that stopped a mutiny. Every one who has been reading Miss Baylor's interesting serial, "Juan and Juanita," and H. H. Boyesen's "Fiddle-John's Family," will doubtless, turn at once to the concluding chapters of these two stories to see if they end quite satisfactorily. They do. Nora Perry, Mary Mapes Dodge, Rossiter Johnson, Frank Sherman, Alice Wellington Rollins, Juniata Stafford and Margaret Vandegrift, are among the other contributors.

William Showers, sixty-five years old, who was arrested at Annville, Pa., last May, for murdering his two grandsons, has confessed that he strangled them in order that he might marry his housekeeper, Elizabeth Sergeant. He implicates the woman. While his confession was being read in court Miss Sergeant rose, and in a loud voice said: "That's a darned lie."

A Strange Freak.

The wife of our esteemed citizen, Mr. John Rowell, while suffering under a severe attack of the blues, tried to commit the crime of infanticide, but was prevented by the opportune arrival of a neighbor. Her case has been considered by the doctors incurable, but her husband was highly pleased, after using a course of Sulphur Bitters, to find she was entirely cured.—Kingston Herald.

At Haverhill, Mass., Sept. 23d, J. H. Abbott, a widower aged forty-eight years, while crazed with liquor shot dead his daughter, Mrs. Mamie E. Cummings, aged twenty-eight, and then killed himself.

Those persons who do not need iron, but who are troubled with nervousness and dyspepsia, will find in Carter's Little Nerve Pills a most desirable article. The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for its incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

P. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

Reference: FRANK T. WRAY, Druggist, Apollo, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James S. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED,

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

PIMPLES, Blackheads, Skin Blemishes, and Baby Humors, use CUTICURA SOAP.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? Had a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises? How difficult it is to get the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

A Dead Summer.

What lacks the summer?
Not roses blowing,
Nor tall white lilies with fragrance rife,
Nor green things gay with the bliss of growing,
Nor glad things drunk with the wine of life,
Nor flushing of clouds in blue skies shining,
Nor soft wind murmurs to rise and fall,
Nor birds for singing, nor vines for twining—
Three little buds I miss, no more,
That blossomed last year at my garden door—
And that is all.

What lacks the summer?
Not waves a-quiver
With arrows of light from the hand of dawn,
Nor drooping of boughs by the dimpling river,
Nor nodding of grass on the windy lawn,
Nor tides upswept upon silver beaches,
Nor ripple of leaves on the copse and hill—
Nor dapple of shade in woodland reaches—
Life pulses gladly on vale and hill,
But three little hearts that I love are still—
And that is all.

What lacks the summer?
O, light and savor,
And message of healing the world above!
Gone is the old-time strength and flavor,
Gone is the old-time peace and love!
Gone is the bloom of the shimmering meadows,
Music of birds the spring-time recall—
All the great world is dim with shadow,
Because no longer mine eyes can see
The eyes that made my summer and life for me—
And that is all.

—Mary E. Blake.

Girls as Workers.

A girl's mind developes very rapidly, much more rapidly than an average boy's; and when an intelligent girl shows any special ability in one direction she improves in that especial direction so quickly that one is deceived into thinking she has genius for it; she herself becomes fired with ambition, works hard,—and many girls can work in a way that would shame some boys,—builds castles in the air of future fame and greatness, gives up other interests and hopes for the one aim, which, alas! is often disappointed. Nineteen out of every twenty—might we not say ninety-nine out of every hundred?—girls stop when you think they are going to something worth doing, and never get any further. They have talent, which education has brought out and deceived them into mistaking for genius. There is, however, one very great advantage in the present rage for classes of all kinds, and in the facilities for study in all directions; it gives many girls an object in life, even if they do not do anything very great for the benefit of the nation.—Tinsley's Magazine.

How Neckties Are Made.

The designing of silks and satins for neckties is a profession in itself. "There are special grades and designs of silks and satins made exclusively for the necktie trade," said a manufacturer. "These materials are made from patterns designed by men who do nothing but study new things in this line. There are from fifty to seventy-five factories in the country and ten or twelve first-class makers. The latter usually secure exclusive rights to use certain styles of goods offered to the American market, or a large portion of it. But the success of making up such goods is just like a lottery. Perhaps one season I hit upon a design that will become so popular that all the other makers are forced to adopt it, but the next season some one in Boston or Philadelphia will make a hit and I am forced to copy that. There's never any telling how a necktie is going to take until it is fairly on the market. Then it depends for success on who adopts it first. If he happens to be a swell that particular kind of necktie will sell well."

"Are the styles of making up neckties originated abroad?"

"Not now. They were until about three years ago, but now our styles are superior to the European, and they are coming over here for patterns. However, there is a tendency toward English patterns for this season.

"There are more than 1,200 girls employed in this city alone. They work by the piece and make money more or less according to their expertness. A good finisher can make $8 or $9 a week. She takes a necktie after it is put together and finishes each detail perfectly so that it is read to box. Three different colors of the same design and same style are twisted together to give the dealer an assortment in the one make. The finisher must see that all of this kind are exactly alike in point of finish and make-up. We have one girl who does nothing but turn bands of neckties, and she makes $15 a week. She turns twenty-five or thirty dozen bands a day."—New York Mail.

Courage of Women.

In courage the ordinary woman, says the Augusta Gazette, greatly outstrips the ordinary man. Whether it be reckless, unconscious, or sublime, the element of personal courage that effects a fit at the intrusion of a mouse knows no fear in the face of real danger. A lady who would not venture from her rural front door alone was often met abroad leading a 3-year-old child by the hand. When asked if she considered the infant's presence a protection, she answered: "In a measure, yes; for when I am alone I feel that I have no right to be away, and would run from a shadow, but if I were attacked with this child I would defend it to the last." Some persons will account for this on maternal instincts. But the lady was not related to the child and she was unmarried.

Removing a Serious Obstruction Gently.

Dynamite and giant powder might answer admirably to remove obstructions from Hell Gate in East river, New York, but explosive measures in medication are ever attended with disastrous consequences. For instances, the bowels cannot be violently drenched with safety, nor is there the slightest necessity for so doing. On the contrary, it is most unwise. None but the purblind adherents of antiquated theories in medicine advise or sanction such a course. To weaken the intestines—the effect of drastic purgation—is to compromise the health of the entire system. With Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, on the other hand, the bowels are relaxed not by a convulsion of nature approximating to an eruption of Mt. Popocatapetl, but gradually, beneficially, without wrenching or drenching. The liver and stomach, as well as the bowels, are toned and benefitted by it.

—Regular customer (disposed to be facetious): "I guess you will have to trust me for the paper until to-morrow." Clerk: "Oh, that's all right, sir." "But suppose I was to be killed between now and to-morrow?" "Well, the loss would not be much, sir."

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

—Countryman (to bookseller)—"My wife wants me to get her a testament." Bookseller—"Yes, sir. New Testament, I suppose." Countryman—"Well, I dunno. If you've got one that ain't too much used up, I reckon a second-hand one would suit her just as well."

Prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, pain in the side, guaranteed to those using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One a dose. Small price. Small dose. Small pill.

—Mistress—"Lena, who is that man you have in the kitchen?" Lena—"Aw, dot vas my cousin shoost come over from Munchen." Moriarty (in the next room, sotto voce)—"Arrah, but it's a nate little colleen yez are, Lena! But—howly murther! The ould woman's comin' in here herself."

A True Friend

to the sick and suffering, is Dr. Kaufmann's great Medical Work, finely illustrated. Send three 2 cent stamps, to pay postage to A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass., and receive a copy free.

—Mr. Puffer (who has recently "struck it rich"): "Pete, I am going to get you a coachman's livery; what do you think of that?" Pete (who has been "hired man" for years): "Yes, sah, I would like it very much, sah. It would distinguish me from de rest of de family."

I have been a great sufferer from catarrh for over ten years; had it very bad, could hardly breathe. Some nights I could not sleep—had to walk the floor. I purchased Ely's Cream Balm and am using it freely, it is working a cure surely. I have advised several friends to use it, and with happy results in every case. It is the one medicine above all others made to cure catarrh, and worth its worth its weight in gold. I thank God I have found a remedy I can use with safety and that does all that is claimed for it. It is curing my deafness.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

—Irate old father: "I understand, Mr. Lytecash, that you are an expert base ball player." Mr. Lytecash: "I rather believe I am, sir." "I have never witnessed a game, nor do I wish to, but, as I have sent my daughter to bed, and it is midnight—and the front door is open—suppose you gratify me by making your very quickest home run."

Dr. Wistar's Wild Cherry Balsam.—This Balsamic compound has become a home fixture. Let all who suffer, and have in vain attempted to cure their coughs, colds, bronchial or pulmonary complaints, make use of this unequaled remedy.

—"Oh, no, ma'am," pleaded the tramp, "you may think my life all sunshine, but it ain't. Wherever I go I am beset with dangers. In short, ma'am, I carry my life in my hands." "Ah, I see!" exclaimed his temporary hostess, "that accounts for your not washing your hands. You don't dare to do it for fear you'll drown yourself."

St. Jacobs Oil will cure hog cholera.—E. M. Robinson, Cherry Camp, W. Va.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. mon,wed,sat,o

An Important Element

Of the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is the fact that every purchaser receives a fair equivalent for his money. The familiar headline "100 Doses One Dollar," stolen by imitators, is original with and true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla. This can easily be proven by any one who desires to test the matter. For real economy, buy only Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists.

Maj. J. J. Simpson, of Illinois, for the past twenty-five years or more a clerk in the office of the secretary of the senate, and latterly officiating as the official messenger of that body to the house of representatives, died suddenly of apoplexy last week.

Our Little Worries and Ills.

It is the little things of life, the worries of to-day and to-morrow, that make the crow's-feet around our eyes. So the little pains of an hour or a minute break down the constitution. Look after the little ills. Brandreth's Pills cure dyspepsia, or indigestion, headache, pain in the shoulders, coughs, tightness of the chest, dizziness, sour stomach, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, palpitation of the heart, inflamation of the lungs. Pain in the region of the kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offspring of dyspepsia. One or two pills every night is sufficient.

Badly Beaten Before a Race.

The London Times of Sept. 26th, in a long article on the relative merits of the cutter Thistle and the sloop Volunteer, reasoned out a total defeat for the sloop in any kind of weather. After saying that the trial races showed the Volunteer to be but little superior to the Mayflower, it asked, "Now what chance would the Mayflower have with the Irex?" and went on to show that the Thistle is so greatly superior to the Irex that "there appears to be no reason why she should not beat the Volunteer, as she can the Irex, say by eighteen or twenty minutes over a forty-mile course." It closes by saying "That those identified with the Volunteer realize the task they have before them is evident in their having tried their champion with longer, and, as a consequence, heavier boom and gaff, and these have been put ashore again. Should an easter be blowing home on either day the Thistle will find her mast and boom punishing her in the sea, yet in any kind of weather there is but little doubt that she will prove a better boat than the Volunteer."

The Thistle may prove an easy winner; but if she beats the Volunteer twenty minutes in a forty-mile race the American yachtmen and yacht-builders will be as much astonished as the Britishers were when the old America beat their whole yacht fleet so badly that out of forty or fifty boats, many of them much larger than the Yankee schooner, there "was no second."

P. S. Since the above was in type the first race has taken place, and the Thistle did not run away from the Volunteer at all.

The Volunteer Wins.

The first race in the international series between the Scotch cutter Thistle and the American sloop Volunteer, for the possession of the America's cup, was sailed on Tuesday over the inside course of the New York yacht club. The starting gun was fired at 12:32 P. M.; the Thistle crossed the line at 12:34, the Volunteer a few minutes later. The wind was light at the start, and the Thistle soon lost it; the Volunteer had better luck, and at 1:10 led the Thistle a mile and a half, and at 1:19 by two miles. At 1:50 the Thistle had gained to within three-quarters of a mile of the Volunteer. At the point of Sandy Hook the Volunteer led by six minutes; and at 3:00, when both yachts were outside the Hook, heading for the lightship, she was two miles ahead.

We have no further details of the race, other than a despatch from Boston at 5:50 saying "Volunteer has won; four miles ahead." The wind was light throughout the race, but it was sailed two hours inside the limit, and the Volunteer showed herself a wonderful light-weather boat, in which many yachting experts had feared the Thistle would beat her.

Unlucky Speculation.

Miss M. Kennedy of Boston, said to be a fashionable dressmaker, arrived in New York on the 25th inst. from Havre on the steamship La Gascogne, and when disembarking attempted to smuggle on shore a lot of costly silks and laces, valued at $6000 or $8000. A paper box which was opened was found to have folds of satin on top, and when that was removed four ball-dress patterns were found. They were of lace, beautifully embroided, the finest quality of goods, and were worth many dollars a yard. The two silk dresses were not remarkable as far as outside appearances went, but within they proved to be very unusually constructed gowns, for between the silk and the ordinary lining was another of a costly sort. It was made up of valuable lace dress goods brocaded in bullion, scarlet silk and other textiles that require long purses and credit to possess. Miss Kennedy wore a petticoat that was a petticoat and something more. It was made up of three fine dress patterns basted together. Where this extemporized garment was narrowest there were eighteen thicknesses, of costly laces and magnificent silks. The statute under which this seizure was made provides that the goods shall be forfeited and that the offender may be fined from $50 to $5000, or be imprisoned for two years or less, or both.

Edward Harrison of Epsom was murderously assaulted by Joseph Cate of Deerfield on the 26th inst., being shot in the head, and then knocked down and brutally beaten with a stone. Harrison may recover.

Hon. A. W. McLellan, postmaster-general of Novia Scotia, confesses that his seat in the provincial house of commons was secured by bribery.

The missionary trouble on the island of Ponape, one of the Caroline group, has led to an insurrection, and the insurgents are in control of the island. The Spanish governor has been killed.

Harems.

In many respects the harems of Constantinople are allowed greater liberty than those of Egypt and Persia. The ladies of Stamboul are much addicted to walking, whereas those of Cairo are never seen in the streets on foot. At the Sweet waters the harems stray over the meadows or picnic on the banks of the Kiaght Khanch stream, with the fresh air blowing round them. The Egyptian dames, however, can never stir except in their carriages, and can only view the world and their neighbors from the windows of a brougham. The Bezestan of Stamboul is daily honored by great ladies who also think no evil of riding in the public tram-cars between Galata and Pera; but an Egyptian harem who attempted to mix with the crowd in such promiscuous fashion would be promptly banned. In other ways, however, especially since the days of Ismail Pasha, the harem of Cairo has opened its eyes considerably to what goes on beyond its proper ken. The wives and families of foreign residents and travelers put down the various high harems on their visiting lists, and the bi-weekly promenades on the Shoobra and Gezirch avenues give the veiled ones an opportunity of seeing in the flesh the personages of whom they are perpetually hearing stories and anecdotes. It also gives the men a chance of having this and that houri pointed out to them as they whirl past in their neat little carriages till each gets to know the other by sight at least tolerably well. The opera and the afternoon promenade are the chief excitements of Egyptian harem life. The Cairo opera house, built by the late Khedive in a style commensurate with the lavish disregard of expense which marked his reign, is fitted with a dozen boxes on the second tier, whose fronts are framed with a gauzy screen enabling the occupants to watch the play and the house, and supposed to prevent the house from watching them. The sparkling of bright eyes and diamonds are nevertheless apt to attract discreet attention, and a powerful glass nearly annihilates the screen, so that the beauties in reality come not only to see, but to be seen, like their western sisters round them. A separate entrance leads up to the harem boxes, and after the fall of the curtain the harem don their habarahs and steal out to their carriages by a back way, where it is whispered that many a note and bonbonniere await them on their passage.—The Saturday Review.

Lady Tennyson, it is said, is neither intellectual nor esthetic, but is her husband's very humble worshiper. She does not appreciate his works but when she became his wife he was the poet laureate, and she counted the fact of more consequence than the late authorship of the "Idyls of the King." He was very fond of reading his verses in a chanting tone and grandiloquent manner; she invariably listens with rapt attention and expresses in superlatives. Being indulged, followed and humored to the top of his bent, he is domestic.

Miss Samuel Brown, a widow aged fifty years, was instantly killed on a railroad crossing at Richmond, Me., Sept. 26th, by the Flying Yankee. She was the second person killed there by that train within two months.

George S. Rounds of Biddeford, who with his wife has been visiting his sister at Slatersville, near Providence, R. I., drowned himself in a small stream there last Saturday night. He was sick and despondent.

The foliage on the trees in the adjacent towns has so far been but little changed, despite the cold snap, and the leaves have not fallen much as yet, although beginning to drop. The leaves of the maples have put on a partially golden hue in ripening among the green, and the sumachs are brilliant.

100 Doses

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

"Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, all humors, boils, pimples, general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints, and all affections caused by impure blood or low condition of the system. Try it.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PEELE, Salem, Mass.

THE MINSTREL SHOW.

The Advocate, of Georgetown, Mass., says: "Mr. Thomas Warfield, the negro comedian, is irresistibly funny, in make up, speech and action. He gives pure humor unmixed with vulgarity or profanity, and is one of the best of his line." Mr. Warfield will take part in the great variety entertainment at Franklin theatre this evening, when Warfield & Week's Model Minstrels will appear. This company is credited by the press with giving an excellent show. Tickets at Stich Ban, Congress block.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, Sept. 27th.

The proprietor of the Webster house, charged with keeping liquor for sale, waived examination, and was held in $200 for the October term of the supreme court, bonds being at once given.

COMFORTING WORDS.

Quite a large number of tickets in the Lasters' Union fair at Dover were held in this city. Just how much Crosby got away with cannot be told, but one estimate is $5,500. We copy a couple of items tending to console the losers—the Lasters' Union and the ticket-buyers:

The Biddeford Times says: "No sympathy need be wasted on the New Hampshire organization which suffered by the flight of the treasurer of a lottery scheme. The scheme was as unlawful as the theft. The pity is that every treasurer of a lottery does not decamp with the funds. Perhaps if this were understood to be the regular thing the fool-public would cease to invest in such enterprises."

And the Portsmouth Times remarks: "Very little sympathy need be wasted on those who lose the money they invested in this lottery scheme. The greater part of them get just as much as they would have received if the drawing had taken place. The whole thing was in violation of the law of the state, and those concerned in it should have been arrested at the start. A $15,000 lottery was permitted in Dover last spring. It is time that the law was enforced in that city."

PAT ROONEY.

Says the Baltimore News: "Pat Rooney's Star Comedy comedy has achieved immense success since the opening on Monday night, and the show is voted one of the most laughable ever given at this popular house. Pat Rooney himself appears every evening, and is simply immense. He is the original whom Irish comedians all over the country have been attempting to copy, but it must be confessed that he is unapproachable."

Pat Rooney and his company, including Katie Rooney, will appear in Music hall on Friday evening, on which occasion "Pat's Wardrobe" will be publicly aired. Reserved seat tickets now on sale, at Goodrich's bookstore.

HISTORICAL INFORMATION DESIRED.

The subscriber has sought in vain from descendants, newspapers and other historical sources, for exact dates of birth (day and month) of Judge Woodbury Langdon, and his brother Gov. John Langdon, both natives of Portsmouth, N. H., and revolutionary patriots and worthies. All he has obtained is that Woodbury Langdon was born in 1738, and that John Langdon was born in December, 1740. Can any person in America give the exact and full dates above sought? Will other newspapers publish the substance of this request? It is asked in the interest of History. If information can be given, please address

GEORGE E. JENKS, Concord, N.H.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Hartley W. Mason and family will spend the winter in Boston.

Mr. Wm. Christie of Brooklyn, N. Y., is visiting relatives on Christian Shore.

Mr. Oscar F. Pfeiffer of Denver, Col., was in this city for a few hours on Tuesday.

James Seelig of London, Ont., is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. K. Farnham, in this city.

Dr. William French of New York is visiting his parents, Mr. John T. French and wife, of this city.

Mr. Herbert White of Haverhill, Mass., formerly of Portsmouth, and Mr. L. E. Worthen of Haverhill, arrived in this city Monday on bicycles, for a short stop.

MARITIME NOTES.

The dredge and scows employed during the past summer in improving the channel of York harbor, were off York beach last Friday in tow of a steamer, on their way to Portland.

The work of improving the channel of the Cocheco river having been completed so far as this season's contract is concerned, Capt. Symonds has hauled up his dredging flotilla at Russell's wharf for the winter.

A survey was made upon the schooner John Lenthall, Capt. Barker, on Tuesday, at Piscataqua wharf, and it was decided that it was necessary to relay the deck to make her seaworthy. She belongs to the Exeter Coal Co.

The Eastern Dredging Co., of Portland, Me., contractors for improving the channel at Little harbor, having finished their work there for this season have taken their dredge and scows to Portland, to deepen some of the docks there used by ocean-going steamers.

The schooner John Stroup, Fisher master, from Seal Harbor for New York with paving stones, struck on Seal ledge, at the western end of Fisher's island, early in the morning on the 24th inst., and was towed into New London, Conn., by a tug. Her forefoot is broken, but she does not leak.

ELIOT ITEMS.

ELIOT, Sept. 27th.

The floral exhibition given by Prof. Moses G. Farmer on Thursday evening, the 22d inst., in the old Betsey Hanscom house, just across the street from Prof. Farmer's, had a delighted attendance of about 125 persons. The flowers were arranged with exquisite taste, and it was one of the most beautiful scenes ever witnessed. In connection with the lovely display of flowers, ice-cream and cake were furnished free to one and all; and there was also an exercise in music which was very pleasing and interesting. Prof. Farmer and family are doing much good in this town. The professor has erected a large and fine house in the back part of the town, to be used for the children of the Baldwin Place Home for Little Wanderers in Boston; it will have the name of Missionary Ridge. Here will come the orphans during the warm season, to enjoy the bright sun and pure air and green fields. The house is finely constructed and convenient, and occupies a very sightly spot. We wish Prof. Farmer success in all his undertakings, for aside from the direct good to those so kindly aided, the spectacle of a man generously employing his means for the benefit of the unfortunate cannot fail to exert an influence for good in whatever community he may have his residence.

William F. Paul of Saugus, Mass., passed last Sunday with his parents, Mr. William J. Paul and wife of this town.

Arthur C. Paul, employed by Golding & Co., druggists, of Boston, arrived home on Monday, the 26th, to spend a week.

Amos W. Wingate arrived home on Friday last from a trip of two months in the vicinity of the White mountains.

Miss Hattie S. Remick arrived home from York beach on Saturday, the 24th.

Miss Abbie C. Remick was at home from Boston on Sunday, returning to that city on Monday.

Edgar S. Paul has moved his furniture into the house of Mrs. Howard Staples, which they will shortly occupy in their first joint experience at housekeeping. Mr. William H. Spinney is also about to occupy his new house, which he has completed. We wish both parties abundant success and enjoyment through life.

Rev. K. Atkinson is stopping in the parsonage at South Eliot for a short time. The society are to give a pound party on Thursday evening, Sept. 29th, and we hope there will be a large attendance, as there certainly ought to be. HARRY.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 27th.

Miss Fannie Hill's class in the Sabbath school of the Second Methodist church will give a literary entertainment in the vestry of the church next Thurday evening.

Mr. Nathaniel Keen of Salisbury Point, Mass., has been visiting relatives here the past week.

Whipple Lodge, I. O. G. T., are making arrangements to give an entertainment in Trefethen hall at an early date.

Miss Fannie Remick will pass the winter with her sister, Mrs. Grant, in Antwerp, Belgium. Mrs. Grant's husband, Capt. Charles H. Grant, commands the North German Lloyd's steamship Vaterland, running in the line between Belgium and New York, and Miss Remick will take passage by that vessel on her return to Antwerp next week.

Mr. J. H. Swett leaves town this week for a trip to Boston and New York, to purchase goods to add to the already large stock in his store.

A vast amount of material will be used before the filling-in is completed at the Rice's Hollow—or "Remick," as it is suggested it should be called—overhead bridge of the York Harbor & Beach railroad; by the time the work is done it will look a good deal as though the railroad had built a new mountain. SUB ROSA.

Mr. Warren Keen was severely stung on the legs Sunday night, at his residence on Jones avenue, by wasps which had found their way in among the bed clothing. Mr. Keen is anything but a lazy man, under ordinary circumstances; but he never got out of bed so willingly before in his life.

"Gil" Adams of Newington, who was arrested on Monday on a charge of burglarizing the Piscataqua house at Dover point on Sunday night, was released from custody on Monday evening at Dover, having established an alibi. The farm houses of George Pinkham and Thomas Henderson at Dover point were entered on the same night as the Piscataqua house, but nothing of much value was stolen.

The team with which Crosby and his paremour fled from Dover was returned on Monday about noon, having been driven from East Tilton by a boy named George Hayes, who said the runaway pair arrived at East Tilton about ten o'clock Sunday forenoon, and took the evening train north. They hired him to drive the team back to Dover, and gave him money to pay the stable charges. He is a grandson of Mrs. Sawyer, Emma Lord's mother.

Shad have been running up York river of late in considerable schools, and it is alleged that some have been taken with hooks by amateur fishermen on the bridges.

Wanted,

Every lady to call and see the very large size, strictly all-wool Blankets we are selling for $5.00 per pair. The lot will not last long.

"Si Perkins" drew a large audience to Music hall on Monday evening, and sent them away with a consciousness that they had been thoroughly amused. The principal part is highly entertaining, and the subordinate ones all add to the amusing character of the piece, and are all well taken. The orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Theodore Metz, (who is also the bass drummer in the Pughtown Farmer band,) gave some very fine music.

The potato crop in York, so far as being saleable for the future, is very nearly a failure on account of the rot. It may be that what are deposited in the cellars may answer for the consumption of the producers. The grafted apple trees have yielded but little fruit; perhaps the native trees may produce enough for cider.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for his incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is popular as a household medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for Didn't Sail.

Richard D. Alliger, agent in New York for the British American Assurance company of Toronto, Can., was arraigned in court on the 26th inst. and held in $2500 bail on a charge of forgery. The complainant, Clary Schulhof, alleges that Alliger drew up a check to her order for $1750 on the National Shoe & Leather bank of New York, forging her name to the amount. Alliger had engaged passage on the North German Lloyds steamer Fulda, and was about to sail for Bremen with his family when arrested.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured my child of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar humiliating ailments may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on March 1st, 1879 and Nov. 1st, 1879 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became so bad I was at times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in our years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Ky.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED,

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with painful and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this pestiferous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to their fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

DROUGHTS AND CYCLONES.

During a recent journey to Europe, writes Thomas E. Hill in The National Builder, the passage across the ocean was especially unpleasant because of fogs, the only consolation in contemplating them being that they represented the work of nature in drawing moisture from the water, which, wafted inland, fell upon the soil in refreshing rain, gathered into brooks and rivers and flowed to the sea, to be again thus sent back to freshen and brighten the parched earth. The speed of our vessel was materially retarded by winds from the west, a common occurrence in the summer season. The fogs and moisture through these winds are driven upon the continent where drought seldom prevails, and particularly do they freshen the verdure of Ireland, and hence the brilliant green of the Emerald isle.

In reflecting upon this subject, I contemplated the drought then prevailing in several of the western and middle states of the union. What had they to gather rains from? Alas, what have they? For a generation our farmers have been draining their lands of moisture. They have run their tiling through every slough; they have drawn out the water from every swamp; they have dried up the pond; they have obliterated the beautiful little lake. In doing this they have made such easy and rapid egress for rainfall from the soil as to endanger the homes and farm lands of all the settlers along the great rivers in the southern regions of our country, already inflicting great distress, loss of life and property equaling in value twenty millions of dollars — an evil which is growing in magnitude every year.

The result of this wholesale draining of the upper country of water is not only thus disastrous to life and property along the larger streams from frequent overflow, but there is such absolute drainage of moisture from the earth as to produce severe drought, accompanied by such intense heat and dryness of atmosphere as results in the hurricane, the cyclone, and innumerable village, prairie, and forest fires.

In the early days when the process of evaporation of moisture went forward from the swamps, the ponds, and lakes of our western and middle states, an extended drought, with extremely intense heat, was comparatively rare. In those days sunstroke was very uncommon, and the cyclone was comparatively unknown. This year we are in the second season of drought in various portions of the country, while every year brings its devastation from wind, the result of an excessively dry and frequently disturbed condition of the atmosphere.

With the land thus denuded of natural water supply, there is but one course for our farmers to pursue to save themselves from these evils. They may drain their soil, but they should gather the rainfall in ponds and lakes scattered throughout their lands. Instead of running the drains through and out of the swamp, they should lead to an excavation of such size as circumstances will permit, which should be made at a depth of three or four feet, where the water can gather and will remain throughout the year, quenching the thirst of animals, giving drink to birds, a reservoir in case of fire, a home for fish, a spot of beauty on which may sail the boat, an opportunity for the bath, and for teaching the young people to swim. It will yield ice for the family, provide skating for the happy youth in winter time, and moisture, which, through evaporation, will pass into the cloud to be returned again through rainfall to the needy earth.

No fear need be entertained of stagnation from water thus held in reserve. Fish will of themselves purify it. Every rain will change it, while, if the lake covers an acre or more in area, the wind will constantly keep it pure. The writer, in proof of this, has an artificial lake on his farm, the result of dredging a swamp, which is filled only by rainfall, the water being, in the driest season, always perfectly clear and fresh.

On the low lands the general abandonment of farms and homes from river overflow will be the inevitable outcome of this water wastage in the high grounds. Such is already the fact, while the expenditure of many millions of dollars by the government in the construction of levees and embankments along the great rivers will be necessary for the further protection of adjoining property. Vastly better that this expenditure be made in holding the water where it is required in the up-country. Dot the farms of our inland states with ponds and miniature lakes, and while they will afford health, attraction, and pleasure in a thousand ways, they will give us back the uniform rainfall we had in the early settlement of the country, when successive seasons of drought, forest fires, and cyclones were unknown.

One of our lawyers being asked a few days since what a contingent fee was, said: "If I bring a suit for you and lose the case I get nothing; if I win the suit you get nothing." —Hudson Republican.

Removing a Serious Obstruction Gently.

Dynamite and giant powder might answer admirably to remove obstructions from Hell Gate in East river, New York, but explosive measures in medication are ever attended with disastrous consequences. For instances, the bowels cannot be violently drenched with safety, nor is there the slightest necessity for so doing. On the contrary, it is most unwise. None but the purblind adherents of antiquated theories in medicine advise or sanction such a course. To weaken the intestines—the effect of drastic purgation—is to compromise the health of the entire system. With Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, on the other hand, the bowels are relaxed, not by a convulsion of nature approximating to an eruption of Mount Pelée, but gradually, beneficially, without wrenching or drenching. The liver and stomach, as well as the bowels, are toned and benefitted by it.

I have been a great sufferer from catarrh for over ten years; had it very bad, could hardly breathe. Some nights I could not sleep—had to walk the floor. I purchased Ely's Cream Balm and am using it freely, it is working a cure surely. I have advised several friends to use it, and with happy results in every case. It is the one medicine above all others made to cure catarrh, and worth its worth its weight in gold. I thank God I have found a remedy I can use with safety and that does all that is claimed for it. It is curing my deafness.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

The International Yacht Race.

The official starting time of the Thistle and Volunteer on Tuesday, Sept. 27th, was as follows: Thistle at 12:33:06, Volunteer at 12:34:58 1-4. The two boats had been playing about the line for some time, the Thistle moving and maneuvering much more quickly than the Volunteer, but as soon as the race began the conditions were reversed, the sloop outsailing the cutter from the start, while at the same time lying closer to the wind, and in twelve minutes from crossing the line the American champion had made up the two minutes lost on the start. At buoy ten, near Sandy Hook, the first turn in the course, the Volunteer was nearly sixteen minutes ahead, and at buoy five, outside of the Hook, nearly eighteen minutes. The sloop rounded the outer mark, Sandy Hook lightship, seventeen minutes and three seconds ahead of the cutter, and arrived at the finish line 17 min. 36 1-2 sec. ahead, the Thistle being then more than three miles astern. The actual sailing time was as follows: Volunteer, 4 h. 53 m. 18 s.; Thistle, 5 h. 12 m. 46 3-4 s. The Volunteer having to allow the Thistle five seconds, leaves her winner of the race by 19 m. 23 3-4 sec.

Both yachts were hampered, the Thistle very much so, by the immense fleet of steamers which hovered around, not only breaking the wind, but causing such a commotion of the water as was very damaging in the light breeze blowing. This made a number of minutes difference in the Thistle's time over the course, although it was evident that she would have beef beaten without it. The sailors of the Thistle were surprised that she did not sail better, and were so suspicious that something was the matter with her bottom that Mr. Bell, to satisfy them, determined to have her docked on Wednesday, the 25th, that they might go into the race on Thursday with confidence that the boat was in the best condition. Mr. Bell, as well as the Thistle's designer, Mr. Watson, and her captain, Barr, all agreed that they never knew her to move so slowly in any race when she moved at all.

Grand Commandery, Knights Templar.

At the annual conclave of the right eminent grand commandery, Knights Templar, of New Hampshire, in Concord on Tuesday, Sept. 27th, the following officers were elected, and duly installed by Past Grand Commander Andrew Benton of Manchester: Grand commander, John J. Bell of Exeter; deputy grand commander, Edward R. Kent of Lancaster; grand generalissimo, Charles C. Danforth of Concord; grand captain-general, Nathaniel W. Cumner of Manchester; grand prelate, Rev. Daniel C. Roberts of Concord; grand senior warden, Henry A. Marsh of Nashua; grand junior warden, Thaddeus E. Sanger of Littleton; grand treasurer, F. A. McKean of Nashua; grand recorder, George P. Cleaves of Concord; grand standard bearer, George W. Currier of Manchester; grand sword-bearer, Charles H. Sawyer of Dover; grand warden, Charles C. Hayes of Manchester; grand captain of guards, Andrew P. Preston of Portsmouth.

The Savior's Sentence.

A correspondent sends what he believes to be a correct translation of the sentence pronounced by Pontius Pilate on Christ. He says that this curious document was discovered in A. D. 1280, in the city of Aquill, in the Kingdom of Naples, in the course of a search made for the discovery of Roman antiquities, and it remained there until it was found by the Commissaries of Arts in the French army of Italy. Up to the time of the campaign in Southern Italy it was preserved in the sacristy of the Carthusians, near Naples, where it was kept in a box of ebony. Since then the relic has been kept in the Chapelo Caserta. The Carthusians obtained, by petition, leave that the plate might be kept by them as an acknowledgment of the sacrifice which they had made for the French army.

The French translation was made literally by members of the Commission of Art. Denon had a fac-simile of the plate engraved, which, on the sale of his cabinet, was bought by Lord Howard for 2,890 francs:

"Sentence pronounced by Pontius Pilate, Intendant of Lower Galilee, that Jesus of Nazareth shall suffer death by the cross. In the seventeenth year of the reign of the Emperor Tiberius, and on the 25th of March, in the most holy city of Jerusalem, during the pontificate of Annas and Caiaphas, Pontius Pilate, Intendant of the Province of Lower Galilee, sitting in judgment in the presidential chair of the Prætor, sentences Jesus of Nazareth to death on a cross between two robbers, as the numerous testimonials of the people prove that: 1. Jesus is a misleader. 2. He has excited the people to sedition. 3. He is an enemy of the law. 4. He calls himself the Son of God. 5. He calls himself falsely the King of Israel. He went to the temple, followed by a multitude carrying palms in their hands. It likewise orders the First Centurion, Cutrillus Cornelius, to bring him to the place of execution, and forbids all persons, rich or poor, to prevent the execution of Jesus.

"The witnesses who have signed the execution against Jesus are: 1. Daniel Robani, a Pharisee. 2. John Zorabel. 3. Raphael Robani. 4. Capet. Finally he orders that the said Jesus be taken out of Jerusalem through the gate of Tournea."—Notes and Queries.

Transplanting Evergreen Shrubs.

Many failures occur from lack of proper treatment at transplanting. There is no more beautiful shrub of this kind, than our native "Laurel" (improperly so called, as it is not a Laurel), Kalmia latifolia, also called "Calico Bush." It is very rarely seen in cultivation, and there is a general belief that it cannot be transplanted from the woods, but if we would have it in our grounds, we must get nursery grown trees. We know of a great admirer of this shrub, who imported it from an English nursery, while it grew by thousands within a few miles of his place. Yet this shrub can be transplanted as readily as a willow, if one will, at transplanting it, cut it back to remove every leaf. This appears like severe treatment, but unless one will cut the beatiful shrub back to a naked stem, he had better leave it where it grew, for it will surely fail. Treated thus, success is certain as with any other shrub. In due time the naked stem will "break," producing an abundance of new shoots, and by autumn will be supplied with abundant foliage. Having done this and seen it done by others, it may be tried with full confidence of success. We have no doubt that other shrubs of this class, if on their removal from the nursery were treated in the same manner, would succeed more frequently than they now do. Yet few have the courage, when they pay a dollar, more or less, for a shrub, to mutilate it in this manner. Still it is worth trying. —American Agriculturist.

Gladstone's Physical Strength.

To return a moment to Mr. Gladstone. A medical gentleman who knows him very well—professionally, too, if I am not mistaken—tells me that he is still one of the strongest men physically in the whole gentry of England. It is a marvelous thing to see him stripped to the waist, so superb is his frame, so notable is the absence of an ounce of superfluous flesh on the hard sinews and muscles. My informant added that, in his belief, there was scarcely a man in the House, young or old, whom Gladstone could not whip with his fists if he tried. This is an interesting illustration of the value of exercise which Americans would do well to ponder.—London Letter.

Massachusetts Republican Convention.

The republican state convention of Massachusetts was held in Boston Sept. 28th, and was a large and harmonious gathering. Governor Ames and Lieut. Gov. Brackett were re-nominated by acclamation; also Treasurer Beard, Secretary of State Peirce, and Auditor Ladd. For attorney general, A. J. Waterman was nominated on the second ballot, the nomination being made unanimous.

A Decisive Measure.

While Michael Lane's family was being evicted at Ardnacrusha, Ireland, Mrs. Lane split Inspector Riley's skull with a poker. Mrs. Lane her husband and brother "were finally overcome by the police and their arms were held, and they were beaten into a condition of non-resistance with the butt-end of a gun."

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 28th.

Five boys were brought in on a complaint that they had been stealing grapes from a garden. The magistrate gave them a lecture, a mixture of reprimand, good advice and warning, and then allowed them to go on probation, with the exception of one, a colored lad named Carmelita Goings, whose face was so familiar in the court that the justice had come to wish not to see it any more; only the Thursday previous he was brought in for truancy, and then fervently promised better behavior in the future. Judge Batchelder proposed sending him to the industrial school, but his mother promised that if he was allowed to leave she would send him to some other city to live, on which condition he was permitted to depart.

PAT ROONEY.

To-morrow evening, at Music hall, Pat Rooney and the New York Star Comedy Co. will dispense amusement to all comers, in "Pat's Wardrobe." See advertisement.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Edward E. Vaughan and family are visiting relatives in Manchester.

Mr. Albert H. Sides and wife are visiting Mrs. Sides' relatives in Manchester.

Mr. Newton Elwell of this city is passing a few days with friends in Concord.

Mr. William C. Hatch, who left this city for the west about a year ago for his health, has arrived home.

Misses Ada and Maud Washburne, of Portland, Me., are visiting at Capt. I. H. Washburne's, on Vaughan street.

John J. Bell of Exeter was elected grand commander, and Andrew P. Preston of this city grand captain of the guard, of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of New Hampshire, at the recent annual conclave in Concord. Both are members of De Witt Clinton Commandery, of this city.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Lottie, Creighton master, from Elizabethport with 314 tons coal to J. Albert Walker, arrived at this port on Wednesday, Sept. 28th. Also schooner F. P. Lee, with 866 tons, from Philadelphia to same.

The schooner Joseph G. Stover, Arey master, a frequent visitor at this port in years past, will not come here any more. She sprung a leak on the night of Sept. 26th, and was run ashore on Cape Cod, three miles from Chatham light, on the morning of the 27th, to keep her from sinking. With the flood tide she was roughly handled, and it was supposed she would become a total loss. She was a small vessel, owned in Bucksport, Me., and was bound to that port with a load of coal from New York.

J. S. Murphy will appear in Music hall next Monday evening in "The Kerry Gow."

An examination of applicants for departmental positions at Washington, in the classified civil service, will be shortly held in this city. Civil Service Commissioner Lyman has started on a tour through the New England states, and assisted by the local examining boards at the places mentioned, will hold examinations at Portland, Bangor, Boston, Providence, New Haven, New York, Albany and Portsmouth, arriving here Oct. 11th.

The evidence which cleared "Gill" Adams of Newington of the charge of burglarizing the Piscataqua house at Dover point, and robbing the proprietor, Park Copp, was given by Helen Adams, his wife, and Mrs. Lotta Toppan, his daughter, who swore that Adams was at home when the crime was committed.

The Lewiston (Me.) Journal says: "Undoubtedly Collector Page will be waited upon in a few days, (if he has not already been waited on,) in order to ascertain what course he proposes to take in view of the commissioner's letter of Sept. 16th. If he now refuses to keep the list of United States tax payers for public inspection in his office, as required by law, the fact will be reported to Commissioner Miller, and that officer invited to make good his assurance of Sept. 16th."

The firm of Hutchings & Pryor, of City Point, South Boston, consisting of Mr. W. K. Pryor, formerly of this city, and Mr. Henry T. Hutchings, formerly of Kittery, Me., having sold out their business of letting boats, Mr. Pryor has leased a tract of land at the foot of M street, South Boston, upon which he is erecting a commodious shop thirty by sixty feet, to be heated by steam and supplied with all the modern facilities for building first-class yachts. He has storage for about one hundred yachts, and is building a marine railway for hauling them out, for which purpose he is to have a twelve horse-power engine. On the second floor is a large mould-loft, and a very comfortable office. The style of the concern is W. K. Pryor & Co. Mr. Pryor is known as one of the best builders that this city ever produced, and proposes to build yachts of a larger class than any ever constructed by Hutchings & Pryor.

The Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York paid death claims to the amount of $112,044 during the week ending Sept. 23d, and endowments amounting to $7,388.75.

Joseph Cate of Deerfield, who shot Edward Harrison on Monday night, Sept. 26th, and afterward beat him savagely on the head and face with a stone, was on the 28th held in $2000 for ten days to await the result of Harrison's injuries; in default of sureties Cate was brought to this city and lodged in jail. He has a wife and five children in Deerfield.

A despatch from Marblehead, Mass., says that B. E. Cole & Co., the largest shoe manufacturers in the place, employing 300 hands, having failed to get land to enlarge their factory will remove elsewhere, probably to Hampton or Hampton Falls.

The house of representatives on Tuesday, the 27th inst., adopted the amendment to the Hazen bill reducing passenger fares on railroads to two cents a mile under certain conditions, the vote being 298 for the amendment, and two against it. That vote is not likely to be rescinded.

Another evidence that McNeally's plans for robbing the Saco & Biddeford Savings Institution were carefully considered has been discovered. When treasurer Kelly went to the furnace room to build a fire he found the charred leaves of a book that had contained a list of all the securities held by the bank. This was a duplicate list made by the treasurer for his own convenience, and McNeally had destroyed it for the purpose of preventing identification of the stolen bonds, but the treasurer had the original list, of which the thief knew nothing, and was thus enabled to see at a glance what bonds were stolen.

Mr. John F. Lawry of Kittery Point, who has been employed during the summer as a boatman at the Pepperrell house, it is said rather "cleaned out" all the other crack oarsmen at the Point. There were quite a number there who rather fancied themselves as oarsmen, but according to report Lawry took the conceit out of the whole lot.

Mr. Editor: Having been located this season at the "band cottage" at Newcastle, owned by Hon. Frank Jones and located near the Wentworth, I would like space in your paper to say a few words. The cottage and grounds were managed by Mr. A. D. Jenness, who produced nearly all the vegetables required to supply the Wentworth, and showed himself a competent and careful man in serving the interests of his employer. Mrs. Jenness, a lady in every respect, has been constant in attending to the comfort of those around her, and for neatness cannot be excelled. We all wish Mr. Jenness and his estimable wife health and prosperity in the future.

A. O. WHITMORE.

P. S. Willard M. Jenness, son of the aboved mentioned, employed at the Wentworth, and who met with a severe hurt by having his hand caught in the elevator, is doing finely, but it will be some time before he is able to do any labor.

Daniel E. Grant, a shoemaker, was stabbed to death in Laconia on the night of Sept. 27th by John E. Hutchinson, a barber.

The house, barn and other buildings of Charles Horne of Rochester were burned Sept. 26th, while Mr. Horne and his wife were in Dover. The neighbors saved most of the furniture. The fire is supposed to have been set in the barn, by a tramp. Loss $1500; insurance $700.

The claim that the present administration has recovered millions of acres of public land from the railways and cattle kings and turned it over to settlers is pronounced false by the Boston Journal's Washington correspondent. Not a railway or cattle company holds less land than it did two years ago, he says.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for its incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

P. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

Reference: FRANK T. WRAY, Druggist, Apollo, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure for years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

MACMILLAN & CO., Druggists, Latrobe, Pa.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and prying the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus which testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

An Hour of Horror.

Robert Stevens, of Tarentum, Pennsylvania, an active oil-well operator, but now a shriveled cripple, with both hands gone, has brought suit against John Denman and Mills & Mullin, the rich oil-well owners of Macksburg, Ohio, to recover $50,000 damages, charging that they knowingly subjected him to the danger which resulted in his crippling and in the horrible death of his two fellow-workmen, a danger of which both he and the other two victims were kept in ignorance. According to the statement of the plaintiff in the suit, the defendants had drilled a well in the Macksburg field, in a pioneer district and to further the ends they had in view they made a "mystery" of the well. They represented that it would be but a very small producer, and permitted no stranger to come near it. Edward Mills, a young man named Joseph Ayers, and the complainant in this suit were employed one day to assist in pulling the tubing in the well for the purpose of adjusting the packer. Stevens, on going to the derrick, noticed that the boiler, instead of being at a safe distance from the engine and well, was in close and dangerous proximity to both. Stevens now charges that this was done to indicate that the well was not yielding much oil, in order that anyone who might be "scouting" about it would be deceived as to its character.

Stevens and Mills were at work at the derrick floor, and Ayers was stationed in the derrick forty feet from the ground. The moment the packer was disturbed the well made a tremendous flow of oil and gas. Mills and Stevens ran from the derrick, but the gas quickly settled down about the boiler and a terrible explosion followed. The clothing of the men being saturated with oil from head to foot, Mills and Stevens were instantly wrapped in flames.

"The flames," says Stevens, "rose up from our feet, and were met by a grand volume of fire that came down from above. All that I remember of that part of the catastrophe was a blinding flash and a report like a near-by clap of thunder. The gas seemed to settle in a wide area around the derrick, and it all went off together. A sea of flame, equal to an acre in extent, surrounded us, and the entire earth and sky seemed to be on fire. Mills and I turned and ran, blazing as we were, with no definite idea of what we were to do. I remember of getting out of the great sweep of flame, and then, with every stitch of clothing burned from us, our falling into the tall and wet marsh grass on the edge of the fire and rolling about in it. We were so terribly burned that great pieces of our flesh came off and stuck to the grass as we rolled in it. We tumbled about, suffering the most terrible agony, until we had rolled more than ten rods away from the flaming gas and oil, and then I struggled to my feet. I had my sight, and seeing Mills writhing on the ground I helped him to his feet. Both of his eyes were burned out. I managed to reach a house about a hundred yards distant, helping Mills along with me. He died a horrible death shortly after we reached there. I lay there seven weeks, more dead than alive, but finally recovered, with both of my hands gone and every inch of my flesh shriveled and scarred by the terrible ordeal through which I had passed. Poor Joe Ayers was burned up on the derrick."

A Woman's Promise and Her Memory.

Daniel S. Dickinson, formerly United States Senator from New York, who was very fond of saying sharp things, sometimes gave offense by his witticism when he least expected to do so. One day when he was walking moodily along the street in Albany, at the time Silas Wright was Governor, he met Mrs. Wright, the Governor's wife. She, observing his abstracted air, said to him in a jocular manner: "What does a man think of when he is thinking of nothing?" "Of a woman's promise," responded Dickinson. "Well done, Senator," said Mrs. Wright, who passed on, but did not forget Dickinson's remark. Some time afterward he requested her to help him to persuade the Governor to appoint a friend to office, reminding her, at the same time, that she had promised to aid him whenever he should ask for her assistance. "That is true, Senator," she replied, "but of course it was nothing." "How is that?" exclaimed Dickinson, much surprised. "Because it was a woman's promise, don't you know?" responded Mrs. Wright. The Senator did know, and he had to tell his friend that the "adverse influences, were so strong that the coveted appointment could not be obtained for him."—New York Ledger.

Writing Society News.

The very ornate descriptions of one of the fashionable weddings of the past week which appeared in the columns of some of our usually presaic contemporaries seems to justify the remark of the mistress of a Back Bay mansion where a wedding was celebrated a few weeks ago. The reporter arrived on the scene after the wedding was over, but, nothing daunted, he asked the lady of the house to be kind enough to furnish him some of the details of the ceremony. "Well," said the lady, "the bride looked charming in white satin. Now, if you can't get up a beautiful description of the wedding with that information, you are not so smart as most reporters." The scribe fully justified the lady's expectations in the next morning's paper.—Boston Herald.

A conspicuous fact in connection with the late New York democratic state convention, at Saratoga, was the part taken in it by the federal office-holders, both in the matter of the choice of its delegates and in the work of the convention. It is a fresh illustration of the hypocrisy of civil service reform of the Cleveland pattern.

The platform of the democratic state convention is a comprehensive affair. It endorses both President Cleveland and Gov. Hill, demands a reduction of federal taxation and expenses, and approves the civil service law.

Peculiar

In the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in its good name at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most successful medicine for purifying the blood, giving strength, and creating an appetite.

They Talked a Lot.

Representative S. B. Page of Haverhill caused a sensation in the house at about half-past three o'clock in the afternoon on Wednesday, Sept. 28th, while an amendment to the Hazen bill was under discussion, by moving the previous question. Mr. Moore of Nashua charged Page with a breach of faith, he having but a few moments before, as Moore alleged, said he did not propose to move the previous question. Mr. Moore then began a speech on the previous question, and kept it up until six o'clock, when Mr. Sulloway got the floor, and talked against time until 1:15 A. M. on the 29th, when Mr. O'Connor of Manchester asked the speaker if the house was properly in session, it being after midnight. The speaker ruled that the house was properly in session, and Mr. O'Connor appealed from the ruling; a roll call showed but 152 members present, less than a quorum, and the speaker declared the house adjourned to ten A. M., this leaving Mr. Sulloway entitled to the floor on the reassembling of the house.

The sessions on Thursday were taken up by dilatory motions, roll-calls, etc., the Atherton bill men being determined to filibuster to the last against the previous question.

To Race on Thursday.

The second race between the Thistle and Volunteer was set for Thursday, Sept. 29th, over twenty miles to windward or leeward (according to the direction of the wind) from the Scotland or Sandy Hook lightship and return. The Thistle was not docked on the 28th, as had been proposed, her designer after consulting with the superintendent of the dock in which she was before taken up, having concluded that nothing could be the matter with her bottom. The Thistle's supporters prophesied that she would surprise the Volunteer in the windward race, but the latter's friends, who from the first claimed great things for their favorite on the windward work, were greatly elated with her splendid performance in the inside race, and in New York yachting circles bets were offered on her at large odds, with few takers. The captains and owners of both boats expressed hopes of a stiff breeze for the day's race; but at noon there was no wind, and there was a thick fog, so the race was postponed.

The amendment to the Hazen bill relative to rates of fare is in the interest of the people of New Hampshire. The Concord road, for example, in carrying over its main line a passenger on his way from Montreal to Boston, may not receive over a cent a mile for his carriage. It then makes it up by charging the people in the state going over the line, especially those on its leased lines, a high rate for the short haul. In the one case the road carries the "foreigner" at what is claimed to be a losing rate, and then "socks it" to the traveller in the state, our own people and those who visit or transact business with them. This seems to have been understood by the members of the legislature. If the railroads compel the people of the state to pay for two months session of the general court while they have a contest to decide whether Mr. John H. Pearson or some other gentleman shall have his own way upon some dispute as to railway management, at least some good comes out of it. It is not all lost. The members have time to look about, and see how it is the railroads can afford the luxury of a protracted legislative combat, and if there cannot be somewhere a saving to the people in the way of fares.

Chauncy Depew of New York reached home this week from a little trip abroad. His speech of the season was made on board of a steamboat which intercepted the incoming steamer Elbe. Mr. Depew of course did not expect to be called upon, but yielded and made his customary witty speech, which is the pioneer talk of the winter's campaign which a New York city orator annually perpetrates.

The Portland Express observes: "The Brooklyn (N. Y.) Eagle, a free-trade organ, talks of the enormous income of the New England mill owners,' and when the Hartford Courant answers that these mills have barely earned enough during the last few years to keep their wheels revolving, the Boston Herald, also a free-trade organ, cites the fact to prove that protection is 'pernicious.' How strange that these mill owners do not know on which side their bread is buttered! With what facility also, do these free-trade spouters twist facts to support their own delusive theories!"

It is stated beyond cavil, that the prohibitory law is rigidly enforced in Maine. It is also maintained that every liquor seller in Maine has promptly paid to the United States government the special tax required of retail dealers in spirituous liquors. This is because, in case the state law should be suddenly repealed, or be decided to be unconstitutional, the dealers do not wish to lose time in applying for a license, but would like to renew business at the earliest moment after these possible events might occur.

H. W. Ripley of Portland will not consider it so smart next time, to write libellous statements to a newspaper. Some time ago he wrote an article derogatory to the character of Judge Gould, of the municipal court of Portland, and it was published in the Maine Sentinel, of Biddeford. Judge Gould made complaint against Ripley for criminal libel, and entered suit for damages against John Hanscom, publisher of the Sentinel. The grand jury for York county, at the session of court now sitting in Alfred, found an indictment against Ripley, to which he pleaded guilty on Wednesday, Sept. 28th, and was sentenced to twenty days in jail. The case against Mr. Hanscom was settled out of court, the paper having published a satisfactory apology shortly after the appearance of the libellous article.

The president is going west for a little outing. He says that this is all the real fun he shall get for a long time. What with some inquisitive congressmen enquiring about the manner in which his administration has handled the fisheries question, while others will have some annoying conundrums about the navy, and the cost of the Pan-Electric lawsuits, and with Mr. Curtis prodding him as to civil service reform, the democrats crying for loaves, and Sam Randall saying saucy things when he ought to take bold and fix the promised free trade legislation, it does look as if Grover's lot this coming winter would be far from a happy one.

It is reported that a man is visiting the towns of Livingston, Parsonsfield and others in that neighborhood in York county, who has some newly patented churns, pitting knives and other agricultural implements for sale. He stops at a farmer's house, gets him interested in his goods, and then urges him to purchase. The farmer tells him he has no ready cash on hand, when the man says that his note for the amount for sixty days will be taken. The amount is small, about eight dollars, and the note is made, omitting the time, but bearing the words "not transferable." After the agent gets away from the farmer's he adds an "e" to the word "not," making it read "note transferable," or a demand note. This the agent easily gets cashed, and the farmer suddenly finds himself called to pay for articles he supposed he was to have at credit for some time. It is said a large sum has been made by the agent on these notes.

To-night, in Music hall, the beauties and eccentricities of "Pat's Wardrobe" can be ascertained by all interested. Pat Rooney's comicalities are unbounded, and he has a strong company. Tickets at Goodrich's.

NEW FIRE-ALARM BOX.

Supt. Trafton of the fire alarm has just finished a new automatic signal box, for the purpose only of giving the "no school" signal (two strokes, three times repeated) when required. In construction the new box differs somewhat from the street boxes; it was designed and made by Mr. Trafton, and simply requires the pulling down of a lever to set the machinery in motion, and after the signal is struck out an automatic switch "cuts out" the box from the circuit until the lever is again pulled. Saturday being the day for the regular monthly trial of the fire-alarm apparatus, the full no-school signal will be struck that day at 10:30 A. M. from this box in Mr. Trafton's store, to test it.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Joseph L. Martin, of Dennett street, is visiting friends in Melrose, Mass.

Mr. Edwin B. Rundlett and wife, of Boston, are visiting Mr. Rundlett's father, Hon. Gideon H. Rundlett, on Court street.

Messrs. Fred B. Coleman and Lyman W. Griffin, and their wives, started on Thursday from Boston on the Raymond excursion for the Hudson river and hrough New York state.

THE LAND-DAMAGE CASES.

In the supreme judicial court of Maine for York county, in session at Alfred, the court on Tuesday, Sept. 27th, decided that the petitions of Maria Louisa Rice, Ephraim C. Spinney and Georgiana Grant, for increased damages against the York Harbor & Beach railroad, should be submitted to the jury separately, but all argued at the same time.

In Rice vs. the railroad the question was as to how much a twenty-five acre field and an eleven acre field in Kittery, belonging to plaintiff, have been injured by the passage of the railroad through them. George A. Rice of Newton, Mass., son of the petitioner, placed the damage to the larger lot at one-third of its value, which he considered to be $3000; and he thought the smaller lot was damaged $600. In his estimate he took into account the spoiling of the looks of the large field, the loss of revenue from the land taken by the railroad, and the increased cost of carrying on the farm. Several witnesses were called who concurred in Mr. Rice's views as to the value of the fields and the damage done them. Several witnesses for the defence set the value of the land at considerably less than did their predecessors, ranging all the way from $1800 to $2500; and some thought that the land was considerably improved by having the railroad located where it now is. The county commissioners awarded $350 as the damages to the fields.

The other case was a petition by Ephraim C. Spinney and Georgiana Grant of Kittery vs. the same corporation for an increase of damages, in that the said corporation in running through their land, which the plaintiffs hold in joint tenancy, did not make any cattle passes or crossings, thus wholly shutting them off from some parts of it, and greatly damaging them. After the case had been presented to the jury by Mr. Ira T. Drew of Alfred for the plaintiffs, the matter was adjusted between the parties by Vice President Evans for the railroad and Mr. Spinney for the petitioners.

The court then ordered the defence to proceed to the jury, and George C. Yeaton of South Berwick commenced his argument for the railroad at three o'clock P. M., closing at 4:30, when the court adjourned. On the 28th the Rice cases were argued by Mr. Drew for the petitioners, and given to the jury.

CARELESSNESS, OR RASCALITY.

There was a shooting case in Eliot on Wednesday of this week. One account says that as three school girls about fourteen years old, daughters of Abner Staples, John Matthews and Samuel Staples, were eating their lunch by the roadside near the schoolhouse in district two, they heard the report of a gun, and six small shot entered one arm of Abner Staples' daughter, and one lodged in the flesh under her left ear. The gun was fired by a young man from Dover, who ran away when he saw what he had done.

Another account is to the effect that the person who fired tae shot was a man named Jerry Cole, who deliberately aimed a double-barrelled gun at the girls, and fired both barrels. The first story seems the more likely to be true.

A NEW BEAT.

An officer additional to the present police force has been appointed, for the express purpose of patrolling Market and Congress streets. At the next meeting of the board of mayor and aldermen this arrangement will probably be made a permanent one, adding one officer to the regular force for duty on that special beat.

THE ROCHESTER FAIR.

The town fair at Rochester, under the management of an energetic president and board of directors, has proved a complete success, financially and as an exhibition of farm produce, neat stock, horses, fancy articles, home industry, and labor-saving machines. The exhibition ground is near the centre of the thriving town, and is a splendid place for the purpose. The sightly buildings are large, handsome, and convenient for the display of the exhibits in the numerous departments. The sanitary arrangements and other conveniences for the hospitable entertaining of the thousands of visitors, are made upon scientific principles and liberal plans.

On Thursday there was a great throng in attendance, a large number of persons going up from this city. There were some spirited and interesting trials of speed, Edgar Stoddard's horse, driven by him, in one race taking second place in three straight heats, and second money, which was better than was anticipated, as there were some noted trotters in the race; and in another race Dan Mahaney's horse took first money.

As is usual on such occasions, everywhere, a large number of lame and worn-out horses were brought to "The Brighton" outside of the fair grounds, to be traded off and swapped about by a crowd of "Chromo dealers," but their hopes of profit were dissipated when the agent of the N. H. S. P. C. A., Officer William K. Lovejoy, appeared on the scene. Three wretched, ill-used horses were shot to end their misery, and one man who drove an extremely lame horse from Farmington was prosecuted before Justice Wentworth, and fined fifteen dollars for his offence. The fair closes to-day.

Tickets for the Kerry Gow, at Music hall Monday evening, can now be procured at Goodrich's.

Rear Admiral William Rogers Taylor, who has been at the Harmon house, York, for the past season, is staying in Boston for a few days while on his return to Washington.

Mr. Frank W. Rice has bought of Rev. Wm. P. Israel the house on Hanover street now occupied by Mr. Israel.

The assembly of the Nonpareil Associates in Franklin hall on Wednesday evening of this week was a success, in the numbers attending and the pleasure they received. The Music hall orchestra furnished excellent music.

A. Sydney Wentworth is drawn as a petit juror, and Charles O. Hanscom as a grand juror, from ward four, to attend the October term of the supreme court to be held in this city on the 18th.

The exterior of the Wentworth hotel at Newcastle is to be repainted this fall. There are those of peculiar taste in æsthetics who claim that the house would appear better if some new shades of color could be adopted.

A Washington despatch says: "Naval Constructor Thomas E. Webb, who is at the head of the list of naval constructors with the relative rank of captain, and is superintending the construction of the new cruisers at Cramp's yards, has been ordered to appear before a medical board on account of ill health. His successor has not yet been selected, but Chief Constructor Wilson stands next in line of promotion to the rank of captain, and Naval Constructor William L. Mintoyne, now stationed at the Portsmouth navy yard, to the rank of a commander. Constructor R. W. Boush, who holds the relative rank of lieutenant, also retires next month. The corps of constructors has been considerably reduced in numbers of late years by retirements and deaths, while promotions from the grade of assistant constructor have been slow, three of the officers of this grade having held that rank without advancement for twelve years. For the reason that the half dozen constructors remaining on the list are all engaged on important duty, it will probably be necessary to detail an assistant constructor to superintend the construction of the new cruisers—a duty which is now being discharged by the constructor of the highest rank in the service."

The new life-saving station building at Jerry's point, Newcastle, is fast approaching completion. It is exceedingly well built, and will be not only staunch but an attractive-looking structure.

The coroner's jury in the case of the late accident on the Maine Central railroad at Richmond, Me., resulting in the death of Mrs. Samuel Brown, has rendered a verdict exonerating the road from all blame.

At the supreme court at Dover the last jury case, Geo. S. Trask vs. city of Dover, was given to the jury on Thursday. The court took a recess until Monday.

"Say! Mandy, where are you going to buy the baby's cloak this fall?" "Duuno, Ephraim." "Well, I've been thinking that neighbor Perkins is putting on so much style since he began to trade at Foye's that we had better go there too."

COCHECO MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Cocheco Manufacturing Co. was held at Dover on Thursday.

By the treasurer's report it appeared that the loss by fire, or the sum required to rebuild the printery and place new and suitable machinery therein, was $263,000; insurance collected, $125,000. No dividend was to be paid in June, the surplus receipts having been devoted to the repairing and rebuilding the printery.

The directors elected were T. Jefferson Coolidge, John McDuffee, Howard Stockton, Charles W. Amory, George P. Gardner, Amory A. Lawrence and Thomas S. Edmands.

T. Jefferson Coolidge was re-elected president, and Thos. S. Edmands was chosen treasurer.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for the incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaints, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for National League games, Sept. 28th: Pittsburg 6, Chicago 5, in ten innings; Chicago 4, Pittsburg 2; Detroit 7, Indiapolis 8.

The total expenses of the Dover base ball club during the late season, including the preparation of the ground and building a fence around it, were $4277.-14. The largest gate receipts on any one day were $248, on Decoration day. The smallest net receipts on any one day were twenty cents, when the club played in Concord on July 6th. On the 2d of September, when the Dover club played with the Salems, the net receipts of the Dovers were thirty-five cents.

The New York Sun, good democratic authority, makes clear the difference between tweedledum and tweedledee as follows: "A few months ago the mere fact of the simultaneous appearance at the primaries of so many Cleveland officeholders would have been the principal point of interest in the whole situation. That is no longer the case. Few democrats care any longer for mugwump opinion. The offensive partisanship of the Cleveland postmasters and collectors, holding office as a public trust, has almost ceased to attract attention. It is taken for granted. Nevertheless, it will still be born in mind that active participation in politics for the good of the democratic party, and pernicious activity for the sake of a single individual, are widely different things."

The Boston Traveller says: "The more the figures of the democratic smelling committee are examined the more they are found to lie. The arithmetic of the distinguished gentlemen who undertook to mouse round and nose out republican officials, does not need any improvement in multiplication, but in addition and substraction it needs reinforcement. There is not a correct statement in the celebrated report. It is stupendously false. This will be seen in the test of truth applied to every sentence of the paper which led to the nomination of Lovering. The report said that out of 150 employes in the navy yard 132 were republicans; facts say 192 democrats to 81 republicans. The report gave out 981 republicans out of 1009 places connected with the post-office; General Corse says he has more democrats than republicans. But a statement that there are nearly one hundred more republicans in the custom house than there are employes, is very bad ciphering indeed."

SCRATCHED 28 YEARS.

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease with Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago it would have saved me $200.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (Psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread gradually all over my body and got under my nails. The nails would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have one given a over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, some eczema, etc. I took ..... and a dozen other kinds of blood medicines, but no cure. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was three boxes of CUTICURA, and three bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and five cakes of CUTICURA SOAP. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00 you would have had the money. I looked like a speckled hen (your book of Testimonials (picture number two, "How to Cure Skin Diseases"), but now I am as clear as any person everywas. Among 1000 of bald I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but do not scratch. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times. Any more that you want to know write me, or any one who reads this may write to me and I will answer it.

Catarrhal Dangers.

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down; to breathe freely, sleep soundly and unobstructed; to rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or ache; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter defiles the breath and vitiates the delicate machinery of smelling, speech and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a blessing beyond all other human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive cases. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never failing.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York City.

The Tichborne Curse.

It seems that in the time of Henry II. a Sir Roger Tichborne married an heiress named Mabel de Lymerstone. She proved to be a Lady Bountiful, always soliciting her knight to give to the poor. These entreaties he constantly refused until, when she became bedridden, he tauntingly offered her for the poor as much ground as she could crawl around. She actually succeeded in covering fifteen acres—hence the name of the field.

Before Lady Mabel died she desired that the rental of these fifteen acres be given annually to the poor every Lady Day, March 25, in the shape of small loaves. She said:

"If any Tichborne deprives the poor of this dole the family shall be punished by the fulfilment of my curse. May the house then fall, the name change and misfortune come. The fulfilment shall be foreshadowed by a generation of seven sons and then one of seven daughters."

Toward the end of the last century the baronet of that day was petitioned by the neighboring gentry to stop the dole as a bad precedent. He complied.

In 1802 this same baronet, the father of seven sons, pulled down the mansion, which he said was inconvenient and decayed. The tower was so solid that gunpowder had to be used to make it fall. He was succeeded by a son who had seven daughters. The title next successively passed to his two brothers. The last of these—father of the drowned Sir Roger and Sir Alfred, sire of the present baronet—did change the family name by making it the double one of Doughty-Tichborne, for which the royal license was obtained.

Then came the misfortunes—the mysterious death of Sir Roger, the almost ruinous lawsuit, the birth of the present baronet after his father's death and the humiliation of the boy's grandmother, Lady Tichborne, stooping to fraud and perjury in supporting the Orton claimant.

Curiously enough this dole proved a turning point in convicting the claimant. He swore that it was distributed in silver, whereas the jurors decided if he had been the heir he must have known that it was in loaves. The dole has, however, been resumed, substituting sacks of flour for baked bread.—New York Herald.

Complexion and Health.

A physician in the Medical World gives the following advice to women for the improvement of their health and complexion: "For the present I prescribe only for your feet. First, produce a quantity of woolen stockings, not such as you buy at the store under the name of lamb's wool, that you can read a newspaper through, but the kind that your aunt Jerusha in the country knits for you, that will keep your feet dry and warm, in spite of the wind and weather; second, if you want to go through, change them every morning, hanging the fresh ones by the fire during the night; third, produce thick calfskin boots, double uppers and triple soles and wear them from the 1st of October to the 1st of May; make frequent applications of some good oil blacking; fourth, avoid rubbers altogether, except a pair of rubber boots, which may be worn for a little time through the snow-drifts or a flood of water; fifth, hold the bottoms of your feet in cold water a quarter of an inch deep just before going to bed two or three minutes, and then rub them hard with rough towels and your naked hands; sixth, to go out freely in all weather, and believe me, not only will your feet enjoy a good circulation, but as the consequences of the good circulation in the lower extremities your head will be relieved of all its fulness and your heart of all its palpitations. Your complexion will be greatly improved and your health made better in every respect.

Monkeys Opening Oysters.

So many people have expressed their surprise at hearing that I constantly saw monkeys breaking open oysters with a stone on the islands off South Burmah, that may be of interest to give a short description of their method of using such a tool. The low-water rocks of the islands of the Mergui Archipelago are covered with oysters, large and small. A monkey, probably macaccus cynomolgus, which infest these islands, prowls about the shore when the tide is low, opening the rock oysters by striking the base of the upper halves until it dislocates and breakes up. He then extracts the oyster with his finger and thumb, occasionally putting his mouth straight to the broken shell. On disturbing them I generally found that they had selected a stone more apparently for convenience in handling than for its value as a hammer, and it was smaller in proportion to what a human being would have selected for a proportionate amount of work. In short, it was usually a stone they could get their fingers around. As the rocks crop up through the low-water mud, the stone had to be brought from high-water mark, this distance varying from ten to eighty yards. This monkey has chosen the easiest way to open the rock-oyster—viz: to dislocate the halves by a blow on the base of the upper one, and to break the shell over the attaching muscle. The gibbon also frequents these islands, but I never saw one of them on the beach.—Nature.

The Pan-Electric Business.

A prominent democratic journal remarks:

It is determined (by the circuit court in Boston) that the peculiar scheme set on foot by Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Garland to set aside and annul the Bell patent has no law and no reason to support it, and is entirely illegal and unjustifiable. This is the conclusion that we have expected ever since this unfortunate and discredited business was planned. The prosecution, begun through a combination of the Pan-Electric speculators with other loose fish who pretended to have rights in the telephone, and pursued by the federal administration with all the weight of the president and the treasury to back it up, has now finally ended in nothing but shame for its authors. And yet President Cleveland retains in his cabinet the attorney general who has led him and his administration into such a gratuitous and wretched complication.

The president simply shows his noted firmness. Some one perhaps, when he took the stock, if he bought any, made him believe that it was all right, and that the Bell patent was all wrong. We believe the president has either taken stock in the company or the clique which formed it. To go out now is impossible. No one will buy the stock in its fallen condition. To go on is perilous, but he cannot let go his hold. Garland is all right. He knows something, as it is said Randall knows, about Cleveland. It will come out probably in the next campaign.

Removing a Serious Obstruction Gently.

Dynamite and giant powder might answer admirably to remove obstructions from Hell Gate in East river, New York, but explosive measures in medication are ever attended with disastrous consequences. For instances, the bowels cannot be violently drenched with safety, nor is there the slightest necessity for so doing. On the contrary, it is most unwise. None but the purblind adherents of antiquated theories in medicine advise or sanction such a course. To weaken the intestines—the effect of drastic purgation—is to compromise the health of the entire system. With Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, on the other hand, the bowels are relaxed, not by a convulsion of nature approximating to an eruption of Mt. Popocatapetl, but gradually, beneficially, without wrenching or drenching. The liver and stomach, as well as the bowels, are toned and benefitted by it.

Mr. Virgil G. Eaton, of the Boston Globe, whose letters from Ireland on the Irish question have attracted much attention, will probably take another trip across the water this fall. Mr. Eaton goes next time with General Master Workman Powderly of the Knights of Labor.

Peculiar

In the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in its good name at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most successful medicine for purifying the blood, giving strength, and creating an appetite.

Those persons who do not need iron, but who are troubled with nervousness and dyspepsia, will find in Carter's Little Nerve Pills a most desirable article. They are mostly used in combination with Carter's Little Liver Pills, and in this way often exert a most magical effect. Take just one pill of each kind immediately after eating and you will be free from indigestion and dyspepsia. In vials at 25 cents. Try them.

The Cup Stays Here.

The second, and as it turned out the final, race between the champion cutter Thistle and the champion sloop Volunteer, was sailed on Friday, Sept. 30th. The Thistle, during the time intervening between the two races, sent ashore her davits, to lighten her, and shifted two tons of ballast from forward to near the stern, to alter her trim a little; and her friends hoped that in the windward race she would cut out such work for the Volunteer as the latter could not accomplish. But this hope proved vain, as for the third year in succession a Boston sloop, designed by Burgess, after having previously beaten all competing American yachts, beat the yacht sent across the Atlantic to carry back the cup brought from England by the schooner America thirty-six years ago. The Thistle, so easily defeated by the Volunteer in both light airs and stiff breezes, is unquestionably the fastest British yacht, as will be seen by her record elsewhere, she having repeatedly beaten the Irex, previously acknowledged as the ablest "all 'round" boat in the British yacht fleet. Mr. Bell, the Thistle's owner, takes the defeat as philosophically as Lieut. Henn did his last year; and if neither has succeeded in capturing the cup, both have won the respect and hearty good will of the American yachtsmen and people by their gentlemanly and sportsmanlike bearing. It is a little singular that in all the international contests for this cup, not one of the foreign champions has ever won a single race of the series in which she was engaged.

The race on Friday was from the Scotland lightship twenty miles to windward, the wind being nearly east at the start, and blowing twenty miles an hour. The yachts crossed the line at 10:42, and it was in a few minutes evident that the sloop was outsailing the cutter, while lying closer to the wind. At 11:40 the wind was twenty-four miles. At 12:40 the yachts were off Long beach, the Volunteer being a mile ahead; there was a heavy sea running, and the yachts were going very fast, the cutter lying over much more than the Volunteer. The sloop turned the stake boat at 2:25, a long way ahead of the cutter, the wind then blowing twenty miles; the cutter turned the stake boat at 2:42, seventeen minutes after her competitor. At 5:22 the Volunteer have in sight from Sandy Hook, running for the winning line with a good breeze, though less than before; the Thistle could not be seen on account of fog. At 4:22:3) the Volunteer crossed the line, the Thistle following at 4:34:10, the Volunteer beating by 11 m. 40 s., if both crossed the starting line at the same moment. From the figures as given, the cutter beat the sloop 5 m. 20 s., on the run home—not enough to save her from a bad defeat, and in regular "cutter weather," such as the British yachtsmen have maintained the American centre-board sloops could do nothing in.

The End in Sight.

On Thursday afternoon, after the opponents of the Hazen bill, had filibustered all day against the previous question, Mr. Page withdrew his motion and the house unanimously agreed that the vote on the 3d reading of the bill take place at eleven o'clock Wednesday forenoon, Oct. 5th, and that if ordered to a third reading it be put upon its passage at three P. M. the same day.

Jeffersonian Simplicity.

President Cleveland on his contemplated western and southern trip, will travel by a special train of magnificent palace cars, which will cost $200,000. Respecting the interstate law, he will pay his fare over the various lines if the managers do not grant him a pass, but there will have to be a special appropriation consented to by Mr. Randall in the next Congress, to defray the refresher expected by the colored autocrat who shines his boots in such a palatial transit.

Record of the Thistle.

The cutter's first race was on the 28th of May, in the Channel match. The wind on this occasion was extremely light, and the Thistle beat the Irex over the course between Southend and Harwich about 2h. 45m. It was hardly a fair test of speed for either boat, and the victory was looked upon as won by a "fluke."

Her second race on May 30th, in the Harwich regatta, was almost as unsatisfactory a test, for a dense fog enveloped the entire fleet, the Thistle losing the mark and being thrown out of the race, which was won by the Irex beating the Genesta 17m. 53s.

On the 21st of May, at Southend, the Thistle crossed the line three minutes ahead of the Irex, losing the race, however, on time allowance, but taking the second prize.

In the regatta of the Royal Thames yacht club, over a fifty-mile course from the Lower Hope around the Mouse and return, the Thistle beat the Irex by seventeen minutes, and won the seventy-pound prize.

On the 2d of June the Thistle was entered for the regatta of the new Thames yacht club, and beat the Irex, with three minutes to spare. She had however, to allow time to the Wendur and Neptune, which took the first and second prizes, giving the Thistle the third.

On June 4th she raced over the Royal Thames course from Nore to Dover. A calm arose shortly after the yachts started. The Thistle then had a lead of four or five miles, but only gained the third place.

On June 6th, in the Royal Cinque Ports regatta, the Thistle beat the Irex about five minutes.

On the 18th of June, in the regatta of the Royal Mersey yacht club, the Thistle gained a great victory over the Irex, beating her 25m. 42s.

In the Royal Northern regatta, on June 25th, the Thistle beat the Irex 4m. 38s., and is another given by the same squadron on the 26th of June, beat her again 2m. 8s.

On June 29th, in the Medhook regatta, the Thistle again beat the Irex eighteen minutes, and won a piece of plate valued at fifty sovereigns.

In the great regatta of the Royal Clyde yacht club, at Hunter's Quay, on July 2d, the Irex gave up the race, the Thistle then being an hour ahead of her, and again in the regatta of the same club on July 4th the Thistle beat the Irex 4m. 42s.

On the 5th of July, in the Royal Western regatta, at Wemyss bay, the Thistle beat the Irex 9m. 10s.

In the last race sailed on the Clyde, the Thistle beat the Irex 1m. 48s., and it was the best test the cutter had yet experienced to try her weatherly qualities.

Boston common may be used with impunity for nearly every purpose from a Punch and Judy show to a horse railroad, but when it comes to preaching, the authorities draw the line. The utterances of the gospel detract from the crowds which stand around the transient dealer and the cheap show. There was once a time in Jerusalem when that municipality fired out the prophets in this way. The town was severely denounced for the unwarranted proceeding.

In the democratic primaries in Philadelphia, Sept. 26th, Representative Randall's men were beaten by the post-office crowd, which represents the administration. It was a very bitter fight, but the federal officers of the mint were more numerous and better organized than those of the opposition. The improper interference of federal officials in political affairs will not be allowed by the administration; but the running of primary meetings in the interest of the administration is by no means improper.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Slightly warmer, rainy weather, variable winds.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 54 degrees above zero.

Foggy.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Samuel Jones of Cambridgeport, Mass., is passing a few days with friends here.

Mrs. A. P. Wendell and daughters returned on Friday from their summer residence at Salisbury beach.

Emanuel Charlesworth and wife will pass the winter in Somerville, Mass., with their son, Samuel Charlesworth.

Mr. A. H. Tucker, who has been absent from this city twenty-five years, is on a short visit to relatives and friends here. He is now situated at Port Townsend, Washington territory, which he says is a large and rapidly growing city, and where he has an extensive and flourishing business. He says the old places still look natural about our ancient town, and he wasn't long in finding No. 2 engine house, where he met a lot of his chums of long ago.

MARITIME NOTES.

Elvin Newton has come in from Lungleg island, Isles of Shoals, with his fishing crew, after a season of but moderate success.

The schooner E. A. Creed, Capt. Raymond, was lying at the Gas Co.'s wharf on Friday, with bricks and lime on board for the Isles of Shoals.

The yacht White Wing, Capt. Drowne, arrived at New York on Tuesday, Sept. 27th, having been detained at Wood's Hole a day by heavy weather.

If the transatlantic yachtsmen want a cup, they had best have one built on that side. It would be some cheaper and a great deal easier than to win the America's trophy.

The president has appointed J. S. Angell of Michigan, William L. Putnam of Maine, and Secretary Bayard, fishery commissioners to confer with those appointed by England on the Canadian troubles.

The London Times of Sept. 26th proved conclusively that the Volunteer could not hope for even an attempt at victory. "It's a fine thing I had me laugh before I got over the fence," said Pat after the bull had fired him back out of the pasture into the middle of the road.

THE KERRY GOW.

This comedy drama, which is one of the most pleasing sketches of Irish life ever put on the stage, will be performed in Music hall next Monday evening by Mr. J. S. Murphy and his selected company. There is no cheap buffoonery or Donnybrook fair business about it. Tickets at Goodrich's.

MONUMENTAL ART WORKS.

The following in regard to the business built up in a few months by Jenness & Dowd, marble workers, we take from a small sheet containing references to about twenty of the reliable business establishments of the city:

The trade represented by the above establishment is second to no other of its class, which may fairly claim to combine with a manual handicraft the richest embellishments of arts. The varied forms of stone and marble carving, polishing and engraving—which have in the present day reached a degree of perfection historically unknown—had their origin, rude and unpolished though it was, in the remote pre-historic era of an incipient civilization. The perfection attained in this direction can be plainly seen in the work executed by Messrs. Jenness & Dowd, at their new marble works, No. 52 Market street.

They furnish to order every kind of marble and granite monuments and headstones, and in fact, do all kinds of cemetery work at astonishing low prices, carrying in stock a very elegant display of Scotch and American granite monuments. Estimates are cheerfully furnished, when required.

The enterprise that has been directed to the establishment of a considerable trade in the above business here in our midst, aided by a good position with reference to cheap transportation, and other facilities and advantages, has proved eminently successful.

As the result of careful and impartial inquiry we are fully satisfied that the claims of Messrs. Jenness & Dowd are paramount to those of any other establishment in the state, by reason of the well-attested superiority of the work that comes from their yard. For many years they have been noted for their skill and unsurpassed taste in the execution of the above class of work; and to all those of our readers who contemplate the purchase of anything of this kind, we would say: Call on the above establishment before purchasing elsewhere.

John A. Rand, Oliver Manson and James L. Parker have been drawn to serve as jurors from ward two at the October term of the supreme court.

In consequence of a row in the notorious den known as the Bay View house, on Bow street, Friday evening, the police raided the place, and locked up six women and two men found there.

Louis Peyret, of Manchester, formerly in business with his father, Henry Peyret, in this city, was arrested in Lynn, Mass., Sept. 23th, in connection with the Manchester scandal cases.

The first meeting of the Ladies' Humane society will be held at the house of the Misses Lyman on Austin street, next Monday, Oct. 3d.

A number of our most prominent citizens hung around the Western Union telegraph office for an hour or two, Friday afternoon, so intense was their interest in the result of the great yacht race. When the despatch announcing the Volunteer's victory was received, Manager Hatch ran the stars and stripes aloft on the staff of the telegraph office in quick time. Capt. Reshe Trefethen, of the steamer Mystic, had the boat pretty well covered with bunting on her five o'clock trip from this city.

Probably the largest display of flowers ever seen in Eliot was exhibited last Monday evening by the flower mission. Their rooms were almost completely filled with the most beautiful flowers of every hue and color, hardly giving room for the people who came to see them. Every one of the one hundred and twenty-five present were surprised and delighted. After examining the flowers the company was asked to partake of a collation, to which they did ample justice. The flowers are collected from the gardens and fields every Thursday, and on Friday morning are sent to Boston to be distributed among the various hospitals, carrying comfort and cheer to the suffering patients in those institutions. The donors of the flowers would be more than repaid if they could know how much happiness they have given to their suffering brothers and sisters, and how many weary hours of pain they have made seem shorter by their gifts. This good work was inaugurated by Miss Sarah Farmer, and to her untiring exertions its success is due. The flowers have been sent regularly each week throughout the summer, and will be till their gathering is prevented by the frost.—Biddeford Journal, Sept. 29th.

"The Golden Rule," will be the subject of Rev. Dr. Alden's lecture on Sunday evening at the Middle Street Baptist Church.

Frank Rich, of Roxbury, Vt., twenty-three years old, fell from a train and was instantly killed, Sept. 29th.

The Biddeford Times of Sept. 29th said: "The trial of the Boston & Maine case, in which Mrs. D. O. S. Hooper of this city brings suit against the railroad for the death of her husband in the Main street crossing accident last fall, is now in progress at Alfred. The jury came down here yesterday afternoon to view the crossing where the accident occurred. While they were at the crossing the half-past four o'clock train, which was a little behind time, came along at a high rate of speed. It is said that one of the jurymen remarked to another, after the dust and smoke had cleared away, 'Is that what they call ten miles an hour?'"

M. M. Tatro of Biddeford has received an appointment as manager of three New Hampshire offices of the Singer sewing machine—in this city, and at Dover and Wolfeborough. He will continue his agency in Biddeford in connection with his new duties.

The young man from Dover who accidentally or purposely shot at the three girls in Eliot one day this week, is said to be a son of Franklin Cole, formerly assistant marshal of this city.

The grand jury at Alfred indicted Frank C. McNeally of Biddeford for larcency; he has not come into court yet to plead to the indictment.

In the land damage cases against the York Harbor & Beach railroad, the jury found as follows: For Ephraim C. Spinney et al., $679.53; on small lot bought by Spinney after the location of the railroad, $102.79; for Mrs. Rice, $617.80; this includes interest from April 1st, 1887. The county commissioners awarded Spinney $650, and Mrs. Rice $350.

The store of C. H. Welch in North Berwick was burglarized on Sunday night, Sept. 25th; entrance was made through a side window, and about $50 worth of jewelry was taken. A year ago the same store was broken into and a gun stolen. $175 is offered as a reward for the arrest of the thieves,—$100 by the town and $75 by the citizens.

"Say! Mandy, where are you going to buy the baby's cloak this fall?" "Dunno, Ephraim." "Well, I've been thinking that neighbor Perkins is putting on so much style since he began to trade at Foye's that we had better go there too."

A Useful Precaution.

It is a useful precaution for the tourist, the commercial traveller, or the emigrant to the west, to take along Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Invalids who travel by steamboat or rail should provide themselves with it, in order to prevent or remedy the nausea which the jarring and vibration of vehicles in transitu often causes them. Vastly preferable is it for this simple, but needful purpose, to the heady unmedicated stimulants of commerce. On board ship, it not only remedies sea sickness, but neutralizes the pernicious effects of water slightly brackish, which, if unqualified, is apt to give rise to irregularities of the bowels, cramps in the abdominal region and dyspepsia. To the ærial poison of malaria it is an efficient antidote. Sick headache, heartburn and wind upon the stomach, are promptly banished by it. It healthfully stimulates the kidneys and bladder, and nullifies the early symptoms of rheumatism.

Germany, it is reported, will largely compensate the widow of Brignon, the French gamekeeper killed on the frontier.

Frank C. Swan, apothecary, Haverhill, Mass., says: "Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry sells better than any other cough remedy. I can recommend it. I have used it and sold it for thirty years."

The Englishmen and Scotchmen in New York city have inaugurated a movement similar to that of their countrymen in Boston, looking to naturalization and participation in political affairs.

Every woman who suffers from sick headache, and who dislikes to take bitter doses, should try Carter's Little Liver Pills. They are the easiest of all medicines to take. A positive cure for the above distressing complaint; give prompt relief in dyspepsia and indigestion; prevent and cure constipation and piles. As easy to take as sugar. Only one pill a dose. Price twenty-five cents. If you try them you will not be without them.

Why don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills? They are a positive cure for sick headache, and all the ills produced by a disordered liver. Only one pill a dose.

George A. Harrington, a boy fifteen years old, was arrested in Brockton, Mass., Sept. 30th, and taken to Maine for burning the Oak Grove seminary buildings, and a barn. The young scamp has confessed his guilt.

Corean Habits.

The spoken languages of China, Corea, and Japan are all totally different, yet the Chinese written language is classic for all of them, and a common ground on which the educated classes can meet. In everything the Coreans lean more toward their western neighbors than to the eastern ones, and conservatism is stronger than any spirit of progress, except for coal-oil and matches. Few foreign goods are seen in the open shops and out-door markets, and no Coreans are seen in foreign clothes. It almost cost a progressive minister his head when he had the big square sleeves of the soldiers' coats trimmed down to a reasonable bagginess, and although it saves yards of cloth and miles of cash strings to the king each year, the offense is hardly forgiven. The Chinese tailor the Corean soldiers with wearing foreign dress; but a civilized tailor would die at sight of it.

A Corean soldier wears first his full Corean costume of white cotton, loose, baggy, and comfortably flapping in each breeze. Over this undress uniform he puts a pair of purple cotton trousers and a short black coat bound with red worsted braid. His black felt hat is bordered with the same braid, and the red tapes tie it fast under his chin. He wears a cartridge-belt and a tobacco-pouch, and carries his Remington rifle in anyway that seems convenient to him at the time—at shoulder arms, upside down, or caught in the middle of the stock, like a dude cane. He carries his long-stemmed Corean pipe in the gun-barrel, and while marching the streets or at parade rest uses his fan vigorously.

To see the Corean army in its glory, one should witness one of the king's processions when his majesty goes out to visit one of his palaces or worship his ancestral tombs and tablets. Every few weeks there is a stir at the announcement that the king will leave the palace on a certain day and progress by a certain route. There is excitement among the mandarins then, and the sheds and houses that have been permitted to grow up in the streets are swept away overnight. The streets resume their proper width, and the king, being none the wiser, thinks that his capital always wears that look. A trail of red sand is sprinkled in the middle of the street to mark the royal route, and the army musters and the populace assembles along that line. The king's processions are as brilliant and picturesque in some ways as anything that other capitals can offer, and such a Corean fete day is worth coming far to see. The people alone in their white, pale-blue, bright red, and green clothes give picturesqueness and color to the scene, and when every dingy wall, tiled or thatch roof, and every open space is kaleidoscopic with them, it hardly needs the gorgeousness of the army, the palace guards, and the mandarins' suites to add to the scene.

Growth in Children.

The rate of growth of children varies according to sex. Thus, at the age of eleven and twelve years, boys are larger and heavier than girls; but from that age on the evolution of the girls is more rapid, and they soon overtake the boys and pass them, till the age of fifteen years is reached, when the boys regain the ascendency, while the girls remain nearly stationary. A curious relation has been discovered between growth of children in stature and in weight. Mr. Malling-Hansen, director of the deaf and dumb institution of Copenhagen, has for three years weiged and measured his pupils daily; and he has observed that their growth does not take place regularly and progressively, but by stages separated by intervals of rest. Weight also increases by periods after intervals of equilibrium. While the weight is increasing, the stature remains nearly stationary, and vice versa. The maximum of increase of stature corresponds with a minimum period of augmentation of weight. The vital forces appear not to work on both sides at once. These variations are subject to the influence of the seasons. During autumn and early winter, according to M. Malling-Hansen, the child accumulates weight, while his stature increases slowly; but during spring, stature receives a veritable push, waile weight increases but little. Some local habits have an influence on the stature.—Popular Science Monthly.

A Dog Teaching Industry.

Flash, the finely bred setter owned by Dr. C. A. Packard of Bath, has a favorite house in the city which he often visits. The other day he was there at the dinner hour, and, civil dog that he is, he waited till the family rose from the table, when he made his presence known and was at once admitted as a welcome guest. One of the family, a lady, is very fond of Flash, and he reciprocates the kindness shown him. The lady is a great knitter, and as Flash entered the hallway he passed to a room, secured the lady's knitting work, and brought it to her. Finding that the ball of yarn was not with it he at once returned and secured that also and then laid himself at the lady's feet while she went on with her work.—Brunswick (Me.) Telegraph.

SCRATCHED 28 YEARS.

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease with Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago it would have saved me $200.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (Psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I took ..... and ..... Sarsaparillas over one year and a half, but no cure. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was three boxes of CUTICURA, and three bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and two cakes of CUTICURA SOAP. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00 you would have had the money. I looked like the picture in your Book of Psoriasis (picture number two, "How to Cure Skin Diseases"), but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times. Any more that you want to know write me, or any one who reads this may write to me and I will answer it. DENNIS DOWNING.

Catarrhal Dangers.

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down; to breathe freely, sleep soundly and undisturbed; to rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or ache; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter defiles the breath and rots away the delicate machinery of smell, taste and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a blessing beyond all other human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure

This is to express my sincere thanks for the benefit I have experienced from the use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. I had a severe and aggravating cough so that I could scarcely talk—after using one small bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, it not only cured my cough but strengthened my sore chest. I take great pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of the syrup and heartily recommend it.—W. J. WILLIAMS, JR., 72 Ansor street, Charleston, S. C.

The fact that the United States government is calling in bonds and redeeming them has attracted some attention in Europe, and on Friday last there was received at the treasury department in Washington quite a novel communication from a German capitalist in Berlin. He states that he has in his possession a large number of bonds issued by the Confederate States of America, and after much persuasion by his friends he has consented to offer $1000 worth for redemption.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. We know of no remedy for dyspepsia more successful than Hood's Sarsaparilla. It acts gently, yet surely and efficiently, tones the stomach and other organs, removes the faint feeling, creates a good appetite, cures headache, and refreshes the burdened mind. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial. It will do you good.

A Bait in the Battle.

It is reported that a feeling of anxious disquitude pervades the lesser lights of the Concord railroad lobby. Last week it came out that the appropriation allotted to Messrs. Pearson and Kimball had been exhausted, and after payment to the lawyers who had partner or client in the legislature, there would be a sizing down, a sort of horizontal reduction of bills to be allowed the rank and file. With these men, a reduction means a calamity. They have boarded several days each week in Concord, and let their bills for sustenance run, awaiting the action of Commissary Kimball. It is said that in view of the result in the house the directors of the Concord road do not feel in a very liberal spirit towards some of the lobby. Votes which were promised were not delivered. Disappointment succeeds confident predictions, and cold facts supplant pleasant anticipations. In short, the Concord railroad directors now stand on the defensive in their relations to their army of retainers. These agents have overshot the mark. They promised and predicted what could not be performed. Verily they will have their reward, but the figures will be carefully scrutinized and the bills searchingly criticised, before a final approval for payment will be made thereon.

The Official Time.

The time of the deciding race between the Volunteer and Thistle is as follows: Started, Thistle at 10:40; 21, Volunteer at 10:40: 50 3-4. Rounded stake boat, Volunteer at 2:26:40, Thistle at 2:41, the sloop having gained 14 m. 31s. on the cutter during the beat to windward. Finished, Volunteer at 4:23:47, Thistle at 4:35:12, the cutter having gained 2m. 36s. on the twenty-mile run before the wind from the turning point. Actual sailing time, Volunteer 5:42:56 1-4, Thistle 5:54:51, making the Volunteer's actual time less than the Thistle's by 11 m. 54 3-4 s., but she having to allow the latter six seconds, makes her the winner by 11 m. 48 3-4 s.

Stock Raising.

We have never claimed to have an agricultural department of our paper, but perhaps the following illustration of the improvement in stock will interest some of our rural subscribers:

The most successful way to raise Jerseys or any other fine breed of cattle is to cross the common breed with a locomotive. This has been accomplished in America with flattering success, as the following will clearly show: A wide-awake citizen purchased a little measly calf recently, paying $3 therefor, which he justly considered full value for the bovine. A few days afterward, as the calf was grazing upon the railroad track, it was run over and killed by a passing train, whereupon the disconsolate owner put in a claim for $40 against the company, which was paid. Any one owning a pasture alongside a good railroad can easily acquire a fortune in this manner, and this simple means of "improving" common stock is as rapid as it is certain.

The naval board which was appointed to estimate the cost of building the 6000-ton armored battle ship designed by the Barrow Ship Building company of England, held a final meeting at Washington on Sept. 29th, and completed its labors. The last estimates for constructing the hull and fittings are $1,890,000, and for engines and machinery $486,000, making a total of $2,376,000, which is $124,000 less than the sum appropriated by Congress for the purpose. The report of the board has been presented to Secretary Whitney. The vessel is to have three expansion engines with forced draught, intended for a speed of eighteen knots. The estimates include a full equipment. The most important recommendation is that the vessel be built at the Norfolk navy yard. It was generally believed that the New York navy yard would be selected for the work, but this recommendation, if approved by the secretary, will probably result in the building of the 6000-ton armored cruiser designed by the navy department, instead of the battle ship, at the New York yard. It is believed that it will take about eighteen months to build the vessel at the Norfolk navy yard.

A democratic paper of New York,—Cleveland organ—speaking of the recent state convention of the New York democracy, says "federal officials were conspicious by their absence." As the larger part of the federal office-holders in the state were in the convention, it probably means that they were conspicuous by their absence from their official duties while they "made their influence felt in the manipulation of a nominating convention" in the interest of Cleveland and civil service reform.

A Hindoo woman says of existence in a Zenana: "The life we lead is just like that of a frog in a well. Everywhere there is beauty, but we cannot see it."

Mrs. Case, a real estate agent in Chicago, makes a specialty of renting furnished houses, and she succeeds admirably, because women understand better than men what a furnished house requires and how to show it.

Helen M. Herlie, in the Contemporary Review, deals in a strong, pungent manner with the notion now put forward that women need a lower and not a higher education. She claims that what promotes intelligent womanhood is good for all that may come to women as wives and mothers.

Patents were granted to women during the week ending Sept. 18th, 1887, as follows: Clementina J. M. Hoyna, St. Louis, Mo., steam boiler; Grace H. Lasswell, Normot, Ill., skirt and stocking protector; Pearl B. Lewis, Catskill, N. Y., convertible chair and cot; Mollie L. Rames, Hot Springs, Ark., stove; Sarah H. Weltner, Wellsville, Mo., curtain-fixture.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

THE KERRY GOW.

This evening, at Music hall, Mr. J. S. Murphy and his dramatic company will present "The Kerry Gow," a charmingly depicted story of Irish life and human nature. The company having been here before with the play, no commendation of the one or description of the other is needed. Tickets at Goodrich's.

POLICE COURT.

SATURDAY, Oct. 1st.

In the absence of Judge Batchelder, Hon. George E. Hodgdon occupied the bench.

James Ryan, Hugh Carey, Laura Tracy, Belle Woods, Nellie Clark and Maggie Richards, who were taken in from the Bay View house on Bow street the previous evening, they being on a general drunk at the time, were a hard-looking lot when brought before the court. The evidence showed that the Bay View has for a long time been a place of the most disreputable kind.

Hugh Carey, a stranger in the city, was fined $5, with costs, for breaking glass.

James Ryan, charged with assaulting Laura Tracy, was discharged, the women who were so bitter against him on Friday night having forgotten all knowledge of any assault.

James Ryan and Laura Tracy, for keeping a disorderly house, were held in $200 each for their appearance before the supreme court, and both procured bail.

Belle Woods, Maggie Richards and Nellie Clark pleaded nolo contendere to the charge of being common prostitutes, but sentence was suspended on their promise to leave the state, not to return.

PERSONAL.

Charles E. Batchelder, Esq., and wife, left town last week for a trip to the White mountain region.

Mr. Stephen R. Niles and wife, of Boston, arrived home from Europe on Saturday in the steamer Catalonia.

Miss Marcelina Adams, of Washington street, is in Salem, Mass., on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Ralph L. Reinewald.

Mr. Charles A. Green, who sailed for New York on the steamer Oceanic on Friday evening, Sept. 23d, arrived home last Friday, having been absent just a week.

Mr. Wilbur L. Davis, formerly of Portsmouth but for the past year a resident of Milnta, Kansas, arrived in this city on Friday night of last week on a short visit to his relatives and friends. Mr. Davis likes the west so well that he has no intention of returning here to live.

MARITIME NOTES.

The was a considerable crowd of spectators at the Noble's island bridge on Sunday, witnessing the operations of a large gang of workmen engaged in finishing the new draw there, which is reported to be an improvement on the old one.

The United States steamer Atlanta on the 27th ult. picked up and towed into Lewes, Del., a very dangerous wreck which she found floating at sea, waterlogged and abandoned. Her stern board and spars are gone and she lies deep in the water, making it impossible to ascertain her name. She is loaded with spruce deals, and is thought to be a down-east brig of about 150 tons register.

Capt. Parker, of the schooner John Lenthall, owned by the Exeter Coal Co., was intending last Thursday to haul his vessel through the Noble's island bridge to the Raynes yard, for somewhat extensive repairs by Warren Keen; but owing to the draw being out of order he was unable to do so, and the schooner was still outside the bridge on Sunday.

Hon. Wm. L. Putnam of Portland, who has been selected by the president to aid the secretary of state in the negotiation of a settlement of the fishery disputes, will go to Washington in November to meet the other negotiators. On his way to the capital Mr. Putnam should stop in Boston long enough to be properly coached by his democratic friends, Charles Levi Woodbury and Richard S. Spofford, who have so long been engaged in handling this fishery business that they know just where the backbone ought to show itself, and how firm it should always be found.

A party of ten coal-handlers from the north end started in a boat for Newington, Sunday forenoon, to have a clambake. They got along first-rate until they reached Portsmouth bridge, which got in the way and capsized the boat, casting a damper on the expedition.

Mr. James Bell of Scotland, principal owner of the cutter Thistle, and Mr. Watson, her designer, may feel badly over the defeat of the boat from which they hoped so much, but they will feel much worse should they happen to see the pictures of their craft and themselves which were published all over the land by the papers using "illustrated plate matter." The cutter and sloop are made to look exactly alike, except that one is white and the other black. The Volunteer, her owner, Gen. Paine, and her designer, Mr. Burgess, are treated a little better by the "artist" than are the Scotch visitors; he evidently took a photograph of our respected townsman, Mr. Andrew P. Preston, to make a picture of Gen. Paine from, but made rather poor work of it.

Porf. Samuel Lamprey, of Hampton, lectured in the Unitarian church yesterday on "Music." Mr. Lamprey is an able exponent of the science of music. His audience paid strict attention. His description of the death of Mozart was very touching. Mr. Lamprey seems to get the attention of his hearers immediately, and with this influence takes them with him in his vivid thoughts and tender descriptions. His discourse was able and touching. Lecture committees and churches should correspond with Mr. Lamprey in relation to his lecture. He will carry the voice of the Unitarian people in this place, and they will endorse him to their sister churches.—Exeter News-Letter.

We should judge from the above that Mr. Lamprey is nearly as good a lecturer as he is a teacher of dancing, and the people of Portsmouth know that at the latter he is very close on perfection. His usual fall and winter class for young ladies, masters and misses, will this season be postponed to next spring and summer, when the afternoons will be longer, the weather warmer and more pleasant, and the walking better.

The foundation of the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument has been completed, and the work of grading the park is being pushed.

The most of the passengers who made the trip in the Oceanic to New York to witness the yacht races returned home on Saturday, having had much enjoyment, but being glad to get back to old Portsmouth once more.

The National Encampment, G. A. R., at St. Louis, Mo., last week, elected Judge Rea of Minneapolis as commander-in-chief for the ensuing year. He was teaching school in Ohio when the war broke out, enlisted as a private at the age of twenty-one, and was a captain when the war closed. George E Hodgdon of this city was elected as one of the five members of the national council of administration.

The "no-school" signal was pulled in by Supt. Morss, Saturday forenoon, from Trafton's new automatic signal box. The contrivance worked to perfection.

The treasurer of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument fund on Saturday received a check for $50 from Mr. Thomas P. Salter of New York, a native of this city.

Aquatic birds are reported to be flying quite numerously along the shores from the northward, and the sportsmen are abroad with their guns.

The railroad commissioners, in the report of their investigation into the death of young Sawell on the Boston & Maine railroad at Hampton a few weeks since, exonerate the company from all blame.

Considerable many loads of new hay have been brought into the city from across the river within a week, and exposed for sale on the Parade; there were five loads there Saturday forenoon, but only one had the bright look of first-class English hay, the other lots apparently having been blackened in curing. Prices have ranged from $14 to $18 a ton, according to quality. Some of the late grass in the neighboring towns of York county has recently been cut, and secured in good condition; there remains a large amount of be ding still standing, which is being cared for.

Rev. James DeNormandie preached in the Unitarian church yesterday, it being the 25th anniversary of his installation as minister of the South Parish. The Austin lecture was delivered in the chapel on Court street in the afternoon; subject, "Purity."

Mr. S. A. Moulton of North Kittery has a fine pair of young cattle, of his own raising, which girth six feet four inches, and weigh probably 2500 lbs. They are of dark chestnut color, and of the so-called native stock.

The family went off for a little summer vacation. The neighbors noticed a cat quietly sitting in one of the window seats. In fact, some of them heard it mew piteously in its lonesomeness. The energetic local agent of the society forced a way into the house to rescue the deserted feline from death by starving. "It was the cat," but it was made of plaster of Paris.

Mrs. Emma Lord, the woman who ran away with Crosby, who stole the funds of the Lasters' Union lottery at Dover and skipped for Canada, was a convert of the Salvation Army when that organization was essaying the hopeless task of regenerating Dover, and was then known by the pet name of "Howling Emma."

The jury in the case of George S. Trask vs. city of Dover, action to recover damages for injuries received in consequence of a defect in the highway, awarded the plaintiff $3750. The whole cost to the city will foot up over $4000, which would have been saved by the outlay of $15 or $20 on the highway before the accident occurred, instead of afterward, as was done. It would have been cheaper to have remedied the defect at first, and applied the rest of the $4000 to the mending of other dangerous places.

Charles T. Stevens, a native of Dover and formerly a resident of this city, but for twenty-five years a provision dealer in Boston, and latterly for some years a resident of Melrose, Mass., died in the latter place on Sept. 28th, aged seventy-three years, leaving a wife and eight children. He was a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, an ex-captain of the Boston Light Dragoons, and a prominent Freemason.

Miss Florence Greene, of Montreal, who saved her father last summer from being carried down the Lachine rapids, has been presented with the medal of the Royal Humane society of England.

Mrs. Joseph Carey, whose husband represents Wyoming territory in Congress, says that while the presence of women at the polls has put a complete check on the drunkenness and bad language attendant on the ballot-box, it also makes women very carsful about discussing each other's characters and even millinery. "For example, if I said that I had seen Mrs. Blank in the same old bonnet that she wore last year and Mrs. Blank should hear of the remark, I doubt if the lady would ever vote for my husband again. This is a trifling illustration, but it will show how responsible women may be made, and how the suffrage acts as a preventive to careless or malicious gossip."
